My dear Mama

I arrived here safely and Buster met me at the train. He has introduced me to all of the horses and cows and pigs and things and they are lovely to me. I like animals, they are kind and honest. Tige was glad to see me too. I think we should all cultivate the acquaintance of some good animal we can learn so much from them. Buster's mama is here with his uncle Jack and aunt Emeline and uncle Buster - it is a jolly crowd and I fell right into the spirit of everything - fell clear down stairs in Cousin Fanny's ball gown. Lovingly

Mary Jane.

RESOLVED

THAT LOVE IS THE ONE THING THAT MAKES LIFE WORTH LIVING "LOVE ALONE O'ER HEARTS HAS SWAY." IT "IS THE FULFILLING OF THE LAW" AND THE PURIFIER OF THE SOUL. IF I DIDN'T HAVE TIGE AND MARY JANE AND MA AND PA TO LOVE I MIGHT AS WELL BE DEAD. NONE TRULY LOVED IS EVER LONELY. NOW BOYS, DONT WASTE ANY TIME BEING STUCK ON YOURSELVES, THAT WONT MAKE YOU HAPPY, NOR ANY ONE ELSE—NO ONE CARES FOR THE CHAP WHO IS SUCH A BIG HIT WITH HIMSELF. IF YOU WANT OTHERS TO LIKE YOU, YOU MUST LIKE THEM. 2 AND 1 DONT MAKE 4, IT TAKES 2 AND 2 - 3 AND 1 WILL DO IT. BUT I'D RATHER BE THE 3 THAN THE 1. BUSTER BROWN

1. LEANDER (singing): "Glory, glory, hallelujah! Glory, glory, hallelujah! Our marriage is coming off now, I assure you. Don't you see all these wedding invitations here?"

LULU: "Now wrap them up carefully, Leander. We must take them down to the post office and mail them."

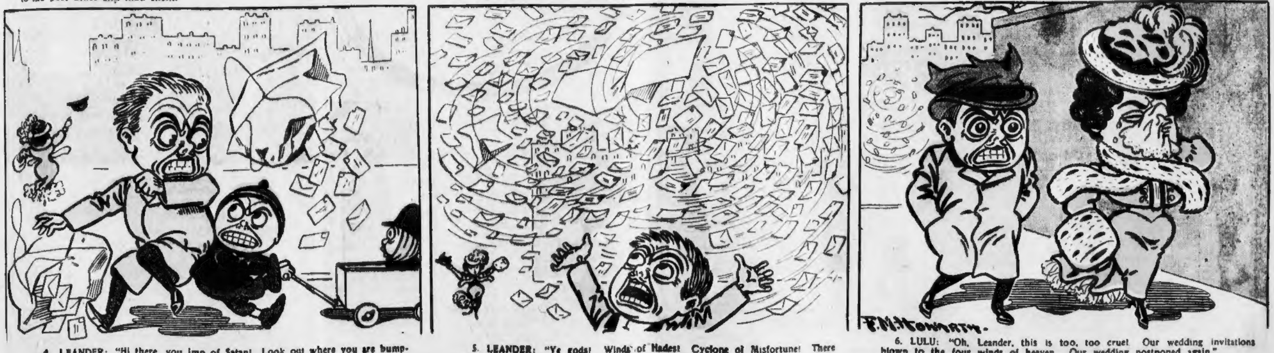
2. LEANDER: "By Jove, but it is windy. Oh, joy! oh, joy! oh, joy! Just to think, our wedding day is now an assured fact. Nothing can happen after these invitations are out."

LULU: "Oh, this wind is glorious. Now be careful of these bundles, Leander. Nothing must happen them."

3. LEANDER. "Gee whiz! There goes my hat! Hold these letters."

LULU: "You attend to your bundles—I'll get your hat."

THE KID. "Cert'ny, I kin walk backwards jist as fast as I kin walk frontwards."



4. LEANDER: "Hi there, you imp of Satan! Look out where you are bumping into."

5. LEANDER: "Ye gods! Winds of Hades! Cyclone of Misfortune! There go the wedding invitations!"

LULU: "Oh, Leander, what have you done?"

6. LULU: "Oh, Leander, this is too, too cruel. Our wedding invitations blown to the four winds of heaven. Our wedding postponed again."

Anne Boleyn's Ghost Snubs Mr Astor

Her Royal Spookship, Who Has Haunted Hever Castle for Over 300 Years, Takes Herself Off at Millionaire William Waldorf's Coming and Refuses to Walk for Him.

MR. ASTOR, of England, has bought another castle, and with it a ghost. But since the American's tenancy the ghost has got impishly coy and, so far, has refused to walk for him.

The castle is old, very old, historic, ivied, and covered with romance as with a garment, while the ghost is pedigreed, most fascinating and very gentle. The castle in the past centuries has sheltered the bluest blood in all England; the ghost in her lifetime moved in the first circles of society. The castle is the noble pile of Hever in Kent. The ghost is that of Anne Boleyn, who displaced Queen Catherine in Henry the Eighth's affections, married him, bore Elizabeth, had her head cut off and created a big episode in history.

Mr. Astor, now that he has secured a real mediaeval Tudor stronghold with its shadowy phantom, may feel himself securely Englished, for all old, well-regulated families in England have a mediaeval castle and keep a ghost. But very, very few boast of a regal ghost as incumbent on one's premises. If she will only behave herself in her nice ghostly old way, and walk to please him and entertain his guests! Her refusal to make even the ghost of a show for him must be very mortifying to her owner. It's the cruelest snub in Mr. Astor's climb to the British peerage.

Hever is moated, towered, machiolated and battlemented. It has remains of its old drawbridges, portcullis, galleries and donjon keep. It has delightful gardens, groves, walks and water. It probably dates from King Stephen.

Mr. Astor has set about to restore this feudal stronghold to its former self. His plan is not to destroy, but to reconstruct. And when all of its new owner's plans are fully perfected the venerable pile will be one of the show places of Great Britain. Millions will be spent in the restoration of its former Tudor grandeur.

There are to be there a superb Italian garden and a model farm, an artificial lake of forty-five acres and an extensive deer park, among other wonders. A new public road three-quarters of a mile long is in process of construction, and an immense new bridge over the river is done. An artesian well and a vast reservoir; a big power house for electric light and unequalled piggeries, on one of which $1,500 was expended in woodwork alone; cowsheds decorated in white tiles; a dairy, the floor of which is inlaid with Italian mosaics, with a richly carved fountain in the centre, are a few significant details in this remarkable and comprehensive scheme. While all the most model inventions are to be applied to extraneous matters, the castle and its immediate gardens are to be kept strictly archaic. And it is the castle itself, with its moats and gardens, that appeals to one most. The whole place is as redolent of the memory of the unfortunate Anne Boleyn as of lavender.

The Ghost Snubs Mr. Astor.

Tradition says that the unquiet spirit of the dead queen consort crosses the old bridge over the river during Christmas week. The old bridge since Mr. Astor came has disappeared and a newer replica has taken the place of it. Last Christmas week a watch party was made up to keep vigil for her coming, and for one whole week the enthusiasts in psychical research kept their eyes keened for the spectre. The ill-fated spouse of Henry did not materialise. The snub was emphatic.

Most of the credulous villagers now incline to believe that with the rasing of the old structure the ghost of the Queen was effectively laid. Her ghostly memory, however, will haunt the spot always. Her own bedchamber is to be kept just as it ever has been. King Henry's chamber Mr. Astor has reserved for himself.

In taking title to Hever Castle Squire Astor almost got another ghost on his hands. But this spook certainly does not walk any more. He was not such a romantic spectre as the shade of sweet Mistress Anne Boleyn, but he was a very gloomy, creepy sort of ghost, and made it most uncomfortable for the people in and about the castle. This is the weird story of the phantom: One fateful night the tenant farmer of the property, one Humphrey by name, while on his way home from Westerham Hill, was waylaid, shot and robbed of his gold. He managed to crawl painfully back to the castle a-groaning as he crept "in the dark and dank, fearfully and horribly to hear," and, as one would say, if it were not what happened afterwards, gave up the ghost.

How a Ghost Is Laid at Mr. Astor's.

But soon after he was laid away in the grave, one "dark, dank" night, a groaning fearful and horrible to hear, was heard through all the corridors of Hever, and "a shrouded figure was seen wandering from room to room and peering into the sullen waters of the river that close to hand flows east and west." All the maids got gooseflesh and the men fearful to roam about much o' dank, dark nights. For the uneasy spirit kept up its tenancy and its moaning in the corridors and its peeping into the moats.

Then a wise thought struck the rector of the parish of the time. "Ah, ha! I have it," quoth he to himself after deep meditation. "We will exorcise his ghostship."

So with much pomp and circumstance, and armed with a candle, the English prayer-book and a bowl of water, he began his incantations to lay the spook. His pious offices prevailed, the gloomy spectre of the murdered farmer returned to its proper sphere and no more came back to scare the housemaids and yokels of the castle.

It will be a creepy place for a week-end, Mr. Astor's Tudor seat.

It was to Hever in its moat that his fat and uxorious Majesty, Henry the Eighth, came a-wooing sweet Anne Boleyn. The fair daughter of Sir Thomas, the lord of the castle, had already enjoyed a peep at the great world outside. She had been shipped as a slip of a girl to the French Court as maid of honor to Queen Claude, and then transferred in the same capacity to the English Queen Catherine of Arragon.

It is historical that comely Anne's one blemish was a supernumerary finger nail, and Queen Kate, who got into a terrible jealous fit over the damsel, used in her vixenish moods to make Anne play cards with the King, in hopes that this deformity would quench his ardor for her. But not so.

The King got more and more smitten; the Queen more and more aspish. And so between them all, kings and queens and knaves and jacks, they packed her off home again to Kent to rusticate and ease the Court.

That Anne knew the King's infatuation and that she had lured him on to loving her, there is little doubt. And it was in the garden walks and in the long corridors of Hever, so tradition saith, that the maid wandered up and down all day, awaiting—sometimes at the oriel, sometimes from the bridge—the coming of the King or news of him, for had he not promised? And Anne—a real Mariana in her moated grange—must have murmured often, like her prototype: "I am a-weary, a-weary. He cometh not. I am a-weary, a-weary. I would that I were dead."

One who used to see much of the lady of this time, a neighboring cavalier, a gallant, by the way, whose arts made no impression upon her heart, has painted this picture of the King's sweetheart while pining among her flowers:

Romance of Anne Boleyn at Hever.

At last Anne's King has come. And about these walls and in these gardens that Mr. Astor now has to himself there were much feasting and guzzling, great clatter of hoofs and cries of huntsmen, and cards and quoits, and hawking and much courting of Anne by the burly King. And then he rode away again to Court.

Anne still waited in her garden. Her days go by in dreaming dreams that seemed too dazzling to be ever realized. Would the King keep his promise? Could he perform it? A clatter of steel, the croak of the drawbridge, a breathless horse all sweat, a swashbuckling, swearing, thirsty courier and a letter from the King. Anne tore it open alone in the garden, screened from the house and prying eyes by the hedges of box, her heart beating, her face pale as the lilies by the walks.

"My Mistress and Friend—I and my heart put ourselves into your hands, begging you to recommend us to your favour and not to let absence lessen your affection to us, for it were a great pity to increase our pain, which absence alone does sufficiently, and more than I could ever have thought, bringing to my mind a point of astronomy, which is that the further the mores are from us the further too is the Sun, and yet his heat is the more scorching.

"So it is with our love: We are at a distance from one another, and yet it keeps its fervency, at least on my side. I hope the like on your part, assuring you that the uneasiness of absence is already too severe for me, and when I think of the continuance of that which I must of necessity suffer it would seem intolerable to me were it not for the firm hope of your unchangeable affection to me. And now to put you sometimes in mind of it, and seeing I cannot be present in person with you, I send you the nearest thing to that possible—that is my picture set in bracelets, with the whole device which you know already. Wishing myself in their place when it shall please you. This from the hand of your servant and friend.

"H. Rex."

She must almost have swooned as she ate up every word in the epistle, covered it with kisses, and slipped it in her bosom. Anne Boleyn, wife of Henry, the King, and Queen of England! So dreams come true!

Better, better far for Anne had she stayed in the quiet of that pleasant Kentish garden. Then, perhaps, her unhappy spirit would not be roaming from Tower Hill, where she laid her thin little neck under the axe, to old Hever Castle, to cross the bridge at Christmastide, and moan in the dungeons where the King had her buried alive before he chopped her head off.

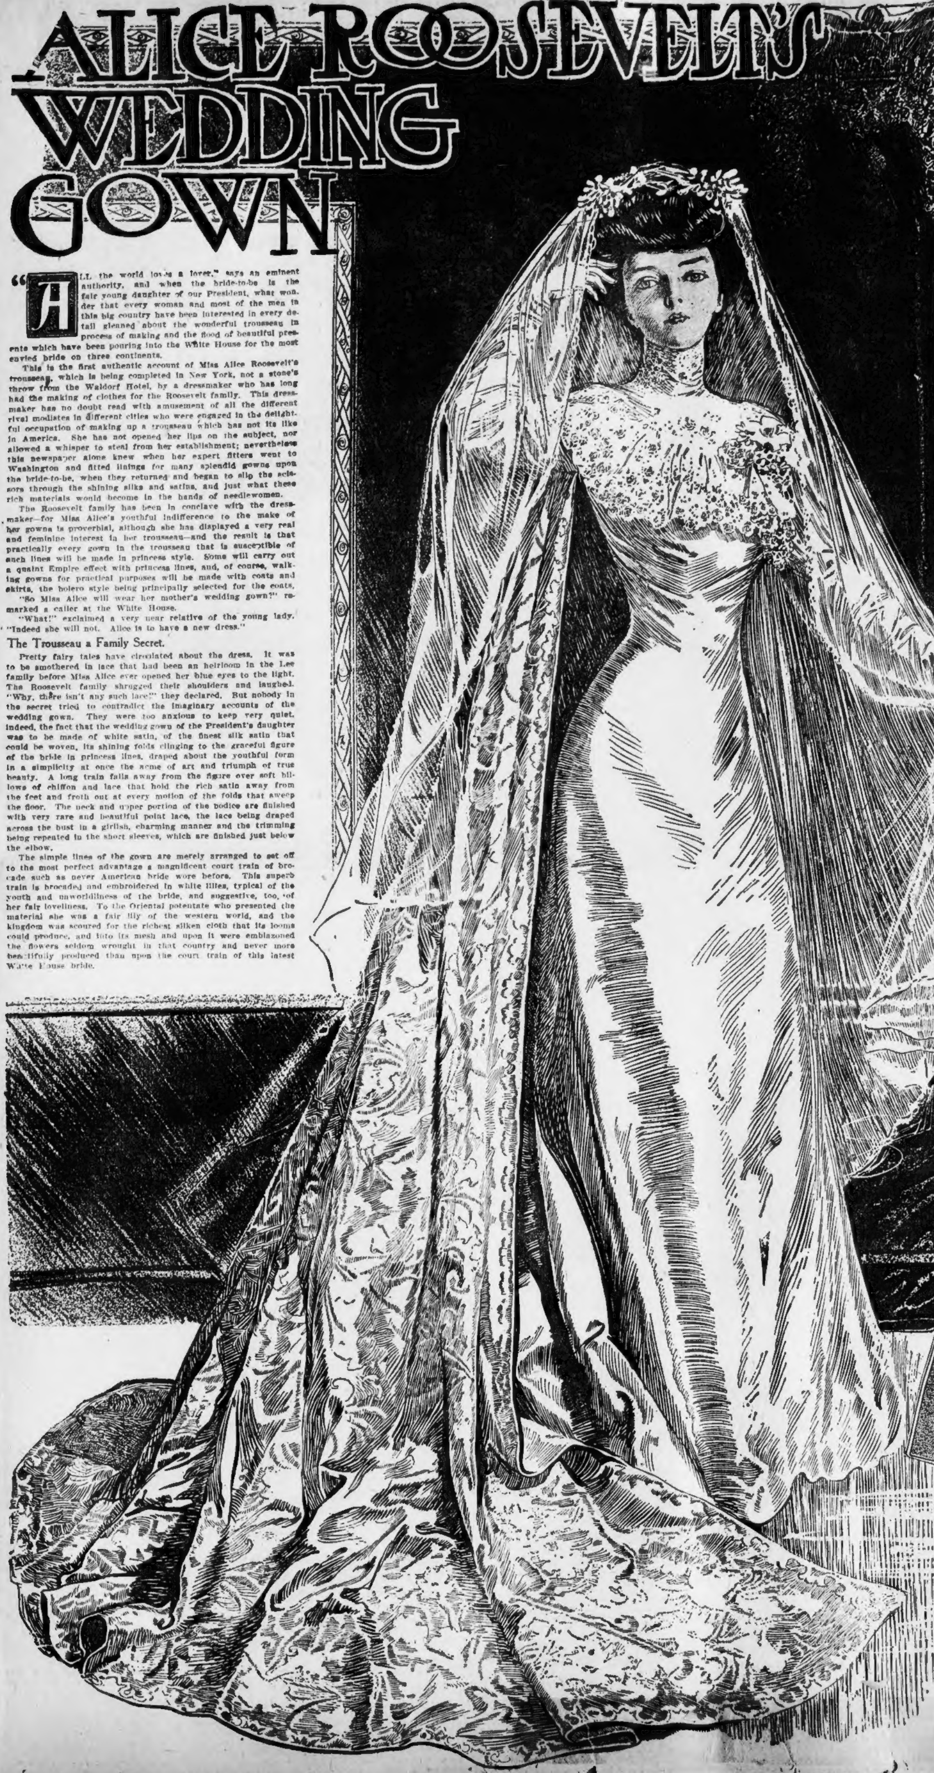
ALICE ROOSEVELT'S WEDDING GOWN

An Absolutely Accurate Detailed Illustration and Description of the Most Interesting Trousseau Ever Prepared for An American Bride.



"ALL the world loves a lover," says an eminent authority, and when the bride-to-be is the fair young daughter of our President, what wonder that every woman and most of the men in this big country have been interested in every detail gleaned about the wonderful trousseau in process of making and the flood of beautiful presents which have been pouring into the White House for the most envied bride on three continents.

This is the first authentic account of Miss Alice Roosevelt's trousseau, which is being completed in New York, not a stone's throw from the Waldorf Hotel, by a dressmaker who has long had the making of clothes for the Roosevelt family. This dressmaker has no doubt read with amusement of all the different rival modistes in different cities who were engaged in the delightful occupation of making up a trousseau which has not its like in America. She has not opened her lips on the subject, nor allowed a whisper to steal from her establishment; nevertheless this newspaper alone knew when her expert fitters went to Washington and fitted linings for many splendid gowns upon the bride-to-be, when they returned and began to slip the scissors through the shining silks and satins, and just what these rich materials would become in the hands of needlewomen.

The Roosevelt family has been in conclave with the dressmaker—for Miss Alice's youthful indifference to the make of her gowns is proverbial, although she has displayed a very real and feminine interest in her trousseau—and the result is that practically every gown in the trousseau that is susceptible of such lines will be made in princess style. Some will carry out a quaint Empire effect with princess lines, and, of course, walking gowns for practical purposes will be made with coats and skirts, the bolero style being principally selected for the coats.

"So Miss Alice will wear her mother's wedding gown?" remarked a caller at the White House.

"What!" exclaimed a very near relative of the young lady. "Indeed she will not. Alice is to have a new dress."

The Trousseau a Family Secret.

Pretty fairy tales have circulated about the dress. It was to be smothered in lace that had been an heirloom in the Lee family before Miss Alice ever opened her blue eyes to the light. The Roosevelt family shrugged their shoulders and laughed. "Why, there isn't any such lace!" they declared. But nobody in the secret tried to contradict the imaginary accounts of the wedding gown. They were too anxious to keep very quiet. Indeed, the fact that the wedding gown of the President's daughter was to be made of white satin, of the finest silk satin that could be woven, its shining folds clinging to the graceful figure of the bride in princess lines, draped about the youthful form in a simplicity at once the acme of art and triumph of true beauty. A long train falls away from the figure over soft billows of chiffon and lace that hold the rich satin away from the feet and froth out at every motion of the folds that sweep the floor. The neck and upper portion of the bodice are finished with very rare and beautiful point lace, the lace being draped across the bust in a girlish, charming manner and the trimming being repeated in the short sleeves, which are finished just below the elbow.

The simple lines of the gown are merely arranged to set off to the most perfect advantage a magnificent court train of brocade such as never American bride wore before. This superb train is brocaded and embroidered in white lilies, typical of the youth and unworldliness of the bride, and suggestive, too, of her fair loveliness. To the Oriental potentate who presented the material she was a fair lily of the western world, and the kingdom was scoured for the richest silken cloth that its looms could produce, and into its mesh and upon it were emblazoned the flowers seldom wrought in that country and never more beautifully produced than upon the court train of this latest White House bride.

China, Japan, Corea and the Philippines have all contributed to Miss Alice's trousseau, but the gorgeous beauty of the Mikado's gift suggests itself as most fitting for a court train upon a wedding gown. No trimming mars its perfection. It is simply lined with heavy white satin and sweeps away from the slender form of the wearer as the sheath of a lily from its budding loveliness.

Some concession to the Empire style, which will prevail in Spring bridal gowns, and which is particularly becoming to Miss Roosevelt, has been made in the princess lines of the bridal gown, and a court train never looks better than when hung upon a gown of this cut.

Although Oriental silks play the most important part in Miss Alice's trousseau, she has shown herself a true American in having the greater part of her wedding gown made of satin woven in America. The princess gown and lining of the court train are of the richest and most lustrous satin that the William Strange mills could produce, and other fruit of the same looms appears in another sumptuous gown in the trousseau.

"What will she go away in?" all the women have asked.

"Gray cloth, to match her furs," said some. Others declared that the going away gown was to be blue, a color much affected by Miss Roosevelt.

The going-away gown is of tan colored cloth, of a delicate shade that reproduces some of the shadow tints in Miss Alice's fair hair. It is of very handsome cloth with that lustrous surface and light weight usually known as "chiffon cloth." It is lined with soft silk, the skirt left unlined, and the surface lining of the little bolero coat is of satin. This smart coat is simply cut with sleeves in three-quarter length and fitted to the arm in a semi-close style. A richly embroidered vest outline gives the necessary touch of elaboration to the jacket and a fetching pleated skirt has been selected by the bride-to-be as being a cut becoming to her slenderness. With this suit is worn quite the daintiest blouse imaginable, embroidered by hand and clinging in loose lines to the figure.

The majority of the trousseau gowns are made up of pongees, embroidered silks and satins and pineapple gauzes which were presented to Miss Roosevelt during her trip abroad.

There is a magnificent opera coat fashioned from a gold-wrought and flower-strewn material presented by the Empress of China; a negligee of silver-blue, like the sky by moonlight, or like water when moonbeams flash upon it, strewn over with faintly flushing pink hawthorne blossoms, a gift of the Mikado; there are afternoon gowns of embroidered crepe de chine, and Oriental silks, given by the Empresses of China and Japan, made in princess style, with long trains over silk linings with silk and chiffon under flounces and lace in the corsage and cuff trimmings; there are pongees, made en traine, both with bolero effects and princess skirts with the new draped girdles, for practical wear, trimmed with Oriental embroidery in rich colors and deftly arranged folds of satin and silk, and there are fascinating kimonos enough to stock the entire wardrobe of a high caste Oriental bride.

Miss Roosevelt has always had a penchant for the filmy, strong and beautiful pineapple gauzes of the Philippines. A number of pieces of this material were presented to her upon her recent trip, some with stripes of light blue and some with pink, having a satiny lustre that is very charming. These, made up over pink and blue Philippine silks, are quite bewitching.

Lavishly Embroidered Lingerie.

The lingerie in Miss Roosevelt's trousseau is of the finest and daintiest batiste, lawn and soft, thin silk, lavishly embroidered by hand and insert with filmy lace, principally Valenciennes in pattern. On all the chemises a crest is embroidered on the left side below the elaboration of lace and embroidery.

Some of the petticoats of white batiste are embroidered in Miss Alice's favorite color—light blue—and trimmed with satin ribbons of the same hue, the ribbon running through an irregular beading at the head of some of the embroidered flounces and being run in several parallel rows in others.

Embroidered Oriental silk has been used to a great extent in making up the underwear in this truly fairy-like trousseau, particularly in the lace-trimmed sault-de-lits and peignoirs and pretty morning gowns.

Such interest has been displayed in Miss Alice's trousseau that the little boys who will act as pages feel that their important part in holding up the bride's train has been entirely too much overlooked. Little Archie considers that he is quite as big a man as the groom in the ceremony to be performed in the East Room at the White House, but the selection of pages for the wedding is being kept very secret, and will be confined to the family circle.

THE school children of San Antonio, Tex., have stamped out mosquitoes and the menace of yellow fever and malaria from their city. What the Board of Health was unable to do, and the grown-up people found too difficult for their conservative minds to understand, the school children grasped and put through with a will.

When the yellow fever scare excited San Antonio, the Board of Health was roused to action. A few doctors who had not outgrown the dogmas of their medical schools of long ago opposed the "mosquito theory," but 95 per cent of the medical men agreed that in the extermination of the insect lay the only means of eradicating yellow fever and malaria.

The Board of Health at once voted to clear the city of mosquitoes.

A campaign of education was started; but the fathers and mothers couldn't see how the mosquito had anything to do with sickness, and they were too busy to be shown. Furthermore, they were not sure that the insect did not serve a useful purpose in the world, and perhaps it would be wrong to exterminate it.

It was then that Dr. J. S. Lankford, one of the leading physicians of the Southwest, advised placing the health of the city in the hands of the school children—boys and girls seven to fourteen years of age. Dr. Lankford pointed out that all learning and progress are observed by young people—never by the old, who combat innovations.

He conceived the plan of illustrating the life of the mosquito.

Miss Stella Elmendorf, a pupil of the high school, volunteered her services as an artist, and in a short time supplied every school with an accurate and interesting colored chart showing the various stages of the insect's existence.

Mosquito study became immensely popular, and to such an extent that the children almost neglected other studies.

An army of three, five or ten thousand children was campaigning against the mosquito.

Within a brief period gratifying results began to manifest themselves. The mosquito was beginning to disappear, and rapidly at that.

It was probably the most effective campaign of sanitation ever waged in the United States.

Everywhere in the city did the children ply their labors. The pretentious dwelling of a banker or the hovel of a humble Mexican was inspected. If a mosquito breeding place was found its destruction was brought about then and there.

In a recent address before the health officers of Texas Dr. Lankford told what the children have done in San Antonio. In part, he said:

Dr. Lankford's Account of How the School Children Won a Victory Over the Mosquito Pest.

By Dr. Lankford, of the San Antonio, Texas, Board of Health.

PERHAPS I cannot in any better way illustrate the possibilities of teaching public school children preventive medicine than by describing the work we have done in San Antonio, which has attracted so much attention. My friend, Dr. Tabor, will remember the little unpleasantness in San Antonio a year or so ago, when we had a yellow fever scare. Seventy-five per cent of the people and ninety-five per cent of the doctors backed the Health Officer in the position that he took to the diagnosis, but there was opposition, and it was based upon selfishness, ignorance and old age. There is no question that men get too old to learn, and [illegible]tal and commerce are always selfish.

It has been my pleasure for some years to serve as chairman of the sanitary committee of a broad-gauge board of education, up-to-date men, who realize the importance of sanitation. It occurred to me in those troublous times of obstreperous opposition to the public welfare that we encountered that it was a question of education, that we could not teach old men anything, and that we were trying education at the wrong end of human life, and that the time to begin any kind of education was in youth when the mind is easily impressed. It was proposed to our board of education that we teach our public school children preventive methods—a course broad in scope and thorough, and that we begin with a course of instruction on insects as disease carriers, studying first the mo[illegible] proposition was heartily indorsed, and as rapidly as possible the best recent literature on the subject was procured and put into the hands of the teachers, and a letter was sent to them outlining the proposed course of training and offering a considerable cash prize for the best model lesson on insects as disease carriers.

The teachers became very much interested, a large number entered the contest, competition became active, and all those teachers who did not enter the contest seemed to have studied the literature. The whole teaching faculty became interested in the subject, and we found it very popular with the children. A wide-mouthed bottle of eggs and wigglers of the anopheles, stegomyia, and culex covered with mosquito bar was kept in every school room of the city so that the children might study the whole development of the mosquito. In order to facilitate their study the pupils were furnished with large magnifying glasses. They became so much interested in the subject that the teachers complained that it interfered with their books to some extent, but I did not care for that, for there are too many books in school any way.

In order that the teachers might be thoroughly posted themselves, Howard's book on the mosquito was furnished them. Regular lessons were given, compositions were written, and in fact the school system of the city was greatly interested in the mosquito long before the model lesson was ready. Plenty of artists were found among the school children to keep on the blackboards the egg, the wiggler, the pupa and the mosquito of the several variations. The ordinary school child of San Antonio to-day can shake up a bottle of wigglers, then let them rest and come to the attitude of breathing and tell you instantly whether it is the yellow fever or malaria wiggler, and they are not confined to San Antonio, but are all over the country menacing health.

The children were organized somewhat after military style, under control of officers and placed under science teachers and sent out to search for wigglers' homes. They carried oil with them to oil the smaller places, and arrangements were made with the Health Office for them to report the large pools which they could not oil, and the result was that the Health Office was swamped with reports of places to be oiled, notwithstanding the fact that they had a large extra force. They took to this outside work with extreme interest and enthusiasm, and it was astonishing in what unusual places they found mosquitoes breeding.

They were in the neglected water pitcher of the ballroom, where all had been activity and life, and they were in the flower vases in the cemetery sporting over the corpses and skeletons of the dead, mocking at the efforts of man to protect the human family from disease. They found them in the blacksmith's tub where the red hot irons were being continually poked, and in the drain from the icebox under the house. They found them in gutters and drains, cisterns, cesspools, barrels and boxes, and especially in the bottles and tin cans in neglected lots. They found them in a thousand places where they would be overlooked by ordinary inspector. Some of the boys invented a tomahawk, as they called it, which was about like a hammer handle with a sharpened nail carefully driven through the distant end, and imagining themselves bands of Indians they attacked the bottles and cans, breaking them and puncturing holes, so that they would not hold water, and while they were getting valuable lessons they were enjoying sport.

This work was kept up unceasingly until everything culminated in a splendid course of stereopticon lectures at the Grand Opera House, where we grouped the children into audiences of about 1,000 or 1,200 from the High School down.

At the middle of each lecture a tank of wigglers was thrown upon the canvass and allowed to play for, a moment for the amusement of the children, then again near the end of the lecture it was replaced in position, and a few drops of oil were placed on the water and the children permitted to see, splendidly illustrated, the effects of oil in destroying larvae. They would try to penetrate the oil with the breathing apparatus, and, failing would go off to feed, but before many seconds they would make another and more desperate effort, then would come a fight for life that was almost pathetic in its terrific struggle, and being unable to get air they would soon weaken and die. And as I watched those children I knew that they had learned a lesson that they would carry with them until death.

By this time the whole city was alive with interest on the question, but some of the old people were "from Missouri" and would not even believe the mosquito came from the wiggler till the children demonstrated it to them. In order to make more permanent our work we had a brilliant young artist to prepare charts about 30x40 inches, showing the complete life history of the mosquito, and especially illustrating the way in which the mosquito communicates disease, and these charts have been framed and placed in the school buildings, and lessons are occasionally given from them.

Now we have the results to show for our work. It now is a common remark among our own people, as well as those who come and go, that there are no mosquitoes in San Antonio, and if we do not exterminate them entirely it is our own fault. We have rid ourselves of a nuisance; our people are more comfortable, happier and healthier.

San Antonio is widely known as a health resort, and this malarial record is low compared with other cities, but we are determined to eliminate malaria from our blood and our records. And this is not all. Our children have been taught lessons of observation that are of inestimable value. We could not have accomplished what we have without the active and earnest co-operation of an able superintendent, an excellent corps of principals and teachers and good health officers.

Taming A School Ma'am

How the Splendid Hero of "The Virginian" Vanquished a Haughty Heroine, and How They Turned Out to Be Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Hicks, of the "T. O." Ranch, Texas.

HOW many feminine hearts have throbbed, how many gentle sighs, how many secret aspirations because of the unapproachable manly charms of the hero of Owen Wister's "The Virginian," must now represent tender emotions utterly wasted?

Alas! the incomparable Virginian's bright star has been snuffed out; he is in total eclipse; he has been "roped," thrown, bound and branded, and henceforth will ride soberly his beloved Texas ranges, plain John Henry Hicks, manager of the big "T. O." ranch, and managed by Mrs. Hicks.

But she was a schoolma'am, and he tamed her first!

Pretty nearly everybody in Texas has known all along that "The Virginian" was none other than John Henry Hicks. The novelist spent weeks as a guest at the "T. O.," and when the book came out all the cattlemen for miles around realized that John Henry had been immortalized.

But think of the desecration in making a married man of such a hero—the quintessence of cowboy romance and charming daredeviltry! You learn to love him in the very first chapter, where wise and mischievous ponies in a corral are easily frustrating all the efforts of a group of expert cowboys to rope them. One pony, in particular, seemed safe. The author is looking on from a Pullman window.

"Then for the first time I noticed a man who sat on the high gate of the corral, looking on. For he now climbed down with the undulations of a tiger, smooth and easy, as if his muscles flowed beneath his skin. The others had all visibly whirled the rope, some of them even shoulder high. I did not see his arm lift or move. He appeared to hold the rope down low, by his leg. But, like a sudden shake, I saw the noose go out its length and fall true; and the thing was done. As the captured pony walked in with a sweet, church-door expression, our train moved slowly on to the station, and a passenger remarked:

"'That man knows his business.'"

For quite a few chapters in the book you can't imagine such a thing as this superb Virginian ever settling down to humdrum married life. He talks in a soft, sweet, drawling voice with a Southern accent, but you have to know him a long time before he'll notice you. No liberties with this Virginian till you've proved your quality by the Texas standard.

With perfect impunity his jovial intimates call him, affectionately and smilingly, the most dreadful names imaginable, one in particular, which even men who do not carry six-shooters are quick to resent. The Texas etiquette on this point is contained in a scene at a card table in which the hero exhibits the most precious stuff that's in him.

"When You Call Me That, Smile."

"Took Her Out of the Stage On His Horse."

A low bred and contemptuous gambler called Trampas applies this particularly awful epithet to the Virginian in reminding him insolently that it is his turn to bet.

"The Virginian's pistol came out, and his hand lay on the table, holding it unaimed. And with a voice as gentle as ever, the voice that sounded almost like a caress, but drawling a very little more than usual, so that there was almost a space between each word, he issued his orders to the man Trampas.

"'When you call me that, smile.' And he looked as if somewhere the bell of death was tingling."

Well, the man Trampas backed down without the Virginian's pistol being so much as aimed. Ask any romantic female if that isn't the finishing touch to the portrait of the most alluring of all possible romantic heroes.

You can hardly believe it when a little school ma'am from Vermont switches the triumphantly independent Virginian clean out of his orbit. But facts prove this fiction was based on fundamental truth. The new Mrs. John Henry Hicks was teaching in the training school at Tempe, A. T., two and a half years ago when the Virginian first met her.

She was Miss Katharine Adams, of San Francisco, and a 1903 graduate of the Leland Stanford, Jr., University. They have just been married in San Francisco, and by way of proof that John Henry Hicks is indeed the Virginian, the happy couple have carried back to El Paso a box of dolls representing the twelve characters in the novel, presented by his cattlemen friends, the "Virginian" doll being significantly life-like.

A Whirlwind Courtship.

Perhaps the courtship scenes in the novel are really from life, for they were located out in that wild country where the Virginian exploited himself for Owen Wister's and his readers' advantage.

Her first experience in the Virginian's country, her first meeting with the Virginian, was when the amorous and half-drunken driver of the stage, aboard which she was the only passenger, managed to nearly overturn his vehicle while fording a stream.

"Then a tall rider appeared close against the buried axles, and took her out of the stage on his horse so suddenly that she screamed. She felt splashes, saw a swimming flood, and found herself lifted down upon the shore."

Then, after admonishing the stage driver, relieving him of his whiskey bottle and leaving him in a chastened state of mind, the Virginian went on his way. This was the beginning.

She begins her school teaching, and the Virginian develops an exceeding great thirst for knowledge. He tackles this subject just as he does every other—to win. As an introduction to this new labors he rides over to renew the acquaintance so uniquely begun.

"It was Sunday, and no school day, and he found her in her cabin that stood next the Taylor house. Her eyes were very bright.

"'I thought I'd just call,' said he.

"'Why, that's such a pity! Mr. and Mrs. Taylor are away.'

"'Yes! they've been right busy. That's why I thought I'd call. Will yu' come for a ride, ma'am?'

"'Dear me, I——'

"'You can ride my hawss. He's gentle.'

"'What! And you walk?'

"'No, ma'am. Nor the two of us ride him this time, either.' At this she turned entirely pink, and he, noticing, went on quietly: 'I'll catch up one of Taylor's hawsses. Taylor knows me.'

"'No, I don't really think I could do that. But I thank you. Thank you very much. I must go now and see how Mrs. Taylor's fire is.'

"'I'll look after that, ma'am. I'd like for yu' to go ridin' mighty well. Yu' have no babies this mawn'in' to be anxious after.'"

At this she made a haughty declaration of war, and in the subsequent encounter the Virginian proved his great qualities anew.

"'I don't know what you mean, sir,' she said.

"Now was his danger; for it was easy to fall into mere crude impertinence and ask her why, then, did she speak thus abruptly. There were various easy things of this kind for him to say. And any rudeness would have lost him the battle. But the Virginian was not the man to lose such a battle in such a way. His shaft had hit. She thought he referred to those babies about whom last night she had shown such superfluous solicitude. Her consience was guilty. This was all that he wished to make sure of before he began operations.

"'Why, I mean,' he said, easily, sitting down near the door, 'that it's Sunday. School don't hinder yu' from enjoying a ride to-day. You'll teach the kids all the better for it to-morro', ma'am. Maybe it's your duty,' and he smiled at her.

"'My duty! It's quite novel to have strangers——'

"'Am I a stranger?' he cut in, firing his first broadside. 'I was introduced, ma'am,' he continued, noting how she had flushed again. 'And I would not be oversteppin' for the world. I'll go away if yu' want.' And thereupon he quietly rose, and stood, hat in hand.

"She was flustered. She did not at all want him to go. No one of her admirers had ever been like this creature. The fringed leathern chaparreros, the cartridge belt, the flannel shirt, the knotted scarf at the neck, these things were now an old story to her. Since her arrival she had seen young men and old in plenty dressed thus. But worn by this man now standing by her door, they seemed to radiate romance. She did not want him to go—and she wished to win her battle. And now in her agitation she became suddenly severe. • • • He should have a punishment to remember.

She Is Going to Love Him!

"'You call yourself a man, I suppose,' she said.

"But he did not tremble in the least. Her fierceness filled him with delight, and the tender desire of ownership flooded through him.

"'A grown-up, responsible man,' she repeated.

"'Yes, ma'am. I think so.' He now sat down again."

After which fashion he quietly disarms her at every point. And finally, when she tells him saucily that she doesn't think she likes him, he answers:

"'That's all square enough. You're goin' to love me before we get through.'"

She acquired a habit of riding about the country, and once she found him, dismounted and fainting beside a spring owing to loss of blood from an arm shot through in a fight with cattle "rustlers." She found his flask and gave him brandy.

"Revived, he managed to smile. 'Y'u see, I aint worth keeping.'

"'It's only a mile,' said she. So she found a log, a fallen trunk, and he crawled to that, and from there crawled to his saddle, and she marched on with him, talking, bidding him to note the steps accomplished. For the next half mile they went thus, the silent man clinched on the horse, and by his side the girl walking and cheering him forward."

He tames her as easily and thoroughly as he tames bucking bronchos and Texas steers. He tames her so completely that, when she learns that he must kill his low-lived enemy, the man Trampas, in an open street pistol fight, after long provocation and repeated holding of his hand, in order to retain the respect of his fellowmen, and she tells him that if he does that thing all is over between them—he goes out and kills his man. But when he returns with a bullet hole through his sleeve he then first realizes that she is entirely tamed, for she throws herself on his breast and acknowledges him her master.

Such was the Virginian—now known as John Henry Hicks, the married man; manager of the big "T. O." ranch and president of a Texas bank.

Think of all the vain heart throbs he has caused as the hero of a novel! The most splendid of heroes married and done for! Alas, and alas!

"The Land Where Poets Go to When They Die." Drawn Expressly for This Page by Mr. Sime.

PERHAPS the rarest faculty of the human mind is imagination; few writers have any, and still fewer artists. Because the great artist Dore had imagination his work will live forever, and there is living to-day one artistic genius with the priceless gift of imagination—Sidney H. Sime, whose newest drawings, made expressly for this newspaper, are shown on this page.

In "The Land Where Poets Go To When They Die" Mr. Sime has expressed the poetic fancies of the poetic mind. Having a well-developed sense of humor he has added some touches that seem rather hard on the poet. Crowned with laurel above his long, dark locks, the Poet reclines in a hammock swung between the earth and the moon writing inspired pages which fall amid a group of kneeling "adoring damosels" of different ages, typifying the most faithful audience of all poets since the world began.

The Poet's hammock is swung athwart the peak of Parnassus, toward which the trumpet-heralded "Argosy of Dreams" is speeding through mists and mighty billows. His argosy of dreams is well known to be the original capital stock of every poet. At the foot of Parnassus Pegasus is hitched to a tree laden with such material delights as hot bottles and cold birds, a roast pig, a sirloin steak, puddings, pies and cakes.

Near the foot of the tree "Thaliea" is dancing to the piping of Pan in a grove, over a flowery mead upon which lambs gambol pursued by a dish of mint sauce on hairy legs.

The Poet in his hammock is surrounded by fancies depicted in allegory. He can hear the pure tones of the vesper bell, and far away, seductive at her latticed window, is his "lost love." Still farther away, represented by towers amid the stars, is his "property in Spain," and above it in a great burst of radiance is the "dread portent" of all his poetizing—a pick, an axe and a spade, surmounted by honest labor's crown of thorns.

But from this vision of the world's work to be done the poet resolutely turns his eyes upon the shaded grove, the haunted castle, the field of ancient battle and the "undying worm," with pleased glances, meanwhile at the "rose bower" and the "bub- [illegible] the "adoring damosels."

Now and then the Poet has a disturbing thought which is expressed by "the cavern of drug," the "river of midnight oil" and a basket full of "unfinished MSS" which stands significantly near the "abyss of journalism." But he takes comfort in a vision of himself, in Dantesque pose and costume strolling serenely across "Meadows of Amaranth" toward a "salt unplumbed estranging sea" encircling the flower-decked island where he is to lie alone in a magnificent tomb about which swans float, forever singing his fame from golden throats.

Was ever the Poet more thoroughly set forth in a single drawing?

"The Land of the Drunkard" has for its central object a lighthouse composed of a gigantic bottle surmounted by the effulgence of "inebriation's nose." The bright beams from this beacon fall upon the "sea of derelicts" whose prows, once upon a time, were pointed to the "mount of repentance." One derelict has actually landed a frantic passenger on the rocks at the foot of the mount, and by feverish scrambling he has escaped the clutches of the first hairy rum demon. But other rum demons have already outstripped him and farther up the side of the mount are setting invitingly in his path brimming goblets.

From the "fumes of yesterday" an army of rats scamper to take possession of the deserted and half-ruined "home" from which "thirst road" and "thirst avenue" lead to the dread "cave of Silenus." You will see on the right in the middle distance that "the law" is a monster crab ambushed in a "lot of muck," and that "work" is nothing more than a great steel trap baited with a glass of beer.

"The warning voice"—without any listeners—proceeds from the lips of a frowsy ex-drunkard who presides over a much neglected "pledge" with a vociferous umbrella. Like the orchestra in a theatre, a chorus of rum demons sings lustily: "Oh, where is my boy to-night?" Over all is a sky sprinkled with wide-open, accusing, amazed eyes.

These two pictures, with their satire and grim humor represent literature as well as art in the form of allegory. Other drawings by Sime reproduced on this page show him in a different light. The style is classic and the subjects weird creations that are little short of awe-inspiring. "Science" is represented as a swathed, attenuated figure, groping, with outstretched, bony arms—upon one of which hangs a basket—across a dark landscape under the stars. The soil at the figure's feet is strewn with bones and sprouts luminous mushrooms. While groping onward, the figure crouches as though afraid to meet the thing it is searching for. Its head is bald, and the eyes are half blinded by the folds of cloth wound about the body and trailing behind. This is "science"—ever inquiring into the unknown, eager yet fearful, and half blind—as Sime sees science.

The picture called "Hish" is a book illustration which might stand for a nightmare of a fever-stricken poet. The white-draped female figure emerging from a dream-wood seems to embody a passionate desire for silence.

The curious pictures of "IT" and "MUNG" illustrate the remarkable fables written by Lord Dunsany recently, which follow, and which describe them as well as they illustrate the text.

How Trogool Answered the Prophet Yadin.

SEEING that wisdom is not in cities nor happiness in wisdom, and because Yadin the prophet was doomed by the gods ere he was born to go in search of wisdom, he followed the caravans to Bodrahan. There in the evening, where the camels rest, when the wind of the day ebbs out into the desert sighing amid the palms its last farewells and leaving the caravans still, he sent his prayer with the wind to drift into the desert calling to Hoodrazai.

And down the wind his prayer went calling: "Why do the gods endure, and play their game with men. Why doth not Skarl forsake his drumming, and Mana cease to rest?" and the echo of seven deserts answered: "Who knows? Who knows?"

But out in the waste, beyond the seven deserts where Ranorada looms enormous in the dusk, at evening his prayer was heard; and from the rim of the waste whither had gone his prayer, came three flamingoes flying, and their voices said: "Going South, Going South" at every stroke of their wings.

But as they passed by the prophet they seemed so cool and free and the desert so blinding and hot that he stretched up his arms toward them. Then it seemed happy to fly and pleasant to follow behind great white wings, and he was with the three flamingoes up in the cool above the desert, and their voices cried before him: "Going South, Going South," and the desert below him mumbled: "Who knows? Who knows?"

Sometimes the earth stretched up toward them with peaks of mountains, sometimes it fell away in steep ravines, blue rivers sang to them as they passed above them, or very faintly came the song of breezes in lone orchards, and far away the sea sang mighty dirges of old forsaken isles. But it seemed that in all the world there was nothing only to be going South.

It seemed that somewhere the South was calling to her own, and that they were going South.

But when the prophet saw that they had passed above the

This Is Hish.

"And when it is dark, all in the hour of Triboogie, Hish creepeth from the forest, the Lord of Silence, whose children are the bats, that have broken the command of their father, but in a voice that is ever so low. Hish Husheth the mouse and all the whispers in the night; he maketh all the noises still. Only the cricket rebelleth. But Hish hath set against him in such a spell that after he hath cried a thousand times his voice may be heard no more, but becometh part of the silence."

edge of Earth, and that far away to the North of them lay the Moon he perceived that he was following no mortal birds but some strange messengers of Hoodrazai whose nest had lain in one of Pegana's vales below the mountains whereon sit the gods.

Still they went South, passing by all the Worlds and leaving them to the North, till only Araxes, Zadres and Hyraglion lay still to the South of them, where great Ingazi seemed only a point of light, and Yo and Mindo could be seen no more.

Still they went South till they passed below the South and came to the Rim of the Worlds.

There there is neither South nor East nor West, but only North and Beyond: there is only North of it where lie the Worlds, and Beyond it where lies the Silence, and the Rim is a mass of rocks that were never used by the gods when They made the Worlds, and on it sat Trogool. Trogool is the Thing that is neither god nor beast, who neither howls nor breathes, only IT turns over the leaves of a great book, black and white, black and white for ever until THE END.

And all that is to be is written in the book as also all that was.

Because it is written that there are gods there are the gods.

Also there is writing about thee and me until the page where our names no more are written.

Then as the prophet watched IT, Trogool turned a page—a black one, and night was over, and day shone on the Worlds.

Trogool is the Thing that men in many countries have called by many names, IT is the Thing that sits behind the gods.

But when Yadin saw that old remembered days were hidden away with the part that IT had turned, and knew that upon one whose name is writ no more the last page had turned for ever a thousand pages back, then did he utter his prayer in the face of Trogool who only turns the pages and never answers prayer. He prayed in the face of Trogool, "Only turn back thy pages to the name of one which is writ no more, and far away upon a place named Earth shall rise the prayers of a little people that acclaim the name of Trogool, for there is indeed far off a place called Earth where men shall pray to Trogool."

Then spake Trogool who turns the pages and never answers prayer, and his voice was like the murmurs of the waste at night when echoes have been lost: "Though the whirlwind of the South should tug with his claws at a page that hath been turned yet shall he not be able to ever turn it back."

Then because of words in the book that said that it should be so, Yadin found himself lying in the desert where one gave him water and afterwards carried him on a camel into Bodrahan.

There some said that he had but dreamed when thirst had seized him while he wandered among the rocks in the desert. But certain aged men of Bodrahan say that indeed there sitteth somewhere a Thing that is called Trogool, that is neither god nor beast, that turneth the leaves of a book, black and white, black and white, until he come to the words MAI DOON IZAHN, which means The End For Ever, and book and gods and worlds shall be no more.

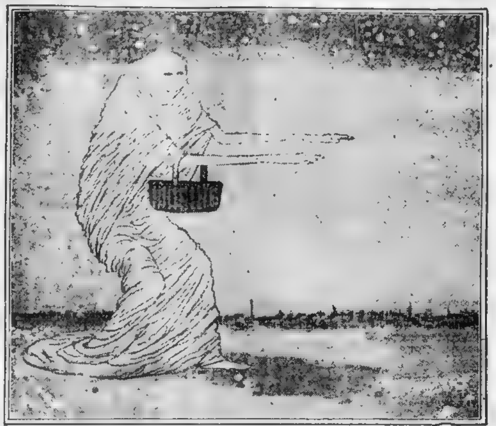
Science Blindly Groping for Knowledge.



Kabok the Prophet.

WHEN Yahn was among the Things that Were and still [illegible] said unto Kabok, "Be thou as wise as was Alhireth-Hotep."

And Kabok said: "Mung maketh his sign against men or withholdeth it by the advice of Kabok."

And he said unto one: "Thou hast sinned against Kabok, therefore will Mung make the sign of Mung against thee." And to another: "Thou hast appeased Kabok with gifts, therefore shall Mung forbear to make against thee the sign of Mung."

One night as Kabok fattened upon the gifts that men had brought him he heard the tread of Mung treading in the garden of Kabok about his house at night.

And because the night was very still it seemed most evil to Kabok that Mung should be treading in his garden, without the advice of Kabok, about his house at night.

And Kabok, who knew All Things, grew afraid, for the treading was very loud and the night still, and he knew not what lay behind the back of Mung, which none had ever seen.

But when the morning grew to brightness and there was light upon the Worlds and Mung trod no longer in the garden, Kabok forgot his fears, and said: "Perhaps it was but a herd of cattle that stampeded in the garden of Kabok."

And Kabok went about his business, which was that of knowing All Things, and telling All Things unto men, and making light of Mung.

But that night Mung trod again in the garden of Kabok about his house at night, and stood before the window of the house like a shadow standing erect so that Kabok knew indeed that it was Mung.

And a great fear fell upon the throat of Kabok, so that his speech was hoarse, and he cried out: "Thou art Mung!"

And Mung [illegible] and went on to tread in the garden of Kabok about his house at night.

But when the second morning grew to brightness and there was light upon the Worlds, Mung went from treading in the garden of Kabok, and for a little while Kabok hoped, but looked with great dread for the coming of the third night.

And when the third night was come and the bat had gone to his home, and the wind had died, the night was very still.

But ere the night met the morning upon the highway between Pegana and the Worlds there came the tread of Mung in the garden of Kabok toward Kabok's door.

And Mung made the sign of Mung, pointing toward The End.

And the fears of Kabok had rest from troubling Kabok any more, for they and he were among accomplished things.

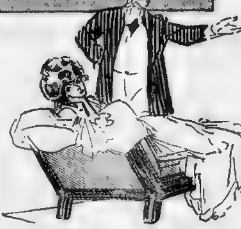
THE SUCCESSFUL WOMAN

BY THE REV. MADISON C. PETERS

"The saleswoman may be a lady of polished manners and the society woman a boor."



"All the sick woman needs to restore her to health is something to do."

"Comes down to making cheap bonnets for servants."

IF you have your own living to earn, you have a peculiar reason to be thankful that you are an American woman. We are not wholly free from snobbishness and the spirit of caste, but in all the world around there is no land where honest work carries less of a stigma, where men and women are taken at their own intrinsic value, than in this peerless, untrammeled, unapproached and unapproachable Republic of ours. Ladies in the best sense of that much abused word are recognized in any circle that is worth the entering, many of whom at some time in their lives earned their own bread.

All honor to the women who make their own way in the world rather than be a burden upon the arms already too heavy-laden, or accept at the hands of strangers the bread and dress of genteelly-disguised charity.

God made women as well as men for employment. Employment makes the woman in a very great measure. It is not careful training, neither sound instruction nor good society, that makes women. These are the means, but back of these lies the moulding influence of a woman's life, and that is employment.

The disparity between men's and women's wages is not always an arbitrary discrimination against woman because she is a woman; it is very often due to difference in the grade of work. Don't look upon your work as a temporary make-shift until some man will make a home for you. Be as determined as the man who succeeds; be thorough; have the same determination to reach the top, and the disparity in the wages will likely disappear.

Find out what groove you are intended to fill. It is hard to run a four-inch slide in a three-inch groove. There are women trying to paint landscapes upon canvas, whose souls have never caught the divine sense of beauty and who should be scrubbing floors. There are women seeking stenographers' positions who should learn spelling in a secondary school. You may be pitchforked through a course of Latin and Greek, and yet, if you have no practical training along a special line, your service will have little value. And this leads me to say:

Get Into the Right Groove.

Every young woman should be trained to do some useful thing well enough to support herself by it if necessary. And this exigency often occurs, and the helplessness of many a woman of education and refinement under such circumstances is something painful to contemplate. W. D. Howells has thrillingly depicted the struggles of an educated and accomplished woman suddenly left penniless. She sets bravely to work to turn her accomplishments to account for self-support. First, she tries decorating pottery, but her work is not finished enough to bring her the needed income; then she tries coloring photographs, then writing for magazines, then fine millinery—always with the same result. She could do many things fairly well, but nothing well enough to be paid for; till at last she comes down to making cheap bonnets for servants, and by that coarser work she manages to eke out a precarious existence, till the novelist, as the only way of extricating her from so trying a situation, is compelled to marry her off.

Now, this may be fiction, but it is not a stranger to fact. Our great cities are full of heroines of this sort. Let every woman, no matter in how comfortable circumstances her parents may be, master some one thing—and know that one thing clear through—no matter what; let her make her services valuable somewhere; let her know something of what Burns was pleased to call, "the glorious privilege of being independent." How calmly she could then face misfortune!

No woman can hold her position or reasonably hope for an increase in wages if she devotes all the time she can spare in the adornment of her person to the neglect of her duties. Prove your right to the title of a woman. Don't expect the business world to take you upon trust. Prove that you are a worker and a winner, and the world will make room for you.

Too many working women are like a species of the lobster, which, if left upon the rocks by the receding tide, waits for the returning tide to float it from its temporary prison. There on the rocks it would remain to die, although a slight effort would enable it to reach the waves, tossing but a few feet below. There are many human lobsters, mere "hangers-on" of society, who are entertaining themselves with the idea that because they are women they are to be helped without putting forth any effort themselves.

There is plenty of room, work and welcome in the world for women of determined purpose. They are always at a premium. Let your motto be, Excelsior. What's worth doing at all is worth doing well. Mr. Cross says in the biography of his wife, George Eliot: "She had a wonderful genius for taking pains."

Be proud of your work. You need not hang your head because of the humbleness of your vocation, if it be honorable. The saleswoman may be a lady of polished manners and the society woman a boor.

Be in earnest. Michael Angelo was so filled with enthusiasm in his art, so afraid that money might taint his brush, that he refused to accept any pay whatever for his masterpieces in the Vatican and St. Peter's. Napoleon's enthusiasm banished the word "impossible" from his dictionary.

Be patient. The young women who have their own way to make in the world are apt to jump from one thing to another, trying something else "just for a while." Women, like men, who are everything by fits and starts, are nothing long. Have a definite and distinct object, or else your vital energies will be wasted and your most industrious days will be recklessly squandered.

Have a Definite Object

"Time elaborately thrown away," Young's phrase, applies to those people who are all the time trying to do something else, wasting their energies, smothering their enthusiasm, and usually failing in all their undertakings. If you have made up your mind to be a typewriter or a musician, a saleswoman or a teacher, be just the one thing and you will get there. Goethe said: "Was du bist, sei Alles." It is seldom the most brilliant woman achieves the highest success, but the "sticker." An old German proverb says, "To change, and to change for the better, are two different things."

The wisest charity is to help a woman to help herself. To put a woman in the way of supporting herself keeps her young, and very often all the sick woman needs to restore her to perfect health is something to do.

Your true position in society is that which you achieve for yourself. You are worth to the world no more, no less. You are a woman for what you do, and not what your father, husband, brother or friend does for you.

What most women need is the will to rise. Your talents are not thrown away in a small position. What you need is not so much elbow room as elbow grease. Outside help is your greatest curse. You must climb up. You cannot be shot up in an elevator. Of all things most prejudicial to woman's success is her unwillingness to rely upon herself and her own independent energies.

A woman's will fully exerted can do almost anything. A preacher's wife was on her deathbed. She had taken leave of her friends, and alone with her husband to say farewell, she took him by the hand and said, "Will you promise me that you will be true to my memory?" "What do you mean, my dear?" "I want you to promise me not to marry again." "Do not speak of such a thing, my dear. Such a thought never entered my head." "But," she persisted, "I want you to promise it; will you?" He replied, "I don't think it right to extort such a promise."

"Then," she said, "I won't die," and she did not.

She lived fifteen years; lived till she saw him where no second wife could follow. This inflexible determination becomes the commander-in-chief of all the forces in a woman. It brings every latent force into action, and with iron firmness enables her steadily and pluckily to fight on till the victory is won.

Whether your employer be generous or oppressive, do your duty and seek to possess all those qualifications which shall commend you to his esteem.

Be as eager to please and as earnest to serve your employer as if the business were your own. Suppose yourself in the position of your employer and consider what you would have fair reason to expect were you in his position, and then act accordingly.

Never slight your work. Aim at excellence. Be in the best sense a clever business woman.

Let your honesty be above suspicion. Rather starve and die than appropriate an article of clothing, or of decoration or a dollar of your employer's to your own use.

Live Within Your Income.

As a guard upon your integrity and a check to temptation, dress modestly and live within your income. Vanity is an insatiable passion, and more than anything else leads to dishonesty and impurity. Faust's casket of jewels—who shall count the Marguerites it has [illegible]?

Be good-natured, accommodating, amiable and considerate, but set your face like a flint against all that is improper. Be an example of all that is good and then you may be a reprover of all that is bad. Let there be no affected superiority, no standing on a platform of empty dignity, nothing like "Stand by, [illegible] than thou," but by all the sweetness [illegible] affected goodness stand straight [illegible] a blessing indeed to those [illegible].

Just one concluding word for your conduct toward those who employ you. Instances which might be multiplied indefinitely prove that caution in this respect is necessary. Men bound by every tie of honor which confiding parents repose in them and by their solemn vow to a wife, have assailed and in many instances destroyed the purity, the peace, and the life of those whom they were in duty bound to protect.

Spurn with disdain and indignation any such attempts. Receive no special attention from and quit the service of the scoundrel whom you suspect of a design against that which ought to be dearer to you, ten thousand times ten thousand over, than even life itself.

Street and Number..
City and State..

DESIGNS for two new Spring waists are illustrated on this page. The patterns for them, together with complete directions for cutting out and making, are offered to-day in the Sunday American Journal-Examiner series. The pattern for either one of these fashionable waists may be obtained for ten cents, or patterns for both for twenty cents.

The waist is made over a fitted lining, stiffened with featherbone and adjusted with shoulder, under-arm seams and bust darts. The closing is effected at the back, where inverted pleats are stitched in place to the waist line to obtain smooth fitting, and the front droops girlishly below inverted pleats that take up the fulness over the bust. A pointed yoke of baby Irish lace, topped with a standing collar, is an important embellishment, but it may be removed if a low neck is preferred, and the edge finished as desired.

The pattern for the pleated waist, No. 221—1251, is cut in six sizes, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. For the 36-inch bust size 3¼ yards of material 22 inches wide, with 1⅝ yard of all-over 18 inches wide, will be required.

Pompadour yokes are universally becoming, and the tucked waist, No. 222—1254, illustrated by the figure to the right, exploiting this pretty feature in Cluny lace, the waist being oyster white chiffon taffeta and the applique of Chinese embroidery, would be really stunning.

The pattern for the tucked waist, 222—1254, is cut in six sizes, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. For the 36-inch size 4⅛ yards of material 22 inches wide will be required.

Please remember in ordering either or both of these waist patterns that orders for patterns in sizes other than those specified above cannot be filled.

In ordering either the pattern for the pleated waist, No. 221—1251, or for the tucked waist, No. 222—1254, you simply fill in the proper accompanying blank, giving your name and post office address and size of pattern desired, and mail, together with ten cents in money or stamps, to

Ladies' Waist Patterns,
P. O. Box 100,

How the Good Lacto-Bacilli Fight and Exterminate the Harmful Germs of Disease and Old Age.

NOT the elixir of youth, but the retarder of senility—the former a mere dream and the latter, according to Professor Metchnikoff, most famous collaborator with and successor to Pasteur, a proved reality—turns out to be something older than the Egyptian pyramids and as universal as bread and meat.

It is simply sour milk.

If you want to remain "middle-aged," at the height of all your powers, until you are a hundred years old, or more, just drink sour milk with the same regularity that you eat bread.

In a chapter from his forthcoming book, printed on this page, Professor Metchnikoff tells of certain primitive peoples in different parts of the world whose staple diet is sour or curdled milk, and whose faculties and physical activity survive to an astounding age—one woman being still alive and hearty at one hundred and eighty years.

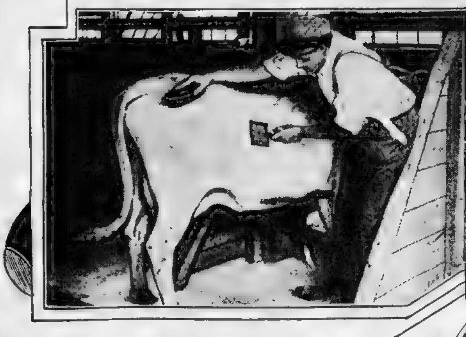
Professor Metchnikoff, by years of experimentation, has discovered that the microbe which causes milk to sour, producing lactic acid, is the deadly enemy of the microbe that is mainly responsible for hurrying old age upon us. This is the microbe of putrefaction, whose habitat is the human intestines.

By cultivating this beneficent microbe, and seeing that it is the only agency whereby the milk is curdled, Professor Metchnikoff claims to have produced an article of diet whose regular use will very much extend the most valuable period of human life.

By PROF. ELIE METCHNIKOFF,
Sub-Director of the Pasteur Institute.

Metchnikoff, Pasteur's Successor, Proves That the Microbe Which Produces Lactic Acid Is the Deadly Enemy of the Intestinal Germ That Hurries Us to the Grave.

SINCE the publication of my short treatise on sour milk as an agent in the retardation of old age, many letters have been addressed to me for information in further detail upon this subject. It being impossible to respond by letter to all questions asked me, I have decided to take from a book that I am just now editing a chapter on sour milk and to publish it in the form of a little pamphlet. While I am not sure that I shall satisfy all the persons who have addressed me, I at least shall have the satisfaction of explaining to them all I have learned of this question so interesting to them.



SCRUBBING AND GROOMING A COW FOR USE IN PROF METCHNIKOFF'S EXPERIMENTS.

Persons who for any reason cannot drink milk, or to whom it is exceedingly distasteful, can take the lacto bacillus in pure culture. But since the microbes in question require sugar to produce the essential lactic acid, it is necessary to eat it in conjunction with some saccharine food, as cakes, bonbons or beets.

To the layman who has little information upon this subject it is astounding perhaps that any one should advocate the absorption of a great quantity of microbes, for the general opinion is that all microbes are in themselves meretricious and injurious.

That is, however, an absolute error. On the contrary, many microbes are very useful, and among them the lactic family of bacteria occupy in the front rank the place of honor. It follows, therefore, that we may seek to remedy certain maladies by the use of these bacterial cultures. M. Bridinsky has employed for the cure of certain intestinal affections as food these cultures of lactic microbes, and Dr. Tissier has made much use of them in the treatment of diseases of the digestive tubes in infants and adults.

Kills the Old Age Microbe.

In following out the problem of the use of sour milk in constant practice it has been found that there are inconveniences attending the milk prepared exclusively with the Bulgarian bacillus. The Bulgarian bacillus, while far the best producer of lactic acid, causing an effective fermentation in a few hours, sometimes attacks the fats contained in the milk, causing an unpleasant taste of suet. To remedy this defect it has been found necessary to associate with the Bulgarian another lactic microbe chosen from among those that are innocuous to man.

All sour milks prepared with boiled milk have this inconvenience that they are produced with yeasts which, besides useful lactic microbes, contain others that are indifferent or even harmful. Therefore it has been found necessary to modify this method of preparation and instead of it to introduce other microbes and mix them with the pure cultures of lactic microbes. Since researches of the regretted Huepel have shown that one of the bacilli isolated from the yahourth of Bulgarian origin is liable to produce very strong lactic fermentation, it is very natural to try to prepare with pure cultures the sour milk.

But it matters not what other microbes, if beneficent, since for prolonged usage the consumption of too much fatty material is not desirable. It is therefore necessary to skim the milk to remove the cream. After having been boiled and cooled the milk is sprinkled with pure cultures in quantities sufficient to prevent the germination of spores contained in the milk and which are not destroyed in the process of boiling. According to the temperature, the fermentation continues a number of hours more or less, and ends in a curdled milk agreeable to the taste and capable of preventing intestinal putrefaction.

This milk consumed in a ration of one to one and a half pints a day, regularizes the intestinal functions and exercises favorable action upon the kidneys. It has been recognized as a cure for many troubles of the digestive tube and maladies of the skin and bladder.

Native African Centenarians

Since many tribes and peoples who have lived to an extreme old age have subsisted in part, or wholly, upon sour milk, using it as both food and medicine, we may conclude that it will have a beneficial effect upon others.

In Egypt, from earliest antiquity, the milk of the buffalo, cow and goat has been a common article of diet known as lebeurah. On the Balkan peninsula, yahourth, a fermented milk, is in general use as food. The natives of Algeria depend for daily diet largely upon leben, a fermented milk. In Russia sour milk is consumed in great quantities in two forms. First, the prosto kwacha, uncooked milk, which is not used until it coagulates, or grows sour. The second sort, varenets, is milk which is sprinkled, while the milk is boiling, a strong yeast used in making the sour bread of that country.

To the black tribes of Central Africa sour milk serves the double purpose of food and medicine. Among the Mveseni curded milk in almost solid form is the principal food. The Assonnes, dwellers upon the Mvassa-Tananyika Plateau, likewise the Zulus and Owankandis, take milk only in the state of fresh cheese. With this they mix salt and allspice and feel in its consumption all the pleasure of the epicure.

I learn from M. L. De Lima that among the Massamedas of Western Africa, natives of the region south of the Angola, nourish themselves almost exclusively on milk. The cream they rub upon their skin to soften it, quite as Caucasian women use cosmetics, while the milk that has become sour they use for food.

M. Nogueira has written us of his astonishment after long absences on returning to African regions not visited for many years to recognize in many of the Massandes the same natives whom he remembered as of an advanced age. Although a long time had elapsed, the patriarchal natives bore upon their bodies no further trace of the ravages of time. They were remarkably preserved and showed almost no signs of senility. De Lima on his part, declared that among the natives of the region south of Angola "many indicated extraordinary longevity, although dried and thin. The old men were very agile and capable of long voyages."

The fact that so many populations have made habitual use of sour milk as almost their sole food, guarantees its utility. But there are many instances of its use and the amazing effects among individuals. A Bulgarian student at Geneva, M. Grigorie, was astonished to encounter a large number of centenarians in one region of Bulgaria in which sour milk, known there as yahourth, comprised the sole nutriment. The census enumeration shows that in Bulgaria and all other countries where there are many centenarians sour milk was almost the sole food.

The case of Marie Prion, spinster of Haut-Garonne, France, who died in 1838 at the age of 158 years, having preserved all her faculties to that almost incredible age, is a notable one. She had subsisted the last ten years of her life upon nothing but cheese and goat's milk.

The laborer, Ambroise Zuntet, of Verdun, France, who died at the age of 111 years, ate nothing but unleavened rye bread and drank nothing but water and whey.

Still Active at 180.

The woman, Nicole Marc, died at the chateau of Colemberg, a hunchback and cripple, at the age of one hundred and ten years. She had existed all her life on bread and milk, and only in the latter months of her long life was prevailed upon by friends to take a little wine.

We owe to the kindness of M. Stefamine, an engineer of the Caucasus, the following incident taken from the Tiflisky Listok, published October 8, 1904. In the village of Sba, in the district of Gori, there is still living a woman, Theuset Abalva, aged one hundred and eighty years, hardy enough to be able to do her housework and ordinary sewing. Although bent, she walks with a sure step. She has never used any alcoholic drinks. She rises at six every morning and her principal nourishment consists of rye bread and sour buttermilk.

Sterilizing the Milk to Drive Out Harmful Germs Before Introducing the Harmless Lacto-Bacillus and Allowing the Milk to Become Sour.

An American woman, Mrs. Jennie Reed, has written me of her father, a man of eighty years, who owes his excellent health to having drunk curdled milk for the last forty years.

We are now prepared to provide a preparation with the aid of bacteria to the exclusion of all fermentation by a conjunction of the lactic bacteria. Sometimes there have been taken through the mouth the pure Bulgarian cultures supplemented by certain quantities of milk, sugar or saccharine.

In the course of seven years' practice I used first the sour milk prepared with boiled milk, sprinkled with acid yeast. Since I have modified the method until I finally arrived at this mode of introducing the pure cultures by way of the mouth.

My collaborators and myself are gratified by the results obtained and we think that our long experience justifies our opinion. Many of our friends who have suffered from intestinal or kidney troubles, have [illegible] and been completely satisfied with the result of the treatment. We have concluded that in the struggle against intestinal putrefaction the seat of most diseases including the disease of old age, the lactic bacteria can render service undeniable and incontestable.

Colors That Are Like Deadly Poison to Microbes.

THE deadly microbe has found a new "enemy." Recent investigations made by many eminent French scientists, beginning with Deycke, go to show that it is possible to rid ourselves of microbes by painting the walls with particular colors.

The experiments made by Deycke in the first instance proved that the pathogenic germ applied to a wall painted with amphiboline lost its toxic properties.

Spreading paint on pieces of board or glass or cement he placed a culture of cholera microbe on the surface. The paint being removed and placed in a Bouillon tube was then examined and not a trace of bacillus was found.

Lo Bosco and Lydia [illegible] devoting their study to [illegible] found that, influence of enamelling colors; neither the tuberculosis germ, cholera vibrio or diphtheria bacillus being found.

Slower in their action on the typhoid bacillus and the microbe of suppuration, the colors were none the less effective, these microbes disappearing on the fourth day.

With the oil colors the effects were less rapid, but equally powerful.

The efforts of Dr. Beaudin, of the Faculty of Paris, to determine the precise power of the respective colors produced only a negative result. But the result of his extended experiments so far would indicate that ultramarine blue, destroying the germs within twenty-four hours, is perhaps most rapid in its effects, the pro [illegible] being the most vulnerable object of attack.

The results on the gray paint were almost negative, while it took the maroon paint fourteen days to kill the microbe.

HOW THE CATERPILLAR CHANGES HIS COAT.

No. 6—Free at Last. The Caterpillar Posing in Its New Spring Coat.

GORGEOUS NEW COAT OF FULL GROWN CATERPILLAR

THE very remarkable and instructive photographs reproduced on this page were posed for by a tiny caterpillar during the interesting process of discarding an old, worn-out coat for a bright new one.

The caterpillar is a vain and [illegible] little creature in the matter of its clothes. It is never so happy as when wearing a bright and gaudy, tight fitting garment of the most fashionable hue. To satisfy this vanity it gets four or five new coats every Summer.

When a caterpillar thinks that it is time for him to have a nice new coat he does not bother his head about a tailor or the price; he just crawls up a small bush and selects a twig which will suit him.

Here he spins a soft, filmy white gauze mattress and into the meshes of this he fixes the tiny hooks of his claspers. Knowing that there is some hard work ahead of him, he takes a nap which lasts sometimes twelve hours, sometimes as long as two whole days. Then the caterpillar is ready.

The first thing he does when he is awake is to feel about him. At once he notices that his old coat has shrivelled and shrunken until it is now far too small for him. It really pinches him just as does a coat which fits too tightly under the arms. In the same way that a man squirms under that condition, trying in vain to adjust the coat to his body, the caterpillar writhes and wriggles backward and forward and then sidewise.

In a time, depending upon how fragile the old coat has become, it commences to split a little down the back at the head. But before it does this the caterpillar has reared his head in a sphinx like attitude. The skin which is now shrivelled, becomes loosened by the contraction of the muscles as the insect draws the fore part of his body higher and higher, and slips from the head, and then begins to split open.

That moment the caterpillar begins to squirm harder than ever. With every movement of its body the little slit it has torn along the back of its old coat grows longer. Soon he manages to get his head and the first three pairs of legs out of the old coat which he works downward by his struggles.

The skin, or coat, keeps on splitting down the back as the caterpillar works more of its body out and gets other pairs of legs free until in a very few minutes none but his long hind legs are encased in the old coat. Another violent and more prolonged effort than any before and Mr Caterpillar is free and stands panting and resting upon his [illegible] tired indeed, but exceedingly well satisfied with himself.

Often the very first thing that the well-clad insect does after changing his coats is to turn right around and make a hearty meal off the discarded garment—poor taste, some may say, but the way the caterpillar acts while he is eating his old coat shows that he thinks that it makes a very pleasant breakfast after his nap and hard struggle to get free from it.

Professor Raymond Jones, the eminent British naturalist, who took the pictures which are reproduced with this article, says: "It was not easy to judge exactly when a caterpillar would commence to moult, and many attempts to obtain photographs resulted in failure from one cause or another. I would place in position a caterpillar which appeared to be ready to moult, and have camera and plates prepared and the specimen carefully focussed, then, while waiting, I would have the mortification of seeing others, which had not appeared so forward, cast their skins; or, waiting and watching an hour or so, I might be called away for a few minutes, and return to find my 'sitter' had completed its moult. However, this all makes for the sport of nature photography, and I was rewarded at last, for directly I had focussed the caterpillar shown in the pictures it commenced the moult."

Why So Many Husbands Imagine They Married the "Wrong Girl."

NEARLY every unmarried man you know, however he has failed at other jobs, flatters himself that he would be a success as a husband. Later on a large number change their minds. They are not successes. The vast majority who recognize that fact assert that the failure is all owing to one thing—they would have been the most excellent husbands on earth only they committed the mistake of marrying the wrong girl.

The governor of one of the largest prisons in the country told a friend that he once had a convict in his charge whose conduct at times was remarkably bad. This prisoner in extenuation, pleaded that his depravity arose from a hasty and unhappy marriage. His wife was to blame for it. It turned out, upon inquiry, that the convict had been married just three days before he was arrested for the burglary that procured him ten years in prison.

That man is an example of the lengths some married men will go in ascribing failure to the influence of their wives.

"You are happily married," an acquaintance murmured to Lord Beaconsfield, "but I married the wrong woman."

"Good heavens!" exclaimed Lord Beaconsfield, in those cold, petrifying tones of his which sent shivers down the back of the person to whom they were addressed. "Whatever induced you to commit such a ridiculous and reprehensible error?"

It is very possible that a large number of men really do marry the wrong women, but in the vast majority of these cases the woman has married the wrong man, and any other woman who had married him would have found herself in the same predicament.

Not long ago, in a law court, a man who had "married the wrong woman" informed the judge that her temper was so bad that they quarrelled even before they rose in the morning. These early dissensions so disturbed his equanimity that he was good for nothing for his day's work when he arrived at his office.

"She used to complain that the ash of my cigar burned holes in the sheets and blankets," he said.

Now a man who commences life in the morning by smoking a strong cigar in bed while he reads the newspaper, and who neglects the ash to the danger of cremating his wife, has, if she does not enjoy it and complains, certainly married the wrong woman. Whether he could ever find the right woman is another matter.

The very idea that a husband has duties and responsibilities which may be hard of performance does not really occur to him when he is thinking of making "the best girl in the world" his, nor does it easily suggest itself to him after that event.

How many of his bachelor habits will he be content to lop off? With all respect to bachelors, they are inclined to have their little eccentricities, which will not conduce to matrimonial felicity if persevered in after marriage.

"My dear sir," exclaimed a man who was contemplating matrimony, to a friend, who had just pointed out a dozen or so little failings which had marked his career as a bachelor, "do not think that I'm fool enough not to see, as clearly as the nose on my face, that I must give up all that kind of thing."

He was quite annoyed when it was suggested that he begin at once to see how life would be.

"That's nonsense," he declared, irritably. "When a man's married things are different."

The only difference there seems to be is that he has 'married the wrong girl.'

Marriage does not make a man industrious, economical or temperate. It does not work miracles. The love for a girl has worked them, but a man loves a girl before he marries her, and the miracle is worked before matrimony, if at all.

The first step to being a success as a husband is being a success as a bachelor in a few of the virtues a husband will have to exercise. They should begin to receive his attention at least as soon as he is engaged.

"An Indian Charge," Painted by Frederic Remington.

"AN Indian Charge," the spirited composition of Frederic Remington, which is reproduced on the front page of this section of the Sunday American and Journal by permission of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, represents the artist and writer in what is probably the most important work of his brilliant career.

This is the Remington story, with Remington pictures, entitled "The Way of an Indian," now running as a serial in the Cosmopolitan—a feature which would distinguish any magazine in the world. It is a story for which no other living man could supply the true atmosphere in both text and illustrations, for Remington has made himself recognized the world over as the one undisputed authority on the wild life of the great West which the encroachments of civilization have now so nearly obliterated.

This Cosmopolitan series, together with his previous writings, and his grand gallery of groups and types of all the human and animal figures belonging to the life of the plains, will make Frederic Remington even more esteemed by posterity than by his own grateful generation.

Mr. Remington has written how he came to make this field his own. This was nearly twenty years ago:

"I was in the grand, silent country following my own inclinations, but there was a heavy [illegible] in the atmosphere. I did not immediately see what it portended, but it gradually obtruded itself. The times had changed.

"I knew the railroad was coming. I saw men already swarming into the land. I knew the derby hat, the smoking chimneys, the cord binder and the thirty day note were upon us in a resistless surge. I knew the wild riders and the vacant land were about to vanish forever, and the more I considered the subject the bigger the Forever loomed.

Without knowing exactly how to do it, I began to record some facts around me, and the more I looked the more the panorama unfolded."

How Remington has perpetuated that "panorama," the public has learned from the periodicals and daily newspapers all over the world in which his drawings and descriptions of cowboy and Indian life have appeared. The broncho, wild and tamed; the buffalo, the "cow-puncher" at work and at play, Indians friendly and hostile, and the United States troops maintained in the West on their account—even every characteristic bit of those almost virgin landscapes his accurate and fluent pencil has preserved.

When Remington, with a well-filled portfolio, returned to [illegible] jaded and cynical civilization, [illegible] his subject, but [illegible] nor his work. But [illegible] had only to spread out [illegible] on the desk of the first publisher, he listed the rich contents of that portfolio [illegible] the biggest audience ever won by a young artist was assured to him.

After that, from the standpoint of civilization, the West and all its wild life belonged to Remington—the subject was his property. He rode with celebrated army officers in Indian campaigns; he camped with Indians, learning their lore while fixing them in black and white and in color; he chummed with cowboy outfits on remote ranches, and did the same for them in a way that disarmed their technical and usually free criticism.

The horse and his rider with their equipment, plainsmen in all their aspects, soldiers from every point of view—no one has portrayed them with such fidelity as Remington has. He has lived on most intimate terms with and had the confidence of all of them. During the war in Cuba an army officer owed his life to the artist, who, as a correspondent, was riding with him into the thick of the fight.

Yet there is more to come, for Remington has written.

"Art is a she devil of a mistress, and if at times in earlier days she would not even stoop to my way of thinking, I have persevered and will so continue."

In the meantime you will make a great mistake if you miss such pleasure and enlightenment as are contained in Mr. Remington's Cosmopolitan Magazine serial, "The Way of an Indian."

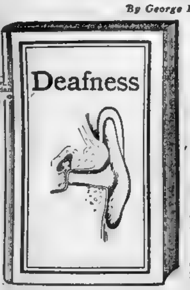
The "EAR-BOOK"
For Deaf People

By George H. Wilson



SUPPOSE you knew a man who had been Deaf for twenty years?

Suppose you met him today, and found he could hear every whisper you spoke to him?

Suppose you enquired about him, and found that he was one of the most reliable, and responsible, citizens of Louisville, whose word could be absolutely trusted.

Wouldn't you want that man to tell you just how he got back his full Hearing after twenty years of Deafness?

Wouldn't you want to know some of the things he found out about the Ear and about Deafness, in fifteen years study of both, and of his own case?

• • •

Well,—that is just what George H. Wilson of Louisville, Ky., tells in his 200 page "Ear Book."

Mr. Wilson is almost as well known in Louisville as Marshall Field is in Chicago, or John Wanamaker in Philadelphia.

And, he was, for twenty years, almost the Deafest man in his native city.

Any one of the thousands who know him today will certify that his Hearing is now as sharp as their own.

Few men have studied the Ear so earnestly, and thoroughly, as Mr. Wilson had to do, for his own sake.

What he positively knows about Deafness is personal and practical.

It is not mere book knowledge, but the actual facts tested out by his own hard experience.

"The Wilson Ear Book" therefore should be read by every man or woman, who has Ear trouble,—who is Deaf, or threatened with Deafness.

This "Ear Book" will be sent Free to any Doctor, or other person, who will clip out this advertisement and send us, with it, the name and address of one Deaf person in his locality. Address—

BOXERS AGAIN SHARPEN SWORDS FOR MASSACRE

EUROPEAN and American governments recognize that another and doubtless infinitely more formidable "Boxer" outbreak faces them in China. To combat it, rescue the foreigners and if possible put off the fulfilment of Sir Robert Hart's sinister prophecy, the Powers are holding forces in readiness for prompt ac[illegible]

The United States is collecting troops in the Philippines ready to sail at forty-eight hours' notice for China. England, Germany, France, Italy, Austria and even Russia are prepared to land a small allied army of marines, infantry and artillery. Japan is relied upon for the main support in the first stage of the expected trouble.

The dreaded Boxer organization is apparent in all parts of China in which the white man has any hold. The strange symptoms of this patriotic order are seen daily with greater frequency than before the siege of the legations in 1900.

As the foreigner passes through a Chinese street he sees a native here and there look fixedly at him, turn and bow to the southeast. After this he rolls his eyes and recites certain mystical sentences. These said, the Chinaman closes his eyelids and sinks slowly over on his back. A stranger would think an epidemic of epilepsy was spreading among the natives. The Boxer rises from the ground after a short interval seemingly of hypnotic trance, with glazed and staring eyes and the belief that he is temporarily immune to the weapons of the "foreign devil."

Nothing prevents him from attacking at once save the discipline of his order, which demands that he wait until the time is ripe. The failure of the former movement is attributed by the Chinese to its prema[illegible]

It is the boast of every Chinese family that every male adult has at least one respectable weapon. Far away from the white man, the Chinese father produces with great pride the old-fashioned revolver, or it may be only a target pistol, which he has spent a year's savings for. But they are not all old-fashioned. Many a first-class rifle, as good as those of some European armies, lies carefully oiled and hidden in towns which the white man has never seen.

Russian army rifles and condemned French arms of all kinds are known to be scattered all over China. With every weapon there is a supply of ammunition. Not enough for a battle, perhaps, but sufficient for practice and for a skirmish. Ammunition in plentiful quantities will doubtless be supplied by the Government or the Boxer organization when the time comes. The British, who succeed best in understanding and appreciating the Chinaman, have learned of the presence of these arms.

The Chinese citizen, by religion and centuries of habit, is averse to war. He is against violence and disorder of any kind, and with the inertia of centuries behind him would not perform such a difficult and, to him, expensive task as the private arming of the nation except for a tremendous cause. The spirit of deadly hatred which diplomats refer to as "irritation" cannot be hidden, even by the naturally secretive Chinaman.

In as safe a city as Shanghai it is not safe for a white man to walk alone in a side street. Two men, especially if armed, may walk with safety but hardly with comfort. Windows open suddenly, fiendish yellow faces protrude and spit in the foreigners' faces. From upper back windows bad eggs, vegetables and filth are thrown, as well as occasionally more dangerous missiles.

The old absurd stories about missionaries are being industriously circulated. Tons of inflammatory literature is printed daily in the form of circulars in Chinese and distributed throughout the empire. These pretend to describe how the missionaries gouge out the eyes of their converts and boil them, together with certain mysterious chemicals, until diamonds and other jewels are formed. These the missionaries are supposed to sell at a high price in Europe and America.

This, they claim, is the object in winning converts and in establishing hospitals.

Outbreak Likely to Succeed.

The anti-American boycott and the recent murder of the missionaries at Lienchau are considered the preliminary throes of the anti-"foreign devil" volcano which most students of the Orient expect to see burst forth at any moment. The legations were able to hold out during their eight weeks' siege by the secret aid of Li Hung Chang. This statesman, as was discovered long afterward, managed to have the siege so misconducted that attacks were not made at the right moment nor pressed home. While seemingly having the orders of the court carried out and causing an immense amount of ammunition to be expended, he really saved the white man from a horrible death and his country from the vengeance of the Powers.

The supply of guns and the organization of the people are much greater in these days, and it is not to be conceived that anything less than a fortress could withstand a week's siege. No Chinese official would dare even if he cared to intervene. A simultaneous organized attack on the foreigners could hardly fail to succeed in its purpose.

Sir Robert Hart, who was in the famous eight weeks' siege of the legations and for twenty-five years previous had guided the affairs of the Chinese Empire as much as a European could, said in 1900 that the fate of the foreigner in China was sealed.

"The Boxer patriot of the future," said he, "will have the best weapons money can buy and then the Yellow Peril will be beyond ignoring. Wen Hsiang, the celebrated Prime Minister of China, during the minority of Tung Chih in the early sixties, often said: 'You are all too anxious to awake us and start us on a new road, and you will do it; but you will all regret it for, once awakened and started we shall go fast and far—farther than you think—much farther than you like.' His words are very true.

"I believe that China will imperil the world's future, and doubtless the words will provoke a laugh—well, let them do so—but let them stand! Twenty millions or more of Boxers, armed, drilled, disciplined and animated by patriotic, if mistaken, motives, will make residence in China impossible for the foreigner." They will take back from the foreigner everything he has taken from them, and China will pay off old grudges with interest and will carry the Chinese flag and the Chinese arms to places that even fancy will not suggest to-day. Thus China is preparing for the future upheavals and catastrophes never dreamed of."

The Boxer organization is now generally recognized to be the creature of the Chinese Government, which has studied the standing armies of the Powers through China's foreign representatives and decided that a volunteer army would suit their needs better than anything else. The Boxers are a volunteer army who offer their services and their lives for only one purpose—that of driving the foreign devil from Chinese soil. Being a national and patriotic body, it will not support or help put down uprisings among the Chinese. The Government has to rely on its own regulars for such matters.

"China for the Chinese."

The motto of the Boxers has always been "China for the Chinese." In the first year of its existence the organization proposed to frighten the foreigners out of China by threats and slight violence, but without killing. But the white man refused to be frightened. Now the plan is extermination of those who refuse to flee.

The converted Chinaman is hated even more than the white Christian, as shown by the massacres of converts during the Boxer uprising.

The chief obstacle to the spread of the Boxer society has been the deeply implanted respect for the white man's guns, ships and armies. Every Chinaman believes in his heart that the white man is a menace and a humiliation to China, but he feared it was useless to raise his hand, unskilled as he was, against him.

Japan's series of victories over Russia have wiped away most of this fear. China regards Japan as her equal in many ways, but inferior in size and the consequent reserve of power.

Chinese newspapers giving real information of the outside world are springing up all over China, and their circulations are growing astonishingly. Through these papers it is dawning upon the Chinese mind that their land contains all the coal, oil and metals needed for great wealth and power.

Not so long ago they knew that Japan started in to learn the white man's game of war. "If Japan could learn it China could," they thought, and watched. When they saw that Japan had thoroughly whipped the biggest country in Europe, they were convinced that China had but to learn and buy and build and she could, if necessary, whip all Europe.

Though China has the highest respect for our enlightenment in material ways, she hates us most of all the Powers. After the Boxer outbreak our nation was the most popular because our soldiers had done least looting. Our missionaries are held to be responsible for the hatred by many people. Others blame it to discourtesies of our immigration officials, who are not always able to distinguish between a high caste Chinese merchant and a despised coolie in disguise.

The Chinese regulars are being drilled by Japanese officers in the employ of the Celestial Government. There is no reason to doubt that under such drilling the Chinese soldier will be fully equal to the European. Theoretically he will surpass the Jap. He is physically a better specimen and is abstemious in his drinks. The European and American soldier drinks pretty generally, and so does the Mikado's fighting man. The Japanese, however, does all his carousing in his times of ease, and on the battlefield is as abstemious as the Chinaman.

The Chinese army no longer relies on antiquated weapons, noise and mystic gords, but on the latest firearms and Japanese military tactics.

The patriotic spirit which stirred the colonists to throw off England's yoke can hardly be compared with the deeply implanted hatred of the foreigner in Chinese minds.

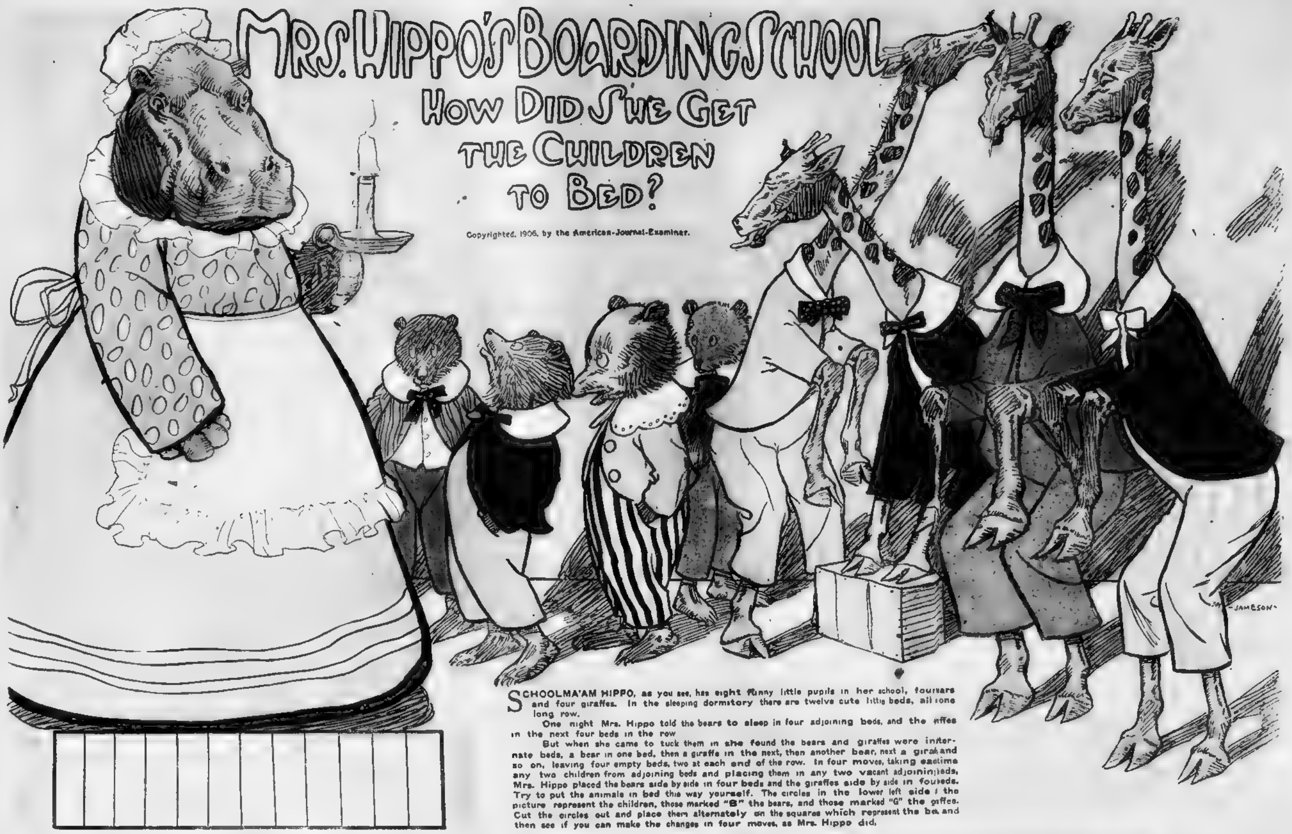
MRS. HIPPO'S BOARDING SCHOOL

HOW DID SHE GET THE CHILDREN TO BED?

Copyrighted, 1906, by the American-Journal-Examiner.



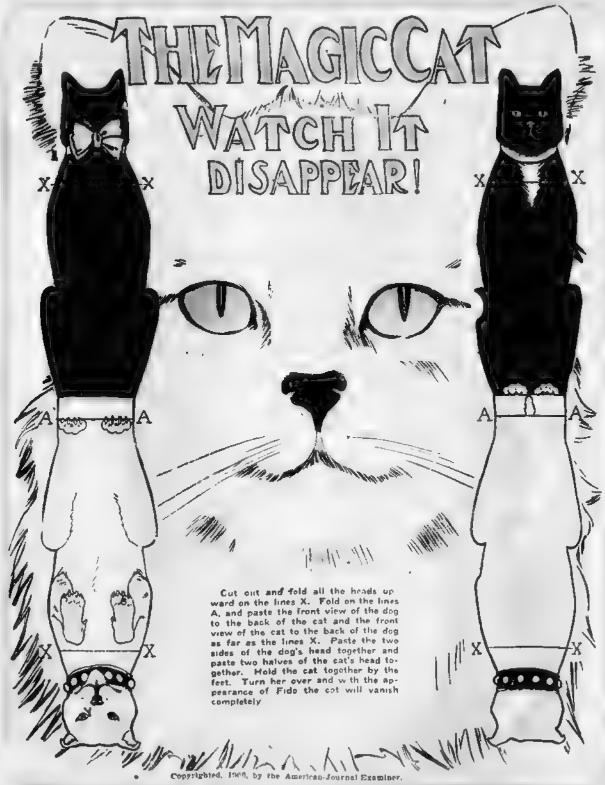
SCHOOLMA'AM HIPPO, as you see, has eight funny little pupils in her school, four bears and four giraffes. In the sleeping dormitory there are twelve cute little beds, all in one long row.

One night Mrs. Hippo told the bears to sleep in four adjoining beds, and the giraffes in the next four beds in the row

But when she came to tuck them in she found the bears and giraffes were in alternate beds, a bear in one bed, then a giraffe in the next, then another bear, next a giraffe and so on, leaving four empty beds, two at each end of the row. In four moves, taking each time any two children from adjoining beds and placing them in any two vacant adjoining beds, Mrs. Hippo placed the bears side by side in four beds and the giraffes side by side in four beds. Try to put the animals in bed this way yourself. The circles in the lower left side of the picture represent the children, those marked "B" the bears, and those marked "G" the giraffes. Cut the circles out and place them alternately on the squares which represent the beds and then see if you can make the changes in four moves, as Mrs. Hippo did.

THE MAGIC CAT

WATCH IT DISAPPEAR!



Cut out and fold all the heads upward on the lines X. Fold on the lines A, and paste the front view of the dog to the back of the cat and the front view of the cat to the back of the dog as far as the lines X. Paste the two sides of the dog's head together and paste two halves of the cat's head together. Hold the cat together by the feet. Turn her over and with the appearance of Fido the cat will vanish completely by Sam Loyd.

Can You Help the Little Fishes to Escape?

Here are two little fishes who have been caught in a fisherman's net. To get out they must cross through the net, swimming from the right to the left hand side. Of course they will try to get out by cutting their way through the fewest possible number of strands. The fishes can easily do this by making fourteen cuts. Can you do it in twelve?

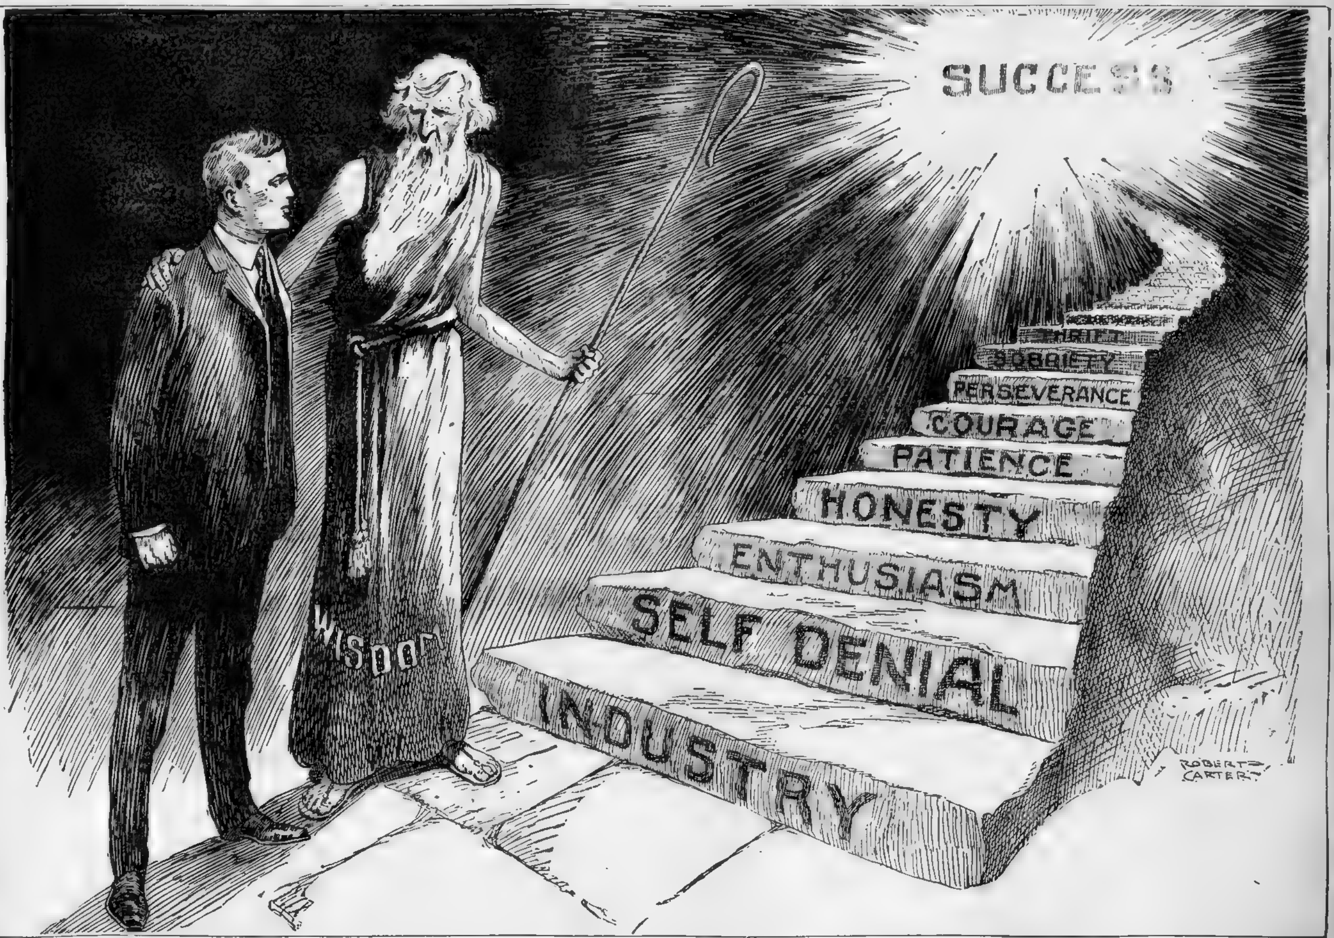
You Must Do Your Own Climbing



Up these steps lies the road that every young man would take. There is no going up two steps at a time. The steps are high, broad. And the climb is a long one—to REAL SUCCESS

THIS is the country of success, and we hear endless talk about it.

These talks vary from simple advice concerning a man like Lincoln, who had only a few books and a few chances, but made the best use of them he could, all the way up the complicated recipes for succeeding that are given out by the gentlemen of the insurance companies and the get-rich schemes.

This newspaper has discussed success often, yet it takes the subject up again to-day, for the young men among our readers, and the young women as well, are writing constantly for advice or for suggestions.

* * *

The picture that we publish is a good one to study. The steps in the staircase that leads up to the bright light are well named. Not all the steps are there—but every one that you see you must ascend TO ACHIEVE THE REAL SUCCESS reached by only a few.

Certain men whom we call successful, by which we mean that they have got MONEY, have succeeded without the quality of industry. They are the gamblers, the Wall Street geniuses, or others who with tricks have got the better of their fellow men, BUT THEY ARE NOT SUCCESSFUL.

Men of the same stamp have succeeded, even without sobriety or honesty.

But even such success as theirs demands certain qualities. They must have, for instance, at least temporarily, SELF-DENIAL. They must know how to hold themselves back, husband their resources, keep themselves in hand until they shall have achieved the particular object or the particular sum which they had in mind.

* * *

To tell a young man that he NEEDS certain qualities is wasting his time and your own—except as you may direct his attention TO THE POSSIBILITY OF DEVELOPING IN HIMSELF the essentials of success.

The late Collis P. Huntington, asked to advise a young man, said: "Take ten thousand dollars and go into the business of raising rubber trees." The young man did not have ten thousand dollars.

Mr. Huntington said: "Well, go and get it before you come to me for advice."

The great railroad man's attitude is very much like that of the ORDINARY adviser of the young. He says: "Be honest, be industrious, be self-denying, be courageous, patient, sober"—but he does not tell him how he CAN BE these things.

To make a real success you must have first of all INDUSTRY—the faculty for hard work. That quality is greater than all others put together. AND YOU CAN CULTIVATE THAT QUALITY IN YOURSELF.

Map out what you are going to do each day, AND DO IT. Never let yourself get into the habit of leaving a thing UNFINISHED. It is hard, for some it is almost impossible. But if you WILL IT you can make yourself a hard worker eventually. You must do that—that is the FIRST step to the real success.

SELF-DENIAL is especially a matter of self-education.

Instead of putting your mind on the question, "How can I amuse myself or dress myself," say to yourself, WHAT CAN I DO WITHOUT?

Self-denial is not important simply because it saves your money—it is especially important BECAUSE IT SAVES YOUR TIME AND VITALITY. Sobriety is, of course, a part of self-denial. If you don't smoke excessively or at all, if you don't drink excessively or at all—you save money and you save vitality. If you don't pay foolish attention to dress—only neatness and common sense are necessary to success—you save the time and the thought that many men put on worthless worrying about their personal appearance.

The most important in the line of self-denial, perhaps, is TO MAKE YOURSELF NOT WORRY ABOUT WHAT OTHERS THINK OF YOU. Try to earn the approval of those who are worth while and dismiss from your mind the opinion of the crowd that means nothing to you and can do nothing for you. More men waste time and energy and worry on the opinions of others than would make them successful if they could be indifferent to public opinion.

* * *

Enthusiasm is one of the great factors in success. It is important especially BECAUSE IT HELPS A MAN TO GET A START. Unfortunately, enthusiasm is one of the qualities most difficult to cultivate. It is almost a part of a man's own self, like his dark hair, or regular features, or wide shoulders. Yet even enthusiasm CAN be cultivated, and it should be cultivated.

Begin by getting out of your mind the critical, complaining, dissatisfied feelings. That is like pulling the weeds out of a field.

If you can get out of your own brain the foolish feeling of complaint, of mortified vanity, you will be clearing the field for enthusiasm to grow.

Enthusiasm is largely a matter of vitality, health and strength.

Get up in the morning after eight hours' good sleep and you will be enthusiastic—ready to attack any proposition. Get up with five hours' sleep and a night foolishly spent—and you will have no STRENGTH for enthusiasm. Cultivate your strength, save it, and train yourself to look enthusiastically and hopefully at the world, scorning its difficulties.

Honesty has been talked of incessantly ever since the writing of the Ten Commandments, and long before. There are many false reputations and not a few big fortunes built ON DISHONESTY. There are some men who might have been rich if they had been dishonest, but who are poor now. But be sure that REAL success comes only to the honest man, to the man who thinks, and works, AND TREATS OTHER MEN HONESTLY.

Patience and courage are two names for the same quality. To get up and go on after you have fallen down a hundred times requires patience and courage. You are bound to slip, fall and hurt yourself climbing these steps. Your journey will end if you have not the patience and determination to keep at it, and there comes in perseverance, the quality that keeps the man in the line that he has picked out and prevents him from turning off in some road that looks easier and leads nowhere.

Sobriety and thrift go together. Many a man climbs the first steps, and after a little encouragement, a little success, falls to rise no more on one of those two steps, "sobriety and thrift." The man who cannot keep sober is done for. The man who cannot save his money, thereby making himself independent of others and preventing himself from being pulled down will find it hard to go very far.

* * *

What we would most earnestly impress upon the young man is this: You must study your OWN character and find out your OWN weaknesses. You must make up your OWN mind what qualities are necessary to push you ahead, and then CULTI*VATE* them.

Whatever you do HAS GOT TO BE DONE ABSOLUTELY BY THE EXERCISE OF YOUR OWN WILL POWER. IF YOU DECEIVE YOURSELF, BLAMING OTHERS INSTEAD OF YOURSELF, YOU WILL NEVER GET AHEAD. YOU MUST BE YOUR OWN MOST SEVERE JUDGE. Remember that it is not sufficient to WISH for success or to ADMIRE the qualities that make success. You must develop those qualities and use them.

There is one feature of real success about which we shall say a little. That is UNSELFISHNESS. It is the greatest and highest quality of all—*al*though the usual talkers on success do no mention it. *Unselfish*ness enters into our modern calculations but little. Yet any man who would be truly great in his achievements must have for inspiration an unselfish desire to be of use to other men. He may pile up millions, but he will not be one of the world's really great men unless guided by the consciousness that man's first duty and last duty is to try to make others better off and happier for his having lived on the earth.

The names that live and are remembered are not those of millionaires or others that have simply benefit*ed* THEMSELVES. When this period of time shall have drifted into the past, when it shall be in men's eyes as musty as the days of Babylon—what will remain, what will have value except the work of those men whose work consisted IN HELPING OTHER MEN!

WHEN from the prison of its body free,
My soul shall soar, before it goes to Thee,
Thou great Creator, give it power to know
The language of all sad, dumb things below.
And let me dwell a season still on earth
Before I rise to some diviner birth—
Invisible to men, yet seen and heard
And understood by sorrowing beast and bird—
Invisible to men, yet always near,
To whisper counsel in the human ear,
And with a spell to stay the hunter's hand
And stir his heart to know and understand,
To plant within the dull or thoughtless mind
The great religious impulse, to be kind.

Before I prune my spirit wings and rise
To seek my loved ones in their paradise—
Yea! even before I hasten on to see
That lost child's face so like a dream to me,
I would be given this intermediate role,
And carry comfort to each poor dumb soul,
And bridge man's gulf of cruelty and sin
By understanding of his lower kin.
'Twixt weary driver and the straining steed
On wings of mercy would my spirit speed,
And each should know, before his journey's end,
That in the other dwelt a loving friend.

From zoo and jungle, and from cage and stall,
I would translate each inarticulate call,
Each pleading look, each frenzied act and cry,
And tell the story to each passer-by;
And of a spirit's privilege possessed,
Pursue indifference to its couch of rest,
And whisper in its ear until in awe
It woke and knew God's all-embracing law
Of Universal Life—the One in All.

Let There Be Light

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

THE most stubborn, unprogressive, conservative science on earth is the science of medicine.

The mind of the regular physician of the old school is closed to progression. With might and main, he combats any idea which does not originate with his school. He would let a patient die rather than see him saved by some impertinent newcomer with unorthodox ideas.

In olden days all human ailments were treated with bleeding and purging. Thousands and tens of thousands of sufferers were hurried into premature graves through the blind ignorance of physicians

In more modern times similar results have followed the free use of drugs and the surgeon's knife.

There has been for the last twenty years an increasing mania among physicians and surgeons to slash the human body and cut out various organs which were causing disturbance to the system

Civilized society is filled with men and women to-day who are physically incompetent beings, while the laboratory shelves of every fashionable physician give evidence of the mutilation to which patients have been subjected

Esculapius, Hippocrates and Galen, the ancient Greek physicians, were the fathers of medicine and surgery. The Arabians introduced chemistry into the practice. Bleeding was introduced at an early date and continued up to within fifty years. The next great event was the discovery of the circulation of the blood by Harvey. He was at the time, 1619, court physician to King James I. and professor of surgery in the Royal Medical College of London, England, which institution is still in existence.

His description of the mechanism of the heart and its action, forcing the blood through the body, was scoffed at by the profession.

He was maligned unmercifully, and it took him the best part of his life to regain the respect and confidence of his profession.

In the same way the regular school has met each progressive step in medicine. Homoeopathy was derided and abused and made its way through a path filled with roaring lions Osteopathy was insulted and ridiculed, and many of its practitioners were forced into courtrooms to substantiate their right to the name of physician. The homoeopathic school, which had suffered so much from "allopathy," is now united with its persecutor to "down" osteopathy.

But osteopathy did not, and will not, be "downed." It is, on the contrary, very much in evidence, and daily proving itself a blessing to humanity. The water curists, electricity and absorption were all steps forward in medical therapeutics, and were all violently attacked by the older schools. Now comes the latest and best of all—the "Light" treatment, and of course darkness is opposed to light, and the drug doctor and the surgeon with his whetted knife, aching for an operation, object to this newcomer in the world of science.

But the old schools practicing the giving of large quantities of drugs and the free use of surgery are on the wane, and a change is gradually being effected through the Light School of Medicine, which will be of great benefit to mankind in combating virulent and deadly forms of diseases which the older forms of practice are unable to combat.

Occasionally a progressive mind is found in the old ranks. I met an emancipated doctor recently who had given up drugs and knives in favor of light. He said in speaking of the matter:

"All light is simply borrowed from the sun, and the value of sunlight is beyond compare. Germ diseases lurking in the human system, multiplying in darkness, cannot bear the beams of light thrown upon them any more than the unhealthy mould and fungus growth, in a darkened room, can exist when the windows are thrown open and a flood of God's sunlight thrown in to purify and cleanse.

"Even the most dreadful of all diseases, cancers and tuberculosis, seem to recede under the powerfully purifying action of these internal sunbaths.

"The world is full of prejudice and bigotry still, and the active professional man either has no time to investigate the new order of things or is not broad enough to grasp them.

"Light is life, and if this fact is fully appreciated there will be fewer desolate firesides and broken homes than through the old order of practice and drugs. Ten operations are performed here to one in European countries, and the practice has become a menace and a fad."

Dr. Chisholm Williams of the West London Hospital reports ten cases of cancer cured by light. Scores of cases can be found here by those who care to investigate.

The mania of reputable surgeons and physicians to remove important organs from the human body is little less than criminal to-day. The science of the future will look upon the "operations" of this era with horror, much as the civilized nations regard cannibalism now. It is almost a necessity for a man who wishes to perpetuate his family name and blood to ask a woman before proposing marriage if she has been upon the operating table of any fashionable physician.

The number of young women who in early youth are rendered barren for life by these surgeons is appalling.

Not one case in one hundred is necessary

Other methods would have saved life and sex privileges.

I have known a woman who believed in the efficacy of water, given internally and externally, to save a sister woman from the knife, after a consultation of specialists had decided that an operation alone could keep her alive.

I have known many cases, after similar assertions, to be cured absolutely by light; others by osteopathy, others by absorption

With the discovery of the power of the violet ray and the Roentgen ray to drive out congestion and cure supposedly incurable maladies, without the aid of medicine and without the touch of the knife, it seems as if the divine command, let there be light, was about to be fully obeyed at last

A woman was recently carried into one of the institutions where light is used for disease, and in a few weeks relieved of a malady which five years ago would have necessitated an operation by skilled surgeons. I saw her convalescent and able to walk about, and overflowing with gratitude to God for his wonderful light, which science had turned to such blessed use

There is still a higher plane for humanity to reach; the plane where the light within each soul shall be able to cast out all disease and cure all indisposition.

Metaphysical science has made this possibility an established fact. But we are not all of us, or many of us, in truth, sufficiently well posted or sufficiently awakened to make use of the spiritual violet ray which lies in every mortal man and woman

Only now and then, and here and there, do we find one who has attained this goal; just as only here and there is a physician sufficiently advanced to employ light to cure disease.

By and by all reputable doctors will use it in place of medicine or the knife; and in a still later "by and by," the electric light will give place to the Spiritual Light, which is only a higher vibration of the same element. Meantime let the great truth be spread broadcast that not one invalid in one thousand to-day need subject himself or herself to an operation, if he or she will first investigate the power of Light to restore the body and its troublesome organs to a healthful state.

"Let there be light and there was light."

The Patriot

By Little Johnny

UNCLE NED he sed, Johnny, one time there was a grate poet.

Then I spoke up and sed, Did he draw his long sticker and heep the feeld with bettycomes of slain?

Uncle Ned he sed, Wel, no, I don't seem to reckolect that he did eny thing just like that, his way for to be usefle to his da and gennyrashon was to make rimes, but after he got dun makin a rime, I must confes that the feeld of onner was mity encumbered with bleedy parts of speetch. I kno you are parshel to tales of goar and glory, my boy, but this isent that kind of entainment. I was only a goin for to say that the grate poetry feller he wrote one day that the propper studdy of man kind is man, and I think there is sumthing in it, as was the last wurds of the chap wich lookt down the gun barel. The beest wich perrish and the berds of the foul air isnt the only things wich ot to ingage yure atenshion and interest. Frinstence, thare is the patriot

Then I sed Yesser, but I have wrote all about her. She can be told to tolk jest like yuman beings, and ses, Poly wants a cracker, real fine.

Uncle Ned he thot a wile and bime by he sed. This apears to be a case of mistaken identisty, tho thare certinly is a rezemble tween the pol parrot and the pol patriot, partickler in thair thinkin and in thair deploribble habbit of sayin wot your have got sick of hearin But the patriot he frequent makes the whelkin ring were as the uther sport she only but jest sreeks like lafture in a toom. Both is 2 leggers, but the patriots is hind ones, an wen he wants to think he mounts them like a step lader and does the trick with his tung, mity odible. In pint of apetite he sores superrier to eny thing wich breeds the breth of life. He eats wot ever it pleeses Profidence to profide and eats it all, were in he is like the ostridge of the desert and the domesticle hog. Sech is his luv of country that it takes 7 provinches for to alay his hungry.

I ast Uncle Ned did the patriot have wings, and he sed, Uncle Ned did. Wings, Johnny, are used for to go sum where. They take you from the place wich you are to the place wich you aint. But the patriot he isent migratory. He never wants to go very far from his place of bizness, wich is his mowth. Tru, I sed he sored, but that was a figger of speetch meanin that he arose above sech selfish considderashons as the public welfare and the good of the country. No, my boy, the patriot hasent eny wings. He stays rite by his job. He luvs his country as I sed afore, and it agrees with his digestion. He admires its instushions like thay was prety girls in wite muzlin gouns. Its pocket is the haven of his hand and the fat on his kidnys is public propperty deddicated to privit use.

But wot Uncle Ned ment by ol that rigmy role is wot flores me, and Billy he is the same way. And thats wy I say wizdom is the rut of all evel and flys from the rath to cum

And now Ile tel you a story. Ole Gaffer Peters he had a moltee cat, and the cat had a hole in its ear. One day it cum in to Mister Brilys meat shop, wich is the fat butcher, for to steal meat, and Jack Brily, wich is the wicked sailer, he cetched the cat and shut it up in a box wich cetches the ground up meat from the sossidge masheen. But ferst he cut of its ear wich had the hole in it. Ole Gaffer and his dotter, Missis Doppy, and little Sammy Doppys harts was most broke cos they had lost thair cat, but Jack he dident let on til bime by Missis Doppy cum in to the shop for to bi sossidge meat. Then Jack he sneeked the cat ear in to the sossidge meat and Missis Doppy she took the meat home. Next day she cum to the shop real mad and trembly and handed Jack the cat ear with a hole in it and sed, Yung man, do you kno wot that is?

Jack he lookt at it a long time, reel sollem, and then he sed, It looks like it mite be a wosher off of sum kind of a masheen. Ware did you get it?

Missis Doppy she sed, I got it out of my fry pan. You made our cat in to sossidge meat and we et sum of it.

Jest then ole Mister Brily cum in and ast wot was up, and wile Missis Doppy was a cryin and tellin him wot a mean man he was Jack sed, I dont se how the cat culd get in the masheen without our sein it, lets se if we can find the uther ear

So he opened the box of the grinder and the cat jumpt out and made a dash for the dore and most nockt Missis Doppy down and busted out of the shop like it was a wirl wind and skamperd up the street tord home, you never se sech a serkus! Missis Doppy she fainted ded away and ole Mister Brily he herld a beef bone at Jack, wich dodged and wolked away, a singin A Life on the Oshen Whave, a Hom on the Rolin Deap.

But Mister Gipple he ses it is whicked for to poke fun at the wimmen, cos thay cant poke back. The Bible it ses wooman was made in 6 days and arrested on the 7enth. And thats wy I say remember the Sabeth day for to keep it holy. My mother is a wooman, but Mister Pitchel he is a preecher and can pra real fine. But if me and Billy was preechers we wud rather be a piret, like Rinard, the Red Revenger, wich declaird wor with the whole wurld and had a nice cassel and no goin to skool.

Jack Brily ses one time wen he was a piret the ship he saild the ragin mane in over taked a uther ship and the captin of the pirets hollered, Lay to, or Ile sink you in to the boosem of the deep!

The captin of the uther ship hollered back, I dont like yure imperatif mood.

Then the captin of the pirets sed, Thats the way I hapen to be feelin to day and I aint no disembler.

The captin of the uther ship he sed, I mean I don't like yure grammer. If you want me to do eny thing you must ask me propperly, and say, Lie to. I ust to be a skool teecher fore I was a piret.

Then Jacks captin he hollered, Wot! are you a piret yure self? The last feller wich I haild was a Admiral, and the feller fore that had a cargo of cod fish. I never se sech gum dasted luck!

So Jack ses thay all went a shore and the captin becamed a financeer and was hanged in chanes.

The cat jumt out and made a dash for the dore and de ole Mister Brily he herld a beef bone at Jack wich dodged and walked a way.

Lay to, or he sink you in to the boosem of the deep!

WHO LOVES TO COOK BUT FINDS MORE MONEY IN ACTING

BY ELEANOR AMES

Marie Cahill as Artist Burgess saw her.

By Eleanor Ames

I FIND a noteworthy difference between Viola Allen and Marie Cahill.

Viola Allen will not discuss matrimony. She will neither mention it nor allow it to be mentioned in her presence.

Her manager told me so over the telephone, according to Miss Allen's emphatic order, and added that she would, however, tell me why she deserted Shakespeare.

Now under some circumstances it would be of immense interest to learn from Miss Allen's pretty lips and in Miss Allen's own melodious tones why she deserted Bill Shakespeare.

But, under existing conditions, having been for five months Peter Dueyea's bride in secret, it would be of far more vital moment to hear, not Why She Deserted Bill, but How She Captured Pete.

On this point she is silent. Matrimony is a topic tabooed.

Wherein she varies muchly from Marie Cahill. Marie Cahill loves to talk about marriage and its advantages.

Three Years Mrs. Arthur

She has been for almost three blissful years Mrs. D. V. Arthur, and she believes so thoroughly in the marriage estate for any woman in search of happiness that she narrowly escapes being a matchmaker.

Even as it is she is constantly seeing two "perfectly dear people," whom she is positively sure would be happy forever if they could be induced to step within the golden circlet with which Dan Cupid brands his victims.

So strong are the convictions about matrimony that she would not only clothe the chorus of "Molly Moonshine" at the Tremont Theatre in long skirts, but she would have each pretty girl become the happy bride of some good and deserving man.

Yet, Marie Cahill was not always thus. Of all the independent, self-sufficient, happy-go-lucky, unsentimental girls that ever lived and moved and had her being, Marie Cahill was the bright and scintillating prize winner.

"Marie will never marry, she's too independent," declared her parents. "Marie will never give up her independence to wed any man," echoed her friends, even after she had met Mr. Arthur and he was paying her ardent court.

And she gave a beautiful contradiction to all their prognostications and did the unexpected.

And now——?

In her apartments in the Touraine we laughed and chatted about matrimony and domesticity versus independence and art, Miss Cahill, Mr. Hine, who wrote the melodic measures of "Molly Moonshine," Mr. Burgess and myself.

"Me for Me Art"

"It was once me for me art," said Marie Cahill, who confessed to being "awfully dressed up" to receive us, and who looked tremendously fetching in a princess gown of golden brown silk crepe, with a yoke of ecru lace, "but that changed when Mr. Arthur came along and I discovered I had a heart. I found that I had been self reliant and independent just long enough. I found that what I needed was someone to care for me, and protect me, and look after me. Now if art and matrimony should clash I'd forsake art."

"You mean that you would give up your career, relinquish your stage success, sink into domestic oblivion, if it were demanded?" I asked.

"Indeed, I would," she said, "in a minute and gladly." She shifted her position from the luxurious ease of a cushioned couch to the upright dignity of a straight-backed chair.

"Look here," she said, leaning forward and pointing her finger at me, "you've hit me on a subject upon which I have very strong opinions. I believe in the right of every woman to be happily married. And I don't believe there is any career on the [illegible] or anywhere else, which begins to [illegible]re with that which a woman can [illegible] in her own home—making a happy [illegible] for herself and the one person on earth who is dearer to her than any one else. Don't think I'm giving you a lot of sentimental [illegible]. I'm just talking hard common sense.

"You've knocked around the world and made your own way, and fought your own battles. So have I. We each know what it means.

"No matter how careful of her life a woman may be, she sees and hears and learns things, outside her own volition which have a coarsening tendency.

"Becomes Hardened"

"She grows aggressive. She loses her finer sensibilities. She becomes hardened and all in spite of herself. For a time she doesn't realise this. She thinks it's a very grand thing to be independent and self-supporting and able to elbow her way along alone—up to a certain point. Then she grows tired of it all.

Then—it's a lucky fate that brings the right man to her side. She may struggle at first, for the self-made independence of a woman is hard to die.

"But finally she sees how fine it is to have some one who makes the sharp corners smooth and round, and who catches the first blows of the battles, and she sighs thankfully for the strong right arm upon which to lean."

"And her career?"

"Oh, that adjusts itself. If she can marry a man in her own profession and they can work along side by side and be happy and devoted, it's a joyful circumstance. But the moment her work interferes with her domestic bliss—that moment she should drop the work."

"And cook her husband's meals, and darn her husband's socks, and become the contented housewife," I sighed. "How lovely!"

"Lovelier than you think," she retorted. "I love to cook. I'm a good cook, too. My husband says so. I could be a great cook. But one can't be a great cook and an actress too, and there's more money in acting.

"You see, for a time I tried both. It didn't work. When I was singing about the Congo I'd be thinking, 'There, I forgot to order the butter,' or, 'We need some eggs for breakfast,' and it was no go.

"And the servant problem in New York city takes your life blood. At the same time, give me a home, with my own kitchen, for the real luxury of living."

So you see that Marie Cahill is an advocate of the domestic life, as well as a chorus reformer.

Indeed, the reform idea has been worked up largely by outsiders. Still, Miss Cahill doesn't mind it.

Why should she?

"Be it," she says. "It's dignified, and all dignified advertising helps."

The origin of the long-skirted chorus was to make it look like an aggregation of human beings and escape the meaningless troop of women in tights who march aimlessly on and off in the average musical comedy with no excuse for their appearance.

The chorus in tights, "apropos of nothing," has long been an annoyance to Marie Cahill.

"Women as a rule don't like to wear tights," she says, "I wore them myself, and that's why I know. Though not in the chorus. I was never in the chorus. Women are more atractive in skirts than in tights. They are more natural and more graceful.

"Why, when the girls of my chorus found they were to look like human beings, they were tickled to death. They were overjoyed to think that they could go to a dressmaker for their gowns instead of a costumer.

"Mind you, I don't object to tights when they are legitimate. If one can play 'Rosalind' or 'Viola,' for instance, she should be glad to wear tights.

"But tights worn as they are worn in the average burlesque shows—they are abominable. Lots of mighty fine women have had to wear them at some time or other in their lives, but they get out of them as soon as they can.

"And, anyway, nearly every burlesque manager has finally gone broke, as we say in the classics. Why? Burlesque has an unhealthy, superficial following."

Ban on Lobsters

"How about the lobsters and late suppers being forbidden your girls?"

Miss Cahill gurgled a merry, rippling laugh.

"I don't have chorus girls to whom a 'broiled live' and a late supper spells life," she said. "They are simply nice girls, that's all."

Incidentally, let it be said that the girls prove Miss Cahill's words regarding their "niceness."

It is a long, weary day since any musical comedy has shown us so fair and charming and altogether attractive a chorus as "Molly Moonshine," with the long, swirling skirts and the petticoated color scheme.

Out of a clear sky, as we sat talking, Marie Cahill propounded a serious question to me.

"Do you know the greatest enemy of the modern woman?" she demanded.

I did not.

"Obesity," she declared in solemn tones.

I agreed in sad silence.

"In other words, F-A-T," she said in capitals. "The minute a woman begins to grow fat she might just as well get off the stage. Fat and art don't agree.

What Is the Cause of Fat?

"And what do you suppose makes all our women grow so fat? It seems to be a general affliction. It's bad enough for any woman to lose her outlines in billows of fat, but for an actress—it's fatal.

"The critics prove that. First they say 'she is more buxom,' then 'a trifle shorter,' then at last 'she is fat.' That settles her. She better retire. Her day is past.

"When a fat woman gets emotional audiences roar with laughter. 'What right has she to feel with all that fat?' they say. And as a matter of fact, stout women have lots more emotion than skinny ones—they can endure anything. A fat woman gets sentimental, and again everyone laughs.

"'What right has a fat woman to fall in love?' they ask. There you are. What place is there for a fat woman?"

I really could not tell her, and yet I knew a fat woman must have a place somewhere. And of necessity it must be a place of more or less importance. Also I realized that Marie Cahill has not been conquered by the arch enemy obesity. The brown princess gown clung to curves that were graceful and attractive, and defined outlines most alluring.

So that if you should hear of Marie Cahill leaving the stage it will not be because she has grown fat, but because the call of the home has become too insistent to be ignored, and because art and matrimony have reached the parting of the ways, and the arrow points to the path for Marie—"this way to home and hubby."

MUSIC NOTES

In many respects what is the most important musical novelty of the year will be presented by the Symphony Orchestra at its concerts on Friday afternoon and Saturday evening next. This is Mahler's Fifth Symphony, which, while it is not played by our orchestra for the first time in America—the Cincinnati and Philadelphia orchestras having played it—will be given in its revised form for the first time, since Mr. Gericke has just received the full score with Mahler's corrections. Gustav Mahler is one of the great operatic conductors of the world, and for several years, since Richter removed to England, has been at the head of the Imperial Opera in Vienna. For several years he was the conductor of the Vienna Philharmonic. As a composer he has attracted the most serious consideration of the European critics. His symphonic works, all of them written on a very large scale, are of the advanced school in ideas and treatment. The program will comprise only three numbers. The first will be Beethoven's "Egmont" overture. The soloist will be Harold Bauer, who will play the Schumann concerto for piano.

Miss Clara Kloberg, violinist, will be the soloist at the next Symphony concert in Cambridge on next Thursday evening.

Manager Mudgett has succeeded in arranging for Mme. Calve to give one more song recital in this city previous to returning to Europe, an extension of the tour planned for this country having made this possible. Although the recital is not to be given [illegible] 24. Mr. [illegible] applications for seats in such numbers [illegible] the success of the recital is already assured.

Professor Willy Hess will give, at the next concert of the Boston Symphony Quintet, in Jordan Hall, on Monday evening, February 5, what promises to be one of the most interesting novelties of the season. The name of names in modern music just at present is that of Max Reger, professor of composition in the Munich conservatory. He is being boomed as vigorously and fought as vigorously as ever Richard Strauss was. He has had the honor of having a symphony hissed by the conservatives and as wildly applauded by the radicals. In this country little of his music is known save his songs, which have made much headway this year. Therefore his serenade for flute, violin and viola, which Professor Hess will play with Messrs. A. Maquarre and Emile Ferir, ought to attract much attention.

The Boston Operatic Society will give as its second performance of the season an operatic concert program, including solos and choruses from the following operas: "The Knickerbockers," "Chimes of Normandy," "Omos of Omona," "Atlantics," and "The Lark of the Larks," to be followed by Gilbert and [illegible] one act comic o[illegible]. The full chorus of the society will be heard and the solos will be sung by well known local singers. Herbert Forrest Odell will direct, and the stage will be in the hands of James Gilbert.

The Dartmouth Glee and Banjo Clubs will soon give their annual concert in Stein[illegible]

The pupils of Frank E. Morse will give a vocal recital in Steinert Hall on the evening of Thursday, February 15.

The recital announced by Mme. Szumowska at Stein[illegible] after [illegible] of the [illegible] this [illegible] present season. The selections made [illegible] day include Mozart's Sonata No. [illegible] Haydn's "Le C[illegible] La [illegible] and [illegible] of Chopin numbers, Pab[illegible] "[illegible] cortienne," Sgambati's "Toccata" and Liszt's second rhapsodie. Seats may be had at Symphony Hall until [illegible] now, after which they will be on sale at Steinert Hall.

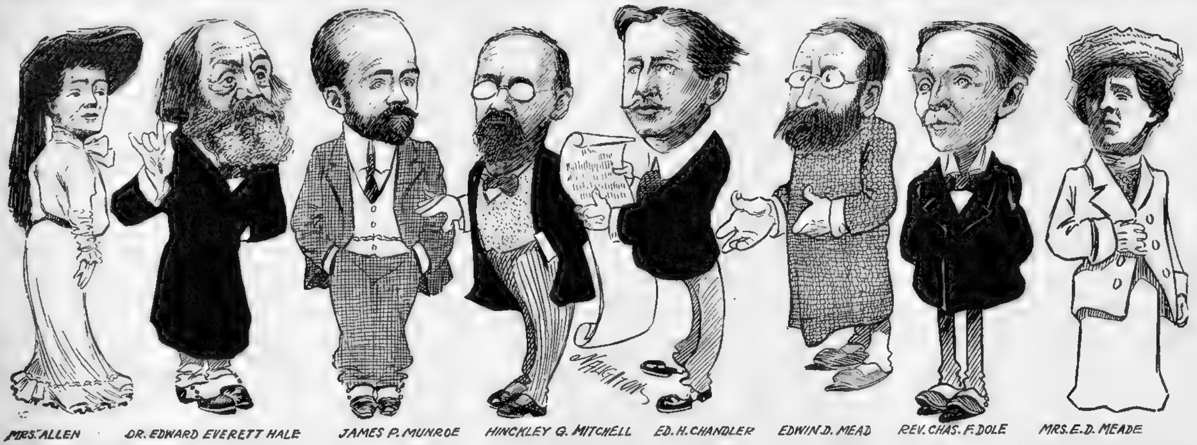
Jane Newcombe Writes of the Truly Bostonese 20th Century Club



MRS. ALLEN — DR. EDWARD EVERETT HALE — JAMES P. MUNROE — HINCKLEY G. MITCHELL — ED. H. CHANDLER — EDWIN D. MEAD — REV. CHAS. F. DOLE — MRS. E. D. MEADE

BY JANE NEWCOMBE.

My Dear Grace:

You accuse me of being inconsequential and frivolous, although you are polite enough to soften your accusation by confessing that I amuse you. You ask me to tell you about something distinctively Bostonese, which you say will convey to your mind the serious, studious, scholastic and intellectual atmosphere with which your imagination has always enshrouded Boston. I am going to tell you about the Twentieth Century Club. Perhaps I have failed in my selection of a topic, but I am sure that nowhere else in all this universe does there exist another club like this, nor one which unostentatiously is exerting such a tremendous influence for the general improvement of the world. And I cannot picture such a club thriving so naturally and delightfully in any other place.

It admits both men and women, and has at present a membership of 403 men and 194 women, making a total of 597. That is nearly the limit, for there can be only 600 resident members and 50 non-residents.

The most advanced thinkers, the most brilliant men and women of Boston belong. Every single person in the club must have a good reason for being there. It is not enough to have two members sign your application blank and say you are a charming person, bright and agreeable, and would be a pleasant member. No, indeed! "What has this man or this woman done for humanity or the community?" your sponsors will be asked.

And before you are admitted tangible evidence must be given that you have done something worth while for community welfare.

According to the constitution the object of the club is "to promote a finer public spirit and a better social order."

Noted Men Organizers.

Such noted men as Edward Everett Hale, the famous divine; John Fiske, the historian, who died soon after the club was started; Ross Turner, J Pickering Putnam, the publisher; Edwin D. Mead, editor, writer, lecturer, reformer; Nathan Haskell Dole, writer and lecturer, and William Ordway Partridge, the sculptor, issued the call for organization and were illustrious founders.

The real start antedates that period though, for the club was planned by these men, who used to meet every little while in a funny little room on Beacon street for luncheon. Wit and wisdom made these informal meetings in the dingy room feasts of mentality beyond compare, and over the table this great club was started.

There are practical, grasping, money-getting minds in Boston who smile when the Twentieth Century Club is mentioned. "An aggregation of theorists," they say contemptuously, or less courteously, "a collection of cranks."

The club doesn't do so much directly as indirectly. It's strongest feature is its luncheons.

Thirty-five luncheons are given a year, and nearly one hundred worth while speakers are heard. The luncheons are held in the charming home of the club, No. 3 Joy street, every Saturday.

The first Saturday of each month is a ladies' day, and my! Such a lot of famous women as one meets. It makes an ordinary mortal feel very weak and puny in a mental way.

Take for example Mrs. Edwin D. Mead. She is more usually spoken of as Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead. Why, she does the most unusual work in the way of research and study and reform.

Mrs. Mead a Leader.

Mrs. Mead doesn't care a rap for clothes, and she is so independent and strong, but she is so very brainy one forgets that she is eccentric. She and her husband are most interested in international peace problems. Mrs. Mead has a remarkable lecture on "The End of International Duelling." Mr. Mead and she have been to every peace conference that was ever held anywhere.

Then there is Miss Katherine Cowan, a professor of economics at Wellesley. She is one of the very brilliant members.

A woman member in whom there is more or less interest just at present is Miss Diana Hirschler, who is the Welfare Manager in one of the shops here, and who has recently started a school to teach young men and women how to be salespeople. Fancy it!

Miss Hirschler is a lawyer, and has a splendid grasp on all economic and social problems of the day.

Another noted and most interesting woman who belongs to the club is Mrs. Ellen H. Richards, who teaches sanitary chemistry in "Tech."

Mrs. Richards is a little woman with gray hair and a low voice, who simply vibrates with nervous energy and has a bright sparkle in her eyes, which makes you believe that her heart is only about ten years old, and that she rejoices in life.

To my mind the best balanced, brainy woman that I have ever met, and who is one of the strongest members, is Mrs. Mary Morton Kehew. Mrs. Kehew might be taken for a typical society woman who cared not a fig for municipal problems, but who would glory in the giving of a grand reception or a gorgeous dinner.

She dresses exquisitely and she is so charmingly feminine. She seems to combine all the qualities of social charm with immense executive ability, as she has proven by the success of her pet project, "The Educational and Industrial Union."

At the luncheon which I was fortunate enough to attend I met a bright and atracive young woman, for whom I felt an instant liking.

Directs School Gardens.

She is Miss Anne Withington and directs all the school gardens of Boston.

It would take a book to tell you of the famous men of the club. Charles F. Dole is the president and Edward H. Chandler secretary. Mr. Dole is a writer on economic subjects. Mr. Chandler is interested in the club and everything "touchin' on and appertainin' to" the club.

Many great ideas have been first given to the world by the lecturers at Twentieth Century Club luncheons.

Dearie, doesn't it make our butterfly existences seem silly and wasteful to realize what all these men and women are accomplishing?

Yet—I suppose a world full of Twentieth Century Club members would be impossible.

So—let's be cheerful. We have our niche in life to fill. Devotedly,

JANE.

Mr. Regan on Boston Art

By J. Frank Davis

"There wor a felly in Pittsburg," said Hanrahan, after he and Mr. Regan had said "Here's luck!" and taken an observation, "that got out a calendar wit' a pitcher iv a pretty gurrl on it, an' th' folks iv th' husband iv th' gurrl is kickin'. Why shudn't th' husband be glad that he didn't have t' pay photographer's bills t' get a pitcher iv his wife?"

"That," said Mr Regan, sagely, "is a matter iv art, which ye are not competint t' discuss, Hanrahan, knowin' no more iv art than Louie Frothin'ham rarely knows about how th' Dock Thrust d[illegible] w[illegible] it through th' Aldermin.

"Art is a raymarkable thing. Ye think ye know about it an' ye don't. It's a matter iv temp'rameint. Th' only sure thing ye [illegible] say is that Boston has [illegible] th' Noo York. Purd'n Clarke says so. He's th' director [illegible] in Noo York an' ought t' know [illegible] does, which I doubt.

Too Busy With High Finance.

He said it in a speech. 'Noo York will lead in art afther awhile,' he says. 'At prisent we are too busy wit' high finance an' other forms iv larceny,' says he. 'In th' meantime,' he says, 'Boston is [illegible]. A number wan eighteen [illegible]

This matter [illegible] much t' do wit' th' art [illegible]. There is an [illegible]. Th' committee is hangin' th' pitchers. 'What is this?' says th' chairman. 'It's a little thing sent over be Pierpont Morgan,' [illegible] th' assistant. 'He's plannin' t' l[illegible] tin millyun dollars at death. [illegible] everybody can see,' says th' chairman. 'An' what's this?' 'It's a paintin' be Jawn Smith,' says th' assistant. 'He's a risin' young artist.' 'Throw it in th' ash barr'l,' says th' chairman. 'Who ever heard iv him?' he says.

"Now in Boston it's diff'rent. The assistant brings in a pitcher. 'This,' he says, 'is fr'm William Jones. It's a pitcher,' he says, turnin' it this way an' that an' squintin' at it, 'iv anyther a field iv poppies or th' great Boston fire, I dinnaw which. I've mislaid me catalogue,' he says. 'Hang it here on th' line,' says th' chairman. 'I think ye said Jones was a protege iv Mrs. Jack Gardner. Risin' talent must have a show,' says he. 'An' here's wan fr'm th' famous Gene Paul Rooskyvitch. Where shall I hang this?' says th' assistant. 'In th' attic,' [illegible] chairman. 'He's a friend iv Ned Robinson, but neverth'less I'll not be narrow an' thrun it out,' he says.

"An' so it goes, Hanrahan. Th' bist artists can get their pitchers hung in Boston, even if th' chromos are so simple that you an' me can know what they mean.

"Oh, ye shud study art, Hanrahan. Ye might learn somethin' about it. Some o[illegible] do."

"I'm thinkin'," said Hanrahan, slowly, "that the calendar iv th' Sabin Point Brewery is prettier than th' pitchers Gargan's gurrls saw at th' art show."

"Whisper!" said Mr. Regan. "So does most everybody else. But ye mustn't admit it. Th' rest doesn't."

HEY: MORAN!

PATROLMAN WM. G. BLAZO — SERGT. CHAS. H. TYGHE. — ALFRED N. DOUGL

BY MORTON BURDETT.

The Boston Police Relief Association is to hold its next annual ball in Franklin Field.

Then the Mayor can get in.

You know it is a pleasing habit of many country newspapers to send reporters to big public dances to take the names of those present. It's a big job.

But, if any reporter had been ordered to get names at the police ball he would have had an easy time.

He could have taken the directory of Greater Boston, torn out a few pages for luck and run the rest for "copy."

If any Bostonian was not at that ball, let him declare himself now.

There were 25,000, it is estimated, who were at the ball, or thereabouts. That is—they were outside, trying to get inside.

The Doorstep for the Mayor.

And—by the same token, Mayor Fitzgerald was among those outside. But de didn't try to get inside. He saw that he would have about as much chance of getting through the jammed doorway as he would have of being a guest of honor at an Old Home night of the Hendricks Club. So he took one good look at the crowd and passed to Dorchester to the ball of the Gentlemen's Driving Club, where he is reported to have made a hit with a new song written by "Sunny" Jim Donovan and entitled, "Fitz—Keep a Little Cosey Corner in Your Heart for Muh."

That's the reason it's proposed to hold the next police ball in Franklin Park—in the glad, free open, where there's plenty of room and lots of exits and entrances.

Financially the ball was ridiculously successful. The Police Relief Association ought to have enough coin to fill the coffers of the late lamented

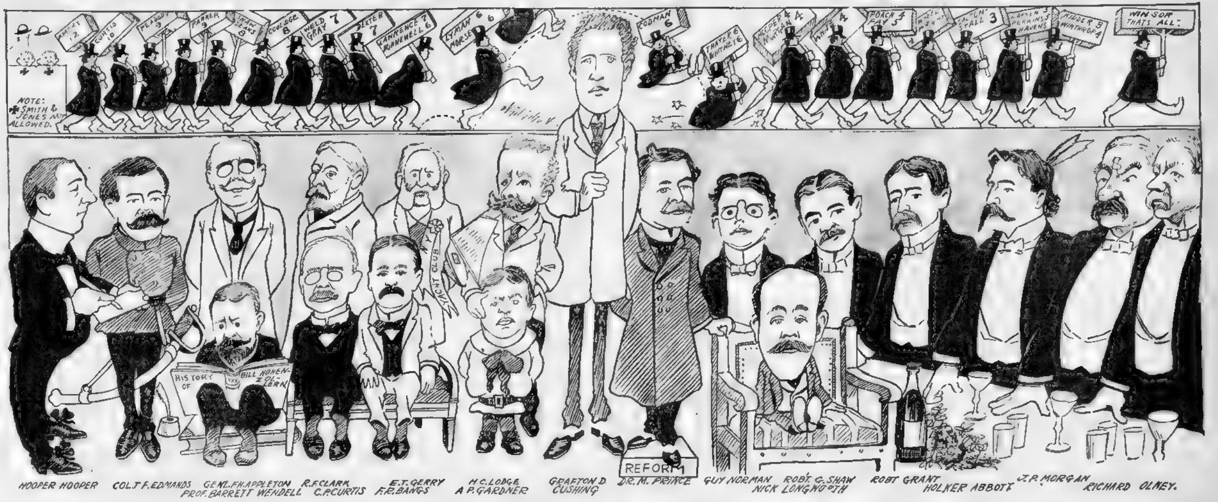
How the Boston Family Tree Flourishes at the Somerset Club



By James Francis.

If you wanted to float a company with a lot of representative Boston names in the directorate, you wouldn't have to go any farther for your list than the roll of membership of the Somerset Club.

The club is limited to a certain number of members, and, as you have heard recently, during the bloodless rebellion of the Puritan Club, it takes eighteen years probation to get in. Even then you don't unless you're either rich or aristocratic, or better still rich and aristocratic, which is just as well, because if you weren't either you'd freeze to death the first time you were turned loose in the coal box.

Boston's "first families" are in the Somerset in a body. How the servants ever keep them separated in their minds is one of the mysteries that The Thinking Machine could never ravel.

"The Somerset likes English servants, and English servants like the Somerset. [illegible] a war by scratching, because there's such an air of seclusion. You know that if anyone should step [illegible] another from the back [illegible] would be a sacrilege."

An irreverent and slangy person who had probably been blackballed once called the Somerset a hothouse, giving as his reason that all the space in the club that wasn't taken up by family trees was utilized for growing plants.

This taunt received no reply from the capitalists within.

Study of Family Names

The roll of membership is an interesting study of family names. For instance, there are twelve Amorys, ten Curtises, eight Shaws, eight Searses, nine Parkers and six Hunnewells and the list of groupings is only begun. There are three Kidders, nine Peabodys and goodness knows how many 'companies.'

Capitalists, financiers, brokers, bankers and attorneys are among the members in such profusion that you would be as certain of inciting a riot by walking into the smoking room and shouting "A thousand Amalgamated at ninety-three" as by crying "Down with Prince William" during the passing of an Orangeman's parade. But there are no tradesmen. Dear me, no.

Whether the social or financial clique of the club deserves more comment will ever remain an open question. S. Hooper Hooper and Holker Abbott, either one of whom can lead a cotillon so skilfully that you are almost convinced cotillon leading is a useful art, would insist that society was the chief end of the organization. Yet that is not really a proof, because they believe it is the chief end of man. They would find ready supporters in Bryce Allan, who can prove that it is greater to be a coaching expert than to be useful, or Richard C. Dixey, who became famous because of his daughter's pet pig, and other things.

Every member of the club stands for finance, but some stand for more than others. There are the Higginsons, Francis L., Francis L., Jr., and Henry L. They are conservative bankers, as conservatism goes in these days. And there is J. Pierpont Morgan of New York, better known as a promoter than as an art critic or an Episcopalian. And there is Solomon Lincoln, who might be said to stand for all kinds of finance, being the biggest corporation lawyer in Boston.

Never Dodged a Highball

There is the military coterie, containing men who have smelled the powder of a thousand puff boxes. Thomas F. Edmands, lieutenant-colonel of the Cadets, Edward H. Eldredge, major of the Eighth Massachusetts, and Lieutenant-Colonel Samuel D. Parker, assistant inspector-general on the staff of His Excellency Curtis Guild, are easily the Nestors of this group. It is a source of pride with them all that they never flinched an invitation to luncheon or dodged a highball.

There are no politicians in the club (definition of a politician: One who wishes to make land on the water side of Beacon street, or shake down the owners thereby), but there are statesmen. At their head stands "that able citizen, that noble patriot, that peerless leader" (Hear! Hear!) Henry Cabot Lodge. Next perhaps is Congressman Augustus P. Gardner, who may be depended upon never to depart from the path of rectitude, for he takes Henry Cabot for his shining mark—I should say, example.

And the club would lose much of its dignity did its roll not contain the name of George Peabody Wetmore of New York, who honors Rhode Island by being its junior United States Senator, and whose one speech, "I vote the same as Aldrich," will stand many years as one of the most illuminative documents in American statesmanship.

Some ephemeral fame has latterly come to the coterie that might be referred to as the police commission set. Robert F. Clark stands at the head of this faction, by virtue of having once been chairman of the board, and Francis R. Bangs, who was its counsel, is at its right hand. Charles P. Curtis, Jr., who was a member not longer ago than last year, and remembers in his daily orisons to be thankful he is not a member now, is the third member, and Francis Peabody is the fourth. Mr. Peabody is not entirely in sympathy with his fellows at this moment, he while acting as attorney for the Hotel Essex, having voiced to the present police commission the sentiments of the general public.

Not a Smith Nor a Jones

Three gentlemen form what, for want of a better name, might be called the administration set. They are G. C. Lee, Jr., who is a relative of Alice Roosevelt and Congressman Nick Longworth, who is going to be, and Guy Norman, who was a Rough Rider.

And sportsmen they are present in large numbers. General Charles J. Paine can be induced, under pressure, to tell just how it was that the Puritan, Mayflower and Volunteer were successful in defending the America's cup, and is an even greater yachtsman than Edwin D. Morgan, Francis Skinner or Commodore Eldridge T. Gerry, also members. Robert G. Shaw, 2d, (Robert G. Shaw and Robert G. Shaw, Jr., are also on the roll, as is fitting in a family club like this), with Quincy A. Shaw, represent the polo players. Guy Norman [illegible] of how he used to pull an oar at Harvard, and Washington B. Thomas, when he gets his mind off sugar, is one of the greatest golfers that ever golfed.

Always prominent is Grafton Dulaney Cushing. How can you help being prominent when you are six feet four and something?

There are certain members who sit apart. Richard Olney, always a Chesterfield, politely withdraws to some distant corner, there to commune with himself reminiscently of the days when he and Grover Cleveland ran the country. George von L. Meyer is too busy learning to bow with courtliness and to say "May it please your Majesty" in Russian, to enter into the discussion of genealogy and stocks about him. Judge Robert Grant and John T. Wheelwright have the writing room, where they build newer, busier and better novels. Dr. Morton Prince sits in a brown study (there are several brown studies in the magnificent suites) pondering on why the Reformers invited Fitzgerald to their dinner and failed to invite Moran. And Barrett Wendell just twirls his keys, and thinks, and thinks, and thinks.

There is a plurality of Hoopers, Welds, Warrens, Lymans, Codmans, Lawrences, Saltonstalls, Dexters, Fays, Appletons, Wheelwrights, Thayers, Roberts, Whitneys and Winthrops in the Somerset. There is not a Smith, not a Jones, and but one Winsor.

But there is only one Robert Winsor, anyway.

ll Men Are Equal, Well ardly.

Socially the ball was a demonstration of the proposition that all men equal in the eyes of the law, but on the ballroom floor or didn't the girls prefer to dance newly-fledged patrolmen who ul waltz lightly and airily, rather parade solemnly with be-buttoned be-strapped officers of rank. course—in the grand march, officers of the association and of the department led. But after that, when the dancing really began, it was a case of 'can you dance well?'

Sergeant Tom Bushy of Jamaica Plain station led the grand march. There was an inspiring array of precedence behind him.

There was Colonel Cole, the head of the department, who went deftly through a match whose intricacies have been equalled only by the relations between the Police Commission and the district attorney's office.

There were police captains to spare in the line, particularly including "Bucky" O'Lalor from East Dedham street station, who has become a highly posted on the question of ballroom etiquette on account of the recent agitation over Hebrew dances on the Christian Sabbath.

Inspector "Al" Douglas was floor marshal and he saw to it that no iniquitous policeman stole his fellow policeman's pretty partner for any dance.

The Real Workers.

Sergeants Charles H. Tighe of the harbor police, Sergeants Pendergast, Eagan, Webster and Patrolmen Blazo, Ryan, McDonough, Angell, Powers, Ahearn, Nowell and Dever and Lieutenant Pearce, the reception committee, can put themselves on record as the hardest-worked committee of this kind that ever graced a ball—think of trying to "receive" 25,000 guests.

As Seen at the Art Club's Exhibition

BY AN OBSERVER.

The Boston Art Club is holding its seventy-third [illegible] at its large and palatial house, corner of Newbury and Dartmouth streets. A great many people have been to see the pictures and they have been well repaid for their time and attention. We attended with our wife [illegible] afternoon and were much pleased at the show.

The entire upper [illegible] of the clubhouse is taken up by the exhibition, there being 200 pictures, hung there in oil. We attempted to enter by the main entrance, not having carefully read our ticket, which had just been given us, and were met by a haughty hired man who informed us that only members were allowed to go in that way. We thereupon went around to the side door on Dartmouth street, where our ticket was examined by a genial gentleman, whose name was not on the programme, and we were invited to ascend.

In the centre of the room was a desk at which sat a pleasant gentleman whose duty it was to reply to questions. As we [illegible] there we overheard an illustration of his kindness and geniality.

"Excuse me," said a gentleman, with a very high collar and a cane, "but I am much interested in this picture. Is that Copley's painting, 'An Old Swell'?"

"No, sir," said the pleasant gentleman. "That one is listed simply as a portrait. 'An Old Swell' you will find on the opposite wall. It is a picture of the ocean."

The gentleman with the high collar and the cane seemed very much embarrassed. It struck us that he would have not made such a blunder had he purchased one of the catalogues, price fifteen cents, which are dispensed very graciously by a young lady at the desk.

There were a great many artists and art critics present, and they informed us that the exhibition was a great success, and that the pictures were remarkably good. We are inclined to agree with them for the effect was particularly pleasant although we do not mind confessing in confidence, that we do not know the difference between a high light and a chiaro-oscuro. So we just looked as wise as we could, and went around with our catalogue, standing in different attitudes, squinting up our eyes and nodding our head from time to time as though we were passing expert judgment upon the works of art, this being what the others present were doing.

Others Bluffing, Too

(It has occurred to us since leaving the art club as possible that the others present may have been making the same bluff.)

A great many prominent people were present. Mrs. Gardner, whose palatial mansion in the Stony Brook district is itself considerable of an art gallery, viewed the pictures with much interest and confided to her friend that she did not approve of so many people being admitted at once. She said she ran her art gallery differently, a statement that we can indorse, having once had to pay a premium for a ticket to see her museum.

Our esteemed fellow-townsman, Mayor [illegible] seemed to approve heartily of the exhibit, as did also Squire Moran, who had been assured in advance that no [illegible], Japanese or otherwise would be shown.

Chairman Fitzgerald of the Board of Selectmen, accompanied by his associate, Judge Corcoran, arrived a little late, [illegible] having already attended [illegible] and two receptions that day. He made but one comment upon the works of art. He was standing before the picture by Mr. Chapman entitled "The River Front" and exclaimed, "How much better, bigger and busier than [illegible] would look if they built a row of houses along the river bank. But they probably won't, being tax dodgers."

Two French people, an artist and artiste, we thought, were delighted with all the pictures. The gentleman wore [illegible] of a box effect, a [illegible] scarf, baggy pantaloons, long hair and a dreamy expression. The lady wore a draped black [illegible] with high neck, a long train, a [illegible] hat and a style of hair that even our wife had never seen before. They stood rapidly before the pictures and discussed them in the French language. "C'est magnifique, ne c'est pas?" he exclaimed, meaning that he [illegible] be there, and she replied, "Vraiment! Oui! Qu'est que c'est?" meaning that she was pleased with the picture she was looking at.

Pictures Perfectly Proper

After we had seen the people we devoted much time to the pictures. They are very proper pictures, such as any young person may properly be taken to see. Our wife, who is a prominent member of the W. C. T. U., thought we should not look at the painting entitled "The Last Load," but we convinced her it was all right after we had seen that it was merely a load of [illegible] boat.

A very pretty picture is called "Waiting." It is by Louise Cox and is [illegible]. Another is "Valley of the St. Regis," which is by Charles A. Needham, and is mostly in light green. We know these are good, because they were given medals at the St. Louis exposition.

Our esteemed fellow-townsman, Louis Kronberg, did a good picture of "Judith," holding a sword. It appears from this that Judith was a person who lived a long time ago, when they dressed much differently, and much less than now. We had always supposed that Judith was an invention of Nance O'Neil, the talented young actress.

Philip Hale's picture of a colored boy, [illegible] Poker, is so realistic that you wouldn't dare keep it in the room with chickens, and a picture of "Spanish [illegible]" is so true to nature that nearly all people hold their handkerchiefs to their noses as they pass it. A picture which we were sure was of Miss Alice Roosevelt until we read the name in the catalogue is by Elizabeth V. Taylor Watson, and is very pretty.

Colin Campbell's "The Ferns" and William [illegible] "The Angel" each [illegible] a striking familiarity with the artists' subjects. Then there is a picture of "Paris Still Life." We did not know there was any such thing. And an awful pretty snow picture, called "The Road to New Hope," is said t be dedicated to Judge Dewey.

New Photographs Of Two

BOSTON Society WOMEN

TO the question, "who is the most brilliant and versatile woman in Boston society?" a concensus of opinion would give reply Mrs. Francis Sedgwick Watson, whose latest and most admired portrait the BOSTON AMERICAN presents to-day.

Mrs. Watson is a thorough cosmopolite. She travels constantly and widely and studies countries and their people with keenest interest and rarest discernment. The result is apparent in her charm of manner and her magnetic personality. She is individual to a degree which never fails to arouse interest, and her originality is [illegible] refreshing

Mrs. Watson is the wife of Dr. Watson. [illegible] is a delightful home at No. 263 Clarendon street, which is filled with treasures brought from every corner of the world, arranged in a rather bizarre fashion which makes it one of the most interesting and noteworthy homes in Boston.

Mrs. Watson is a genuine patron of art. She knows pictures and has her own likes and dislikes. Her pictures are chosen with rare discernment and reflect her own taste.

"There is a just and special reason for every picture I possess," she once said to a visitor.

A magnificent portrait of her, done by Sargent, occupies a prominent place in her drawing room. It is a far better likeness than can be obtained in black and white, for it reproduces the richness of her coloring which is so potent an attraction.

Perhaps in no one house in town have so many noted people in the world of art music and literature been entertained as at Mrs. Watson's, who has the happy faculty of bringing together people who are "worth while," in a most congenial atmosphere

Mrs. Watson is a linguist of extraordinary gifts, speaking with excellence some five or six languages, and as a wit she is famous, her repartee possessing seldom the slightest sting which so often tinges "Smart Sayings."

Music is a passion with Mrs. Watson and some of the most famed singers have been heard at her musicales

Tall and stately, with a svelte figure Mrs. Watson wears exquisite gowns which she often designs. Her fad pre-eminent is for toy dogs, and she seldom appears without one or two fluffy Pomeranians, mites of things whose value is tremendous compared with their size

Miss Marian Lawrence.

THE engagement of Miss Marian Lawrence, eldest daughter of Right Rev. and Mrs. William Lawrence, to Harold Peabody, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Endicott Peabody of Marlboro street. Though prophesied for many weeks it is somewhat of a surprise at this time. Miss Lawrence is a Vincent Club girl, and was one of the committee for last year's theatricals. She is tall and slender, with dark hair and eyes, and of a particularly stunning appearance. Mr. Peabody graduated from Harvard in '04. He is a banker and prominent member of the Oakley Country Club. Miss Lawrence will be the second bride of the family, a younger sister having married Mr. Morton Lazell Feary last Spring. The young people are related, though distantly. Though no date has been decided upon for the wedding, it is thought that it will take place in June.

MAD RIOT BY CUPID STIRS SMART SET

BY A SOCIETY WOMAN.

CUPID is taking time by the forelock and instead of waiting for "brighter iris to glisten on the burnished dove" is creating an unusual stir in realms social

From now on engagements and rumors of engagements—a perfect epidemic of them will constitute a series of social surprises, culminating on St Valentine's Day.

It is becoming distinctly a fad with the smart ones to revive some of the simpler old-fashioned customs of that day so dear to the little love-god, and invitations to "Valentine dinners" and "Valentine dances" are causing a pleasant flutter of expectancy to those who have already wearied of the regular round of events and echo the old human cry for novelty and change

Vincent Girls Plan Surprise

Vincent Club girls have several surprises in the making for the vaudeville performances to be given at Jordan Hall February 26, for the benefit of the neighborhood work of St. Stephen's parish

New fancy dances by Dorothy Jordan and by Helen Prince, who has recently returned from her Summer abroad, and an orchestra composed of Vincent Club girls under the leadership of Elizabeth Porter, will be features on the program teeming with novelties

The affair will without doubt be the best patronized socially of any charitable function given in Boston for some time, and the fashionables are bent upon making it an event of supreme success

Mrs. Edward D. B[illegible], Mrs. Eben D. Jordan, Mrs. F. L. Higginson, Mrs. Henry L. Higginson, Mrs. C. H. W. Foster, Mrs. Charles Sargent, Mrs. Theodore Lyman, Mrs. Boylston Beal, Mrs. H. H. Fay, Mrs. Morton Prince and Mrs. F. B. Crowninshield are among the prominent patronesses.

The committee in charge includes Mrs. R. C. Sturgis, Mrs. C. H. Fisk, Jr., Mrs. Thatcher Kimball, Miss Alice Sargent, Mr. R. A. Fisher, Rev. Thatcher Kimball and Mrs. F. L. Dabney

Mr. H. H. Gay will be stage manager

Miss Quincy's Bridal Gown

The much-talked-of wedding gown to be worn by dainty Dorothy Quincy when she becomes the bride of Frederick Russell Nourse, Wednesday noon, February 7, is not being made abroad, as many supposed, but is in the hands of a Boston modiste

It is an exquisite creation of richest white satin, trimmed in billowy effects of rarest white lace. She will wear the conventional veil and blossoms. Her attendants, five in number including her sister Elinor as maid of honor, will wear pink silk gowns and novelty hats

Amory-Dexter Wedding

The wedding of Miss Annie Amory, daughter of Mrs. Charles Amory (nee Dexter) of Marlboro street, and Colonel Gordon Dexter of Beacon street will take place the middle of February, following closely upon the announcement of the engagement. Colonel Dexter is the son of Mrs. F. Gordon Dexter, who before her marriage was an Amory, and the coming marriage will unite the old family names still more closely.

The Colonel is a member of the Somerset, Country, Eastern Yacht, Tennis and Racquet, University and Exchange Clubs and is a Harvard '87 man

It is rumored that the wedding will be a quiet one and that there will be no bridesmaids.

Engagements

Vincent Club girls are again to the fore on the engagement list, and following closely Miss Ruth Whitney's engagement to Herbert Lyman of Beacon street, Miss Leslie Tobey's to Mr. Edward Sawyer of New York and Miss Louise Rust's to Charles Theodore Russell of Cambridge, come three of the most important announced for some time and which will undoubtedly be the chief topic of conversation at the fashionable gatherings for days to come

Another Vincent Club girl's engagement announced the same day was that of Miss Elizabeth E. Devens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lithgow Devens, to Gerald D. Boardman Harvard '03, and a son of the late Edwin A. Boardman. The Boardman Summer home, "The Waves," at Beverly Farms, is one of the most beautiful in that locality

Flowers and felicitations innumerable are being showered upon Miss Rosamond Saltonstall, whose engagement to Charles C. Auchincloss of New York was announced Wednesday. Miss Saltonstall is a tall, slender blonde, and since her debut a few Winters ago has been most popular. She is extremely fond of outdoor sports, and since her recovery from her serious illness of last Winter she has devoted more time than ever to golf and driving. She is one of the most active members of the Vincent Club and will, it is said, take a prominent part in the coming theatricals of the organization. She resides on Fairfield street with her brothers, Robert and John L. Saltonstall

Mr. Auchincloss is a son of Mrs. Edgar S. Auchincloss of New York and a graduate of Yale. The wedding, which it is rumored will take place in June, will without doubt be one of the most distinctly fashionable affairs of the season.

* * *

Announcement of Miss Anne T. Piper's engagement to Mr. Matthew Hale is bringing congratulations innumerable in the [illegible]. Miss Piper is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Taggert Piper, [illegible] in social circles. Her father is a Harvard '74 man and a member of the Union and Oakley Country Clubs. Mr. Hale was a classmate of Miss Piper's brother William, graduating with him from Harvard in '03.

* * *

Another engagement to interest society is that of Joseph Grinnell Willis, Harvard '02, and a grandson of Nathaniel P. Willis, to Miss Emily Mayer of Morristown, N. J., who since her recent debut has been one of the most sought after girls in her exclusive set. Besides being considerable of an heiress she is a young girl possessed of much beauty and charm. She is a grand daughter of the late Theodore A. Havemeyer

* * *

Notable among the week's engagements is that of Miss Harriet Connable, daughter of Mrs. John Lee Connable of Mt. Vernon street, to Mr. J. Walter Bennett, formerly of Chicago, now of London, England. No date has as yet been set for the wedding but it is expected that it will take place in the early Spring

* * *

Mr. James V. Romigh's friends and fellow students are showering him with congratulations upon his engagement to Miss Violet Luce of Vineyard Haven. Mr. Romigh comes from Omaha, is a member of the third year class of the Harvard Law School. It is expected that the wedding will take place immediately after Mr. Romigh's graduation

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Lally have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary E. Lally, to Dr. James A. Devlin of Jamaica Plain. The wedding will take place early in June.

* * *

A recently announced engagement to interest a large circle of Bostonians is that of Miss Florence L. Moore, daughter of the late General Hobart Moore, to Milton Ward Hogle of Pittsburg, Technology 1901. The engagement of Benjamin Hurd of New York, M. I. T. '06, to Miss Elizabeth Mayer of Norfolk, Va., is also announced.

* * *

The engagement of E. D. White, Harvard '04, formerly of Cambridge, to Miss Harriet Steel of Philadelphia has been announced. Mr. White is well known in the social circles of both Cambridge and Boston.

* * *

Future Events

The Valentine dance to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Nash at the Tuileries February 14 is to be a distinct novelty in the way of dances. The favors are said to be unique foreign importations.

With the brilliant dance which Mrs. Mary S. Ames gave Thursday night for her sister-in-law, Mrs. F. Lothrop Ames, the climax in the season's larger and gayer affairs was reached, and there remain among the balls of the few weeks before Lent only the second assembly and the two dinner dances to be given at the Tuileries February 8 and 19 for Miss Elizabeth Clark, daughter of Eliot Channing Clark of Brimmer street, under the management of Colonel William D. Sohier. The intervening time between now and February 28, the beginning of Lent, will be devoted more to dinners, musicales and literary events

* * *

During Lent Miss Julia Terry, whose fashionable series of chamber concerts has been so popular for the past few Lenten seasons in Boston, will give on her series [illegible] the Somerset this year, beginning February 12, and that this is to be quite the most interesting of society's diversions during that time is proven by the long list of fashionable who have subscribed. Among them are Mrs. John L. Gardner, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, Mrs. Roger Wolcott, Mrs. Henry L. Higginson, Mrs. Oliver Ames, Sr., Mrs. Oliver Ames, 2d, Mrs. George H. Monks, Mrs. Bayard Thayer, Mrs. R. C. Hooper, Mrs. William Hooper, Mrs. Morton [illegible], Mrs. S. J. Mixter, Mrs. [illegible], Mrs. William Endicott, Jr., Mrs. E. C. Swift, Mrs. Henry M. Warren, Mrs. [illegible] Churchill, Mrs. [illegible] Sears, Miss I. Tucker Burr, Mrs. Josiah Quincy, Mrs. Winthrop Sargent, Mrs. F. Lothrop Ames, Mrs. Alden A. Thorndike, Mrs. Winslow Warren, Mrs. F. B. Crowninshield, and Mrs. T. Jefferson Coolidge, Jr. Mrs. Bertha Cushing Childs will sing at these concerts, while Mrs. Lucia Gale Barber, Mr. William Kittredge and Mr. Francis [illegible], Miss Nina Fletcher, Miss Laura [illegible], Mrs. Hall McAllister, Mrs. Heinrich [illegible], Mrs. William Anthony and [illegible] Proctor are among others to [illegible] part

* * *

Boston society women are looking forward with more interest this Winter than ever before to the annual exhibition of the New England Kennel Club, which will take place in Mechanics Building, February 20, 21, 22 and 23. Following Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt's lead, who at the last Boston dog show exhibited her own pets in the ring, several of the Boston women have signified their intention of doing the same. Mrs. Vanderbilt, it is reported, will attend the exhibit again this year, bringing with her [illegible] and finer string of prize winners than last year. Mr. Samuel Hammond and Mr. Edward Brooks, members of the Bench Show Committee, are at present in the South on a shooting trip, Mr. Hammond in Florida and Mr. Brooks in North Carolina. Both will soon return to take up other duties in connection with the show

* * *

Mrs. John L. Batchelder, Jr., Mrs. Thomas Aspinwall, Mrs. Henry Dexter Bennett, Mrs. William Shreve, Mrs. Addison, Mrs. Desmond Fitzgerald, Mrs. William W. Whitman and Mrs. George Putnam are among the patronesses for the recital which Miss Anna Vernon Dorsey of Maryland, so favorably known here, is to give Tuesday afternoon, February 6, at the residence of Mrs. Stephen Bennett, No. 307 Walnut street, Brookline

* * *

Another diversion for society in February will be the series of drawing room recitals which Miss Ellen Bowick of London, who has made a name for herself among the fashionables of England and New York, is arranging to give here. Miss Bowick is young and very pretty with an exceptionally well trained voice. She is to give her first performance of Tennyson's "Lady of Shalott," with violin, cello and piano accompaniment, especially composed for her, to a fashionable New York audience very soon

* * *

The lunch and whist of the Tuesday Club will be given next Wednesday at the Tuileries as they were unable to secure the room desired for their regular day. Hereafter their meetings will take place on Tuesdays.

* * *

For a special charity in which the cream of Boston society is interested Miss Grace Edwards will give a recital January 31, in the large ball room of the Somerset. Following close in its train will be the fair on February 14 and 15, in aid of the Industrial Home for Crippled and Deformed Children, to be held at the Somerset

Personals.

Gertrude Peabody, the charming daughter of Professor Francis G. Peabody of Harvard College, who is giving a course of lectures at the University of Berlin, and Mrs. Peabody (nee Weld), were among the Americans presented at the court held by Emperor William of Germany and Empress Augusta Victoria recently.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moore, who have spent the greater part of the Winter with Mrs. Moore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Swift, at their Prides Crossing villa are in Florida, where they went to attend the automobile races at Ormond Beach. They will spend the latter part of the Winter in Washington. Mrs. Swift, who goes to Europe the middle of February, will be accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Bailey

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Elisha C. Williams of Malden, and their daughter, Florence, are planning to start early in February for Europe, where they will spend the remainder of the season and the greater part of the Summer in travel. Mrs. F. W. Thayer of Brimmer street will also sail for Europe early next month and will not return until June

* * *

Miss Mary Peabody of the Vincent Club, who has been the guest of Mrs. Bonaparte in Washington, has been enjoying life to the fullest. She is a girl possessing much charm and grace and is quite as popular in Washington society as in that of her native city.

* * *

Mr. S. S. Spaulding, with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Mendoza (Marion Spaulding), spent a few days in St. Augustine last week while en route to Nassau. Mr. Spaulding lives in Buffalo, N. Y., in the Winter, but spends all his Summers at his beautiful residence on Jerusalem road, Cohasset.

* * *

Mrs. Roger Wolcott's charming young guest, Corrine Robinson, the niece of President Roosevelt, has been much entertained while in Boston. She came over from Washington, where she was a guest at the White House in time for the ball which Mrs. Wolcott gave for Miss Amory and has been the guest of honor at several smart functions since.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Prescott Stearns, whose wedding took place early in the new year, have returned from their honeymoon, which was spent in [illegible]. Early in the week they gave a large reception at their home in Newton.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Andrews of Newport are spending the Winter in Green Spring Valley, Maryland, where they have purchased a beautiful country estate adjoining that of Mrs. Andrew's parents, Mr. and Mrs. [illegible]

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Ames of North Easton are at their fine estate in Tennessee where they are enjoying the hunting and doing considerable entertaining. They will return to their Summer home March 1.

* * *

Weddings

With the exception of the wedding in Hingham Thursday afternoon of Miss Marion Child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Frederick Child, to Robert Gorham Morse, Harvard '00, which took place in the New North Church at 4 o'clock and was attended by many Bostonians, there was only one other the past week of any importance socially, that being the pretty suburban wedding of Miss Estelle Scott and James Arthur Mackintosh. It took place at the home of the bride on Waban Hill road, Chestnut Hill, Tuesday, and was attended by only the members of the families. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Bicknell of Cambridge. The bride was attended by Miss Bebe Mackintosh, sister of the groom as maid of honor, and was given away by her father. The groom was attended by Ralph Scott, brother of the bride, and the ushers were Ralph and Herbert Stearns, Carl Scott and Arthur Horne.

* * *

Several from this city attended the wedding in St. Thomas' Church, New York, Thursday, of Augustus Belmont, Jr., who recently graduated from Harvard, and Miss Alice de Goicouria

[illegible] A. Murdock, Jr., a classmate of the groom, was best man, and among the ushers were William A. Burnham, Jr., Henry C. De Rham, Jr., and Elbridge Gerry Chadwick of Clarendon street

* * *

February bids fair to be the most notable bridal month in Boston since October, and the weddings announced will all be large and distinctly fashionable. The Stockton-Head wedding, which takes place in Trinity Church next Saturday, and the Nourse-Quincy wedding Feb. 7, will be most brilliant. On account of the recent death of Miss Edyth Atherton's father her wedding to Phillip Seymour Johnson of Beacon street will be more quiet than the others. It will take place in St. Paul's Church, Brookline, and owing to the large connections on both sides will be well attended. There will be no reception after the ceremony.

Mrs. Francis Sedgwick Watson.

Castle Square Theatre

"Alabama" has had a strong hold upon the theatregoing public ever since its production some sixteen years ago, and its revival at the Castle Square Theatre this week will reveal it again as an exceptionally pathetic, humorous and dramatic play. It is one of the best of Augustus Thomas' plays, and the pictures given by its four acts of Southern life and Southern character have in them a perpetual charm. It comes back to the Castle Square after an absence of eight years, and is certain to prove one of the strongest and most popular plays of the current season at that house.

The cast will include Lillian Kemble as Mrs. Page, John Craig as Captain Davenport, Charles Mackay as Mr. Armstrong, William McVay as Colonel Moberly and John Waldron as Colonel Preston.

Globe Theatre

"Lovers and Lunatics," a new musical farce, by Walter Coleman Parker, will make its initial appearance at the Globe Theatre, at the Monday matinee. The piece serves to introduce Johnny Ford and Mayme Gehrue, well known in vaudeville, in stellar roles.

"Lovers and Lunatics" tells the story of an eccentric old German who has built a manor in close proximity to a lunatic asylum. He sends for his nephew and makes him heir to the estates, provided he marries the uncle's ward. The nephew has already secretly married; but he, the ward, and the wife enter into a conspiracy and pretend to have agreed to the uncle's wishes. The arrival of the ward's fiance, from whom she has parted in a lover's quarrel, upsets the arrangement; but the nephew takes him in hand, and easily persuades him that the manor is the asylum, the others helping the allusion by pretending to be inmates. This leads to numerous complications.

Grand Opera House

There is an abundance of mirth, music, beauty and jollity in "Happy Hooligan's Trip Around the World," the attraction at the Grand Opera House this week, with matinees on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. The farce comedy is based upon the mythical adventures of Mr. F. Opper's genial hobo, cartooned so effectively in the BOSTON AMERICAN and other papers of the Hearst syndicate.

Maurice Hageman has built up an exceedingly clever farce comedy, admirably suited to make it the most spectacular musical comedy ever produced. The costumes alone have involved an expenditure of upwards of $25,000. The company includes Gus Bruno, Charles Johnson, Ada Henry, Charles Haney, Mlle. Valesca, Joe Pettengill, Joe J. Sullivan, Charles J. Newton, Charles Belmont, and a chorus of forty.

Austin & Stone's Museum

La Belle Marie, the whirlwind dancer of the Bayrooty troupe, made a ten-strike at Austin & Stone's Museum last week. She whirled to beat the weather vane on Faneuil Hall. Never, even in a northeast gale, did the famous grasshopper get up more speed than did this vivacious barbaric beauty. La Belle Marie holds the record for speed as a whirler. She has made more than 100 revolutions a minute and kept it up for five or six minutes, and she will do better yet, she says. The show stays another week.

Powell's "Minstrel Maids" will be in evidence again this week in the stage [illegible]. In the vaudeville will be seen LeClair and West in a comedy sketch, McDado and Welcome, Harry Stone, the Burkes and the three DeGreans.

Columbia Theatre

Two of the spiciest of this season's burlettas will be given at the Columbia this week by the Colonial Belles. "The Baby Farm," the opening skit, is one of those joyous affairs where everything is kept going at a merry clip. "Cohen the Count," the other farce, although of an entirely different nature, is just as lively and gingery. Charles Robinson will be seen in the title role.

Five acts will be seen in the olio; the biggest will be the Farrel-Taylor trio in their musical sketch, "The Minstrel Boy." The others are Cook and Barrett, in a sidewalk talking act and soft shoe dancing; Nelson and Milledge, eccentriques, and the vivacious and handsome Rose Carlin, in a repertoire of coon songs.

Howard Athenaeum

"Battling Nelson," champion pugilist, conqueror of Jimmy Britt and many other distinguished ones, is the star card of the Old Howard bill for this week. Nelson comes with his clever manager, Billy Nolan, and his sparring partner, and the three will give an idea of how Nelson was trained for the recent great fight, the motion pictures of which were recently shown at the Old Howard. Those who saw the pictures will have a great chance to judge of how true they are to life.

The Old Howard offers one of the greatest variety bill of several seasons. Mr. and Mrs. Mark Murphy will appear in their wonderful skit, "The Coal Strike." George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, will black up and tell original stories; Brown, Harris and Brown; Orville and Frank; Milt Wood; the Clermones, colored singers; Kennedy and Wyble, singers, dancers and talkers; George E. Whalen, and the Healy sisters will all be in the bill. The Howardscope will offer some new motion pictures and the Mascottes Burlesquers will again show themselves cheerfully.

Bowdoin Square Theatre

After enjoying one of the most successful weeks in his theatrical career, N. S. Wood will again give his friends their last chance to see him the coming week at the Bowdoin Square Theatre. He will offer his rehabilitated drama, "The Orphans of New York." It is a play of sensationalism and comedy and it is full of the same active life and animation that has made the N. S. Wood plays famous in the past. The scenes include five picturesque views, among them Battery Park, New York, at sunset; an orphan asylum, a watchhouse overlooking the Hudson River and a conservatory at Elmwood.

Mr. Wood will play "Shiner," the bootblack, and Wilmer Walter will be Floyd Gladbrook. Miss Hale has a particularly effective part, and Miss De Sousteur has a role well suited to her as a soubrette.

Palace Theatre

Once a year Rice and Barton send their Big Gaiety Extravaganza Company to the Palace Theatre, and this splendid organization is always sure to crowd the house. Its visit is always pleasantly anticipated by "Charlie" Waldron's patrons, for the bill generally abounds in novelties. This season Charles Barton, the best comedian in the burlesque field, is in the leading comedy role. Bert Baker, formerly the star of "Jon Jonson," is with him.

The burlesque is more pretentious than that generally offered by a travelling night extravaganza company. It is so constructed that the musical features will be given due prominence. The music is new and catchy.

Lyceum Theatre

"The Blue Ribbon Girls," with two funny comedy hits entitled "Caught With the Goods" and "The Laundry Girls' Vacation," will be the attraction at the Lyceum this week. In connection with the "Blue Ribbons," Mr. Hyde presents the famous Hyde's comedians, with twenty-five show girls, a bunch of funny fellows and singers.

One of the features is the scenic production of the Cascade Gardens at the St. Louis World's Fair, which is put on with beautiful electrical effects. Miss Emma Wood will sing her latest success, entitled "I'm the Only Star That Shines on Broadway." Among the chief entertainers are James Horton, the World's Trio, Gilday and Fox, the Austins, [illegible] and Coveney. There will also be moving pictures.

The Cadet Show.

The Cadets are sure to reap another harvest from the production of "Miss Pocahontas," which opens at the Tremont Theatre next week, for the sales of seats at auction are netted a [illegible] larger than was [illegible] last year. The souvenir programme has broken all previous records, the [illegible] amounting to almost $14,000. The [illegible] includes the best of the [illegible] Fox, Hindes, Chapman, [illegible] Stevens, Soon, Powell, Highlands and [illegible] others. The dress rehearsal at [illegible] friends of the [illegible] company [illegible] permitted to get the first glimpse of the play, comes on Thursday afternoon. The [illegible] which were not disposed of at auction will be placed on sale at the box office to-morrow morning.

Roller Skating.

Crowded to its utmost capacity each evening, the Park Square Roller Skating Rink continues to grow in popularity. The Royal [illegible] Band plays music adapted to [illegible] also give new solos and selections. This band is composed of fifty musicians of great ability. Professor Fred [illegible] also appears the coming week in a comic and burlesque act.

"Mizpah" Coming.

"Mizpah," the poetic play by Ella Wheeler Wilcox, which comes to the Majestic Theatre soon, is founded on the biblical story of Esther. It is ten scenes of [illegible], the Persian locale giving [illegible] for scenic effect and costume [illegible]. Some of the scenes are quite spectacular, over 150 persons appearing on the stage. The principal roles are played by J. H. Gilmour, Olive Oliver, Adele Block, William Harcourt, Stanley [illegible] and Ralph Delmore. The action takes place in Persia during the captivity of the Jews.

Sunday Concerts

Second in a series of Sunday night concerts will be given by the Royal Italian Band, conducted by Signor Oreste Vessella, at the Park Square Roller Skating Rink to-night. Overture from "Poet and Peasant," selections from "Il Trovatore," "Mefistofele," "American Fantasia," etc., will be rendered. Signor Bottega, the famous cornet soloist, will render the "Ave Maria" by Mascagni and "Prayer" by Gounod.

Ther will be a concert at the Columbia Theatre this evening which will surpass any yet given there. There are ten high-class vaudeville acts in the bill. The box office opens at two P. M.

Charles R. Sweet will head the bill at the Majestic Theatre concert to-night, with his musical comedy [illegible]. The balance of the bill will include Press Eldridge, Haldes Imperial Russian Whirlwind Dancers, The [illegible] Smart & Williams Company, the Pirate and Conroy Illustrated Song Sheet, the Majestiscope and several other good numbers.

An unusually good bill has been arranged for the concert at the [illegible] to-night. Delmore and Lee, the aerial acrobats, will present their novel [illegible]. Press Eldridge, "commander-in-chief of the army of fun," [illegible] Smart and Williams in "A Dramatic Agency Office," the Imperial Russian Dancers, Hoey and Worth, Simmons and Green, Harry [illegible] and a local picture on the Globoscope, "The South Boston Winter bathers," and as a big extra feature Charles R. Sweet, the musical tramp, fills out the bill.

Coming Attractions

George Fiske O'Hara, the new Irish star, brings "Mr. Blarney from Ireland" to the Globe Theatre on Monday, February 5.

William B. Gray's beautiful drama of New England life, "The Volunteer Organist," comes to the Grand Opera House February 5.

E. S. Willard will play every piece in his repertoire when he comes to the Colonial Theatre February 5. In three of the roles he has never been seen here.

Stage Notes

Sam Chip and Bessie Wynn, of "Wonderland," will head a party from the company that will search the Blue Hill reservation for Mayflowers and strawberries next month. The management has offered special prizes for the best pick and all the boobies will be appropriately remembered. Bessie Wynn claims to have the original score for the first robin's song.

The list of plays to be presented at the Castle Square for the next six weeks is exceptionally interesting. It comprises "The Proud Prince," "A Lady of Quality," "The Secret of Polichinelle," "Julius Caesar," "Prince Otto" and "The Edge of the Storm." Of these plays, "Prince Otto" has never before been played in Boston, and "The Edge of the Storm" never before in this country.

J. H. Gilmour, who is a great favorite in Boston, has made a distinct hit in the role of King Ahasuerus in the Ella Wheeler Wilcox play "Mizpah," which comes to the Majestic soon.

America's most popular singer of illustrated songs, Charles Falke, is a member of the Colonial Belles company at the Columbia this week. He has quite a few songs to warble in the burlettas.

"Dinner Bells," a New Comic Song

A Very Popular Idea Embodied in a Comic Song, Published as Part of This Newspaper To-day.

FOR the majority of hard-working, honest citizens and their wives and children all through the length and breadth of this land, what subject for a popular song could be more alluring than that of "Dinner Bells"? If you have ever worked on a farm and longingly watched for your shadow to shorten till it pointed due north—the sign for the eagerly expected dinner bell—you can appreciate all that is conveyed by the phrase.

Even in the cities—in the boarding houses which shelter so large a proportion of the working population—the dinner bell sounds the most joyous of notes. Long ago the boarding house dinner bell was celebrated in song:

"Oh, how those boarders yell
When they hear the dinner bell," etc.

But of all whom that sound entices, the colored man probably finds the greatest ecstasy in it. Under the title of "Dinner Bells," the song that is printed to-day as a separate section of this newspaper, selects the dusky-hued part of the population to be depicted. Here are the first stanza and refrain:

"There is cotton picking, corn shucking on a Southern farm
Down in sunny Alabam,
They are all the time a-going, just a-plowing and a-hoeing,
Down in sunny Alabam
And all the darkies lab'ring in the cornfield
List'ning for the dinner bells to ring,
And when the sun am shining in the middle of the skies
They know it's time to eat, and start to sing:

Dinner bells! Oh, dinner bells, how I like to hear you chime!
Dinner bells! Oh, dinner bells, den I know it's eatin' time.
When you see your shadder straight ahead, den it's twelve o'clock, I know;
It's also time for to eat again when the sun am sinkin' low."

You don't need to be told that the melody set to such sympathetic words—in this age of the most expert song-writing—is appropriate; it is just enough of a tune to have a jingle without interfering in the slightest degree with proper emphasis on the significant words, while the use of intervals which suggest the ringing of the dinner bells is quite admirable.

This is one of the best "darky songs" lately published. It should make a most effective and amusing part of any light programme for a musical evening at home, with opportunities for character acting in the singing which few of the current songs offer.

BOSTON'S theatrical season is remarkable for the number of important productions which are presented here. Two important openings are announced for this week, "Babes in the Wood" coming to the Boston Theatre, and "The Education of Mr. Pipp" to the Park. "Clarice" also makes another interesting move, going from the Park Theatre, where it has been playing for a week, to the Hollis Street Theatre, where it will be given evenings, while "Veronique" switches from evenings to matinees.

Other openings are "Lovers and Lunatics" at the Globe, "Happy Hooligan's Trip Around the World" at the Grand Opera House, "Alabama" at the Castle Square, "The Little Minister" at the Empire and "Orphans of New York" at the Bowdoin Square.

Viola Allen in "The Toast of the Town" at the Colonial, "Molly Moonshine" with Marie Cahill at the Tremont, "Wonderland" at the Majestic also hold over for another week. All the vaudeville and burlesque houses present new bills.

Boston Theatre

Boston has waited long for "Babes in the Wood," the big English musical spectacle, which has been the reigning sensation for months at the Lyric Theatre in New York city. It is coming to the Boston Theatre to-morrow evening. The New York title for this, the latest of London importations, which John C. Fisher, producer of "The Silver Slipper," "Florodora" and other kindred spectacles brought over, was "Babes and the Baron." It will be presented here with the original New York production and company.

The story is based upon the familiar nursery tale. The two "babes," [illegible] under the protection of a fairy godmother, are taken on a pilgrimage to fairyland. Their journeyings began at the nursery, and they travel thence to the gates of Toyland, which they enter, and, under the escort of the toy soldier, are shown the wonders of the capital city of Toyland, finally resting in the ballroom of Robin Hood's castle. Twelve artistic stage sets are utilized in this panoramic display. The capital of Toyland shows all manner of life-size toys, everything from a toy doll to a toy soldier, and from a doll house to a gigantic Noah's ark. Dances, ensembles and pageants follow one another in quick succession. Most novel and realistic of all is a march of the living toys, a pageant of flags and the march of the flowers. Three hundred people are employed in the production, including Fred Walton in the role of the wooden soldier, La Petite Adelaide, the wonderful dancer; Junie McCree, Louis Wesley, James Marlowe, Edward Craven, Edward Latell, Lillian English, Lillian Coleman, Vera Cameron, Mabel Wilbur, Florence Trevillion, and Will Archie and Adele Cox, as the two "babes."

Park Theatre

In his pretty little comedy based on the characters in the social cartoons of Charles Dana Gibson, "The Education of Mr. Pipp" series, Augustus Thomas has [illegible] wonderful. He has taken [illegible] about which most reading [illegible] have some idea, and humanized [illegible]. In this latter process the personality of Digby Bell, the creator of the [illegible] lends itself to the success of [illegible]. His droll utterances of the [illegible] and his natural humor have made possible a flesh and blood Mr. Pipp.

What is vital in the Gibson drawings is that they boldly proclaim certain weaknesses of the Anglo-Saxon. This is the wonderful part of the comedy. Mr. Thomas had to counteract in the play all that Mr. Gibson had done, for he had to put a heart into a lot of people that Mr. Gibson really presented as lines—lines that if the paper had been taken away would have fallen to the floor for lack of backbone.

In Digby Bell, as Mr. Pipp, who with his original New York cast of "The Education of Mr. Pipp," will be presented at the Park Theatre to-morrow night, Boston theatregoers will see a little man who is all heart, for Thomas's Mr. Pipp is not always the henpecked, willing-to-be-bossed husband. His cunning and his victories over the domineering wife are half the play.

Keith's Theatre

Two leading attractions of the big variety program announced from Keith's for the week of January 29 are Europeans and have never before been seen in New England. Auguste Van Biene, one of the world's really great 'cellists, is certain to attract more music lovers than have been seen since the Summer season. When the "Yankee Circus on Mars" was produced at the New York Hippodrome last season the big sensational success was Mlle. Therese Renz, a famous European horsewoman, formerly instructress to the Bavarian court. Mlle. Renz is the foremost horsewoman of Europe, and the Keith management are of the opinion that no handsomer or more wonderfully trained equines have ever been seen in this city. The great Kaufmann troupe of bicyclists come direct from the Hippodrome, and are claimed to be the finest organization of daring and expert cyclists in the world. Included in the surrounding show are Howard and North, in "Those Were the Happy Days"; Wilton Brothers, European comedy acrobats; Carroll Johnson, "The Beau Brummel of Minstrelsy;" Gallagher and Barrett, in a travesty sketch; Violet Dale, imitator of stage favorites, Miss Norton and Paul Nicholson, in a comedy sketch, "The Ladies' Tailor," Grace Leonard, "The American Vesta Tilley"; Eddie Mack, clever step dancer, and Potter and Harris, acrobats and equilibrists. Harry Houdini, "the handcuff king," will be the star feature of the program the week of February 5.

Hollis Street Theatre

Arrangements of a unique and unusual kind were consummated yesterday between Messrs. Frohman, Rich and Harris and George Edwardes of London, to enable William Gillette to extend his engagement in "Clarice" for one more week in Boston. Mr. Edwardes's company in "Veronique," now playing at the Hollis Street Theatre, will relinquish its night performances next week, giving five matinees there instead, except on Saturday.

As Mr. Edwardes's company closes its American tour in Boston this coming week, and Mr. Edwardes wants some of the principals for an early London production, this arrangement was agreed to with the hope that the company might get a Saturday steamer for England, so next week "Veronique" will be given every afternoon but Saturday, and Mr. Gillette will appear at the Hollis on the six evenings and the Saturday matinee.

Persons holding tickets for any of the evening performances of "Veronique" may have them exchanged for matinee performances at once. The sale of seats for "Clarice" will begin at the box office of the Hollis Street Theatre to-morrow.

Colonial Theatre

Viola Allen has again achieved a big hit in Boston, this time as Betty Singleton in Clyde Fitch's comedy, "The Toast of the Town," at the Colonial, where she continues during the present week. But Miss Allen has always been a big favorite, in this, her home town. It should be taken into account, however, that the plays in which she has appeared since becoming a star have been very well worthy of her great talents and reputation.

"The Toast of the Town" is a comedy of rare charm, and Mr. Fitch has provided Miss Allen with a role with great dramatic possibilities. Every little detail is in excellent taste. In the company which supports Miss Allen are Isabel Irving, Conway Tearle, Mrs. Fanny Addison Pitt, Harrison Hunter, Hassard Short, C. Leslie Allen, Norman Tharp. Miss Allen will give matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

Majestic Theatre

At the Majestic Theatre Julian Mitchell's latest creation "Wonderland," enters upon the third and last week of its prosperous engagement on Monday. In this Mr. Mitchell has in every way maintained his reputation for beauty of costuming and scenic effect. One creation alone, that of Bolla, the laughing horse, has made for the piece a reputation all its own. Victor Herbert composed the music. Glen MacDonough found the inspiration for the book in that familiar tale of the dancing princesses by the Brothers Grim.

Sam Chip, the diminutive comedian, still continues to make laughing friends with his original comedy work and his song "No Show To-night." Lotta Faust, Bessie Wynn, Elvia Croix Seabrook, Charles Barry, Hulda Halvers and William Cameron still retain their respective roles. George McKay will be replaced by dancing Bert Von Cline. There will be the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

Tremont Theatre

To-day terminates the second week of Marie Cahill's engagement at the Tremont Theatre and "Molly Moonshine" has only one week more to run. As was the case in New York, numerous people have seen the clever musical comedy [illegible] several times, and never seem to tire of it. "Who is different from all others" is the phrase that best suits Marie Cahill. Her versatility is probably the most unique thing in the history of the American drama.

In the words of Miss Cahill, "Pathos is the handmaiden of comedy," and when she glides quietly at a given moment on the stage during "Molly Moonshine," one realizes quickly that she utilizes the one as well as the other in her skilful playing on the emotions of her audience. Ever since she took that [illegible] song "Nancy Brown" and interpreted the pathetic story in a way which caused it to be the most sung of all our popular songs, she has been hailed as America's greatest comedienne.

Empire Theatre

In announcing the stage version of "The Little Minister" as the attraction at the Empire Theatre this week, Manager Morrison has complied with the wishes not only of the patrons who have requested this play, but a large public to whom it is a novelty from the long time that has elapsed since its last presentation in Boston. Its first popularity was made by Maude Adams, by whom it was used for nearly two years after her original presentation of it in 1897, and it has had but a single production in Boston since that time.

In the coming production at the Empire Theatre unusual care has been shown to reproduce the original settings of the play. The principal characters have been cast: Rev. Gavin Dishart, Howell Hansel; Lord Rintoul, William Hasson; Captain Halliwell, Francis Byrne; Tammas Whamond, James Seeley; Snecky Hobart, Frederick Murray; Andrew Mealmeker, William Evarts; Silva Tosh, Edwin Nicander; Rob Dow, Frank Losee; Micah Dow, Zeffie Til-

BY J. FRANK DAVIS.

IT has been a rather unusual week in Boston theatredom. We have had the world's greatest tragedienne, America's most [illegible] in an English comic opera and a musical play much above the average, an American serious actress in a weak play, and the funniest stage animal a spectacular show has produced for twenty years.

• • • • •

Of course, you have to speak of Bernhardt in a class by herself, with an upcasting of the eyes and a lowering of the awestruck voice. Bernhardt has not been in Boston for many years. She is sixty-two, though fair. She says she will navairre return. It would be a crime theatrically speaking, not to see her in at least one play. So we all went.

On the first night we were Society and wore claw-hammers and expensive shirtfronts. After that we were the People and didn't [illegible] much for dress. We filled the theatre to the roof, and the Boston [illegible] tremendous big house—and applauded as intelligently as our ignorance of French allowed.

We saw a marvellously well-preserved woman, with such a magnificent purring voice that within ten minutes we forgot how long were her arms, and how wide her mouth and how strange her gowns with their "freaky" waistline. We worked oh, so hard, trying to watch the stage and read the translation of the show, and keep track of our opera glasses, and not drop [illegible] overcoats from our laps. We applauded furiously after nearly every [illegible], giving the divine Sarah about twenty curtain calls a night. And we [illegible] out explaining how grand it was, and I don't doubt it was to the [illegible] who understood it.

The [illegible] the remarkable [illegible] confess [illegible] after they reached their own apartments. "It was splendid," they said. "I wouldn't have missed seeing her for anything. It is so embarrassing to be asked if you have seen Bernhardt and to have to say you haven't. [illegible] it?" Why, no, not exactly that. I was glad to be there. Understand it? Don't ask foolish questions. Although if you promise not to tell I'll confess that I didn't really like her as well as I would someone who talked English. But not a word of this to a soul. I wouldn't have anybody know it for the world."

• • • • •

I suppose if I were to call William Gillette the greatest American actor I would have every friend of Richard Mansfield suggesting that I be sent to a home for incurable dramatic reviewers. So I won't, whatever I may think. But you will at least admit that he is the greatest actor playwright, and I think no one will cavil at calling him the most pleasing American actor.

If the managers didn't have their houses filled with advance dates they could run "Clarice" in Boston for a dozen weeks. It is certainly the hit of the season, thus far. It played its regular engagement at the Colonial, then two weeks of matinees there, and this last week it was at the Park. Next week it will be at the Hollis.

And yet it was a flat failure in London, and Gillette brought it across and put it on for a week here as a forlorn hope, before closing it.

• • • • •

In trying to find out why London didn't like "Clarice," maybe you can learn why we don't like the first act of "Veronique," which London—where the show ran 500 nights—thought as good as the rest of the show. If "Clarice" is too American, the first act of "Veronique" is too English. The jokes in it are good—from the English standpoint. They sound like "Punch." And the whole act, to the American mind, drags. After that, things pick up somewhat.

Ruth Vincent sings as well as when she was here a couple of seasons ago with "The Medal and the Maid," that ill-starred adventure of Jimmy Powers. She still persists in wearing baby caps and low-heeled shoes, which would be very becoming in a small woman, and she is handicapped by a leading man who sings but cannot act at all, and a comedian who fails to be funny to the American mind, and by a chorus which ought to rise and smite the base stage manager that made them wear decollete dresses.

"Veronique" was booked to play all next week at the Hollis, but the engagement has been cut to get in another week of Gillette. So the English show, that ran 500 nights in London, is pushed aside to let in the American show that London would have none of. Did you ever see a more striking example of the irony of theatrical fate?

• • • • •

Speaking of plots, there is more of a plot to "Molly Moonshine" than to most musical shows. With the star as a secret service agent, with a Japanese and a Russian ambassador and a spy for each, and the possession of valuable state papers at stake, the Marie Cahill show threatens to be positively melodramatic at times.

But what care we that there is a plot, and that the chorus is pretty and shapely, and that the whole piece goes with a swing and snap that bespeaks the hardest kind of continuous work by the stage director, so long as we hear Miss Cahill sing "Don't Be What You Ain't."

Her three songs—and that is the best one by far—would carry the show if nothing else did.

But the Cahill is never satisfied. She not only insists on having a good show, but she carries a business manager that can invent better press agent stories than any other in the business. Joseph C. Drum has had those chorus girls striking in every town the show has reached—and the newspapers are still biting at it.

• • • • •

We thought, a fortnight ago, when we saw "The Woman in the Case," that we had seen Clyde Fitch at his worst—but now we have "The Toast of the Town."

Yet this offence isn't as noticeable as the former, because Viola Allen, who is starring, has a fine company, and she herself works as conscientiously, if with as little soul, as ever.

But the plot! Imagine a squalid garret overlooking the palace of the Duke. And imagine an old, old man, rheumatic and slow, starting to descend five flights of stairs to summon said Duke from said palace, and getting His Grace back in four and one-half minutes. The only explanation possible is that telephones and automobiles were in use, and as the play is located in the eighteenth century this seems untenable, or would to anybody but Fitch—or Kremer. And this is one situation of many.

• • • • •

Have you seen the laughing horse in "Wonderland"? There have been funny stage animals, from Dixey and Golden's heifer, in "Evangeline," to the cowardly lion in "The Wizard of Oz," but never so funny a one, I am sure, as this. With Sam Chip, who is droll, and a good company of pretty girls, he helps to make successful a show that starts off with a hodge-podge of music that Victor Herbert is probably ashamed of, and an inane book.

• • • • •

They say the sun is 92,900,000 miles away. Not knowing, I cheerfully concede the fact. By the same process of thought I eliminate Bernhardt from all comparisons, as in a [illegible] by herself.

Getting down to earth, the [illegible] of the week is certainly "Clarice." And next—a long way next—is [illegible] laughing horse.

Moran

That he so readily secured the presence in New England of Mr Gurley, who has been known as the promoter of the company, and that Mr. Gurley allowed himself to be cross-examined for six or seven hours by Attorney Yeaton, representing the District-Attorney, while Messrs. Hedges and Brigham have refused, "under advice of counsel," to answer any questions put to them by him, has caused a general belief that Mr. Gurley will appear as a witness before the Grand Jury.

The most important development in the Provident case yesterday was the exclusive interview secured with Mr Gurley in New York, late in the evening, by a special staff correspondent of the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN, to whom Mr Gurley said that if a feasible arrangement could be made with the receivers and the court he might be able to reimburse the depositors in the Provident company for all they had lost.

"I am not responsible, either morally or financially, for the acts of the other directors," he said, and he spoke bitterly of the Boston officials of the company, whom he believed had endeavored to shift the blame for the company's shortcomings upon him.

A number of important cases are to come before the Grand Jury at its meeting on the first Monday in February. Some of them were postponed when Mr. Moran was taken ill, this month Others are of recent origin None exceeds in general public interest the Provident Bank case, in which nearly 9,000 people lost their savings.

Since it became known that the Provident Savings Bank had in its vaults less than $500 in cash of the $182,000 deposited in it by the poor, and the demand through the BOSTON AMERICAN that the authorities should take cognizance of the condition by punishing those who were responsible, events have moved swiftly.

District Attorney Moran preferred charges against the Savings Bank Commissioners of Massachusetts, and while he was demanding a hearing two of them resigned.

Cash on Hand Shrinks.

It developed that the cash on hand, which the bank examiners had found to be $2,003, had shrunk unexplainedly to a sixth of that sum.

Treasurer Lorenzo D. Burlen of Brookline went to Montreal, whence he later returned. He admitted having taken boxes from the bank after he knew it was to be closed, although he says they contained only his personal property.

Charges were preferred against a police captain and a patrolman who had allowed Mr Burlen to enter the bank and carry away the boxes. These are still unsettled. The Police Commissioners refused to allow the District Attorney to attend the hearing, at which Mr Burlen was a witness.

General Samuel Dalton, who was president of the company, has been placed in a sanatorium It is given out that the publicity regarding the smashed bank proved the last straw that unsettled his mind.

During all this time District-Attorney Moran has been working with great energy and giving as much of his time as his other duties would allow—for his special investigations have not prevented him from performing all the routine services performed by his predecessor—endeavoring, in the face of opposition from those whom he summoned to meet him, to secure re-

GIRL SAVES BROTHER AND SISTER FROM FIRE.

By her heroism, Rosa Naiman, a thirteen-year-old girl, saved the lives of her young brother and her baby sister from death by fire at their home, No. 12 Oswego street, last night. In so doing she was burned about the face and hands. She carried the children through the flames, down three flights of stairs. Then she fell from exhaustion.

"I didn't think I was doing anything unusual," said the girl to a BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN reporter. "If I didn't save my little brother and sister I would never be thought well of."

The fire was confined to the top floor of the house. The lower floor is occupied by Mrs. Becky Holmes and her four children, the second floor by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yawitz and seven children, and the top floor by Mr and Mrs. Abram Naiman and six children.

Mr. and Mrs. Naiman were visiting next door. Joseph Naiman, twelve years old and his sister Rosa, were reading in the sitting room, while Isaac, aged five years old and little Rachel, aged two years, were asleep in the bed room. The lad started to the kitchen to build a fire and as he was passing the bathroom door, flames burst out and almost enveloped him.

Through these he ran to the only flight of stairs in the building to the street, where he turned in the alarm

Rosa, without stopping to think of the risk to herself, ran to the bed room and taking a child under each arm started for the street

When the firemen got to the blaze, they were but a short time in extinguishing it

The clothing and hair of Rachale Naiman, the little girl saved, was burned, but she was not dangerously injured

The damage will reach about $200 which is partially covered by insurance. No good reason can be assigned for the fire as there was no lighted gas in the bathroom.

PLAN 2,000,000 INCREASE IN TAXES.

Councilman Kiley Petitions for Legislation to Levy on Public Service Concerns.

RADICAL CHANGES PROPOSED BY NEW BILL

An increase of at least $2,000,000 to the annual income of the State, the cities and the towns by property taxation would be gained by the adoption of the changes in taxation laws proposed in the petition of Daniel J. Kiley of Boston to the State Legislature. Councilman Kiley's petition calls for a property tax on all locations and property of street railways and electric light, heating and power companies. An instance of the tremendous increase would be that of the Boston Elevated Street Railway Company, which would have to pay a yearly tax of at least $600,000, instead of the $70,000 it now pays. Already legislative agents of big corporations are at work and a bitter fight is expected against the proposed measure

The new bill, planned along lines now prevailing in Wisconsin, will add materially to the sensations expected when the Legislature settles down to discuss the various measures which are before them on public service corporations.

The petition also has an important bearing on the recommendation by the Governor in his inaugural, calling attention to the need of more revenue, owing to the increased expenditures with no corresponding increase in receipts.

Those favoring the bill declare that taxes in nearly all the cities and towns have increased the past few years, and the real estate owners and industrial enterprises have been heavily taxed to meet all expenses, while the public service corporations have been practically immune. To meet the increased expenses the new legislation asks for a fair and equitable tax from the corporations.

It is asserted that the situation in this state has assumed a similar condition to that which existed in Wisconsin when Governor La Follette assumed office The debt of that state was increasing and the taxes on the people were heavy The Governor found that the State was corporation ridden and decided to tax the public service corporations, a measure which was passed after a bitter legislative fight lasting several months.

Wisconsin Law As Model.

The bill of Ex Representative Kiley's is exactly similar to the Wisconsin law. The bill provides for the accounting to the people of this state every cent earned and expended by the company and the payment of a tax thereon The Board of Assessment is to consist of the tax commissioner, the chairman of the Railroad Commission and the chairman of the Gas and Electric Light Commission

This board are given absolute power to compel all such corporations to bring in once a year all the books and papers of the corporations, showing the exact nature of all property, including buildings, lands, rights of way, tracks, wires, equipment, rolling stock and subsidiary companies for valuation

The taxes derived from the new form of taxation would then be divided, the state taking 15 per cent and the cities and towns in which the railways operated would receive 85 per cent

BLOODHOUNDS ARE AFTER $15,000 GEM THIEVES.

Newport Woman, in Florida, Loses Valuable Heirlooms, and Husband Heads Posse in Search of the Robbers

Newport, R. I., Jan. 27.—Bloodhounds are on the track of burglars who stole $15,000 worth of diamonds and other jewelry from the Winter home of Colonel and Mrs. Charles L. S. Robinson at Miami, Fla., and it is believed they will be caught Mrs Robinson feels keenly the loss of some of the diamonds, as they were family heirlooms and treasured for sentimental reasons as well as for their intrinsic worth

Colonel and Mrs Robinson, who are prominent in Newport society, had been in Florida for about two months and were preparing to leave Miami for Cuba. The jewels were in Mrs. Robinson's strong box and were thought to be perfectly secure. Their loss was discovered when she was getting ready for her departure.

Colonel Robinson commands the Newport Artillery Company and is prominent in military and yachting as well as in social circles. Several of the jewels stolen, including pearls, sapphires and other gems were inherited by Mrs Robinson from her mother, the late Mrs. Beach, while others were received by will from her aunt, the late Mrs. Cole of Hartford, Ct. The handsome gems given her by her husband at the time of their wedding are also included in the loss by Mrs. Robinson.

A posse of mounted police and civilians, with Colonel Robinson at their head, has scoured the country in pursuit of the burglars, but so far have not been successful in their search.

LOST COMPLEXION; LOST $1,000 SUIT AGAINST WOMAN

Judge Holds that Fair Plaintiff Cannot Blame Masseuse for Crop of Pimples.

Fitchburg, Jan. 27.—Judge Gallagher handed down his decision for the defendant in the case of Mrs. Sarah M. Houghton vs. Margaret E. Rock, which caused such a sensation here at the hearing last week

The suit was for $1,000, which value Mrs. Houghton set upon her complexion. She alleged that after treatment at the hands of Miss Rock, a masseuse, her complexion was ruined by all sorts of pimples. Her beauty, she contended, has been injured for life.

Judge Gallagher found that Miss Rock was not responsible for the present condition of the plaintiff's face and that if it had become disfigured it was not because of any treatment received at the hands of Miss Rock.

MYSTERY GATHERS ABOUT GIRL WHO LOST MEMORY.

Fall River Ward Says She Lives in Philadelphia, but Relatives Cannot Be Found. Still in the City Hospital

Fall River, Jan. 27.—Greater mystery than ever surrounds the identity of the young woman who was admitted to the city hospital a week ago, where she was taken by the police in a semi-demented state. She gave the name then of Mary Fisher To-day she gave evidence of becoming more rational, and stated that her right name was Elizabeth Mafesky that her home was in Philadelphia, and that she had a brother living at No. 68 Butler street

Inquiries by telegraph have failed to locate any person by the name of Mafesky at the Butler street address. The young woman has been turned over to the Poor Department until some development discloses her identity

The young woman was taken Sunday night from the residence of Mrs Melvina Morin. She appeared at the door and asked for shelter Aside from her seeming lapse of memory, she appears to be in good health

WRECKED SKIPPER FOUND AFFINITY IN RESCUER.

If the schooner Sarah Potter had not gone ashore in a gale off the rockbound coast of Salem, and if Captain Harry Hatfield hadn't lashed himself in the rigging until daylight brought succor—a circumstance that he esteemed the opposite of favorable during the four hours the sea dashed over him—he would not have married Miss Helen Daisey, of No. 47 Porter street, Somerville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Daisey last Friday and a pretty romance would remain untold.

The Sarah Potter hailed from St. John, N. B., and was beating down the New England coast late in the Summer of 1902 when she was caught in a tremendous storm. Captain Hatfield and his crew of four worked with all their might to keep her afloat, but could only do it by running before the wind with bare poles, and the wind was dead on the coast

In the darkness they made out the roar of breakers ahead Vainly they tried to [illegible] the vessel off the threatening coast She struck and was driven high up the beach, where a cradle of rock saved her from going to pieces. Unaware of just where they were, or how far away the shore might be, the skipper and his crew lashed themselves in the rigging

At [illegible] o'clock or thereabouts, in the [illegible] Miss Daisey who was spending [illegible] with the family of E. A. Greenough of Salem awoke. It had seemed to [illegible] that she heard a voice crying for help She thought it was a dream Then as she composed herself for sleep again, over the noise of the wind and rain she heard the cry again "Help"

In the faint light of a breaking day the skipper had seen that the shore was near, with houses, and had cried out hoping someone might hear before his vessel broke up under him

When those whom Miss Daisey summoned had got the skipper ashore his eyes first rested on Miss Daisey The sight pleased him. He stayed with the Greenoughs while his vessel which was found to be less damaged than he feared, was repaired.

The next summer Miss Daisey was again a visitor at the Greenough house. So was Captain Hatfield

Their engagement was announced three weeks ago.

FOR KILLING OF MABEL PAGE

Sentenced to Be Executed in Electric Chair During the Week of June 10.

PROTESTS IN COURT THAT HE IS GUILTLESS

EMBRACES SOBBING MOTHER AFTER ORDEAL

Counsel Already Preparing Case for U. S. Supreme Court as Last Hope.

By J. Frank Davis.

Charles Louis Tucker, convicted of having murdered Mabel Page at Weston on March 31, 1904, is sentenced to die in the electric chair during the week beginning June 10.

Calmly, almost stolidly, he heard the sentence pronounced yesterday by Judge Edgar J. Sherman in the Superior Criminal Court at East Cambridge. Given the privilege of speech before listening to the terrible decree, he spoke but sixteen words

"Your Honor, all that I have to say is that I am absolutely innocent of this crime."

His sweet-faced mother, who has stood by him since the moment of his accusation, and will stand by him until the end, confident of his innocence, was in the building, but not in the court room, when Judge Sherman sentenced him. This was at the prisoner's request. Left alone, she would have been by his side, though the shock had killed her. She felt that in some way she would thus lessen the blow

Hardly had the handcuffed boy been led back to his cell, after an affecting meeting with his mother, when his attorneys were at work preparing their appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States.

They will ask for a new trial on the ground that Tucker's constitutional rights were infringed by the search of his home for the knife which became so important a piece of evidence at the trial that he was thus virtually forced to furnish evidence to convict himself

Scene Most Dramatic.

The scene when sentence was pronounced was dramatic in the extreme—almost as dramatic as that scene a year ago last Thursday, when a jury of twelve good men and true, tired, gray-faced and haggard, brought in the verdict that broke Tucker's preternatural calm and bowed him, sobbing, to the rail before his cage, while attorneys for state and defense alike burst into tears and from the closed door of an adjacent room rose and fell the [illegible] sobs of a mother almost bereft

There was even more of a crowd in attendance yesterday than on any day of the famous trial Long before the hour for court to come in every seat in the courtroom was filled. There were attorneys and actors in the tragic drama that was to be enacted, court officials and spectators, reporters and artists.

Outside the swinging doors deputy sheriffs and police struggled with those anxious [illegible] and several times [illegible], while the curious, whose attempts to reach points of vantage [illegible] room had been baffled, [illegible] in the street between courthouse and jail and jostled one another to get a passing view as the prisoner was taken back and forth

The prisoner's cage, which was not in evidence when Tucker was in court a fortnight ago, had been replaced, and but for the presence of one judge on the bench, instead of two, and the absence of the jury and the inadequate arrangements for the newspaper people whose business assembled them there quite a few were forcibly thrust back into outer darkness by officials w[illegible] friends seemed to have no difficult[illegible] passing the door [illegible] scene was in every way reminiscent of [illegible] bitterly contested trial.

Tucker was dressed in black and as immaculately washed and shaved and brushed and combed as ever, as he entered the room [illegible] two deputies. [illegible] cheeks and [illegible] as he took [illegible] served by all observers. [illegible] trance of the court distracted attention from him.

District-Attorney Sanderson formally moved for sentence, and Attorney Vahey of Tucker's lawyers requested that execution of the sentence be postponed to the farthest possible day, in order that time might be given [illegible] the desired [illegible] Attorney-General Malone, who [illegible] Attorney-General Parker [illegible] of the [illegible] there but took no active part in the proceedings.

Clerk Hurd addressed Tucker with the stereotyped question, "Have you anything to say why sentence of death should not be pronounced upon you?"

Tucker rose promptly to his feet and the courtroom [illegible] of positions and the craning of necks. He looked not at the questioner, but squarely at Judge Sherman, as he spoke the sixteen short words that he had to say. Brief as it was, his speech made a better impression than that unfortunate address which [illegible] retired to pass [illegible] attempted to [illegible] testimony and to tell something of the story of the murder afternoon, notwithstanding that he had failed to take the stand in his own defense.

Judge Sad and Stern.

He sat back in his chair when he had said his say, and Judge Sherman gathered together his papers, cleared his throat, and called Tucker's name, whereupon he arose again.

Judge Sherman read from his notes, in a conversational voice. He recounted briefly the discovery of the murder, the arrest and indictment of the prisoner, and the various subsequent legal steps. He spoke of the value of circumstantial evidence. Although he used the word "you" several times, it was much as though he was talking of a third person, and Tucker showed no emotion stronger than a lively [illegible] interest.

Then came a change. Speaking more impressively, and even more directly to Tucker, the Judge said: "When you left the lifeless body of Mabel Page on the floor of the Page house that day, you carried away with you many mute and silent witnesses of your guilt; enough, with the other evidence in the case, to satisfy a jury of your peers, 'twelve good men and true,' beyond a reasonable doubt, of your guilt."

At these first words, which said to him, in effect, "You left the body of Mabel Page there; you are guilty; and you and I know it," there came a change into Tucker's face. All the flush left his cheeks and they became like chalk. His pendulous lower lip quivered, and he moistened it and its mate again and again with his tongue. His eyes swam with tears that did did not fall. His hands clutched and held at the rail upon which they rested until the knuckles stood out bony and white.

"You Shall Suffer Death."

"It is considered and ordered by the court that you, Charles L. Tucker, shall be taken to the jail in this county, and there kept in close custody until within ten days prior to Sunday, the tenth day of June next, when you shall be removed to the State Prison in Boston, in the County of Suffolk, and there kept in close confinement until the said tenth day of said June, when, within the week beginning on said last day, you shall suffer death by the passage of [illegible] through your body; and this is the sentence required by law."

Judge Sherman resumed his seat, and Tucker sat down as though with relief, but without weakness.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

By Grand Jury in Moran's Effort to

plies to these three questions:

"Where did the depositors' money go?"

"Who got it?"

"Who is criminally liable for the loss?"

It [illegible] officers [illegible] it was [illegible] indictment Colonel Hedges and General Brigham have refused to appear before Mr. Moran.

Colonel Hedges Vice President.

Colonel Hedges, famous as a former commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, who on the occasion of the company's visit to England not long ago personally made the acquaintance of King Edward, was vice-president of the Provident company until a year ago last month.

General Brigham, a prominent Boston shoe manufacturer and a [illegible] general on the staff of Governor Curtis Guild, Jr., was a director of the company from its inception until last April. Since the facts attending the Provident exposure have come to public view he has resigned from his staff position, but Governor Guild has not yet accepted his resignation.

The BOSTON AMERICAN has succeeded in ascertaining what became of most of the deposits of the [illegible] as said by one of the attaches that the deposits were used to pay the running expenses of the concern.

The officials drew in salaries $15,000. There was paid to C. O. Burns & Co., who installed the little banks that were so freely distributed about to assist in saving, $52,500, beside an original payment of $13,000 for the banks themselves. A loan to a gelatine company, secured by notes that will not come due for long, if ever, amounts to $48,750. There is also a loan of $6,000 to this same Gelatine company, in an open account, an expenditure of $5,000 for furniture and fittings, and other smaller and apparently legitimate items of expense.

Salaries, for three years	$15,000
Loan to Gelatine Company, open account	6,000
Lost on Salt and Soda Company note	5,800
Paid for small banks	13,000
Commission to C. O. Burns Company for installing banks	52,500
Loan to Gelatine Company	48,750
Furniture and fittings	5,000
Paid to Welch, for patent rights in type-setting machine	2,000
Total	$178,050

Upon what charge Mr. Moran can indict the officials of the company no one outside of Mr. Moran's office knows, and no one inside that office is telling.

Moran is Reticent.

There are several sections of the revised statutes under which officials could be proceeded against criminally provided that the evidence should indicate their offence. Which of these will be the sections under which Mr. Moran will bring action against the officials of the bank cannot be stated, because no one but Mr. Moran and Mr. Yeaton know just what evidence the District Attorney possesses.

If it should appear that any of these officials had subscribed to a false statement as to the amount of cash actually paid in for capital stock in the certificate of condition filed with the Commissioner of Corporations, they would be criminally liable under Section 8 of Chapter 126 of the statutes, which provides that the president, treasurer and a majority of the directors of all foreign corporations shall make such a report, and says: "Every agent of such a corporation which fails to comply with the requirements of this section * * * shall, for such failure, be liable to a fine of not more than $500."

If it should be proved that any person under investigation had taken funds belonging to the bank or its depositors, he might be proceeded against under Section 44 of Chapter 208, which reads:

Law Against Taking Funds

"An officer of an incorporated bank, or a person in the employ of such bank, who fraudulently converts, or fraudulently takes and secretes with intent so to do, any bullion, money, note, bill or other security for money which belongs to and is in possession of said bank, or which belongs to any person and is deposited therein, shall, whether intrusted with the custody thereof or not, be guilty of larceny in said bank, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the State Prison for not more than ten years or a fine of not more than $1,000 and imprisonment in jail for not more than two years."

If it should be found that any officer of the company had issued or indorsed a note of the company contrary to law, he would be amenable to Section 60 of Chapter 208, which reads as follows:

"An officer . . . of a corporation . . . who issues, signs or indorses with intent to issue, a bond, note, bill, or other obligation or security in the name of such corporation, beyond the amount authorized by law . . . shall be punished by imprisonment in the State prison for not more than ten years or in the House of Correction for not more than one year."

Should it appear that the books of the company had been falsely kept, Section 58 of the same chapter would apply, as follows:

"An officer of a corporation or an agent, clerk or servant of a person, firm or corporation, who makes a false entry or omits to make a true entry in any book of such person, firm or corporation, with intent to defraud . . . shall be punished by imprisonment in the State prison for not more than ten years or in the House of Correction for not more than one year."

A general section, that might apply to many irregularities possible in the carrying on of a corporation which solicits and obtains money from the public, is Section 64 of the same chapter, which reads:

"Whoever is convicted of any gross fraud or cheat at common law shall be punished by imprisonment in the State prison for not more than ten years or in jail for not more than two years or by a fine of not more than $500."

These are laws under which Mr. Moran might endeavor to indict the officials of the Provident Company. It may be that offences have been discovered by him which would warrant an indictment under some other law. That will probably not be known until the report of the grand jury is received.

"Charles L. Tucker did not act like a murderer. I saw nothing in his demeanor to help me decide as to his guilt."—MABEL WALKER.

MABEL WALKER TELLS WHY SHE HAS NOT COME TO THE AID OF CHARLES L. TUCKER

By Ernest I. Jackson.

Damariscotta, Me., Jan. 27.—For the first time since Mabel Page was murdered Mrs. Mabel Walker Grundy, who was with Charles L. Tucker for a time on that fatal afternoon, has talked at length to a newspaper man. I sat in her home for two hours and twenty minutes and she talked of herself, her family, her baby and her unfortunate connection with the Tucker case.

This is the ultimatum that she gave me as to whether she would or would not go to Boston to testify in Tucker's favor:

"When they can show me that the innocence of Mr. Tucker can be established by my testimony I shall consider the proposition of returning to Massachusetts in his behalf. Until then I will not court the notoriety that would come to me from appearing in the case.

"I was unfortunate enough to meet Mr. Tucker on the day of the murder. It was the merest chance. I had been acquainted with him before. And I cannot see that anything I might add to the testimony that has already been given would affect the case.

"They said I was with Tucker two hours and a half. That is false. We were together not more than fifteen minutes. I am tired and sick of it all, and I am firmly determined in my attitude.

The BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN desired to learn from Mabel Walker's own lips if she could throw new light upon the famous case and if she would actually make the effort when called upon by those most interested. I sought and found her in her comfortable home on the banks of the beautiful Damariscotta River.

Guarded Like a Princess.

It is no easy task to find and talk with Mabel Walker Grundy these days. No fabled princess was ever more intelligently or more effectively guarded. When, last Fall, she chose to lose herself from the sight of the public for a time she disappeared effectually for many weeks, defying the efforts of lawyers and detectives to locate her.

Her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Gamage, with whom she lives, are as energetic as the President's secret service bodyguard and as difficult to pass as a cordon of electrified barbed wire fences about a citadel.

"I never saw you before, but if you have come to talk to me about the Tucker case I must disappoint you. Besides, if my uncle or aunt returns and finds you here you will be sent away," is what the young woman said in opening.

"Could nothing induce you to take an active interest in Tucker's welfare?" I asked. "Suppose your husband, aunt, uncle were willing for you to go to Boston right away and help the condemned man secure a new trial?"

"All idle talk," returned the girl. "My husband, now employed in Boston, does his own thinking, and he wouldn't listen to such a proposition, but would give a very short answer to anyone making it. My husband has a good position and good folks, and, like myself, can be independent when need be. I have been accused of over-independence, but I guess it is only the family spirit."

She spoke of her family: "My mother died years ago," she said, "and my father, who lived until 1903, left me most of the time with my Aunt Gamage. My father was a watchman for years at the Hotel Bellevue, Boston. In a measure left to myself, I took almost my own way, and for years have gone and come about as I saw fit."

Mrs. Grundy dislikes to discuss the Tucker case. Ten times she repeated "I am sick of it, and I would not mix into it under any consideration," and twice she stamped her foot.

"Suppose you were tendered money?"

"Money would not tempt me."

"But if a large sum were offered?"

"It would make no difference. Under no circumstances, I say," and the young woman pounded her hand upon the table.

"Suppose it would save an innocent man's life?"

"That would be different," she returned with subsiding anger.

"Suppose your husband were approached with a sufficient money proposition by those interested in this celebrated case?" I asked.

"Useless. I know him too well. Besides, in this instance it would take three to make a bargain. Why, I have money enough. I guess I don't even spend the income from my own property. And aren't my folks well fixed, too? Besides, what use could one have for money here in Damariscotta?"

"But you will soon join Mr. Grundy in Boston."

"No matter. There was no need to drag me into this affair. Sometimes I suspect who tipped the police as to my meeting with Tucker that day. Maybe I am over suspicious. I wouldn't care if any useful purpose could be served, but the lies they have circulated drive me frantic sometimes.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Grundy does not think that Tucker acted like a murderer on that fatal afternoon. The conversation was upon the subject of mischief-makers when she so expressed herself. She remarked bitterly that what few enemies she possessed seemed to live right in her home town, and wondered if that was the way of the world. After a moment she burst forth with considerable show of feeling.

"Didn't Act as if Guilty."

"If Charles L. Tucker was a murderer he wasn't going to tell me about it. It is true he did not act like one. I saw nothing in his demeanor to help me decide his guilt. I don't want to decide it. I don't want to be quoted as giving an opinion. I will give none. And I will not go to Massachusetts looking to obtain a new trial for him, because I couldn't help either the government or the defence.

"My time would be wasted as I see it, and while it would serve no useful purpose I would be further exploited and made decidedly uncomfortable. Not only myself, but my family and friends are to be considered. For their sakes I will stay here.

"So I repeat that under no ordinary circumstances will I go to Massachusetts. I never said I would go. All of my words and all of my movements have been to the contrary. I don't think it would make any difference if I should go or not. I believe the government does not care. I do not see how the defence could be benefited. But if it could be shown that by going I could help to free an innocent man that would, of course, be a different proposition.

GURLEY PLANS TO REPAY PROVIDENT DEPOSITORS

By a Staff Correspondent.

New York, Jan. 27.—Charles D. Gurley, promoter and director of the Provident Securities and Banking Company, declared to-night to a BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN reporter that not only had he not made one cent profit from the operations of the company, but that he had lost heavily and that he expected to lose more heavily before the affairs of the company are settled.

It is Mr. Gurley's announced intention, if possible, to see that every depositor who lost money through the failure is repaid and he [illegible] that he expected that his personal loss would be more than the total amount of deposits in the bank. By this he intimated that if no other means could be arranged he personally would see that the depositors were paid if an agreement could be reached which he believed feasible.

Mr. Gurley's proposition has not as yet reached the receivers of the Provident Company. It will reach them, however, on Monday in writing. Mr. Gurley and E. C. Willoughby are to-night working on their plans, and will have them in shape to mail to the receivers by to-morrow night. The receivers will take Tuesday to consider the proposition, and a conference between them, Mr. Gurley and Mr. Willoughby will be held Tuesday, at which time Mr. Gurley and Mr. Willoughby hope definite arrangements will be made.

Mr. Gurley's plans are not yet in shape to be discussed, that while he could outline in a general way what his proposition will be he prefers to wait until he shall have worked out all the details, and then submit it to the receivers first.

Bitter on Associates.

Mr. Gurley spoke rather bitterly at times of the treatment he had received at the hands of others in the Provident company.

"There are several points which have been discussed in the newspapers that I wish to clear up," he said. "In the first place I and my family and friends are the heaviest losers through the failure of the Provident company, and the end of our losses is not yet in sight. We expect to lose more, and I, for one, am ready to lose more if these depositors can be repaid. Since the Provident company began business property held by the Gurley Investment Company, which is composed of my brother and myself, valued at $300,000 has been pledged to raise $150,000 to keep the Shenandoah Irrigation and Land Company running.

This money should have been put up by the Provident company. It was for the purpose of financing the Shenandoah company that the Provident was organized and the only money that it has put up was about $7,000, and even that amount was secured by the bonds of the Shenandoah which are held by the Provident in addition to the 142,500 shares of the stock.

"It has been said also that I have in my possession the bonds of the Shenandoah Company, and I intended to foreclose. As a matter of fact, of about $285,000 of bonds outstanding the Gurley Investment Company holds $31,000. This is by no means a majority, and we could not foreclose if we wanted to. Besides, we certainly do not want to.

Never Got a Dividend.

"Another matter in which I have been misrepresented is in regard to the dividend of $2.50 a share declared on the Provident stock. I never received a cent in cash from that dividend, although it was declared and paid on my stock as well as on the holdings of others. I was told distinctly that I must take my dividends in stock and although I received checks for the dividend I had already balanced them with my own personal check in payment for stock for the same amount.

"In connection with the Shenandoah bonds it has been said that I secured the bonds by exchanging Provident stock for them. This is what I really did. As the coupons on the Shenandoah bonds came due I paid them with Provident stock and cancelled the coupons. This also was money that the Provident, as the holding company, should have paid and did not.

"I don't want to indulge in personalities in this matter. That does no good, and there has been enough of it. I will say, however, that had I been accorded fair treatment and my ideas carried out, the Provident would not have had this trouble. I was outvoted on many propositions and was absent from many meetings. During the past year I was in Boston only a few times, and for only a few hours each time. I was not in close touch with the bank and the other directors, and I do not consider that I should be held responsible either morally or financially for their acts. I own that I was misled and that they were in some instances.

"For those I am willing to stand my share of the blame. But there were other acts in which I was not concerned and I do not feel like having the responsibility for those shouldered upon me.

MOTHER'S LOVE FOR TUCKER SUSTAINS HIS LIFE.

By Eleanor Ames.

He believes that something will yet save him. His mother shares this belief.

After his doom had been pronounced in the East Cambridge court yesterday morning, and he had heard from Judge Sherman that the law had fixed the week of June 10 as the one in which he should die in the electric chair, Charles Tucker talked sanely and hopefully with his mother and his counsel regarding the plans for his salvation and discussed the only two open avenues of hope, a hearing in the United States Supreme Court and clemency from the Governor.

The real pathos of yesterday's scene centred not in the court room, where, with twitching lips and pallid face this young man who protests he is absolutely innocent of the murder of Mabel Page—a crime of which twelve men found him guilty—was told that he must die, but in the witness room where his mother, faithful, [illegible] and loving, awaited the chance to comfort the son whom she has never doubted.

Shut away from the sights and sounds of the court room, tortured by the fear that her first-born was suffering keenest agony of mind and body, longing to take from him the bitterness which he alone was compelled to bear, the brave little woman waited while the seconds seemed hours and the minutes days.

Deputy Sheriff Wardwell, one of the officers in charge of Tucker during his trial a year ago, sat with her and tried to cheer her.

Perhaps there was a fear of feminine hysterics, wild ravings, uncontrolled weeping. Even officers of the law hate a scene, when a helpless, heartbroken woman is the central figure.

But Mrs. Tucker was calm with the exaggerated calm of despair. She seemed nerveless and apathetic.

It was as if her emotions had long ago spent themselves and left only the dull ache which follows soul torment.

There was a stir in the court room.

"Is it all over?" she asked. "How did he stand it? Oh, I am so glad he did not go to pieces. And I'm so glad it did not take any longer."

The tears which had been repressed rained down her cheeks. Then the door opened and she saw the son whom she believes innocent, whom the law has branded with the mark of Cain.

He was pale, tears glistened in his eyes, great beads of perspiration stood on his forehead. His mother drew him to her and kissed him sobbing aloud.

"There, there, mamma," he said. "You mustn't do that."

"I said I was innocent, and I am. That's all," he told her. And as his mother pressed his hand she replied, "I know you are. We all believe in you."

I saw Mrs. Tucker as she came out of the jail and we came in town together, a half dozen staring women and as many small boys trooping after us as we walked to the car.

"You have hope that this is not final?" I asked. She turned toward me eagerly.

"Of course it is not final," she replied. "We shall save Charles yet. We must. Oh, why won't people believe him when he says he is innocent?"

To-day, Mr. and Mrs. Tucker, if the former is able, will visit their son, taking with them a basket of good things to eat, and cheering him with protestations of their unshaken faith in his innocence—a faith which is honest and sincere, and which only a confession from his own lips would destroy.

CALLS PHILIPPINES "REPLENISHERS OF TREASURY."

The Philippines were labeled "United States Treasury replenishers" in the speech of Congressman Daniel E. McKinley of California before the Norfolk Country Club at its annual meeting at the Hotel Brunswick last night. Congressman McKinley was a member of Secretary Taft's junket to the Philippines, of which Miss Alice Roosevelt and Congressman Longworth, her fiance, were members.

"At the present time," said Congressman McKinley, "there are [illegible] American schoolteachers in the Philippines teaching over 600,000 scholars. The people are showing wonderful progress in all the [illegible] of the main islands.

"Manila has been completely reorganized. The streets have been drained and systematically laid out. An electric lighting plant has been built and many sanitary improvements are in process of construction. The harbors have been dredged and protected from storms and typhoons. A reduction in expenses was made, saving the United States $2,500,000 annually.

"It was in Jolo that Alice Roosevelt, daughter of the President, was offered the opportunity to marry the Sultan of Sulu. If one could have seen this Sultan they certainly would be very much amused at his audacity in proposing to Miss Roosevelt. He is a man four feet six inches tall, about four feet thick, little tufts of hair on his head, an expressionless face and wears a little dinky hat with a tassel attached on his head. He now has about 400 wives.

"We found general satisfaction all over the islands with the regime of the United States. It is only the poor and degraded classes that find fault."

MINE OWNERS GIVE DEFI TO LABOR UNIONS.

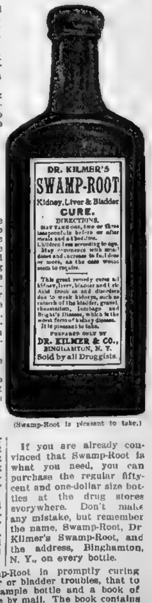
By Boston American Leased Wire.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 27.—Stung by the defence of Operator F. L. Robbins at the joint conference to-day, when the latter, after some heated discussion, declared that the operatives had no demands to make, Vice-President Tom L. Lewis of the Miners' Union promptly took up the implied challenge.

Lewis stated that it was true that the miners were not able to organize and control all sections of the country at this time, but that the organization is now certainly in a position to control all districts if the miners' demands are not agreed to. This was generally understood as a covert and explicit threat of a national suspension of the miners in the coal fields if the miners do not get what they regard as fair treatment.

He declared that the [illegible] of the mining industry were in a peculiar condition two years ago and that the operators, knowing this took advantage of it and forced the 5.55 per cent reduction.

"But," he declared, "these conditions have changed and the operators will have no opportunity to force their demand for a reduction this year."



ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

To Prove What the Great Kidney Remedy, Swamp-Root, Will Do for YOU, Every Reader of the American May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Absolutely Free by Mail.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected, and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly" begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

I was out of health and run down generally, had no appetite, was dizzy and suffered with headache most of the time. I did not know that my kidneys were the cause of my trouble, but somehow felt that they might be, and I began taking Swamp-Root. There is such a pleasant taste to Swamp-Root, and it goes right to the spot and drives disease out of the system. It has cured me, making me stronger and better in every way, and I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers.
Gratefully yours,
MRS. A. L. WALKER, 331 East Linden St., Atlanta, Ga.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for many kinds of diseases, and if permitted to continue much suffering and fatal results are sure to follow. Kidney trouble irritates the nerves, makes you dizzy, restless, sleepless and irritable. Makes you pass water often during the day and obliges you to get up many times during the night. Unhealthy kidneys cause rheumatism, gravel, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints and muscles; make your head ache and back ache, cause indigestion, stomach and liver trouble, you get a sallow, yellow complexion, make you feel as though you had heart trouble; you may have plenty of ambition, but no strength; get weak and waste away.

How to Find Out

If there is any doubt in your mind as to your condition, take from your urine on rising about four ounces, place it in a glass or bottle and let it stand twenty-four hours. If on examination it is milky or cloudy, if there is a brick-dust settling, or if small particles float about in it, your kidneys are in need of immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is used in the leading hospitals, recommended by physicians in their private practice, and is taken by doctors themselves who have kidney ailments, because they recognize in it the greatest and most successful remedy for kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at the drug stores everywhere. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

SPECIAL NOTE.—So successful is Swamp-Root in promptly curing even the most distressing cases of kidney, liver or bladder troubles, that to prove its wonderful merits you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root is so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle. In sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure to say you read this generous offer in the Boston Sunday American.

"I think it atrocious that this man, whom I only saw once in my life, should claim any friendship with me. He has written me twice. I wrote him a curt note telling him I was engaged, yet he wrote again. He claimed to be a Baron."—Statement of Miss Yerxa to the Boston American.

DENOUNCES "BARON" WHO WROTE BETROTHED GIRL IN SPITE OF PROTESTS

POLICE NOW SEEK MAN AS ARMY DESERTER.

Miss Yerxa of Somerville Says That Alleged Austrian Nobleman's Presumption Is Outrageous—Met but Once

Miss Gertrude Yerxa of Somerville, a pretty brunette, declares with all the emphasis that a well bred but indignant young woman can, that she is not even a friend of Baron von Windschgraetz of Austria and St. Louis, for whom the St. Louis police are looking as Albert von Watson, charged with being a deserter from the U. S. A. Hospital Corps at Fort Jefferson.

"Atrocious" is Miss Yerxa's adjective for the Baron.

Despatches from St. Louis said that Watson, or the Baron, numbered among his social correspondents Miss Gertrude Yerxa of Somerville. Miss Yerxa is the daughter of Bartley Yerxa of No. 66 Sycamore street, Somerville, a prominent business man.

Forbade His Letters.

The St. Louis intimation that Miss Yerxa was a correspondent of the Baron was taken by some to signify that they were intimate friends. As a matter of fact, Miss Yerxa, according to her story last night, not only disclaims his friendship but pointedly adds that she forbade his writing to her, informing him that she was betrothed and that she did not care to correspond with him. Miss Yerxa is much provoked that her name should be connected with such an unpleasant matter, just because she happened to meet the Baron in St. Louis society and because he took the liberty with an airy assumption truly foreign to write to her without her permission in the first place and then directly against her injunction in the next.

Miss Yerxa recently became engaged to a worthy Somerville young man. She is very happy, evidently, and probably won't bother her pretty head much about the Baron and his lack of manners. But she did not hesitate to say last night:

"I think it is atrocious that this man, whom I only saw once in my life, should claim any friendship with me. Two weeks before Christmas I was visiting a friend in St. Louis and her husband invited this man, who claimed to be an Austrian Baron, to a dinner. I never talked with the man alone. In general conversation he spoke of having left the Austrian army and of his high rank in Austria. In some way he secured my address and has written me twice since I came home. I wrote him a curt note telling him I was engaged and did not care to correspond with him. Yet he wrote me again."

Said He Was Baron.

The St. Louis dispatches say that Watson, Von Watson, or Windischgraetz, as he is variously known, enlisted here on November 4, 1904. He had letters of introduction and credentials to the effect that he was the son of an Austrian army officer, that his brother was a diplomatic attache in Washington, and that his sister was none less than Baroness Windischgraetz. He threw out dark hints about having left Austria under some sort of a cloud. He also allowed it to become known that he was a baron by rank in that dear old Austria.

He entered St. Louis society and happened to be invited to a dinner given by the family which Miss Yerxa was visiting. He did not seem to make a favorable impression on Miss Yerxa, but, judging by the letters he wrote her, that did not discourage him.

He came prominently to the attention of the military authorities last Tuesday, however, by disappearing from the Fort Jefferson barracks. His superiors would be glad to see him, even if Miss Yerxa would not.

KAISER OBSERVES 47TH BIRTHDAY

Berlin, Jan. 28. Kaiser Wilhelm celebrated his birthday yesterday. The Emperor was forty-seven years old, just three months younger to the day than President Roosevelt, the man with whom the Kaiser has been so often compared. President Roosevelt was forty-seven on October 27 last, and the Emperor rounded out his forty-seventh year yesterday.

The day was observed as usual. Members of the princely families congratulated the Emperor at 10 o'clock in the morning and later there were religious services in the castle chapel. Dr. Dryander, the church chaplain, preached, touching on the seriousness of the present time. Among the royal personages who met the Kaiser during the day and offered their congratulations were the King of Saxony, the Grand Dukes of Saxe [illegible] and [illegible] Mecklenburg, and the King of Wurtemberg.

Washington, Jan. 27. The Kaiser's birthday was celebrated by a stag party at the German Embassy tonight. The Ambassador presided and those present included the staff and leading Germans from New York. The Kaiser's portrait was festooned with the German colors.

LIKED COMMONPLACE TALK.

Dr. Alfred Russell Wallace tells Herbert Spencer's reason for living in a London boarding house with "rather a common place set of people—retired Indian officers and others." "He said that he had purposely chosen such a home in order to avoid the mental excitement of too much interesting conversation."

Ministers of All Denominations Join In Recommending Pe-ru-na to the People.

Public speaking especially exposes the throat and bronchial tubes to catarrhal affections.

Breathing the air of crowded assemblies, and the necessary exposure to night air which many preachers must face, makes catarrh especially prevalent among their class.

Peruna has become justly popular among them.

L. H. Halsey, Bishop C. M. E. Church, [illegible] Ga., writes:

"I have found Peruna to be a great remedy for catarrh. I have suffered with this terrible disease for more than twenty years, until since I have been using Peruna, which has relieved me of the trouble.

"I have tried many remedies and spent a great deal of hard-earned money for them, but I found nothing so effectual in the cure of catarrh as the great medicine, Peruna.

"I feel sure that Peruna is not only a triumph of medical science, but it is also a blessing to suffering humanity.

"Every individual who suffers with respiratory diseases will find Peruna a magnificent and sovereign remedy." L. H. Halsey, Bp. C. M. E. Church.

Many a preacher has been able to meet his engagements only on account of the timely use of Peruna.

At these first words, which said to him, in effect, "You left the body of Mabel Page there; you are guilty; and you and I know it," there came a change into Tucker's face. All the flush left his cheeks and they became like chalk. His pendulous lower lip quivered, and he moistened it and its mate again and again with his tongue. His eyes swam with tears that did did not fall. His hands clutched and held at the rail upon which they rested until the knuckles stood out bony and white.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels, it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat. I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

Provident Officials May be Called By Grand Jury in Moran's Effort to

[illegible] to these [illegible] questions:

"Where did the depositors' money go?"

"Who got it?"

"Who is criminally liable for the loss?"

He has [illegible] that he should [illegible] self-incriminating [illegible] Colonel Hedges and [illegible] have refused [illegible] appeal [illegible] Mr. Moran.

Colonel Hedges Vice-President.

[illegible] Hedges [illegible] commander [illegible] Liberty Company [illegible] the company [illegible] ago [illegible] the acquaintance of King Edward, was vice-president of the Provident company up to a year ago last month.

General Brigham [illegible] Boston shoe manufacturer, [illegible] general on the staff of Governor Curtis Guild, Jr., was a director of the company from its inception until last [illegible] Since the facts attending the Provident exposure have come to public view he has resigned from his staff position, but Governor Guild has not yet accepted his resignation.

The BOSTON AMERICAN has succeeded in ascertaining what became of most of the depositors' money, presupposing it to be true, as stated by one of the attaches, that the deposits were used to pay the running expenses of the company.

The officials drew in salaries $45,000. There was paid to C. O. Burns & Co., who installed the little banks that were so freely distributed about to assist in saving, $52,500, besides an original payment of $13,000 for the banks themselves. A loan to a gelatine company, secured by notes that will not come due for long [illegible] amounts to $48,750. There is also a loan of $6,000 to this same gelatine company [illegible] on open account, an [illegible] of $5,000 for furniture and fittings, and other smaller and apparently legitimate items of expense.

Salaries, for three years ...	$45,000
Loan to Gelatine Company, open account...	6,000
Lost on Salt and Soda Company note...	5,800
Paid for small banks...	13,000
Commission to C. O. Burns Company for installing banks...	52,500
Loan to Gelatine Company...	48,750
Furniture and fittings...	5,000
Paid to Welch, for patent rights in type-setting machine...	2,000
Total...	$178,050

Upon what charge Mr. Moran can indict the officials of the company no one outside of Mr. Moran's office knows, and no one inside that office is telling.

Moran is Reticent.

There are several sections of the revised statutes under which officials could be proceeded against criminally, provided that the evidence should indicate their offence. Which of these will be the sections under which Mr. Moran will bring action against the officials of the bank cannot be stated, because no one but Mr. Moran and Mr. Yeaton knows just what evidence the District Attorney possesses.

If it should appear that any of these officials had subscribed to a false statement as to the amount of cash actually paid in for capital stock in the certificate of condition filed with the Commissioner of Corporations, they would be criminally liable under Section 6 of Chapter 126 of the statutes, which provides that the president, treasurer and a majority of the directors of all foreign corporations shall make such a report, and says: "Every agent of such a corporation which fails to comply with the requirements of this section * * * shall for such failure be liable to a fine of not more than $500."

If it should be proved that any person under investigation had taken funds belonging to the bank or its depositors, he might be proceeded against under Section 14 of Chapter 208, which reads:

Law Against Taking Funds

An officer of an incorporated bank, or a person in the employ of such bank, who fraudulently converts or fraudulently takes and secretes with intent so to do, any bullion, money, note, bill or other security for money which belongs to and is in possession of said bank, or which belongs to any person and is deposited therein, shall, whether intrusted with the custody thereof or not, be guilty of larceny in said bank, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the State Prison for not more than ten years or a fine of not more than $1,000 and imprisonment in jail for not more than two years."

If it should be found that any officer of the company had issued or indorsed a note of the company contrary to law, he would be amenable to Section 56 of Chapter 208, which reads as follows:

"An officer [illegible] of a corporation, who issues, signs or indorses with [illegible] a bond, note, [illegible] or security in the name of such corporation beyond the amount authorized by law, [illegible] shall be punished by imprisonment in the State prison for not more than ten years or in the House of Correction for not more than one year."

Should it appear that the books of the company had been falsely kept, Section 58 of the same chapter would apply, as follows:

"An officer of a corporation or an agent, clerk or servant of a person, firm or corporation who makes a false entry or omits to make a true entry in any book of such person, firm or corporation, with intent to defraud, [illegible] shall be punished by imprisonment in the State prison for not more than ten years or in the House of Correction for not more than one year."

A general section that might apply to the irregularities possible in the carrying on of a corporation which solicits and obtains money from the public, is Section 54 of the same chapter, which reads:

"Whoever is convicted of any gross fraud or cheat at common law shall be punished by imprisonment in the State prison for not more than ten years or in jail for not more than two years or by a fine of not more than $400."

These are laws under which Mr. Moran might endeavor to indict the officials of the Provident Company. It may be that offences have been discovered by him which would warrant an indictment under some other law. That will probably not be known until the report of the grand jury is received.

"Charles L. Tucker did not act like a murderer. I saw nothing in his demeanor to help me decide as to his guilt."—MABEL WALKER.

MABEL WALKER TELLS WHY SHE HAS NOT COME TO THE AID OF CHARLES L. TUCKER

By Ernest I. Jackson.

Damariscotta, Me., Jan. 27.—For the first time since Mabel Page was murdered Mrs. Mabel Walker Grundy, who was with Charles L. Tucker for a time on that fatal afternoon, has talked at length to a newspaper man. I sat in her home for two hours and twenty minutes and she talked of herself, her family, her baby, and her unfortunate connection with the Tucker case.

This is the ultimatum that she gave me as to whether she would or would not go to Boston to testify in Tucker's favor:

"When they can show me that the innocence of Mr. Tucker can be established by my testimony I shall consider the proposition of returning to Massachusetts in his behalf. Until then I will not court the notoriety that would come to me from appearing in the case.

"I was unfortunate enough to meet Mr. Tucker on the day of the murder. It was the merest chance. I had been acquainted with him before. And I cannot see that anything I might add to the testimony that has already been given would affect the case.

"They said I was with Tucker two hours and a half. That is false. We were together not more than fifteen minutes. I am tired and sick of it all, and I am firmly determined in my attitude.

The BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN desired to learn from Mabel Walker's own lips if she could throw new light upon the famous case and if she would actually make the effort when called upon by those most interested. I sought and found her in her comfortable home on the banks of the beautiful Damariscotta River.

Guarded Like a Princess.

It is no easy task to find and talk with Mabel Walker Grundy these days. No fabled princess was ever more intelligently or more effectively guarded. When, last Fall, she chose to lose herself from the sight of the public for a time she disappeared effectually for many weeks, defying the efforts of lawyers and detectives to locate her.

Her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Gamage, with whom she lives, are as energetic as the President's secret service bodyguard and as difficult to pass as a cordon of electrified barbed wire fences about a citadel.

"I never saw you before, but if you have come to talk to me about the Tucker case I must disappoint you. Besides, if my uncle or aunt returns and finds you here you will be sent away," is what the young woman said in opening.

"Could nothing induce you to take an active interest in Tucker's welfare?" I asked. "Suppose your husband, aunt, uncle were willing for you to go to Boston right away and help the condemned man secure a new trial?"

"All idle talk," returned the girl. "My husband, now employed in Boston, does his own thinking, and he wouldn't listen to such a proposition but would give a very short answer to anyone making it. My husband has a good position and good folks, and, like myself, can be independent when need be. I have been accused of over-independence, but I guess it is only the family spirit."

She spoke of her family. "My mother died years ago," she said, "and my father, who lived until 1903, left me most of the time with my Aunt Gamage. My father was a watchman for years at the Hotel Bellevue, Boston. In a measure left to myself, I took almost my own way, and for years have gone and come about as I saw fit."

Mrs. Grundy dislikes to discuss the Tucker case. Ten times she repeated: "I am sick of it, and I would not mix into it under any consideration," and twice she stamped her foot.

"Suppose you were tendered money?"

"Money would not tempt me."

"But if a large sum were offered?"

"It would make no difference. Under no circumstances, I say," and the young woman pounded her hand upon the table.

"Suppose it would save an innocent man's life?"

"That would be different," she returned with subsiding anger.

"Suppose your husband were approached with a sufficient money proposition by those interested in this celebrated case?" I asked.

"Useless. I know him too well. Besides, in this instance it would take three to make a bargain. Why, I have money enough. I guess I don't even spend the income from my own property. And aren't my folks well fixed, too? Besides, what use could one have for money here in Damariscotta?"

"But you will soon join Mr. Grundy in Boston."

"No matter. There was no need to drag me into this affair. Sometimes I suspect who tipped the police as to my meeting with Tucker that day. Maybe I am over suspicious. I wouldn't hate it if any useful purpose could be served, but the lies they have circulated drive me frantic sometimes.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Grundy does not think that Tucker acted like a murderer on that fatal afternoon. The conversation was upon the subject of mischief-makers when she so expressed herself. She remarked bitterly that what few enemies she possessed seemed to live right in her home town and wondered if that was the way of the world. After a moment she burst forth with considerable show of feeling:

"Didn't Act as if Guilty."

"If Charles L. Tucker was a murderer he wasn't going to tell me about it. It is true he did not act like one. I saw nothing in his demeanor to help me decide his guilt. I don't want to decide it. I don't want to be quoted as giving an opinion. I will give none. And I will not go to Massachusetts looking to obtain a new trial for him, because I couldn't help either the government or the defence.

"My time would be wasted as I see it, and while it would serve no useful purpose I would be further exploited and made decidedly uncomfortable. Not only myself, but my family and friends are to be considered. For their sakes I will stay here.

"So I repeat that under no ordinary circumstances will I go to Massachusetts. I never said I would go. All of my words and all of my movements have been to the contrary. I don't think it would make any difference if I should go or not. I believe the government does not care. I do not see how the defence could be benefited. But if it could be shown that by going I could help to free an innocent man that would, of course, be a different proposition.

GURLEY PLANS TO REPAY PROVIDENT DEPOSITORS

By a Staff Correspondent.

New York, Jan. 27.—Charles D. Gurley, promoter and director of the Provident Securities and Banking Company, declared to-night to a BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN reporter that not only had he not made one cent profit from the operations of the company but that he had lost heavily and that he expected to lose more heavily before the affairs of the company are settled.

It is Mr. Gurley's announced intention, if possible, to see that every depositor who lost money through the failure is repaid and he said to-night that he expected that his personal loss would be more than the total amount of deposits in the bank. By this he intimated that if no other means could be arranged he personally would see that the depositors were paid if an agreement could be reached which he believed feasible.

Mr. Gurley's proposition has not as yet reached the receivers of the Provident Company. It will reach them, however, on Monday in writing. Mr. Gurley and [illegible] Willoughby are to-night working on their [illegible] and will have them in shape to make [illegible] receivers by to-morrow night. The receivers will take Tuesday to consider the proposition, and a conference between them, Mr. Gurley and Mr. Willoughby will be held Tuesday, at which time Mr. Gurley and Mr. Willoughby hope definite arrangements will be made.

Mr. Gurley's plans are not yet in shape to be discussed, that while he could outline in a general way what his proposition will be, he prefers to wait until he shall have worked out all the details, and then submit it to the receivers first.

Bitter on Associates.

Mr. Gurley spoke rather bitterly at times of the treatment he had received at the hands of others in the Provident company.

"There are several points which have been discussed in the newspapers that I wish to clear up," he said. "In the first place I and my family and friends are the heaviest losers through the failure of the Provident company, and the end of our losses is not yet in sight. We expect to lose more, and I, for one, am ready to lose more if these depositors can be repaid. Since the Provident company began business property held by the Gurley Investment Company, which is composed of my brother and myself, valued at $500,000 has been pledged to raise $150,000 to keep the Shenandoah Irrigation and Land Company running.

"This money should have been put up by the Provident company. It was for the purpose of financing the Shenandoah company that the Provident was organized and the only money that it has put up was about $7,000, and even that amount was secured by the bonds of the Shenandoah which are held by the Provident in addition to the 142,500 shares of the stock.

"It has been said also that I have in my possession the bonds of the Shenandoah Company, and I intended to foreclose. As a matter of fact, of about $285,000 of bonds outstanding the Gurley Investment Company holds $31,000. This is by no means a majority, and we could not foreclose if we wanted to. Besides, we certainly do not want to.

Never Got a Dividend.

"Another matter in which I have been misrepresented is in regard to the dividend of $2.50 a share declared on the Provident stock. I never received a cent in cash from that dividend, although it was declared and paid on my stock as well as on the holdings of others. I was told distinctly that I must take my dividends in stock and although I received checks for the dividend I had already balanced them with my own personal check in payment for stock for the same amount.

"In connection with the Shenandoah bonds it has been said that I secured the bonds by exchanging Provident stock for them. This is what I really did. As the coupons on the Shenandoah bonds came due I paid them with Provident stock and cancelled the coupons. This also was money that the Provident, as the holding company, should have paid and did not.

"I don't want to indulge in personalities in this matter. That does no good, and there has been enough of it. I will say, however, that had I been accorded fair treatment and my ideas carried out, the Provident would not have had this trouble. I was outvoted on many propositions and was absent from many meetings. During the past year I was in Boston only a few times, and for only a few hours each time. I was not in close touch with the bank and the other directors, and I do not consider that I should be held responsible either morally or financially for their acts. I own that I was misled and that they were in some instances.

"For those I am willing to stand my share of the blame. But there were other acts in which I was not concerned and I do not feel like having the responsibility for those shouldered upon me.

MOTHER'S LOVE FOR TUCKER SUSTAINS HIS LIFE.

By Eleanor Ames.

He believes that something will yet save him. His mother shares this belief.

After his doom had been pronounced in the East Cambridge court yesterday morning, and he had heard from Judge Sherman that the law had fixed the week of June 10 as the one in which he should die in the electric chair, Charles Tucker talked sanely and hopefully with his mother and his counsel regarding the plans for his salvation and discussed the only two open avenues of hope, a hearing in the United States Supreme Court and clemency from the Governor.

The real pathos of yesterday's scene centred not in the court room where, with twitching lips and paling face this young man who protests he is absolutely innocent of the murder of Mabel Page—a crime of which twelve men found him guilty—was told that he must die, but in the witness room where his mother, faithful, trusting and loving, awaited the chance to comfort the son whom she has never [illegible]

Shut away from the sights and sounds of the court room, tortured by the fear that her first-born was suffering keenest agony of mind and body, longing to take from him the bitterness which he alone was compelled to bear, the brave little woman waited while the seconds seemed hours and the minutes days.

Deputy Sheriff Wardwell, one of the officers in charge of Tucker during his trial a year ago, sat with her and tried to cheer her.

Perhaps there was a fear of feminine hysterics, wild moanings, uncontrolled weeping. Even officers of the law hate a scene when a helpless, heartbroken woman is the central figure.

But Mrs. Tucker was calm with the exaggerated calm of despair. She seemed nerveless and apathetic.

It was as if her emotions had long ago spent themselves and left only the dull ache which follows soul torment.

There was a stir in the court room.

"Is it all over?" she asked. "How did he stand it? Oh, I am so glad he did not go to pieces. And I'm so glad it did not take any longer."

The tears which had been repressed rained down her cheeks. Then the door opened and she saw the son whom she believes innocent, whom the law has branded with the mark of Cain.

He was pale, tears glistened in his eyes, great beads of perspiration stood on his forehead. His mother drew him to her and kissed him sobbing aloud.

"There, there, mamma," he said, "You mustn't do that."

"I said I was innocent, and I am. That's all," he told her. And as his mother pressed his hand she replied, "I know you are. We all believe in you."

I saw Mrs. Tucker as she came out of the jail and we came in town together, a half-dozen staring women and as many small boys trooping after us as we walked to the car.

"You have hope that this is not final?" I asked. She turned toward me eagerly.

"Of course it is not final," She replied. "We shall save Charles yet. We must. Oh, why won't people believe him when he says he is innocent?"

To-day Mr. and Mrs. Tucker, if the former is able, will visit their son, taking with them a basket of good things to eat, and cheering him with protestations of their unshaken faith in his innocence—a faith which is honest and sincere, and which only a confession from his own lips would destroy.

CALLS PHILIPPINES "REPLENISHERS OF TREASURY."

The Philippines were labeled "United States Treasury replenishers" in the speech of Congressman Daniel E. McKinley of California before the Norfolk County Club at its annual meeting at the Hotel Brunswick last night. Congressman McKinley was a member of Secretary Taft's junket to the Philippines, of which Miss Alice Roosevelt and Congressman Longworth, her fiance, were members.

"At the present time," said Congressman McKinley, "there are 20,000 American schoolteachers in the Philippines, teaching over 600,000 scholars. The pupils are showing wonderful progress, as is the rest of the main islands.

"Manila has been completely reorganized. The streets have been drained and systematically laid out. An electric lighting plant has been built and many sanitary improvements are in process of construction. The harbors have been rebuilt and protected from storms and typhoons. A reduction in expenses was made, saving the United States $2,500,000 annually.

"It was in Jolo that Alice Roosevelt, daughter of the President, was offered the opportunity to marry the Sultan of Sulu. If one could have seen this Sultan they certainly would be very much amused at his audacity in proposing to Miss Roosevelt. He is a man four feet six inches tall, about four feet thick, little tufts of hair on his head, an expressionless face and wears a little dinky hat with a tassel attached on his head. He now has about 400 wives.

"We found general satisfaction all over the islands with the regime of the United States. It is only the poor and degraded classes that find fault."

MINE OWNERS GIVE DEFI TO LABOR UNIONS.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 27.—Stung by the defence of Operator F. L. Robbins at the joint conference to-day, when the latter, after some heated discussion, declared that the operatives had no demands to make, Vice-President Tom L. Lewis of the Miners' Union promptly took up the implied challenge.

Lewis stated that it was true that the miners were not able to organize and control all sections of the country at this time, but that the organization is now certainly in a position to control all districts if the miners' demands are not agreed to. This was generally understood as a covert and emphatic threat of a national suspension of operations in the coal fields if the miners do not get what they regard as fair treatment.

He declared that the miners and the mining industry were in a peculiar condition two years ago and that the operators, knowing this, took advantage of it and forced the 5.55 per cent reduction. "But," he declared, "the conditions have changed and the operators will have no opportunity to force their demand for a reduction this year."

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

To Prove What the Great Kidney Remedy, Swamp-Root, Will Do for YOU, Every Reader of the American May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Absolutely Free by Mail.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected, and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly" begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

I was out of health and run down generally; had no appetite, was dizzy and suffered with headache most of the time. I did not know that my kidneys were the cause of my trouble, but somehow felt that they might be, and I began taking Swamp-Root. There is such a pleasant taste to Swamp-Root, and it goes right to the spot and drives disease out of the system. It has cured me, making me stronger and better in every way, and I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers.

Gratefully yours,
MRS. A. L. WALKER, 331 East Linden St., Atlanta, Ga.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for many kinds of diseases, and if permitted to continue much suffering and fatal results are sure to follow. Kidney trouble irritates the nerves, makes you dizzy, restless, sleepless and irritable. Makes you pass water often during the day and obliges you to get up many times during the night. Unhealthy kidneys cause rheumatism, gravel, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints and muscles; make your head ache and back ache, cause indigestion, stomach and liver trouble, you get a sallow, yellow complexion, make you feel as though you had heart trouble; you may have plenty of ambition, but no strength; get weak and waste away.

How to Find Out

If there is any doubt in your mind as to your condition, take from your urine on rising about four ounces, place it in a glass or bottle and let it stand twenty-four hours. If on examination it is milky or cloudy, if there is a brick-dust settling, or if small particles float about in it, your kidneys are in need of immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is used in the leading hospitals, recommended by physicians in their private practice, and is taken by doctors themselves who have kidney ailments, because they recognize in it the greatest and most successful remedy for kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at the drug stores everywhere. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

SPECIAL NOTE.—So successful is Swamp-Root in promptly curing even the most distressing cases of kidney, liver or bladder troubles, that to prove its wonderful merits you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root is so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle. In sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure to say you read this generous offer in the Boston Sunday American.

MOTHER SAVES HER SON FROM FLAMES

Mrs. Sophia Berenson heroically rescued her son Joseph, who was sleeping in a smoke filled room at her home, No. 42 Barton street, South End.

Mrs. Berenson had placed some clothes near a fire last night to dry and they caught fire. She groped her way through the smoke to the room where her son was lying, and covering his head with her dress carried him in safety down four flights of stairs to the street.

BETROTHAL ANNOUNCED.

Mr and Mrs. Simon Vorenberg announce the betrothal of their daughter, Miss Bessie Adelaide Vorenberg, to Mr. Carl J. Kaffenburgh. They will be at home Sunday, February 4, at No. 504 Commonwealth avenue.

WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU.

Few People Realize the Importance of Good Digestion Until It Is Lost.

Many people suffer from dyspepsia and do not know it. They feel mean, out of sorts, peevish, do not sleep well, do not have a good keen appetite, do not have the inclination and energy for physical or mental work they once had, but at the same time do not feel any particular pain or distress in the stomach. Yet all this is the result of poor digestion, an insidious form of Dyspepsia, which can only be cured by a remedy specially intended to cure it and make the digestive organs act naturally, and properly digest the food eaten. Bitters, after dinner pills and nerve tonics will never help the trouble; they don't reach it. The new medical discovery does. It is called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and is a specific for dyspepsia and indigestion. It cures because it thoroughly digests all wholesome food taken into the stomach, whether the stomach is in good working order or not.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by digesting the food, instead of making the worn out stomach do all the work, gives it a much needed rest and a cure of dyspepsia is the natural result.

When you are nervous, run down and sleepless, don't make the common mistake of supposing your nervous system needs treatment and fill your stomach with powerful nerve tonics which make you feel good for a little while only to fall back farther than ever.

Nourish them with wholesome everyday food and plenty of it, well digested, and you can laugh at nerve tonics and medicine.

But the nerves will not be nourished from a weak, abused stomach, but when the digestion has been made perfect by the use of this remedy all nervous symptoms disappear.

Who ever heard of a man or woman blessed with a vigorous digestion and good appetite being troubled with their nerves?

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will certainly set your stomach and digestive organs right; they can't help but do it because they nourish the body by digesting the food eaten and rest the stomach.

You get nourishment and rest at one and the same time, and that is all the worn out dyspeptic needs to build him up and give new life to every organ and an added zest to every pleasure.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a godsend to the army of men and women with weak stomachs and nerves and justly merits the claim of being one of the most worthy medical discoveries of the time.

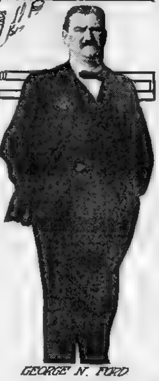
ALDERMAN WM. G. YOUNG OF CHELSEA.

E. G. DE ROCHEMONT.

GEORGE H. WILLEY

PROMINENT FIGURES IN SECRET GRAFT INVESTIGATION THAT HAS STIRRED CHELSEA AND IN WHICH THE MAYOR AND CITY OFFICIALS AND A WOMAN HAVE BEEN CALLED AS WITNESSES.



GEORGE N. FORD

All the City Officials Will Be Called to Testify at Inquiry. Alderman Young Must Tell All He Knows.

Every official of the city of Chelsea, with the possible exception of Mayor Willard, either has been or will be summoned before the investigating committee of the Board of Aldermen to answer this question:

"What do you know about graft in connection with city offices?"

Alderman Young, upon whose assertion that there was graft this investigation was inaugurated, says that it is brought for the purpose of stopping the long practice of "milking" office-holders or those desiring office, and every person who could possibly know anything about the matter is asked to tell everything.

Thirty witnesses have been summoned, about twenty of whom have already testified.

Among the most prominent of these is a woman. She is Mrs. Mary C. Clarke, a relative of City Solicitor E. G. DeRochemont and a member of his household. She was asked to tell of conversations she is alleged to have overheard between Mr. DeRochemont and others over the telephone.

Mrs. Clark, after leaving the committee, said to a BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN reporter that she knew nothing of consequence for the committee, but was asked not to tell outside the committee room what she did know.

Star Chamber Inquiry.

The investigation is being conducted behind closed doors, but it has leaked out that there was somewhat of a revolution regarding the peculiar methods of the Republican City Committee in its method of indorsements. In Ward 2 of the city both Fitz and Farnham had been recommended as assistant assessors. They are members of the committee, but just why they should have received the indorsement, when in all other cases, there was but one man favored, has not been explained.

Chelsea is back of Alderman Young in the position he has taken. This, however, does not mean the politicians of the city. They give the impression that they consider the whole matter as of no consequence, and claim that there has been possibly a little solicitation or exchange of interests here and there for patronage as in all city governments, but not more in Chelsea than anywhere else. They say that the testimony to date is of little consequence.

"Inquiry Will Fizzle."

Those who are particularly interested in the investigation are the City Solicitor, the City Auditor and the City Assessor. Their offices are under the searchlight.

City Auditor George H. Willey said to a BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN reporter: "I believe that the investigation will fizzle out and that the gentlemen who made the charges will fail to make good."

Alderman W. K. Badger, who was summarily requested to leave the City Hall one evening at the beginning of the investigation after he had testified, was again summoned to the City Hall and put through another course of questions. He declined to discuss the case.

Hudson L. Hall, candidate for the office of city auditor, Justin F. Bartlett, a witness, David White, a member of the Board; and Benjamin P. Nichols, chairman of the Republican City Committee, who have appeared before the committee, declined to make any statement other than the universal one uttered by all, "I know of no graft. It is up to one gentleman to prove it and make good his statements. I know nothing and can say nothing. My lips are sealed by the committee."

48,192 PAROCHIAL PUPILS IN BOSTON

The advance of the parochial schools in the diocese of Boston has reached near the 50,000 mark in pupils, according to the annual report of Rev. Louis S. Walsh, superintendent of parochial schools.

In exact figures there are 48,192 pupils in the parochial schools. This includes only three counties and part of two others. There are 20,875 boys and 27,317 girls, distributed among seventy-three parishes. These are in twenty-four communities, and are attended to by 860 sisters, 51 brothers, 5 laymen and 81 laywomen.

Boston is, of course, the largest community, but the largest school is found in Lowell, St. John Baptist (French). At this school there are 2,322 pupils. The largest school in Boston is that of Our Lady of Perpetual Help in Roxbury, which has 1,988 pupils.

ENGINEER KILLED BY EXPLODING BOILER

St. John, N. B., Jan. 27.—Engineer Albert McIlarg of the Canadian Pacific Railroad was fatally hurt and a boy, Stephen Speight, was badly wounded by the explosion of the boiler of McIlarg's engine at Welsford station to-day. The engineer was oiling the machine at the time of the accident and his body was hurled about seventy-five feet. The fireman in the cab at the time escaped injury.

3 DIE, 20 HURT IN LOWELL FIRE.

Scores Clad in Night Clothes Fall Unconscious in Blinding Smoke

Lowell, Jan. 27.—Physicians at St. John's Hospital, where the injured were taken from the fire which destroyed the Richardson Hotel, and in which three persons lost their lives and a score were injured, say that all will probably recover. E. H. Dickey of Lowell, who is the most dangerously burned, is struggling between life and death. His condition is still dan[illegible].

THE DEAD.

NILSON, CHRISTENE, Boston, cook, employed at hotel.

KENNISON, MISS TESSIE, guest, Franklin Falls, N. H.

HARDING, HARRY C., travelling salesman, No. 8 Hillside Park, Somerville.

THE INJURED.

ANTHONY, ARTHUR S., publisher of New Bedford Standard. Jumped from fourth story window into net. Burned about [illegible]

DICKEY, E. H., Lowell, hands, feet and body terribly burned. Rescued by firemen while hanging from fourth story window; may die.

HENDERSON, THOMAS, New York, burns and [illegible]

LYNCH, ANDREW [illegible] feet terribly burned.

ALLEN, K., Boston [illegible]

HUTCHINSON, JOHN L., New York City, [illegible]

Besides these, there are about twelve injured persons who were taken to nearby houses and cared for by physicians.

Fire Starts in Kitchen.

The fire is the worst calamity which has visited Lowell since the explosion of the powder [illegible] Its origin [illegible] have started [illegible] covered by a party of [illegible] playing cards in one of [illegible] rooms.

The guests were [illegible] a panic by the cries of [illegible] and [illegible] of smoke through the [illegible]

Men and women rushed from their rooms lightly clad [illegible] choked with smoke. Several fell unconscious in the hallways and were carried to the street below. Others [illegible] their rooks and [illegible] the windows. Many were injured by jumping. Several were rescued by firemen when they were hanging on to the windows or the fire escape ropes which they lowered. Others jumped from the windows into the life nets and received only slight bruises.

The fire department did not have a ladder which could be raised to the upper windows. It is said that many guests would have escaped injury and lives might have been saved if ladders could have been raised to the upper windows. The water tower could not be brought to the scene until the fire engine horses had been unhitched and hurried back for the tower.

Loss About $75,000.

The loss to the hotel owners is about $75,000. The hotel was situated on the corner of Dutton and Middlesex streets, directly opposite the Boston & Maine railroad station. It was an old structure, but had been recently remodeled. There were sixty sleeping rooms.

TWO AGED MEN HURT IN RUNAWAY

Thomas S. Mellody, sixty-one, of No. 221 Auburn street, Auburndale, is at the City Hospital, suffering [illegible] of the brain, as the result of a runaway on Washington street, Brighton. His brother, John Mellody, sixty-three, of No. 13 Bolton street, Waltham, was also hurt. They were thrown from their cart age.

"PANAMA" THE STAR ROAST ON GRIDIRON CLUB'S BILL

President Among the Distinguished Guests to Join in Celebration of Twenty-First Anniversary.

Washington, Jan. 27.—President Roosevelt and 200 distinguished guests, cabinet officers, Senators, members of Congress and prominent men from professional life all over the country, joined with the Gridiron Club to-night in the celebration of its twenty-first anniversary.

The program was one of the most elaborate ever carried out. The theme was from beginning to end Panama. The accessories were magnificent. The songs, all of a topical nature, were very clever. There was one for the President and another one for Mark Twain. The latter gave as good as he received, as did Ambassador Jusserand of France, Secretary of War Taft, Secretary of State Root and others.

Pass on the Gridiron.

The souvenirs were a pass on the gridiron way, from Washington to Panama on an airship, a small shovel and "a guide to Washington," which was a goodly book containing menus, maps and pictures of buildings and persons and customs at the national capital.

Within its covers bubbled forth some of the best bits of the evening.

The fun began the moment the President stepped from the elevator at the New Willard. "All aboard for Panama," shouted a member with a voice like a fog horn. The guests stepped back and the music committee, dressed in overalls and carrying picks, shovels and other paraphernalia, swung into the room. At the air of "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," a topical song having for its victims the President, the canal commissioners and Governor-General Magoon, was sung with a chorus.

Roosevelt in Line.

President Roosevelt came next and then the president of the club and the guests. The club members brought up the rear.

They marched into a tropical jungle, skilfully constructed.

The feature of the evening was the canal digging act.

The whole thing was settled finally by the entrance of a club member who declared that he would dig the canal himself. He was dressed in a blue shirt and overalls and carried a pick. He told how he would do it in a parody on "Doll Y[illegible] arriers Drill" with a vociferous accompaniment that brought every guest up standing. As he sang the last chorus the room was darkened and the completed gridiron canal, a fine concreted affair, was thrown on the canvass. A battleship was shown coaling through, towed by a couple of mules driven by President Roosevelt, bent with age and wearing a long gray beard.

Bigelow in a Hurry.

A series of short skits led up to this culmination.

A member dashed in, pranced around the place, took a snapshot of President Roosevelt and became angry when stopped. He said he was Poultney Bigelow, with a 20,000 word roast to write and only ten minutes to get the information.

They gave it to Mark Twain in a ditty written to the air, "Why Don't You Try."

PUT THRONE ASIDE TO WED ACTRESS

King Oscar's Youngest Son Hopes to Support Himself by Artist's Brush.

London, Jan. 28.—The correspondent of the Observer at Copenhagen wires that a great sensation has been caused throughout Denmark and Sweden by the announcement that Prince Eugene, youngest son of King Oscar II. of Sweden, is engaged to marry a Swedish operetta singer who at present is a resident of Paris. It is expected that the marriage will take place in the Spring. The Prince, if he contracts this marriage, will lose all his royal privileges. He hopes to support himself by painting.

An elder brother of Prince Eugene's, Prince Oscar Bernadotte, contracted a similar marriage with a woman outside of royalty, Ebba Munck, of Fulkila, after renouncing his right to the Swedish throne.

ARREST DRUGGIST ON BAD CHECK CHARGE

Miss Thomas, in Court Yesterday, Says She Got Paper from Malden Man.

D. Walter Faulkner, until recently a druggist in Malden, was arrested last night by the Malden police, charged with the larceny of $68.25.

Faulkner gave some checks on the Malden National Bank, and when they were presented it was shown that he had but twenty-three cents on deposit in the bank, the police say.

Miss Fanie E. Thomas, of Walker street, Charlestown, was before the Charlestown court in the morning for having cashed two of the checks given her by Faulkner, amounting to $40. She formerly worked for Faulkner and said she took the checks in part payment of a personal loan to him. Her case was continued to February 3.

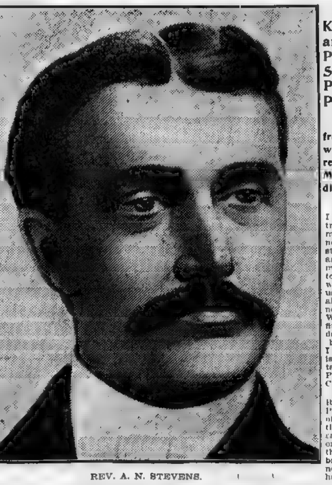
RADIUM CURES RABIES.

Special Cable to the Boston Sunday American.

Bologna, Jan. 27.—Professor Vizzoni, of this city, has completed a series of successful experiments in treating mad dogs with radium. He has cured dogs even in the last stages of rabies by treating their eyes with radium.

Professor Vizzoni is about to begin experiments with human beings.

WORDS OF PRAISE FROM PROMINENT PASTOR



REV. A. N. STEVENS.

Rev. A. N. Stevens, Well-Known Minister of the Gospel, and Temperance Advocate, Praises the Health-Giving, Strengthening and Life-Prolonging Powers of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

Distinguished preacher, who suffered from throat and lung troubles, and whose case was almost hopeless, is restored to health by Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, after all other remedies had failed.

"It is now something like two years since I was afflicted with severe throat and lung trouble. My doctor did not seem to relieve me, and it looked at one time as if I would not recover. Though I have always been a strict and faithful advocate of temperance and a warm supporter of the Prohibition movement, nevertheless, I learned years ago to know that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey was a marvelous tonic and stimulant, and used only as a medicine. I asked my doctor about it, and he said he was sorry he had not thought of prescribing Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey before. I began to recover with the first bottle, and three bottles cured me. Today I am as well and strong as I was in my boyhood. I am a minister of the gospel, and I want to go on record as stating that there is no better medicine for bronchial or catarrhal affections of the lungs than Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey." A. N. Stevens, Pastor C. M. E. Church, Oakland, Tenn., Aug 14, '05.

The sincere and convincing tribute of Rev. A. N. Stevens on the value of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in arresting the progress of physical decay and in building up new tissues of the throat and lungs, especially in cases of pneumonia and consumption, is only one of many thousands received daily from thankful men and women who have been brought back to health, strength and happiness by this grand medicine. For more than half a century has been recommended and used by ministers of the gospel and temperance advocates, and prescribed by doctors of every school as an effectual preventive and cure of consumption, bronchitis, hemorrhage and all diseases of the throat and lungs. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is used in over two thousand leading hospitals as the most valuable invigorator and tonic stimulant known to medicine. It is an absolutely pure, gentle and invigorating stimulant and tonic, builds up the nerve tissues, tones up the heart, gives power to the brain, strength and elasticity to the muscles and richness to the blood. It brings into action all the vital forces; it makes digestion perfect, and enables you to get from the food you eat the nourishment it contains. Duffy's is invaluable for over-worked men, delicate women and sickly children. It strengthens and sustains the system, is a promoter of good health and longevity, makes the old young and keeps the young strong. It is absolutely free from fusel oil and is the only whiskey recognized by the Government as a medicine. This is a guarantee.

CAUTION—When you ask for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. Sold in sealed bottles only; never in bulk. Dishonest dealers will try to sell you so-called cheap imitations and substitutes which are positively injurious to the health. Demand Duffy's and be sure you get it. Sold by every reliable druggist and grocer in the country, or direct, $1.00 a bottle. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label and be certain the seal on the cork is unbroken. CIVIC CONTROL MOVE GAINING IN 'RHODY.'

Campaign for Municipal Ownership, Begun by Governor Garvin, Sweeping On.

Pawtucket, R. I., Jan. 20.—The issue sounded by ex-Governor Garvin for the next State campaign, "Municipal Ownership," has been received in Pawtucket and the Blackstone valley with such a hearty accord that it bids fair to spread throughout the State.

The first steps toward the formation of a "Municipal Ownership Party" have been taken in Saylesville, which is one of the largest villages in the town of Lincoln. It had its inception the past week among the members of the Blackstone Valley Folders' Union, and has spread to the villages of Lonsdale and Prospect Hill. A preliminary meeting has been held in Saylesville and ninety voters have signed the roll. On Prospect Hill fully sixty more have signified their intention of joining the party as soon as a local branch is organized. Efforts will soon be directed, it is said, toward Manville, another large village of the town and one that is filled with union men and women. It is confidently expected that the party will have a membership of 400 in the Fall, sufficient in numbers to hold the balance of power and put at an end the continual trading between the Republican and Democratic leaders, which has worked to the detriment of the town in the past.

In the town of Cumberland the movement is showing considerable life, as a number of prominent leaders in both parties are ready to forward the movement, for the reason that they thoroughly believe in the doctrine of the people owning public utilities.

In the city of Central Falls Mayor McNally has been working on that line for the past two years. As he had to make the fight alone for a long time his progress was slow, but with the indorsement of ex-Governor Garvin recruits are coming in daily. By some politicians it is predicted that "Municipal Ownership" will sweep Rhode Island next Fall and elect a Legislature that will choose a Democratic successor to Senator Wetmore.

MORMON EMISSARIES DRIVEN OUT OF TOWN

North Carolina Citizens Burn Missionaries' Buildings and Warn Them Away.

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 27.—A special received here to-night states that the citizens of Harkers Island, Core Sound, N. C., burned the building used by several Mormon missionaries in their efforts to establish a Mormon church at that place and notified the missionaries that if they did not leave the island at once they would be tarred and feathered. The missionaries left.

Boy Hero and Girl He Rescued From Drowning in Icy Waters

17,439 ACCIDENTS ON RAILROADS, 3 MONTHS

Washington, Jan. 27.—A bulletin issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission shows that during the months of July, August and September last 1,053 were killed and 16,386 injured among passengers and employes of steam roads in the United States.

BOY RESCUES GIRL, MEN FEARED TO MOVE.

Youthful Hero Plunged Into Icy Water and Gave Practical Aid, While Grown People Went Into Hysterics

Lynn, Jan. 27.—While grown men stood on the shores of Bennett Pond trembling and hysterically running about, Leo Hyde, a boy of fourteen years, jumped into the icy waters and saved from drowning Miss Bertha Kimball, a girl who had broken through the ice while skating with a companion.

Hyde to-night is under the care of a physician, threatened with pneumonia, but he is hailed everywhere as a hero. The girl he saved from death is also in precarious condition, but is expected to recover.

Miss Kimball was skating with Beatrice Lovett, and ventured on thin ice which [illegible] through the [illegible]. She screamed for help. Seven men were on the shore of the pond, but not one dared to jump into the icy waters and save the girl. She would have drowned before their eyes had it not been for young Hyde.

EIGHT-HOUR DAY IS LOST TO ALIENS ON ISTHMUS.

Washington, Jan. 27.—By only a majority of twelve the House to-day put through the urgent deficiency appropriation bill which exempts alien labor on the Isthmus, engaged in the canal work, from profiting by the eight hour law. The eight hour law still protects all American laborers on the Isthmus. Nineteen Republicans voted with the Democrats in an effort to defeat the amendment, while one Democrat, Representative DeArmond of Missouri, voted with the Republicans for its adoption. McCall and Greene of Massachusetts voted against their leaders.

The vote on the amendment was had immediately upon convening to-day, the motion for a roll call having been adopted and the record vote pending when adjournment was had late yesterday afternoon owing to the absence of a quorum.

The calling of the roll showed that the leaders were winning the fight, so several Republicans, who were pledged to the leaders, were allowed to vote in the negative for home consumption, especially those who represent districts in which the laboring element predominates.

The amendment adopted, the Democrats gave up their fight, and the appropriation bill was then passed.

In the space of sixty-five minutes the House to-day considered and passed 259 bills, increasing the pensions of soldiers and widows of soldiers for special causes. The total number of bills reported to the House by the pension committees was [illegible] but three of these upon being read by the clerk were laid upon the table, the persons who would have benefited by their enactment into law having died since the committee favorably reported upon their claims.

GRAFT DROVE HUB MAN OUT OF BUSINESS, SAYS PREACHER

Some Scathing Points in Rector Roberts's Talk

The rebellion of '61 seems pure and brave beside the treason of our so-called representatives.

The only difference between the American Republic and the old Roman Republic is that in this country there are more numerous bands of thieves acting under the guise of law.

Our mis-representatives of to-day have inaugurated a carnival of dishonesty, which has no parallel in the nation's history.

[illegible] of graft [illegible] Boston city [illegible] was driven out of [illegible] he had to pay so much to [illegible] by the Rev. Brian C. "A recent employer of a large [illegible] workmen told me that he had [illegible] his business, the reason being [illegible] every city contract in Boston he [illegible] obliged to pay graft to the offi[illegible] secured him the contract.

"He is a fair example of the purchase of the people and the rule of oligarchy in America."

Mr. Roberts spared neither Democrats nor [illegible] and his [illegible] a sensation.

Hour for Change Has Come.

"Woe to the party," he said, "that does not keep itself abreast of the times and understand that Constitution and existing laws [illegible] precedent will be swept aside whenever a sufficient number of people, with forceful leaders, realizes that the [illegible] conditions demand radical changes.

"Such an hour has struck. Unfortunately for the nation this new era comes to us, not merely because of new ideals or new opportunities, but because of party corruption.

"One of the [illegible] exponents in the ministry was [illegible] jailed as a 'grafter.' His only plea was, 'They all do it, but I only have been caught.' On that plea he actually received sympathy. And that sympathy indicated the extent of the corruption of the people."

EVANS, TRAMP LABOR AGITATOR, IS DEAD

Well-Known Fall River Character Passes Away in the Taunton Asylum.

Taunton, Jan. 27.—Thomas Evans, known throughout New England as a labor leader, is dead at the Taunton Insane Asylum, where he was taken only a few days ago. Evans was one of the most picturesque figures in labor history in Fall River, where he lived, and was known as "Thomas Evans, J. P., the labor agitator."

Evans was born in England nearly seventy years ago. He was an intimate acquaintance of John Bright.

POLICE SEARCH FOR LOST GIRLS

Cambridge Children Who Trolleyed All Night Again Disappear from Homes.

After searching for two days and finding no traces of his eleven-year-old daughter Lena, John Lundgren of No. [illegible] Main street, Cambridge, has asked the police of that city and of Boston to locate her and also her chum, Emma Goodrich, twelve years old, of No. 8 Pine street, who is likewise missing.

On Friday, it has been learned, the two girls asked for tickets to New York at the South Station. On account of their youthful appearance the ticket seller refused them. About three weeks ago these two girls and another were found enjoying an all-night ride in the electric cars about the city.

KILLED SELF TO ESCAPE TRIAL

Worcester, Jan. 27.—Rather than face the Grand Jury on a charge of larceny, James Rand, thirty-five, committed suicide to-day by hanging in a cell at Worcester County House of Correction. Rand declared he was innocent. As the time of trial drew near he became more melancholy each day, and resolved to end his life.

When other inmates of the jail were at breakfast Rand carried out his plans. He tied one end of a bed sheet about his neck and made the other end fast to the bars on his cell window. Then he kicked the chair away, and in a few minutes was [illegible]

MAN WHO BEAT BALFOUR.

"The man who beat Balfour," as he will be known, was a plain lawyer named Horridge, who was a stranger in Manchester. The Liberals did not think, when he was sent down there, that he could possibly win. But Horridge immediately proclaimed that Mr. Balfour's division was the "Port Arthur" of conservatism, and he asked everybody to follow the example of the gallant Japanese and help capture it for Liberalism.

OUR PROPOSITION CREATES

A REVOLUTION IN MINING FINANCE!

Heretofore there have been two methods of financing mines.

The first, consisting of prospects or holes in the ground, with no really tangible value and capitalized for millions of dollars and the stock sold to the rank and file of the people at a few cents a share.

The other class of mining finance was to take developed mines like ours, with large blocks of ore in sight, the value of which could easily be calculated, with mining machinery, engines, boilers, stamp mills, water power, electric plants, tunnels, etc., that cost money to produce and money to operate. These mines, when money was needed to increase their output, were financed by selling stock at par or near par in large blocks to big capitalists, to the kings of finance, who would realize enormous profits from such holdings. But it has remained for the Austin Hanapah Mining Company to inaugurate a new system of mining finance. This mine emphatically belongs to the developed class. It consists of 257 claims, 500 acres of which are patented, and is one of the largest holdings belonging to a mining corporation in the United States. Only about 50 acres of this enormous mineral producing territory has been partially developed and scratched over, yet the territory worked has produced thirty millions of dollars of gold and silver ore, as shown by records of shipments made through Wells, Fargo & Co., at Austin, Nevada.

HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS EXPENDED IN IMPROVEMENTS.

We have 32 miles of underground track, a working tunnel one mile and a quarter in length, with 2,000 feet of crosscuts and drifts on [illegible] well known producing veins. In December 1905 a new vein was opened up in the Hardy & Marshall Bell mines, and a distance of 18 feet from the surface a three foot vein of gold and silver was struck of fine, free milling, high-grade ore.

A new modern 100-ton capacity concentrating mill with 80 stamps, 18 concentrating tables, foundry and machine shops, with electric light plant, dynamos, air compressors, etc., is located and has been in operation for a long time at the mouth of the tunnel, also machinery costing $25,000 on the "Union" shaft, at the foot of Union Hill.

This makes it a magnificent investment with a real and monetary value, and our plan of financing is to [illegible] of a limited amount of stock to the general public, to the people who earn their money and understand the value of hard-earned dollars, giving them the opportunity to co-operate with [illegible]

We have records and proofs in our branch office [illegible] the inspection of any [illegible] stock, and we are prepared to show by our books of ore shipped and cash received for the same, that year after year the value of the shipments of ore averaged almost One Million Dollars Annually for 35 Years.

WE PURCHASED THIS PROPERTY FROM J. G. PHELPS STOKES OF NEW YORK.

We also bought the adjoining property of W. H. Edwards of Austin, Nevada, and consolidated it with the Stokes property, the two making one of the largest mining properties in the world and is incorporated as the Austin Hanapah Mining Company. Words are inadequate to properly describe this wonderful property. It must be seen to be appreciated, and its possibilities can only be compared to such mines as the famous Comstock at Virginia City and the Mizpah at Tonopah, the ore being of a similar character and the mines located in the same latitude and mountain ranges. The record of our mines shows that during the past 35 years Thirty Millions of Dollars' worth of gold and silver ore has been taken from them without working one-tenth of the mines. Wherever we go in the mines, wherever we open up new ground, the ore is found in abundance and the same richness prevails. Judging by the past 35 years experience we believe and we have a right to believe that the ore remaining in the mines equals in quantity and quality that of any other mine in the world.

OURS ARE MINES OF ENORMOUS DIVIDEND EARNING POWER.

Just consider what an enormous dividend earning capacity [illegible] mines have. Less than fifty acres have produced thirty millions of dollars in ore in 35 years, true shipments of [illegible] show this. If less than 50 acres of ground [illegible] produced an average of over $857,000 a year for 35 years, the remaining 450 acres, which are patented, should produce annually, [illegible] worked the enormous sum of $17,[illegible] per acre, or $771,[illegible] a year, which [illegible] to the stockholders, less running expenses. Basing our calculations upon what less than 50 acres have produced, we are safe in estimating that in the 450 acres of patented claims, which have been practically [illegible], there is from four hundred and twenty-five to four hundred and fifty millions of dollars of gold and silver ore, and no [illegible] can estimate the millions in the remaining acres of our property.

A SPLENDID INVESTMENT.

Just think of the earning power of this stock! A very small part of it, we assure you, will be offered at less than par. Just think of 2,000 [illegible] shares at one dollar a share, with prospects of everyone who owns stock [illegible] probably a hundred times [illegible] of his or her investment. We say [illegible] without fear of contradiction that [illegible] never a time in the history of the [illegible] world where small investors had such [illegible] opportunity for profitable investment [illegible] you can readily see that stock [illegible] well advance and pay big dividends at one hundred times above par, or advance to $100 per share, and pay good dividends on that valuation, and this stock we now offer you in a limited amount and for a limited time as follows: Subscriptions of 1,000 shares and upward, 90 cents per share cash and 95 cents on installment payments. Less than 1,000 shares, 95 cents cash and $1.00 on installment payments.

WE DO NOT OFFER SHARES IN A PROSPECT, BUT A DEVELOPED MINE.

We do not tempt you with fake drawings of how the mines and mills will look after your money has been spent in developing them. We do not come to you with extravagant statements of what can be done on a prospect. We do not tell you of the wonderful things that can be done when once our mills are built and tunnels are cut and offer you stock in mines where a hundred dollars has not been expended, but we offer you stock that is secured by 500 acres of patented grounds, many of them developed, through which there is a working [illegible] of a mile and a quarter, with thousands of feet of crosscuts and tunnels and 17 well known producing veins, where mills and plants have been erected costing over Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars, and where we are prepared to show by Wells, Fargo & Co.'s shipments that Thirty Million Dollars' worth of bullion has been shipped.

WE WILL PAY YOU ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS CASH

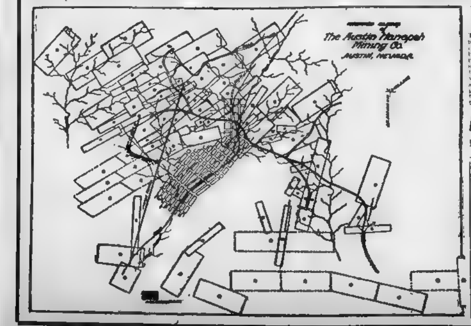
And, besides, will pay all your traveling expenses from your home town or [illegible], no matter where you live in the United States, if you go to Austin, Nevada, situated on the Nevada Central Railroad, and we cannot show the mines as stated in [illegible] advertisement, that the photographs shown here are not of property belonging to us, that the records at Austin, Lander County, Nevada, do not show that we own the mines as claimed, that we cannot show receipts from Wells, Fargo & Co. of shipments of gold and silver ore aggregating millions of dollars during the past thirty-five years, and that the property has not been improved as claimed in this advertisement. Did you ever know or hear of a mining company making as fair a proposition as this? We never did. We would [illegible] or crazy to make such an offer if we did not know we have all we claim.

WE OFFER A LIMITED AMOUNT OF TREASURY STOCK FOR SALE

As an investment we do not believe you can do better than to buy stock in our [illegible]. Your security is of the [illegible] have proved profitable for [illegible] small portion of them has been [illegible] will only sell a limited amount [illegible] This stock is full paid and nonassessable. We have no debts. [illegible]talization is 2,000,000 shares of stock and the par value is one dollar per share.

WE WILL HELP YOU BUY STOCK.

It may not be convenient at all times to pay cash for the things you buy or the investments you make. We realize that, and because we are desiring to give you an opportunity to [illegible] of our stock without investing much [illegible] the start, we offer it for sale for [illegible] on the installment plan, [illegible] and the balance on time. If you [illegible] shares amounting to 1,000 or more, par $1.00 per share, we make the price 90 [illegible] a share cash or 95 cents per share if you pay for it on the installment plan. If [illegible] less than 1,000 shares, we make the [illegible] 95 cents a share cash and $1.00 [illegible] share on installments. All installment [illegible] must be paid 10 per cent cash with [illegible] for stock and 10 per cent of the [illegible] of stock in monthly payments. As an [illegible], you buy 25 shares of stock at [illegible] per share on the installment plan. That [illegible] $25.00. You can pay for it as follows: $2.50 with your order for stock and $2.50 a month for nine months. If you buy $40.00 worth of stock, you must send $4.00 as first payment, then $4.00 each month for nine months. If you buy $50.00 of stock you must send $5.00 as first payment and pay $5.00 each month for nine months. If you buy $100.00 of stock you must send $10.00 as first payment and $10.00 each month for nine months. You see we help you in every way to own some of our stock by permitting you to buy as much or as little as you know you can afford to pay for in monthly payments.



WE DON'T WANT MONEY KINGS. DON'T WANT FRENZIED FINANCIERS

To assist us in the further development of these mines. We intend to develop them to their fullest extent—to give those who co-operate with us the benefits of [illegible] magnificent mining possibilities. [illegible] more money is needed than we, with our large resources, have at today command. We are not going to the kings of finance, to the frenzied financiers [illegible] too good to furnish the amount of money on this proposition. We are going to the common people, who we know will treat us fairly and to whom we pledge ourselves to give absolutely fair treatment.

AN OPPORTUNITY LIKE THIS HAS NEVER BEFORE EXISTED IN MINING FINANCE.

We have a handsome prospectus filled with illustrations showing the buildings erected at our mines and the improvements made on the property. It tells you all about the property and its 35 years of successful mining. It gives you the names of our officers, who they are, and their bank references. It gives just such information as you, a careful investor, should have before investing your money. The prospectus will be sent you free and promptly upon request. Write us to-day for it.

CRIPPLED BOY OF 3 WINS NAME AS PIANIST.

Music Prodigy of Newburyport Is Already in Demand at Entertainments.

Newburyport, Jan. 27.—With his left hand partially paralyzed, but still able to use it, George Croston Murphy, a three-year-old boy of this city, has made so much progress on the piano that he is already in demand as an entertainer. At present he has not [illegible] the works of the masters, but his [illegible] of [illegible] and popular airs has [illegible] of delight to all who have heard [illegible].

Master George recently performed at a concert and [illegible] given by a local society, and his work was received with applause. While not yet able to read music, the boy has an ear which enables him to pick up almost any piece after he has heard it a few times.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Murphy, parents of the prodigy, have carefully prepared the boy for a future career by engaging an instructor for him. A few months ago the little fellow suffered an attack of infant paralysis, which crippled his left hand. Notwithstanding this, he shows great proficiency on the piano for one of his age. For a time he played with his right hand alone, but now that he is regaining the powers of his left hand he uses [illegible]. His parents declare that he has [illegible] taste for music ever since he was able to reach the keys with his chubby fingers.

THREE-YEAR-OLD BOY, PRODIGY AS PIANIST

GEORGE CROSTON MURPHY

SLOCUM CAPTAIN GIVEN 10 YEARS IN SING SING.

Captain Van Schaick of Ill-Fated Steamer When 1,000 Lives Were Lost Sentenced. Now Try Company Chiefs

New York, Jan. 27.—Captain William Van Schaick, who was in charge of the ill-fated steamboat Slocum when she was burned in the East River with the loss of 1,000 lives, was found guilty of failure to maintain proper fire drill aboard the boat and proper supervision of the apparatus aboard for that purpose.

Judge Thomas in the United States Court immediately sentenced Captain Van Schaick to serve ten years in Sing Sing at hard labor. This is the only conviction resulting from the Slocum disaster so far.

When Judge Thomas imposed the sentence of ten years' imprisonment at hard labor upon Captain Van Schaick the knees of the old captain seemed to give way under him. He grasped the rail at which he stood in a desperate manner.

His counsel, Ex-Judge Dittenhoeffer, came to his side and helped to hold him up, while he (the counsel) moved for a stay of sentence. Judge Thomas gave counsel two days in which to prepare his plea.

The defendant, who is sixty-seven years old and has been employed as a river pilot for more than forty years, was taken to the Tombs after [illegible] out on bail, furnished by the Knickerbocker Steamboat Company.

Ex-Judge Dittenhoeffer said that he believed the finding of the jury and the sentence of Judge Thomas could be set aside. He said he would immediately make a motion to that effect before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which is now in session.

The officers of the Knickerbocker Steamship Company will be placed on trial next month on a charge similar to that on which Van Schaick was to-day found guilty.

OPERATION MENACED LIFE OF DUCHESS

London, Jan. 2[illegible].—It has been given out here that the surgical operation for cancer on Consuelo, Dowager Duchess of Manchester, who was Miss Yznaga of New York, was a very grave one despite all statements to the contrary. The Duchess was under an anesthetic for three hours, and for three days life and death were in equal balance. She must take infinite care to prevent a recurrence of the terrible affection, and she will go to Biarritz.

FATHER WAS TO BLAME.

A Chicago mother kept her boy away from school against the requirements of the education laws and the protests of the father. The latter, however, was prosecuted and fined $25, the court holding that he was culpable in failing to establish himself as the authoritative head of his house[illegible].

WOMAN GETS THIRD OF IRVING'S ESTATE

London, Jan. 27.—The probate of the late Sir Henry Irving's will has been granted. It divides his property equally between his two sons and Mrs. David B. Aria, a woman journalist, who has made dress a specialty and who has written on this topic in American as well as English papers.

PILES CURED QUICKLY AT HOME

Why Suffer Agony Any Longer When You Can Get a Quick, Sure Cure For Your Piles by Simply Sending Your Name and Address?

Trial Package is sent Absolutely Free, in Plain Wrapper, to Everyone Who Writes.

Surgeons themselves consider a permanent cure of piles by a surgical operation as very doubtful, and resort to it only when the patient has become desperate from long continued pain and agony. But the operation itself is every bit as excruciating and nerve-racking as the disease. Besides, it is humiliating and expensive, and rarely a success.

Pyramid Pile Cure gives you instant relief. It immediately heals all sores and ulcers, reduces congestion and inflammation and takes away all pain, itching and irritation. Just a little of the treatment is usually sufficient to give a permanent cure.

Pyramid Pile Cure is prepared in the form of suppositories so they can be applied directly to the parts without inconvenience or interrupting your work in any way.

We are sending a trial treatment free of charge to every one who sends name and address. We do this to prove what we say about this wonderful remedy is true.

After you have tried the sample treatment, and you are satisfied you can get a full regular sized treatment of Pyramid Pile Cure at your druggist's for 50 cents. If he hasn't it send us the money and we will send you the treatment at once, by mail, in plain sealed package.

Send your name and address at once for a trial of this marvelous quick, sure cure. Address Pyramid Drug Co., 10,286 Pyramid Building, Marshall, Mich.

The Whiskey You Should Buy And the Advantage of Buying Direct.

The whiskey you buy should be a whiskey that you know is honest and absolutely reliable all through. A whiskey that is dependable in cases of sickness for its uniformity of tonic strength and where a mild stimulant is required. A whiskey that as a beverage combines fineness of flavor and bouquet and excellence of quality. A whiskey in which only the finest rye grains and the best barley malt is used. A whiskey that has been thoroughly and honestly matured in charred oak vats in properly heated warehouses, and a whiskey that is sold at a price that is within your reach.

Callahan Home Whiskey is the embodiment of all these virtues in their fullest sense and more. Callahan Home Whiskey is distilled by the most expert distillers in the world, which insures uniformity and excellence of quality and an exquisite flavor and bouquet. Callahan Home Whiskey has been properly and honestly aged in the wood, giving it a smoothness that is [illegible] to the palate of the [illegible] of whiskey. It [illegible] guarantee that is iron-clad to be 10 years old, and to give absolute satisfaction or your money back. Try it at our expense.

The advantage of buying whiskey direct from the distiller and blender is that you are enabled to purchase a better whiskey for less money, because there is but one profit added to the cost of production by the distillers. All the middlemen's profits are eliminated by getting it at first hand. When you buy direct you are sure of a whiskey that has not been tampered with.

Callahan Home Whiskey is the finest whiskey distilled and comes to the public mellow, rich and ripe. Read our offer.

Our Offer and Guarantee

Simply send us $3 for four (4) full quarts of Callahan 10-year-old Home Whiskey, Rye or Bourbon, and we will promptly ship the goods to any railroad point in New England, express charges prepaid. Sample a bottle and if not thoroughly satisfied with your purchase, return the case to us, at our expense, and your $3 will be returned without argument or delay.

We mean exactly what we state. The entire risk is ours. You have no expense if we do not please you.

[illegible]treet's and Dun's Mercantile Agencies or the National Shawmut [illegible] of Boston will tell you that we are an old and reliable firm.

ALLEGED N. Y. THUG HELD IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, R. I., Jan. 27.—After being followed here from New York by three Bowery thugs, Meyer [illegible], eighteen, who had an ambition to go on the stage, was robbed of $128. Two of the alleged gang were arrested and in court to-day John Hutchinson, eighteen, pleaded not guilty and was held in $1,000 bonds. Garson told the police he noticed the [illegible] on the steamer, that they ascertained he had money, induced him to go to a lodging house and when he slept [illegible] from the toe of a sock.

NEW YORK AS DRY AS BOSTON TO-DAY

By Boston American Leased Wire.

New York, Jan. 27.—Jerome's idea that the city will not stand for an absolutely dry Sunday is to be tested to-morrow—at least that is the police programme. Commissioner Bingham says: "My orders are that all laws must be enforced, excise laws as well as the others."

The prospect, therefore, is for a Sahara-like desolation. None of the captains are seeking rustication. So the man with a thirst may have to buy a real meal to-morrow to get a drink.

CATHOLIC CHARITY AT ANNUAL MEEING

President, Dr. Thomas J. Giblin; Vice-presidents, James F. Wise, Dana F. Tilley and William C. Carrol; Secretary and Treasurer, James A. McMurray.

Mr. Edward Mc[illegible]ready of Rockland was the guest of the evening and delivered an interesting address on the Probation System of Massachusetts.

James F. Wise presided.

MINISTER SWEARS, SAYS WIFE, WHO SUES

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 27.—Bessie D. Cornell sued the Rev. H. L. Cornell for divorce to-day. The Rev. Mr. Cornell was formerly a Presbyterian missionary to Siam. In her petition Mrs. Cornwell alleges that her husband, although a minister, was guilty of swearing at her and threatening to kill her on two occasions and that she was compelled to teach music in order to support herself and two children.

CARD SHARPS ON CAMPANIA GET $1,50

New York, Jan. 27.—Two card sharps and all-round swindlers who chose this the time of year when they are least likely to be suspected, to come over on the Cunard liner Campania, fleeced a number of the first cabin passengers to the tune of upwards of $1,500. One of the swindlers was recognized to-day by Pier Detective Edward Mallon, but no arrest was made, as none of the Campania's victims was willing to press a complaint against the sharps. Among the heaviest losers was Leon Morris Lewis, who came to play in vaudeville with a troupe of trained dogs and birds, and Charles Schultz, a merchant of East Orange, N. J. Lewis lost $50 in cash and $190 in I. O. U.s.

We Begin the 1906 Silk Season with a Sale of Momentous Importance

It is a sale that will be recorded in the annals of silk selling as the greatest event of its kind ever advertised in New England. Tens of thousands of yards of the choicest fabrics, designed for this year's wear, acquired through special purchases involving extraordinary price concessions, enable us to offer values that have no precedent within our knowledge. Your selection is not confined to a few pieces, but you have the opportunity to choose silks for every conceivable purpose.

Enlargement of Our Silk Section to Three Times Its Former Size

Increased space became necessary because of the exceptionally big business this department has transacted. In proportions as well as in the large and varied assortment of its stock, it is now the foremost silk store in the country. With its present advantage of having the most desirable and exclusive weaves of silk, satin and velvet, and retailing them at the lowest possible prices, its supremacy will never be eclipsed.

Consequently, to place this sale in a class by itself and give it prominence in local history, we have impressed every domestic and foreign manufacturer of note into our service, and each has contributed the very cream of his latest output at a much lower quotation than he can favor us with on future orders. The result is an immense accumulation of beautiful silks in black and all the daintiest shades and color blendings, soft and clinging, rich and rustling.

34c a yard for 25,000 yards of Plain and Fancy Silks in neat stripe effects, dainty little figures for street gowns, small checked effects, wide and narrow, in 50 different shades and colors. There are plain and changeable taffetas, Faille Francais, and many others. They are all placed in one great lot and marked at 34c a yard.

44c a yard for yard wide foulards, the polka dot kind. Polka dots are always in fashion. We offer one of the best opportunities of the season to get a supply of this beautiful material. Many different sizes of dots and plenty of colorings to choose from. These same goods retail every day in Boston at $1.00 a yard.

59c a yard for 25,000 yards of black moire Francais, black moire antiques, moire and mignon striped grograin moire, positively retailing in Boston at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00 and $2.50 a yard. Beautiful goods and the best Black Silk value ever offered in Boston. When you see the quality of these fabrics you will doubt your own eyesight. We bought every yard the manufacturer had, and would have taken more if we could get it at the same price. These goods are all guaranteed, and a little shopping will convince you that the comparative prices we quote are correct.

$24,000,000 N. Y. CAPITAL IN DANGER.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 27.—Not since the Assembly ceiling threatened to crush the legislators sitting beneath it has there been such excitement here as this afternoon when the trustees of public buildings condemned the great grey limestone staircase leading to the chamber in the northeast corner of the capitol.

Within three hours after the order went out high barricades were erected at the end of every corridor opening into this stairway and the occupants of offices in this corner of the building had been warned to vacate.

As the result of an investigation by competent experts quietly conducted during the past few weeks, the integrity not only of this part of the building, but of the whole great structure, covering over two acres and costing $23,721,900, is in question. It may cost millions more to make the necessary repairs.

Meanwhile, the State officers are taking no chances. They have taken every precaution to guard against the disaster which would result if the staircase fell, carrying with it the northeast corner of the capitol.

AMERICAN DELUGED BY PICTURE PUZZLE MAIL

There was a deluge in the BOSTON AMERICAN office last Monday.

It was in the shape of several huge mail pouches filled to the brim with answers to the puzzle of finding where selected pictures and paragraphs appeared in the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

It wasn't a hard puzzle. All it required was a careful perusal of the paper. Incidentally a careful perusal of last Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN was worth one's while, as [illegible] and features were live and up to date.

So, answers to the puzzle commenced to pour into the offices. Naturally the prizes had to be awarded to the correct ones in the order they were received.

George W. Blake, of No. 83 Chatham street, Lynn, who captured the first prize, evidently got hold of a copy of the SUNDAY AMERICAN before breakfast and perused it well. Having solved the puzzle he hied himself to the postoffice, where he purchased a special delivery stamp. His answer reached the BOSTON AMERICAN office at 7.14 o'clock Sunday morning.

By Sunday night the mails had been overtaxed. Carefully the clerks went over the letters and placed them in the order of their being mailed. As fast as the correct ones were selected they were placed together and then the prizes awarded in the order of their mailing.

Where two were mailed at the same hour the prize was awarded to the neatest arranged solution.

An Actual Saving of from One-Third to One-Half on Every Purchase

We have achieved the most important furniture triumph ever credited to Boston. It is nothing less than the gathering in our fourth floor salesroom and storage houses of half a million dollars' worth of furniture especially adapted to the requirements and tastes of the people of Boston and vicinity, and the remarkable feature of the victory lies in the fact that orders for every piece of it were placed early in November, before the manufacturers of the United States got together and advanced prices 33 1-3 per cent.

Important Notice No. 1

That all may take advantage of the low prices in our February Furniture Sale, we shall upon request hold articles purchased for future delivery.

Our furniture chief, who has been identified with other prominent Boston stores for many years, and who has studied and thoroughly understands the temperament and home furnishing tastes of those residing in this community, made his selections with consummate skill. He did not accept anything that fell below the high standard of quality and artistic beauty established in this city by actual usage.

Important Notice No. 2

To afford our charge customers ample opportunity to enjoy the bargains in our February Furniture Sale, we shall charge all purchases Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday on their February account.

The result of experience and forethought combined is most fortunate. On top of the savings natural in the purchase of enormous quantities of furniture of the Siegel chain of stores is the positive advantage of having paid a third less for our stock than the prices prevailing now. A little mental calculation will disclose the fact that this is, without question, the greatest furniture buying opportunity ever furnished the people of New England. It is not an exaggeration to claim that all who buy now will save from one-third to one-half. Study the accompanying propositions and you will agree:

STOCKS Break in Prices Causes Losses in Wall Street, But Will Be Beneficial BONDS Big Deal to Control Copper Market Of Country Suspected by Wise Ones MONEY

PRICES BREAK, SETBACK IN STOCKS.

DROP IN READ[illegible] AND BOSTON [illegible] DULL

After [illegible] a record [illegible] matter of a [illegible] during which prices [illegible] levels, the stock market has again made a record—one of halting before it was too late. A much [illegible] during the past [illegible] feeling its ef[illegible] yesterday and [illegible] week [illegible] stimulated [illegible] exhausted state. It was, however, a "healthy" [illegible] position of stocks is all the stronger because of it.

The [illegible] "constitution" is as strong as ever. All that is needed, after a high and protracted speculative fever [illegible] movement does not seem [illegible] It has basted [illegible] probably for [illegible] not advance forever. There was danger that efforts to force them to do so might be made, and there was [illegible] that preparat[illegible] have res[illegible] stricture [illegible] warning was [illegible] in many [illegible] It was struck [illegible] column two [illegible] Wall street was plunging ahead into a wild delirium, in a fever of [illegible] which could result only in final collapse. Wise heads and cool judgment have prevailed, and the stock market has assumed a more normal tone.

Stronger Position Established.

The more conservative of the market leaders have been helped in two ways. The public has rushed to sell stocks whenever there has been a sign of reaction. "Outside" traders have been very quick, as usual, to take their profits. This has helped the effort to keep the market within bounds. Then, too, the "professional" operators have been busy taking profits whenever opportunity afforded. The liquidation which the market leaders created, therefore, was increased by the so-called professional and by the public elements. The net result is a falling off in prices, but a stronger position of stocks. The danger for some time has only been in an excess of speculation resulting in fictitious values.

As is always the case during a bull movement, many people started too late to buy. Stories are told of untold millions being made during the recent remarkable rise, but it is also true that much money was lost after prices had reached their highest points. While the wiser heads were arranging for the disposition of the lines being carried, others less wise and more impetuous were planning to buy more stock. The break in [illegible] operators were [illegible] Board of Trade [illegible] ation has now been [illegible] forced [illegible] contrasted [illegible] reported by the uptown interests in New York that the decline was a big shakeout engineered by powerful interests who objected to the plunging methods of outside speculators who recently assumed the role of leadership, especially in Reading common, and with [illegible] success.

Market Will Soon Advance.

The movement in Reading has attracted attention second [illegible] to that accorded Amalgamated Anaconda and the Steels. The [illegible] of Reading [illegible] was the signal that led the big [illegible] with a [illegible] dangerous element from the speculative situation. Stocks are now passing into strong hands [illegible] the market will soon resume [illegible] important [illegible] of Amalgamated Copper and [illegible] Steel [illegible] stocks [illegible]

A prominent Steel man estimates that the United States Steel Corporation will earn this year not less than $1[illegible],000,000. As for coppers, they had him in New York yesterday, when a deluge of selling orders sent prices rattling down the scale [illegible] Amalgamated and Anaconda showed a small net gain while the rest of the list with few exceptions showed losses. A leader in copper [illegible] New York was quoted as saying [illegible] big deal in copper is being [illegible] in New York involving the Amalgamated, Guggenheim and Heinze interests [illegible]

"Henry H. Rogers and Daniel Guggenheim are in almost daily consultation, and they are certainly not talking about the weather, Standard Oil or railroad affairs [illegible] of the control of the copper [illegible] country and that [illegible] will be as supreme in copper as they have become in silver and lead [illegible] the Amalgamated Copper Company would have to be turned over [illegible] as well as the Heinze properties. It is recognized that the Guggenheims are [illegible] capable mining and smelting [illegible] the country. Of course, a [illegible] gigantic proportions cannot [illegible] but affairs are certainly [illegible] along [illegible]

Amalgamated Most Active.

The stock market in New York yesterday, although fairly active for a Saturday session, was more dull than on many preceding Saturdays. The total of transactions for the day, 734,313 shares, would have been high early last Fall, but in comparison with recent Saturday figures [illegible] small by some 100,000 shares. [illegible] Amalgamated was the most active [illegible] 100,000 shares changing hands. The stock touched 112¾, but the advance was not wholly held, the closing being at 111½, a net gain for the day of [illegible]. Anaconda gained one point, to 277, the highest point of the day, which was 281, breaking in sympathy with the weakness [illegible] other issues. This stock is now so closely held, even if it is not practically "cornered," that any transactions of good size result in fluctuations of several points between two sales.

Reading lost 6½ points of the sensational gains made during the bull movement. The closing came at 146, after the stock had touched 152¾, the high point for the day. As this stock was selling at between 50 and 60 a year ago, a drop of 6½ points yesterday cannot have caused any serious injury except to those who were carrying a long line at the top figures. Enormous profits are said to have been made in Reading, on the stock exchange during the past few months. One man alone, Henry C. Frick, is said to have made $5,000,000 on a line of 50,000 shares, bought around 50 a year ago. It is reported that those who had held on to Reading until the top figures were reached sold out during the past week to certain individuals who had just decided to become bullish on the stock. The selling which meant the realization of profits, resulted in a big drop in the price and the [illegible] on this issue were heavy losers. This in itself is an indication of the way the wind was blowing last week, for during many previous weeks it was almost impossible to buy stocks without [illegible] practically all prices advancing with alarming consistency.

Loss in Price Results.

Most of the active issues suffered loss in price yesterday. Liquidation as [illegible] together with profit taking as before mentioned, was the ca[illegible] Brooklyn Rapid Transit lost 2⅛ to 91⅝. [illegible] was less active than [illegible] weak at 155⅞, a loss [illegible] the Steel [illegible] common was off [illegible] to 44 [illegible] the preferred closed at 112. [illegible] Colorado Fuel & Iron [illegible] which recently [illegible] ing upwards [illegible] 11[illegible] to 140⅜. Missouri [illegible] points to 1[illegible] to 151[illegible] Norfolk & W[illegible] to 91[illegible]

In Boston the trading [illegible] coppers was duller than [illegible] enthusiasm was lacking [illegible] formerly been most [illegible] New York bought Amalgamated, and Boston [illegible] Greene Consolidated. The Lake coppers were somewhat neglected, and seemed inclined to weaken. There was apparently an effort on the part of some interests to keep the Lake coppers quiet. Of the general list, Boston & Worcester was the most conspicuous, the common touching 32, an advance of 4½ points. The closing was at 30, a gain of 2½. The preferred gained 4 points, at the close, the price advancing to 79. Atlantic gained 1 to 26, Copper Range closed at 83¾, unchanged, Greene Consolidated was unchanged at 26⅝. Isle Royale was off ½ [illegible] North Butte lost ¼ to 86¾, Parrot dropped ½ to 41. Tamarack lost 1 to 108, United Copper lost [illegible] to 63, and Utah Consolidated lost ½ to 65¼.

The bank statement showed that the surplus held by the New York banks decreased $934,725 during the week, but this did not affect the stock market. The break in prices was due to other causes. The week in the money market closed with rates easy. This should favor a resumption of the advance in the stock market which is expected to occur irrespective of the money market, just as it was maintained in the face of 100 per cent money a few weeks ago.

Financial Notes.

The increase in national bank circulation for last week was $345,475.

The United States sub-treasury reported a debit balance at the local clearing house yesterday of $44,300.

Essex County has awarded a temporary loan of $200,000, due in December next, to [illegible] & Co., at 3.98 per cent. discount.

Official figures just published show that the British consumption of copper for 1905 was 28,000 tons less than for 1904. This decrease was caused partly by the high price for the metal.

The Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville Railway Company has applied to the New York Stock Exchange to list $200,000 additional refunding mortgage 5 per cent bonds of 1947.

Since January 1, nearly 4,000,000 shares of Union Pacific have changed hands on the New York Stock Exchange. In the same period over 3,400,000 shares of Amalgamated have been traded in.

What Sulphur Does.

For the Human Body in Health and Disease.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and mind you, this old fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years, research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate coated pellets and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver and excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician alike.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins while experimenting with sulphur remedies soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria. I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article, and sold by druggists, and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles and especially in all forms of skin disease as this remedy."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called blood "purifiers," will find in Stuart's Calcium Wafers a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

THE HIDDEN MARRIAGE

A Romance of Beacon Street and the Slums of Boston

Synopsis

JUDGE STEPHEN CATHCART was shocked because [illegible] he found that Olive Graham [illegible] for murder was his own daughter. The woman he had married as a boy and [illegible] her had [illegible] was dead [illegible] secret of the marriage. CHAPTER XV.—Continued.

[illegible] 1905, by American Journal Examiner.

MRS. GRAHAM smiled at the old clerk. She, too, felt that with the coming of Mordaunt all these sordid details would be settled, and she and her daughter might take some little trip that would get them away from the memories, the old painful scenes.

"Mr. Mordaunt will be here soon now," said old Sangster.

Olive arose.

"I would rather not see him," she said. "I have not yet become used to be looked at as the girl of the murder trial. I will withdraw," and walking to an inner room she drew the folding doors together.

The Interview

On receiving the old clerk's letter Mordaunt had been doubtful at first whether to keep the appointment. Only just at that time Mordaunt's chief anxiety was to avoid any unpleasantness that might lead to publicity; with the tragic affair of Johnson occupying so much attention, he had very cogent reasons for wishing to lie low. And he was anxious to ascertain how much the other side knew; whether they had any unsuspected card up their sleeve.

Mordaunt entered, shown in by the landlady. He bowed stiffly as Sangster said,

"This is Mrs. Graham—Mr. Mordaunt."

In the next room, behind the closed folding doors, Olive sat; she could hear every word that passed. The first words Mordaunt spoke stirred a swift prejudice against him in the listening girl.

"I hardly know why I am called to this little conference," he began, "but curiosity, and I may say some degree of respect for my late uncle's clerk, Mr. Sangster, have induced me to come to learn for what reason you desire an interview."

"Perhaps, Mr. Mordaunt, since I brought you here, I had better explain," he said, glancing inquiringly at Mrs. Graham.

"Fire away," said Mordaunt, carelessly. He dropped into a chair.

"The late Stephen Cathcart confided in me within a few hours of his death," he said slowly, in his dry, precise way. "You will surmise, Mr. Mordaunt, I am sure, why I wrote to you when I remind you that I bore his last wishes to you that night; wishes that under the circumstances can hardly be otherwise than sacred to you."

A Plain Defiance

"Really, my good fellow, you talk in a somewhat puzzling way. The last wish my uncle expressed to me was when he wished me 'Good night' on the evening before his death."

Sangster's face grew a shade sterner as he looked at Mordaunt.

"Surely you cannot propose to ignore the wishes—the express injunction laid upon you—in the letter I delivered to you?" he cried.

"In the letter you delivered to me? What do you mean? How should you know what was in a private letter to me?" demanded Mordaunt, sharply; there was a steely gleam in his eyes.

"Because before he sent it your uncle showed that letter to me. Shall I recall its contents to you that you seem to have forgotten?"

"And Mr. Sangster is not the only person who saw the letter," broke in Mrs. Graham, who had stood silent so far. "It was shown to my daughter by Stephen Cathcart before he sent it to you."

"Really," said Mordaunt, with a scarcely veiled sneer. "My uncle seems to have been on [illegible] confidential! And what is all this leading up to?"

"It was a very simple thing," said the old clerk with a sudden stern dignity strange in him—"that you prove yourself a man of honor by fulfilling what was more than a wish, a command laid upon you by the dead."

There was a smile on Mordaunt's lips. He did [illegible]

"Had [illegible] lived but one day longer," went on Sangster. "It was his full intention, as [illegible] told you in that letter to arrange [illegible] disposal of his fortune. He told [illegible] to yourself and the minor legacies [illegible] in the will, all he died possessed [illegible] could have gone to this lady and her daughter. He left it incumbent on your sense of honor to act as trustee to those wishes."

For answer Mordaunt laughed.

A laugh that Olive heard as she sat in the next room, with passionate eyes, and hands fiercely clenched. Were all men alike? Were all men bad?

His Defence

"To think that you of all men, my good Sangster, the example of professed rectitude, should lend yourself to a conspiracy like this to extort money—for I suppose that is [illegible] amounts to."

"The slander as affecting myself needs no refutation," said Sangster quietly. "You know this is no conspiracy; you know you cannot disregard those wishes and ever call yourself an honest man again."

"[illegible] of this impertinence. What proof [illegible] you of these alleged wishes? You are a lawyer—produce your proofs."

"As you know perfectly, the one proof was in that letter in your possession. And [illegible] felt a sudden relief. The [illegible] known to this lady and my [illegible] validity of [illegible] doubt. The Judge [illegible] make reparation for a wrong done."

"But not a wrong of his doing," cried Olive [illegible]

"I know nothing of any wrong. My uncle is dead, and practically the whole estate happens to have been left to me. You can't expect me to take a step in the dark," he said, curtly. "If you wish me to right a wrong, what is the wrong? I never heard of an entanglement in my uncle's life. [illegible] a more clean-living man never [illegible] No woman ever shadowed his [illegible]"

No Excuse

"If your words are directed against me they are unjust," said Olive's mother, with a quiet, proud dignity.

"What claim have you?—a stranger, who has [illegible] merely cropped up in my uncle's life," went on Mordaunt with a sneer. "On what grounds do you base this preposterous claim?"

The [illegible] a rest came out then.

S[illegible] quickly, almost hysterically.

"Because I was [illegible]"

The woman paused abruptly, not through [illegible] her story might sound incredible. Stephen Cathcart had told her [illegible] was valid; that she would have any difficulty in proving it never entered her thoughts. But because the man she loved had wished the secret should be kept she would keep it.

"Speak!" cried Sangster.

The woman he knew as Mrs. Graham shook her head slowly.

"I have not the right to speak," she whispered.

Mordaunt shrugged his shoulders.

"So far as I can see there is no more to be said. Good day," he said curtly.

He took up his hat and coat and walked towards the door. He turned and added with a sneer:

"I should have thought that you, madam, at least owed the memory of my uncle too much gratitude and respect for the [illegible] perhaps over lenient—summing up at the end of a recent notorious criminal trial which undoubtedly saved your daughter's life, to embark on such a lame conspiracy."

TWO TO ROW FROM OREGON TO NORFOLK

Will Follow Lewis and Clark Route to Advertise a Fair.

The officials of the Jamestown Exposition Company have signed a contract for one of the most unique methods of advertising [illegible] attempted. F. B. Davidson and [illegible] will travel in a boat from Portland, Oregon, to the Hampton Roads, over [illegible] traversed by Lewis and Clark in the great expedition of discovery which opened the northwestern section of the United States for settlement.

They will travel from the Columbia to the head waters of the Missouri, thence to Pittsburg by way of the Mississippi and the Ohio rivers, and then make their way to Cumberland, Maryland, and down to the Hampton roads by way of the Potomac.

WIFE ASSUMES GUILT TO SHIELD HUSBAND

Cleveland, Jan. 27.—In a pathetic attempt to shield her husband, Mrs. Rebecca Chico, a pretty Italian bride of six months, confessed to a crime of which the police believe she is not guilty.

The husband, Gaetano Chico of Eighty-third street, S. E., is held for stabbing Giovanni Triano in a house in Eighty-fifth street. Mrs. Chico says her husband is innocent, and insisted on being charged with the cutting, declaring that she wielded the stiletto. She was taken at her word and arrested on the charge of cutting to kill.

HIP BONES SNAPPED BY CROSSING LEGS

Strange Accident Which Must Be Followed by Amputation.

Jeffersonville, Ind., Jan. 27.—Joseph H. Spahr, treasurer-elect of the city of Jeffersonville, is the victim of a curious accident. Mr. Spahr has been slightly lame for a long time, though he has free use of his limbs. While sitting in his home he suddenly crossed his legs, when the bones just below the hip snapped short off. Medical aid was immediately summoned and the injured man's condition pronounced critical. After a consultation it was decided that amputation would be necessary if Mr. Spahr's life was to be spared.

BIG PROFITS ON DIAMONDS

Boston Company Own Vast Diamond Field,

Producing Now 200 Stones Daily, Worth $125 Carat.

Opportunity for a Conservative, Solid and Safe 25% Investment.

I want every man and woman in New England who has from $50 to $1000 in available cash and who desires to place it where they can receive from 10 to 25% income from the same to send me their name and address or to call and have a personal conference with me.

I am not selling stock which is a gamble, or a mere project. Neither am I buying or selling stocks on a margin.

My reputation and standing in the business world is sufficiently well known to place in me that confidence which people have who have joined me heretofore in my most successful enterprises.

This is my first experience in allowing the public to join me as stockholders. I have heretofore bonded my enterprises and these bonds are better secured than any investment contract ever offered for sale in New England.

I have been fortunate in entering the diamond field, and have organized the COLONIAL DIAMOND MINING COMPANY who own outright 1,500 acres of land, which is producing diamonds of the finest quality.

These diamonds are of the so-called "MELEE" type, small to medium size, of unusual hardness, and selling when cut as high as $125 per carat.

These precious stones are secured without expensive machinery and without an elaborate plant. Manual labor alone being required to extract them from Mother Earth.

This vast diamond field is located where customs or duty or royalty are not required. And the entire proceeds from their sale go to the profits of the stock-holders with the light expense of the labor in securing them.

This is no experiment, for today we have a gang of men at work, and we are producing as high as 200 stones a day.

My company is capitalized for $500,000 under the laws of Massachusetts, and I hold $100,000 in stock at $10 a share, which I offer the public at par value. The $100,000 to be realized from the sale of this stock is to be used entirely in engaging help to work the Diamond fields, and as each man's labor shows a big profit, the stock-holders are assured of exceptionally large dividends direct from their investment.

I do not make rash promises, but I have no hesitancy in saying that this stock will pay from 10 to 25% the first year.

If you are interested in this investment, send me your name and address, or call at my office.

BOND MARKET IS STRONG

Big Copper Strike on Mocking Bird Increases Demand

For 5-Year 7% Gold-Bearing Bonds of Dividend Mining and Milling Co.

Exceptional Opportunity for Safe Investment with Big Returns

The market for 5 year 7% gold bearing bonds of the DIVIDEND MINING AND MILLING COMPANY this past week has been exceedingly strong, owing to the tremendous copper strike which was announced one week ago. The discovery that the MOCKING BIRD MINE contained a copper vein 7 feet wide, with every indication that it would run to 100 feet, very naturally increased the demand for the securities of this company, who own, besides the Mocking Bird Mine, 51 of the richest copper properties of the south-west.

President Bryson, who has just returned from a personal inspection of the big strike on the Mocking Bird Mine, states that without question this Company owns the richest copper mine in the south-west, and that if the Company simply extracted and sold the raw ore, there would be several million dollars in clear profits.

But as the Company owns, free and clear, mills and all the mining machinery necessary, this company will take advantage and will immediately separate the copper and other metals, receiving a much higher price thereby.

In an interview President Bryson says regarding the 5 year 7% gold bearing bonds:

"These bonds offer a most exceptional opportunity for investment. In the first place the entire bond issue is only $150,000.

"The directors have decided to sell at present only $75,000. As soon as these $75,000 have been sold, the mills will be started and the regular mining of copper on a large scale will be begun.

"Each bond has security of all of the mining properties of the Company, consisting of 51 copper claims, including the Mocking Bird Mine, where the big strike has been made.

"Each bond pays 7% interest and runs only 5 years, although the Company reserves the right to redeem the bonds at $107.00 each at any time.

"10% of all the sales and receipts from copper will be paid into the American Loan and Trust Company of Boston, Mass., who are trustees, until the amount of the bonds has been provided for.

"The company has decided to give a bonus of $100 in common stock with each $100 bond. In view of the absolute security of the bonds, and the big bonus of common stock, this investment is without doubt the best, safest and most interesting which has been offered on the Boston Stock Market for a long time.

FORCE FRESHMEN TO SAY "MR." AND DOFF HATS.

Leicester, Jan. 27.—Upper class boys of Leicester Academy found some difficulty enforcing new rules requiring the sophomores and freshmen to doff their hats and say "Mister" when addressing members of the class of '06 and '07. The first trouble occurred on Pleasant street, when Ralph Horne, a freshman, refused to address J. B. Thrall, Jr., and Walter Wilson, two seniors, as "Mr." The seniors then set out to haze Horne, who ran down Pleasant street at a fast clip, but the seniors overtook him and administered the first degree.

Horne's medicine at the hands of Thrall and Wilson of the senior class was what the boys consider the highest dose of hazing. It consisted of Horne being forced to take off his hat twenty-five times and address the seniors each time as he lifted his headpiece by the title "Mister." He was then made to promise obedience to the rules laid down by the rules committee of the 1906 and 1907 classes.

Marshall Warren, another freshman, met Ned Starbard, '06, and Edward Warren, '07, near the postoffice, and omitted to tip his hat to the two upper class boys.

Young Warren fared better than his classmate Horne, as he was allowed to depart after making the promise of obedience.

The affair has aroused the indignation of many of the parents of the boys.

FOUND AFTER EIGHT YEARS IN POORHOUSE

Pittsburg, Jan. 27.—Aged and disabled, James Giles will no longer write "poorhouse" as his place of abode. His daughter has found him. He had been lost eight years. There is all the pathos of the ballad "Over the Hills to the Poorhouse" in the seventy-nine years of Giles's life, while Cupid and a wartime romance under the balmy skies of Cuba played him the cruel turn of separating him from his daughter. He has erased ten of the score recorded by Father Time since "Julia is found." James H. Giles was a former well-known [illegible] of Pittsburg.

Douglas Copper--$5,250,000 in Ore Ready for Smelter

Again and again have I said, and again I say, and still maintain that the Douglas Copper Company will come in time to be known as "The Good News Mine."

Goods news has been coming in all the while and here is more of it.

The following telegram from President Douglas, dated at Guaymas, Mexico, on the Gulf of California, January 24th, says:

> "Arrived here to-day. Gustave Gouyard, consulting engineer, has made annual examination of properties. Report excellent. States ore blocked out and in sight FIVE MILLION, TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS. Shall leave to-morrow for New York. THEODORE DOUGLAS."

To give an idea of the progress that has made in accumulating the ore reserves for the company's new smelter Engineer Gouyard's annual report of a year ago, dated January 7th, 1905, is given, as follows.

Totals of Tonnage and Values of the Different Ore Bodies.

	Tons.	Value.
Front Ore Body No. 1	82,250	$2,042,1[illegible].50
Front Ore Body No. 2	2,000	7[illegible]
Back Ore Body No. 1	7,[illegible]	20,[illegible]
Back Ore Body No. 2	12,[illegible]	[illegible]
Totals	104,500	$2,667,157.50

Inasmuch as the above total represents the results of two years' work or more and as the total of a year ago has been almost doubled in the past year, the fact is eloquently proclaimed that not only is the ore reserve being more rapidly blocked out than ever, but that as the lower levels are worked, the ore is increasing in value.

It is a story of progress and wealth—

January, 1905.............. $2,667,157.50
January, 1906.............. $5,250,000.00

As the stock issue consists of 600,000 shares, par value $5 a share, making the capitalization $3,000,000, and as a bond issue has been authorized to the amount of $600,000 for the purpose of erecting and equipping a 1,000-ton smelter, it is shown that there has already been accumulated an ore reserve of such value as to more than reimburse every investor in its securities out of the first fruits of the mine. The bonds are all sold with a clause providing for their conversion, dollar for dollar, into stock at its par value, and for the purposes of such conversion a redemption fund of $600,000 in stock has been set aside to take up the bond issue as provided for.

As the company has no debts other than current obligations, which are discharged as made, its total liabilities are embraced in its $3,000,000 capital stock.

To offset all claims coming against it now or hereafter, and to supply a guarantee that is absolutely gilt-edged, and without a superior in any corporation in this country, it has—

1st—Ore-bearing lands in the company's original holdings alone, with nearly a mile of rich mineral outcroppings and with mineral deposits probably a mile in depth, worth untold millions of dollars, and capable of being worked for centuries to come.

(This includes ore already blocked out and in sight of $5,250,000, according to Consulting Engineer Gouyard's latest annual report, $2,250,000 in excess of the company's entire capitalization and liability.)

2nd—Town site, buildings, extensive and expensive mining machinery, plans, surface improvements now on the property, worth many thousands of dollars.

3rd—A large tract, embracing approximately 20,000 acres of rich agricultural and timber lands, lying adjacent to the mining property.

4th—An extensive tract of undeveloped anthracite coal lands, known to be of exceedingly great value.

5th—All additional properties that have been acquired or may hereafter be acquired by the company, many of which are immensely rich in mineral values and by so much add to the wealth and strengthen the position of the company.

The report of Mr. Gustave M. Gouyard, the distinguished mining engineer of Denver, Colorado, will be discredited by nobody, save it be one in ignorance about the men who have done things in the mining history of the past 40 years in the United States and Mexico.

The fact should be borne in mind that when a mining engineer of known reputation like Mr. Gouyard makes a report on mine values the report is accepted precisely as is that of a bank examiner when he signs his name to a report covering the condition of a bank. He goes into a mine accompanied only by his own assistants. He carries with him pick and drill and little sacks somewhat similar to those used in the United States mail service. A careful examination of the ore bodies uncovered is made, and specimens are picked at regular distances of three feet apart from all the ore bodies exposed. These specimens are carefully deposited in the engineer's ore bag and securely locked, after which, with his trusted assistants, he repairs to an assay office and proceeds to determine, in an accurate manner, the actual values blocked out in the mine.

Mr. Gouyard is consulting engineer for the group of Boston capitalists controlling the world famous Calumet & Hecla mines and other large allied copper interests. He was engaged in 1904 by the board of directors of the Douglas Copper Company to investigate their ore values and to make an exhaustive report covering the results of his examination. He spent three weeks at the mines, and after making his report consented to serve the company permanently in the position of consulting engineer.

Mr. Gouyard is a man advanced in the prime of life, and has had long experience in his chosen profession. He has reported on many mines and his reports are always accepted as being the most accurate obtainable. His record, character and attainments in his profession are such as to place him second to no man in his line, which fact is evidenced in the wealth and the importance of the interests he serves in that capacity.

Mr. Gouyard is a fit associate, as an engineering expert and authority, of President Theodore Douglas himself,, a graduate of Sheffield Scientific School of Yale and an engineer also of international prominence. He has in the line of his profession reported on more than a hundred mines and his reports are always accepted as matters of fact.

Both Messrs. Gouyard and Douglas, being men of great modesty and diffidence, and at the same time jealous of their professional reputations, never court sensationalism, but always make their reports on mining properties conservative and well within bounds. They err, if at all—and I believe there is a singular agreement in this particular between them respecting the ore values of the Douglas mines—on the side of conservatism and understatement. Knowing their characters, their reputations, their habits and their policies in the matter of making out reports, I expect their figures to be more than borne out by the final facts.

The Douglas Copper Company has reached that tide in its affairs where suspicion is groundless and skepticism unwarranted and unfair toward it on the part of intelligent investors.

All the information that I have given out concerning it in my various announcements is easily susceptible of confirmation.

Any and all matters that investors feel have not been made clear to their minds in every possible way will be cheerfully explained, for all the facts concerning the mines are easily ascertainable.

The company has always courted publicity, and now challenges investigation into every detail of its affairs.

The First Mortgage 6% Convertible Gold Bonds of the Douglas Copper Company—secured by a guarantee second to none in the country—have always been a stable value.

The convertible bonds have never sold for less than a premium of 10%.

The stock has never sold for less than one hundred cents on the dollar, and is at this moment selling on the markets of New York and London at from 30% to 50% above par.

No nervous oscillations about that. No vacillating fluctuations of the stock market in that.

It represents a steady, onward, irresistible stride.

The first public announcement concerning the bond issue of the Douglas Copper Company was made by me April 11, 1905, a little over nine months ago.

A[illegible]at time—in the beginning—the bonds were offered for public s[illegible]ion at 110.

N[illegible]bstanding it was the first allotment, and notwithstanding t[illegible] of the good news that the future held in store for the mines [illegible] yet to be printed, there were men and women throughout New England, the East and the nation with faith and foresight enough to seize the opportunity then offered them, and to take up the $150,000 allotment then offered in a few weeks.

They looked ahead, and saw and sized up the situation at once.

They saw that New England brains and capital had undertaken on a progressive, but conservative, basis to finance and develop a copper mining property in the heart of the great Mexican State of Sonora, adjoining our own States of Arizona and New Mexico, and lying along the Gulf of California. They knew that American capital and Mexican [illegible] wealth made a combination in which was the germ of a last[illegible] and lucrative investment.

Should they wish to dispose of their holdings they have now but to convert their bonds into stock and sell the stock at a profit of from 20% to 40%.

Before midsummer, falling in far behind the great influx of good news that kept coming in from the mines, the price of the bonds was advanced to 112.

This time the allotment was placed at $100,000.

During the midsummer—just at the time I was looking for a lull in business and was counting on taking a well-earned vacation—the first [illegible] of news came in in the shape of the statement of the smelter settlement covering the first car load of the Douglas Copper Company's ore that had ever been treated.

That statement from the El Paso, Texas, smelter showed an average run of copper through over 20 tons to be $46.20, the by-products bringing the total value up to $61.49 a ton.

The figures looked simple and innocent and passive enough, but when their full significance dawned on investors they realized that nothing like it had ever been published before concerning a copper mine.

The smelter statement instantly created a greater demand than ever for the bonds at 112, with the result that the allotment then offered was more than twice oversubscribed.

October 14th, 1905, the price of the bonds was again advanced, this time to 115—though the actual conditions warranted a much higher figure being placed on them.

The good news still came in and all the time it was getting better.

In November last the following telegram was received, carrying the information that ore values double even those shown in the statement of the smelter settlement with the Douglas Copper Company were being found:

> "Work proceeding steadily. In the 600 level north assays run copper 12% (at 16c. $38.40), Gold 4 oz. (at $20, $80), Silver $5 ($5.00), (Total $123.40). THEODORE DOUGLAS."

Other strikes have been made where through the rich finds of gold the ore vaules have run from $500 to as much as $660 a ton.

The presence of high-grade gold-bearing ores in quantities, which is being encountered in the 500 and 600 foot levels, and the possibilities it suggests, gives the mines, rich as they are known to be in copper, a new and added dignity and value.

> It is a matter of fact that for three years the Douglas Copper Company has been accumulating in its reserve a large amount of ore having a value per ton of $70.

The continuance of the good news from the mines has increased the demand for the bonds, which kept right along unabated every day of the holidays, and is as strong today as ever, in the face of the big advance from 115 to the present price of 123.

From 115 to 123—an advance of $8.

Onward and ever upward, with ever increasing strides, has been the remarkable record of these remarkable securities, and investors are given fair and ample notice that the present quotation of 123 cannot continue but a short time—may be advanced at any day, and the next advance will probably be the greatest of all.

The price of 123 I am making, less 2% cash discount for the convertible bonds, is the equivalent of a charge of $6 02 3-5 a share for the stock of the company.

Despite this fact the stock is now selling on the New York and London stock markets at from $6.60 to $7.50 a share.

Corresponding prices for the bonds would place them at from 130 to 150.

To investors and not speculators the convertible bonds are at the present time a more valuable possession than the stock, carrying as they do the privilege of realizing 12% in four interest payments on the coupons before the bonds are converted into stock.

The $600,000 bond issue is for the purpose of erecting and equipping a 1000-ton smelter of the most modern type to treat the company's ores.

A concession has been obtained from the Mexican government to make it a custom smelter, which will treat the ores of the numerous neighboring mines. Besides giving the company's stockholders a new source of revenue it is the opinion of President Douglas that the lower grade ores of other mines around it can be treated to great advantage in connection with its own ores.

The smelter will be located at the Douglas station, on the extension of the Southern Pacific line from Guaymas. The station will be about four miles from the mines, to which the railroad will run a connecting spur.

The foundation for the four units of the smelter has been laid. The laying of the foundation is one of the heaviest items of the construction expense.

The Southern Pacific is building a railroad out from Guaymas, which will pass the Douglas properties. It has been given a generous subsidy from the Mexican government of $21,000 a mile. It is under contract with the government, with a forfeiture of $450,000 up, to reach the Douglas station by July 1st next, but at the present rate of progress being made, and with over half of the distance completed, the trains should be running through to that point not later than the last of May.

As soon as the road reaches the Douglas station the smelter equipment will be shipped in and the work of installing it rapidly pushed, with the probability of the first unit of 250 tons daily capacity being blown in by the early fall, at which time the actual production of copper by the Douglas Copper Company will begin.

On account of its convenient proximity to the inexhaustible coal and natural coke beds of Sonora, the standard of living in that section, the low cost of the best skilled and unskilled labor and the ample and competitive transportation facilities which are being provided it, the Douglas Copper Company enjoys the distinction of being the only known copper mine in the world which can produce copper and deliver it anywhere in the world's markets for less than 3c. a pound—the next nearest being the Tomboy Company of Colorado at 4 1-5c. a pound. The average cost of producing and delivering copper is about 10c. a pound. At the present price of copper, Douglas will get TWO profits for its product as compared with one of the average copper mine.

It is said that the Greene Consolidated mines spent a million dollars in experimentation with building furnaces to roast its ores in before it secured the kind desired. The Douglas Copper Company will not make this grave mistake, but has had its ores roasted in the furnaces of several smelters and has ascertained beyond doubt the precise kind of a furnace needed for its purposes, and will have it built according to such specifications. This is but one characteristic of the conservative, reliable and sure-footed policy pursued by President Douglas in every move he makes, serving at all times the interests of the stockholders.

March 1st the next semi-annual coupon of 3% will be due and payable on Douglas bonds.

> Over 2½% of that amount stands already accrued—an amount equal to the yearly returns made on deposits by many banks and trust companies.
> The 2% cash discount makes the net price of the bonds 120.54. Counting off 3% interest due and payable March 1st, the price is still further reduced to 117.54.

The STOCK of the great Amalgamated Copper, organized with the declared purpose as a holding company trust of controlling the world's copper production, has paid its shareholders, covering the six years of its existence, just four and two-thirds per cent. annually, a basis of three and one-quarter per cent. on the present selling price of 114. It has cut a wide swath in the speculative market, but the above sum is all its stockholders have gleaned in the way of dividends. When the Douglas BONDS are converted dollar for dollar into Douglas STOCK you are going to see that STOCK make its initial bow to the copper world with a single dividend bigger than the combined 28 per cent. that the STOCK of Amalgamated has paid through all the long, lean, weary six years of its ill-starred life. C. F. KING.

In view of the near approach of the semi-annual interest day and in view of the certain rise that is going to take place in the price of the bonds, I urge an immediate acceptance of this offer.

I urge investors who are looking for an investment that stands for something in the way of returns and behind which stands something in the way of indestructible values to buy these bonds at 123.

I urge investors who are looking for an investment that will give them and their loved and loving dependent ones a life-time income to buy these bonds at 123—before the inevitable advance to a much higher figure.

Engineers Douglas and Gouyard agree in all their reports on Douglas ore at the lowest estimate averaging over $25 a ton. Making no allowance for that exceedingly conservative estimate being increased probably two and three-fold as the work progresses in the lower levels, and basing all on values of $25 a ton, the Douglas Copper Company when it is treating 250 tones of ore a day should be in a position to pay dividends of over 30%. When it is treating its full capacity of 1,000 tons a day it should pay over 100.

There is more good news coming about "The Good News Mine"—news that will send these bonds to over [illegible] before midsummer—news that will make its stock sought for and fought for at from $15 to $20 a share in the markets of Boston, New York and London before the expiration of the convertible provision under which the bonds are issued.

And I want to say right here and now that I am doing all I can to discourage speculation in these securities.

I am doing all I can to distribute them as investments giving the greatest good to the greatest number. I believe the bounty of the Douglas Copper Company to be large, but nevertheless I want to distribute its benefits and bestow them on the largest number of people possible.

I do not solicit orders of as much as $10,000 from single investors and I positively will not accept orders of as much as $20,000 from any one person.

Believing as I do that investments of from $1,000 to $5,000 will secure any individual or family in an ample annuity for their living expenses, it is my preference that no orders shall exceed $5,000, and investors in the bonds of the smaller denominations, who wish to place their small savings where they will help shelter them from the rainy day and the wolf of want that come to all, are encouraged to make their reservations and are assured that they will receive equal consideration and appreciation with the others.

And, finally, I say to you, men and women having money deposited in the savings banks of Massachusetts, which, according to the 30th annual report of the Massachusetts savings bank commissioners for the year ending October 31, 1905, paid its patrons only the pitiful rate of 3.73%—if you have your money loaned out on such an unproductive basis as that—buy these bonds at 123, receive the interest of 6% they bear until some time during the coming year, when you can convert them dollar for dollar into stock at its par value, $5 a share.

If your funds are invested in the stocks and bonds of corporations which are dealt in in and around the stock exchanges, none of which yield you an adequate return for your money, send them to me for sale at the prevailing high figures of the market. I will execute your order without charge and convert the proceeds into Douglas convertible bonds. Sell out, clean out, stay out while prices are high.

The bonds are in denominations of $100, $500 and $1000 each, with coupons attached, making them interest-bearing at the rate of 6% annually, payable March 1st and September 1st. They are convertible at the option of the holder at any time during the full year 1907 into stock of the Douglas Copper Company at par, $5 per share, for the full face value of the bonds, each $100 bond being convertible into 20 shares stock, each $500 bond into 100 shares stock and each $1,000 bond into 200 shares stock. At the present quotation a $100 bond costs $123, a $500 bond $615 and a $1000 bond $1230. Terms of sale are as follows: 25% of amount of subscription with order, 25% in 30 days thereafter, 25% 60 days thereafter and final payment, 25%, 90 days thereafter. Where the full payment is made with order, 2% may be deducted, making the net cost of each $100 bond $120.54, each $500 bond $602.70, and each $1000 bond $1205.40.

On each $100 bond March 1st $3 interest will be due and payable; on each $500 bond $15, and on each $1,000 bond $30.

Make all remittances payable to my order and address all communications to me personally.

CHILDREN WIN PLAUDITS IN "DINKEY BIRD" PLAY

CHILDREN TAKING PART IN "DINKEY BIRD" PLAY.

250 Little Ones Charm Tremont Theatre Audience In Musical Comedy Given for Charity.

By Beulah Dickinson.

President [illegible] have been delighted if [illegible] Tremont Theatre yesterday [illegible] From top to bottom the house was crowded with children of all ages and [illegible]

Little girls [illegible] cuts and little boys in Buster Brown suits filled the boxes and rows of seats [illegible] the orchestra. They were there to see the "Dinkey Bird," a spectacular opera given by 250 children for sweet charity's sake. For the play is to benefit tw[illegible] charities.

The "Dinkey Bird" is a charming little fantasy in the form of a musical comedy with all its characters and songs from Eugene Field's poems. In the first act the Garden of Shut-Eye Town is shown. Only the good children [illegible] visit it, and they are [illegible] who sings in the [illegible] tree. If they can see him it means that they can have free access to the [illegible] tree upon which grows gum drops and toys. Tiny Tom Coburn, in Dutch costume as Nod, with two little girls as Wynken and Blynken, were called back to the stage again and again. With [illegible] professional [illegible] ance and ease Nod [illegible] and executed clog dances. Carleton Proctor as a toy soldier led the entire chorus with some clever drumming.

The choruses rioted in gay colors and odd costumes. Now they were children of all nations; soon they appeared as ragged sailors, then they were transformed to daffodils, and again they were toy soldiers.

Exclamations of "Oh's" and "Look, mamma," "See, mamma," ran through the audience of children when the Gingham Dog and the Calico Cat fought a duel.

In the second act is shown the Island of D[illegible] where Little Boy Blue placed his tin soldier that became covered with rust. But at the last the "Dinkey Bird" brought cheer to the hearts of all on [illegible] Street by appearing singing [illegible] the amfalula tree.

The play has been ably managed by Miss Margaret MacLaren Eager, and will be given on Saturday morning, February 3, at 10, Wednesday afternoon, February 7, at 4, and Saturday morning, February 10, at 10.

Among the patronesses are Mrs. T[illegible] Allen, Mrs. David Kimball, Mrs. Harry Lang Borrage, Mrs. Paul Revere Frothingham, Mrs. Thomas Mack and Mrs. Edgar Bliss.

ASSESSORS PUT OUT NEW BEDFORD OFFICIAL.

R. R. Topham Removed as Clerk of Board as Result of Mayor Thompson's Investigation, W. T. McLaughlin Successor

New Bedford, Jan. 27.—R. R. Topham, clerk of the Board of Assessors, was this afternoon discharged from his position and in his place W. T. McLaughlin is appointed. Mayor Thompson's demand that he be discharged, and strong public opinion against him because of revelations in the recent [illegible] investigation, forced the assessors to the move.

Ostensibly Topham's removal came about by his absenting himself from the office since last Tuesday. Topham is not in the [illegible] nor is it known where he is. Mayor Thompson had threatened to institute charges against him unless he were removed forthwith.

Mayor Thompson scathingly denounced Topham. The assessors insisted that Topham had been in office for sixteen years without a charge being brought against him and that he was still fit for the place.

The matter was talked over with Chief of Police Donaghy by Assessor G[illegible] H. Allen. It was brought out at the [illegible] [illegible] was occupying luxuriously appointed apartments at the alms-house. He was receiving all transportation free. At this time, in defense, Topham said that he received transportation for working for the street railway company outside of his regular office hours.

EMPEROR TRIES TO END HUNGARY CRISIS

Francis Joseph Sends New Proposition to Parliament Leaders.

Vienna, Austria, Jan. 27.—In an effort to end the Hungarian crisis which has separated the crown and the Hungarian leaders, Emperor Francis Joseph today sent a new proposition to the coalition leaders in the Hungarian Parliament, offering a basis of settlement of the dispute, and it is hoped that this will lead to an amicable adjustment of difference.

BABY DRINKS LEMON EXTRACT AND DIES

Lyons, N. Y., Jan. 27.—John Peter and Rosa, two and four-year-old children of James I. Warren, accidentally drank a quantity of cheap lemon extract and were thrown into convulsions, the boy dying of paralysis of the heart, the girl recovering. The extract seems to be made of a coal tar extract and wood alcohol. Coroner Allen is investigating.

SICK OF TOBACCO
New Remedy SENT FREE

"Oh! what a pleasure to see your man or boy turn, with a wry face from tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, or snuff, disgusted and sickened by the very odor! And Oh! the joy of knowing that he rejoices too; rejoices to be free from bondage. I have had that pleasure. Anyone can have it. I have given it to hundreds. I will gladly give it to you, as I have nothing to sell and want no money. My husband was a Tobacco "fiend." This wonderful new remedy cured him, restored his broken health, and I am determined that the whole world shall know of this Heaven-sent blessing for women, who cure their loved ones, the powders being odorless and tasteless, may be GIVEN SECRETLY in tea, coffee or food.
MEN CURE THEMSELVES easily and gradually, by taking the remedy in tablet form three or four times a day. They like this remedy because they don't have to quit; it makes them quit as the dose dissolves slowly in the [illegible] and takes away all [illegible] for tobacco.
The Free Treatment has cured hundreds although merely sent to show how harmless it is, how it may be used, etc. If you need more it will cost less than tobacco, and thus you will save money and health, and lose no pleasure. Send me a letter NOW; state if secret remedy is wanted; send two stamps and you will hear from me in plain envelope, promptly. Address:

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS PLAN WEEK IN "ISLE OF DREAMS"

STAR MEMBERS OF CAST IN "THE ISLE OF DREAMS."

New Musical Comedy Brings Out Talent of Women Friends in Production That Opens February 5.

The new musical comedy, "The Isle of Dreams," to be given by the local Knights of Columbus in Majestic Theatre during the week of February 5, will be the "real" thing. As for dreams, that part will be found in the costumes to be worn by the young ladies. Entirely new scenery has been painted for the show, and considerable expense has been made upon the costuming of the various characters.

The play is something new in musical comedies. The book is by Hugh P. McNally and is called exceptionally good by those who have witnessed rehearsals. The music for the play is by Edmund J. Phelan. Joseph M. Daly has written a number of selections which are to be introduced. The dancers will be under the direction of John J. Coleman, and the dramatic end is looked after by John T. McNary and Francis T. Horgan.

On Tuesday evening, February 6, Mayor John F. Fitzgerald and party will occupy four boxes, and in his honor the evening will be known as "Mayor's night." Excursion parties from all parts of the State will be made up of knights and their friends.

The cast is particularly strong, and shows the knights to be rich in talent. At the head of the list is a well known Boston singer, John J. Mogan, who is a comedian as well, and will take the part of "Baron Bunk." Mr. Mogan will be assisted in his fun-making antics by a quartet of comedians, John H. Newman, J. J. Carleton, Henry J. O'Neil and Geoffrey L. Whalen.

The principal parts are given to Miss Eva Sweeney, Miss Evelyn E. Maclauchlan, Miss Josephine G. Laundrigan, Miss Bertha M. Carleton and Miss Effie Barney, young women who have frequently been before the public in amateur work. Other vocalists are J. Arthur Henderson, John D. Clarke, Fred R. Walsh and J. J. Mikoajeski.

YOUNG CATHOLICS TO DANCE FEB. 26

Catholic Association, Arranging for Social Event of the Season.

The college ball and annual reunion of the Young Men's Catholic Association of Boston will be held on the evening of February 26 in Symphony Hall. The ball is one of the social events of the season to the younger Catholics of the city. Women prominent in Catholic social affairs are giving their aid. A meeting of these women will soon be called by Rev. William F. Gannon, S. J., president of Boston College, in order to perfect their plans.

LEADING LAWYER IN RHODE ISLAND DEAD

Providence, Jan. 27.—The Hon. David S. Baker, one of the most prominent lawyers of Rhode Island and a man who was twice nominated by the Democrats for Governor of the State, died at his home at an early hour to-day. He was surrounded by his wife and four children and retained consciousness to the end.

Mr. Baker was fifty four years old and had been troubled with heart and lung maladies for some time. His fatal illness dated from the latter part of November.

Graduating from Brown University, Mr. Baker read law and was admitted to the bar in 1875. After serving for some time as railroad counsel, he was elected to the State House of Representatives for three terms, after which he served two terms in the State Senate. During a greater proportion of this time he was chairman of the judiciary committee.

After the election of Grover Cleveland as President one of his first official acts was the appointment of Mr. Baker as United States District Attorney, which position Mr. Baker filled during the administration of Mr. Cleveland. Although defeated for the governorship by the Republican candidate, Mr. Baker was nominated the second time at an open meeting and by acclamation. He made a strong run, but was again beaten.

PARISH DEBT CUT DOWN TO $3,000

The Rev. William H. Fitzpatrick, rector of St. Gregory's Church, Dorchester, has announced the pleasant news to his people that the parish now owes only $3,000. The church carries insurance to the amount of about $110,000.

NEW ENGLAND READY TO WELCOME O'CONNELL.

Newly Appointed Coadjutor Archbishop Leaves Rome for Boston Next Week and Will Be Given a Big [illegible]

Boston and Portland, Me. [illegible] are planning grand receptions for Bishop William H. O'Connell, who has [illegible] been appointed coadjutor-archbishop of the archdiocese of Boston with right of succession. Bishop O'Connell is now in Rome and no definite date has been set for his return. It is known that he will leave Rome next week, and that he will [illegible] same within twelve days of [illegible] sailing. In all probability he will [illegible] Boston.

In any event, a reception [illegible] coming to this city, although it [illegible] be of such a general nature as the one that awaits him in Portland.

Interest in Sucessor.

Interest is already felt in the appointment of a successor to the Bishop at Portland and Mgr. Edward F. Hurley, [illegible] general of the diocese and Mgr. [illegible] of Lewiston, have been suggested as the two men best qualified for the position. Mgr. Hurley has had charge of the work in the Portland diocese during the absence of the bishop and is [illegible] familiar with the work, perhaps [illegible] any priest in Maine.

Portland people would have him remain there, for he is exceedingly popular in that city. His breadth of mind and great learning, his culture and generosity and his great executive ability, have endeared him to the hearts of his parishioners. These same qualities make him as equally desired in Boston.

The consecration of Bishop O'Connell, when he officially takes his place as coadjutor in Boston, will be the most impressive and elaborate ceremony in Boston's Catholic circles since the venerable Archbishop Williams was consecrated nearly a generation ago. The event will take place at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, but will not be for several weeks.

Bishop O'Connell's appointment to the Boston diocese was not accepted without some sacrifice on his part. Although it was his heart's desire to return to America, inducements were held out to him to remain in Rome. It is the custom of the Vatican to reward its special envoys to the great powers with an elevation to the College of Cardinals in that city and Bishop O'Connell was offered such a place it is said upon his return from Japan, where he performed his mission to the Mikado.

Bishop O'Connell realized the honor that awaited him, but his desire was to return to America. He told His Holiness that while he stood ready to do anything that his superior might order, the desire of his heart was to return to America. He intimated that the vacancy in the see at Boston would be more to his liking.

Bishop O'Connell's ability to converse with the Mikado of Japan in the tongue of that country was one of the accomplishments that brought him the offer of the red hat. In other languages the bishop is efficient, but it is said that he is the only churchman of high rank who can converse

RECEIVER PEPPER IS SUING ADDICKS FOR $33,298

Valuable Property Mortgaged to Cover Bay State Gas Deal Goes Into Court to Make Good $75,000 Judgment

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 27.—The financial troubles of J. Edward Addicks are again in the Delaware courts. George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia, receiver of the Bay State Gas Company, to-day instituted proceedings in the Newcastle County Superior Court here to foreclose a mortgage for $33,298.68 which he holds against Addicks's farm at Carrcroft, Brandywine Hundred.

This is an outcome of the suit entered by Receiver Pepper in Philadelphia against Addicks in 1904 to compel him to restore stock of the Bay State company to the value of $75,000. The original suit was settled out of court by Pepper securing judgment bonds from Addicks and his friends. It is to recover on an Addicks bond that the present action is taken. The case is entered in these words: "[illegible] Shaw, assignee of George Wharton Pepper, receiver of the Bay State Gas Company of Delaware, vs. John Edward Addicks and [illegible] Addicks, his wife, mortgagors, for closure of mortgage."

The proceedings are temporarily held up because Addicks is out of the State. It was this litigation which resulted in Senator J. Frank Allee deserting Addicks.

DECLARES HE WAS WED UNDER DURESS

Worcester, Jan. 27.—Declaring that he was led into marriage by duress and through the undue influence of his bride and those acting for her, Alfred H. McKinstry of Southbridge has filed a petition in the Worcester County Superior Court asking that his marriage to Maude Brown, which took place in Southbridge September 19, 1905, be declared null and void.

In his petition McKinstry declares he never lived with his wife, but left her immediately after the ceremony was performed. He says when the marriage took place he was only twenty years old and that he obtained a marriage certificate through false representations. He further says that neither his father nor his mother consented to the marriage.

ELIMINATED "PRIGGING."

The father of Campbell-Bannerman, the new Prime Minister of England, laid the foundation of his fortune in Glasgow by abolishing in his place of business the system then known as "prigging." To "prig" was to bargain and beat down the price of goods.

MR. WILSON'S TEA TABLET.

Travellers are likely to look upon the Secretary of Agriculture as a blessed benefactor when they realize what he has done for their comfort. Mr. Wilson has introduced the tea tablets. Several hundred small boxes of the tablets were sent by him to friends in lieu of Christmas cards. The tablet is about the size of a pea. When boiling water is poured on it the product is a cup of fragrant tea.

COMPANY A TEAMS WON.

Wakefield, Jan. 27.—The two basketball teams of Company A of Wakefield defeated the Winchester A. A. and Company B, Naval Brigade, in the armory to-night. The first team defeated the Winchester team by a score of 22 to 14. The game was closely fought and interesting. Company A second team defeated Company B, Naval Reserves 13 to 2.

Goldfield

In a recent letter from the superintendent of the Goldfield & Eastern Mines Company at Goldfield, Nevada, he makes the following important statements which are interesting from the fact that many of the obstacles which were encountered at the start are readily being overcome and splendid progress is being made all along the line. New strikes are frequent and the outlook more promising than at any other stage. The vein opened up in August, 1905, is now showing from 8 to 10 feet in width, while the pannings indicate about $2,000.00 to the ton, and although high-grade ore does not provail the entire length, the general values are well above pay ore.

The water from the mine, which at first contained so much alum that it was unavailable for steam-making purposes, has become purged of that and can now be used in the boilers.

The management now has under consideration the erection of a plant for the treatment of its ores, and as soon as this becomes a fact there is no possible reason why Goldfield & Eastern should not rank with the best producers in the district.

DRUGS NEVER GIVE STRENGTH

I quit using drugs for this reason: Nearly every case that I treated seemed to demand new vitality. I saw that if I could give them strength I could cure them. I knew that no drug on earth increased the vital energy of the human body. I knew that Electricity was the life of the nervous system. Professor Loeb of the University of California says that it is the basis of human vitality.

That's what drove me to giving my patients Electricity, and it was not long before I found that the people who had been taking my drugs year in and year out, without growing any better, were being cured by my Electricity.

For years I treated them with batteries in my office; but that was too crude. It took too much of my time, and was unpleasant to the patient. Then I invented an Electric Belt. I cured thousands. But the Belt burned and blistered; it had to be charged in vinegar, which smelled so badly on a person's clothes that my patients objected; and it was a lot of trouble to charge the battery in the vinegar every night. I found that some of my patients got disgusted and threw it aside in a week. I studied for years to make an Electric Belt which would give my patient the benefit without this objection, until finally I invented a dry cell battery which gives a current without the use of vinegar or any other charging. I have worked upon it steadily for years to perfect it, and I offer it to you now a complete success. (My patents granted by Uncle Sam are pronounced the strongest ever given an electrical appliance.)

ELECTRO-VIGOR DRY CELL BODY BATTERY

Suppose you are broken down with Nervous Debility, Varicocele, Dyspepsia or other stomach troubles, Rheumatism, Lame Back or any other weakness indicating that you are not the man you should be. You take Electro-Vigor, buckle it about your waist when you go to bed—no charging, no trouble of any kind, mind you—turn on the current with the regulator, and all night long, while you sleep, the engine is pumping electric life into your nerves, muscles and vitals.

If you are nervous and weak, it pumps such a volume of human energy into you that before you have had it on two nights you will begin to feel like Jeffries did before he laid hands on Munroe.

If your back is weak and lame, if your joints are full of Rheumatism you will soon feel like the old man who recently came into my office and jumped over a chair to show me how Electro-Vigor had done for his Rheumatism. If your stomach is weak, a month of nights with Electro-Vigor will give you an appetite like the laborer who said to his wife "Don't tell me what you have for dinner, but how much." Electro-Vigor is as good for women as for men. I can't describe Electro-Vigor here and do it justice. I want you to send for my free book. Then you will know that I have the grandest invigorating device that has ever been invented, and if you are not the man you should be you will want it.

My book is the most beautiful work that has ever been devoted to electric treatment. It will interest you, and as it tells you my story in an honest, plain and candid way, I think you will like me better for having read it and if you don't use Electro-Vigor you will have to admit that you ought to, and that your friends ought to.

Be sure and use this coupon. Write your name and address on it and I will send the book sealed, free. If you will tell me your troubles, I'll tell you whether I can cure you or not. And I'll tell you honestly.

Weak Kidneys

It is of but little use to try to doctor the kidneys themselves. Such treatment is wrong. For the kidneys are not usually to blame for their weaknesses or irregularities. They have no power—no self-control. They are operated and actuated by a tiny shred of a nerve which is largely responsible for their condition. If the Kidney nerve is strong and healthy the kidneys are strong and healthy. If the Kidney nerve goes wrong you know it by the inevitable result—kidney trouble.

This tender nerve is only one of a great system of nerves. This system controls not only the kidneys, but the heart, and the liver, and the stomach. For simplicity's sake Dr. Shoop has called this great nerve system the "Inside Nerves." They are not the nerves of feeling—not the nerves that enable you to walk, to talk, to act, to think. They are the master nerves and every vital organ is their slave. The common name for these nerves is the "sympathetic nerves"—because each set is in such close sympathy with the others that weakness anywhere usually results in weakness everywhere.

The one remedy which aims to treat, not the Kidneys themselves, but the nerves which are to blame, is known by physicians and druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative (Tablets or Liquid). This remedy is not a symptom remedy—it is strictly a cause remedy. While it usually brings speedy relief, its effects are also lasting.

If you would like to read an interesting book on inside nerve disease, write Dr. Shoop. With the book he will also send the "Health Token"—an intended passport to good health. Both the book and the "Health Token" are free.

For the free book and the "Health Token" you must address Dr. Shoop, Box 4898, Racine, Wis. State which book you want.	Book 1 on Dyspepsia. Book 2 on the Heart. Book 3 on the Kidneys. Book 4 for Women. Book 5 for Men. Book 6 on Rheumatism.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative Tablets—give full three weeks' treatment. Each form—liquid or tablet—have equal merit. Druggists everywhere.

TO EXTEND MOVEMENT THROUGH ALL NEW YORK

Apathy in Old Parties, and Prediction That Cities Will All Swing Into Line.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

New York, Jan 27 There was a gathering of representatives from up the State at the Gilsey House on Thursday evening for the purpose of discussing the extension of the Independence League beyond the limits of Greater New York. It was decided unanimously that the work of the league should be energetically pushed throughout the State.

J. G. Phelps Stokes presided. Thirty-five counties outside of Greater New York were represented. The enthusiasm was described as extremely pronounced everywhere.

Judge O'Connor of Utica seemed to express the sentiment of most of those present when he said, in effect:

"The time is ripe for a movement of this kind; both political organizations are controlled by the same financial interests; rural New York is bossed by the public service corporations and their managers just as much as the city of New York has been.

"The Democratic vote is continually dwindling; the Republican organization is thoroughly divided, and there never was an opportunity like the present to strike a blow for political freedom.

"The splendid victory achieved here by William Randolph Hearst has been an inspiration to all of us up the State. This movement, I know, will sweep the city of Utica next fall, and I believe it will carry every city in the State."

The meeting, beginning at 8 o'clock, continued until almost midnight.

Mr. Hearst sent his regrets from the West at being unable to be present, but said he hoped that he would be present at the next meeting.

George B. McClellan and the traction merger, which was announced so soon after the Court of Appeals refused to open the ballot boxes, were strongly denounced.

NUNS STIFLE BLAZE IN HOSPITAL; AVERT PANIC.

Intense excitement was created at Carney Hospital yesterday by a fire in one of the rooms, but the coolness and bravery of Sister Gonzaga, superior in charge, averted a panic. There were 200 patients in the hospital, but the sisters passed among them and calmed them a

One of the servants in the hospital spilled some hot wax on the floor while she was waxing it and this caused the blaze. Some clothes in the room were set on fire, and almost immediately the whole room was a mass of [illegible].

Sister Gonzaga, with the aid of the sisters, and by the use of the fire-fighting equipment, extinguished the blaze, which was confined to the room in which it was started.

In the meantime an alarm was turned in from the private box in the hospital, but when the fire department arrived there was no real need of its services. The loss will reach about $500.

WOMAN WOULDN'T GIVE MONEY; SLAIN

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 27.—Mrs. C. A. Canfield, wife of the millionaire oil operator, one of the most prominent society women of this city, was shot and instantly killed to-night by a gardener named Buck. The shooting occurred at the front door of the palatial Canfield home, when Mrs. Canfield appeared in answer to Buck's request to speak to her. He demanded money. Upon her refusal he drew a revolver and shot her. Mrs. Canfield was instantly killed.

LONDON OPEN SHOP FOR SELF-SHAVERS

London, Jan. 27.—A haven is about to be opened in Bond street for that large section of mankind which prefers to shave itself rather than submit to the operations, and conversation of the barber, but at the same time does not know how to keep its razors in order.

At the Bond street institution the razors will be kept fit, and patrons will merely have to call and use them—incidentally without having to wait their turn until someone else is done with. Individual privacy will be secured and beginners are to be taught the art and science of self-shaving by competent instructors.

GIVE CONCERT FOR JEWISH RELIEF FUND

A concert to aid the fund for the relief of the Russian Jews will be given to-night in Steinert Hall, Boylston street, under the auspices of the Jewish Defence Association. The programme will include selections by Samuel L. Gorodetzsky, Lester Gardner, William D. Strong, Miss Maud Parks, Miss Fannie Green, Master Maxwell J. Terr, Walter Stead, Miss Sarah Paeff, and Miss Alice Hedge.

INVITATIONS TO WHITE HOUSE BRIDAL REACH RELATIVES IN CITY

50 Boston Friends to See Miss Alice Wed

COSTUMES OF WHITE HOUSE BRIDE, GUESTS AND SOME GIFTS

VINCENT CLUB GIRLS AMONG GUESTS.

BOSTON DELEGATION TO FORM BRILLIANT PARTY

Of the 4,000 invitations which President and Mrs. Roosevelt have sent out for the wedding of their daughter, Alice Lee Roosevelt, to Mr. Nicholas Longworth, something over half a hundred came to Boston, being about equally divided between the relatives of the bride and the close personal friends of both the young people.

As a result Back Bay modistes are working overtime on stunning gowns and accessories that are to be worn at "Alice Roosevelt's wedding, at the White House, you know," as a leading sartorial artist explained, holding up a filmy chiffon and lace confection which is intended for one of Miss Roosevelt's relatives.

Many of Miss Roosevelt's maternal relatives live in and about Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lee of Chestnut Hill are Miss Roosevelt's grandparents. They are at present living at their town house on Beacon street.

Mrs. Lee Preserved Lace.

It is Mrs. Lee who has preserved with careful intent, for just such a marital event, the exquisite, priceless lace which her own daughter, Mrs. Roosevelt's mother, wore on her wedding gown, and which will be again worn by the bride of February 17. Mr. and Mrs. George C. Lee, Jr., the latter born Jackson, are cousins, and Mrs. Lee is sure to be one of the most attractively gowned young matrons present.

Two aunts, both Lees before their marriage, are Mrs. Reginald Gray and Mrs. Sewall H. Fessenden. Mrs. Gray has children, as have also Mr. and Mrs. Fessenden, so that the family party will be augmented by the younger element.

Other members of the Lee family include Mr. and Mrs. John Lee, Miss Harriet Lee and Mr. Francis Lee of Salem. The Saltonstall family is represented by Mr. and Mrs. Endicott P. Saltonstall, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Saltonstall and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Saltonstall.

Mrs. Mumford, Mr. Francis and George Peabody and John Lawrence are among other members of the party.

Roosevelt Kin Invited.

The Roosevelt relatives invited include Mr. and Mrs. James T. Bowlker, the latter having been Mrs. Roosevelt before her marriage to Mr. Bowlker; Miss Katherine Lowell Roosevelt, and Mr. James A. Roosevelt, who is a student at Harvard.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Agassiz, who invariably entertain Miss Roosevelt during her visits in Boston, will probably be present at the wedding, as will also several members of the Vincent Club, notably Miss Eleanora Sears and Miss "Libbie" Lawrence, of Groton.

Although there are enough Boston guests to make possible a most delightful and congenial private car party, nothing of the sort has been arranged. Miss Roosevelt's grandparents will probably go to Washington a few days before the date of the wedding.

Many Boston Gifts.

Local jewelers and art dealers have received several important commissions for rarely beautiful gifts intended for the fortunate girl in whose approaching marriage the entire civilized world, including rulers of kingdoms, empires and republics, feels a personal and gracious interest.

MISS ALICE'S TROUSSEAU UNIQUE IN DESIGN AND BEAUTY OF MATERIAL

Every woman in America who is in complete possession of her faculties is absorbed in interest over Alice Roosevelt's gowns—those marvellous and mysterious confections of silk and lace and ribbons and fluffs and frills which will make up a most elaborate trousseau, for a most unusual bride.

The gowns of a queen at her coronation could not arouse more interest. And, indeed, few queens could desire more exquisite apparel than that which is being prepared for the President's daughter.

It is really doubtful if the bride-elect

TWO SHOT AND CUT IN FIGHT THAT ENDS IN RIOT.

TWO VICTIMS ARE TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Hundreds of people upon the streets of the North End were thrown into a panic late last night at the sight of three Italians in a desperate fight, with the leader while waving a knife firmly clasped in his right hand and discharging bullets at random from a thirty-two calibre revolver in his left.

Every patrolman in the Hanover street police station was hurried to Endicott street, where the fight was taking place. After a desperate tussle with the leader of the [illegible] Rosa, he was arrested and charged with assault with intent to kill.

GRILLO, Raffaeli, eighteen years old, a shoe maker living in East Weymouth; [illegible] extending from mouth to right [illegible].

The trouble started in a saloon on Prince street. The men quarrelled, and some one [illegible] with the knife and ran away. The saloon was filled with men and in a [illegible] ran into Endicott street.

The sidewalks [illegible] were crowded with people doing their Saturday night shopping. Some one notified the police. [illegible] fought desperately to avoid arrest. He threatened to kill anyone who approached him.

By surrounding the frenzied Italian, one policeman succeeded in felling the man from the rear. Three officers pounced upon him. He was badly beaten during the fight.

VALENCIA VICTIM OFFERED GOLD FOR RESCUE.

Seattle, Jan 28. Among the 118 passengers who perished when the Valencia went to pieces off Vancouver Island was J. B. Graham, and with him went a bag containing $1,500 in gold. Survivors of the wreck say that Graham frantically offered the bag of gold to anyone who would place him on shore.

But the others paid little heed to the pleadings of the man, and his gold lay on the broken deck, kicked under foot. [illegible] Graham recently sold a mine in Alaska for $[illegible].

Dispatches from Victoria say that all [illegible] survivors who reached shore near the scene of the wreck have now been cared for. The last party of nine who had been [illegible] at the Darling river on account of [illegible] safely reaching the steamer Salvor at [illegible] Creek.

[illegible] credit is due to the party from the [illegible] led by Captain Ferris, who left [illegible] Wednesday and travelled an almost [illegible] for fifteen miles.

Captain Ferris reports the beach literally covered with wreckage and at that time many bodies were on shore being identified. [illegible] been identified through papers found as that of Mr. Doherty of New York. The name of W. Doherty appears in the [illegible] list as a fireman. Another is identified as A. F. Grifenstan of San Jose, Cal.

SAY SHONTS BROKE FAITH WITH THE PRESIDENT.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

Washington, Jan. 27. There are vague rumblings in the Senate that it will now absolutely refuse to confirm the President's nomination of Theodore P. Shonts for the chairmanship of the Panama canal commission. These rumblings are caused by the testimony of Shonts given yesterday before the Senate committee on interoceanic canals, that he was still receiving a salary from the Clover Leaf Railroad of $12,000 despite the fact that when he took the position of commissioner he told the President that he was going to relinquish his interests in all the railroad interests that he had prior to his acceptance of the position under the government.

Mr. Shonts's admission of the fact that he was still getting money from the railroad has put Senator Lodge and the defenders of the administration in the Senate in a very perplexing situation. Lodge asserted to the Senate that he was sure that Shonts was not connected with the Clover Leaf road. Senator Tillman asserted that he knew that Shonts was connected with the road. [illegible] there was a duel of words, in which Lodge tried to make it appear to the public that Senator Tillman was not telling the truth, and knew it. It was asserted to-day at the Capitol that Shonts broke faith with Taft and the President.

ADMIRAL'S SON KILLS HIMSELF

New York, Jan 27. William N. Van Reypen, Jr., twenty three years old, son of Rear Admiral Van Reypen, retired, of the United States Navy, shot and killed himself this afternoon in his rooms in the Mansfield apartments, No. 12 West Forty-fourth street. He was a Yale man, 1905, and a member of Skull and Bones Senior Society, captain of his class baseball team and an editor of the Yale News.

"I SHALL NEVAIR COME BACK:" BERNHARDT.

Divine Sara Bids Long Farewell to Boston—"I Love Zem All."

AUDIENCES COLD, SHE SAYS, BUT SOON MELT

By Ernest L. Waitt.

Bernhardt thinks that Boston audiences are cold, very cold during the first part of the performance, but that they warm up and become enthusiastic after they grow more familiar with the play.

Bernhardt thinks Boston women are much better auditors than are Boston men, and she likes to play to audiences where the women are in the majority.

Bernhardt likes Boston.

She said so last evening, when interviewed in her dressing room immediately after the performance of "La Sorciere," when she had been recalled before the curtain twelve times.

"Ze audience ees cold only because most of ze people not understand ze language we speak," said she. "Eet is not because zay have not interest or not like Bernhardt. Eet is because zay not understand. Zay are afraid to applaud, for fear zay make mistake.

"When zay know more the play zay applaud, oh, yes, zay applaud us, and we love zem to play to zem."

"Zay Seem to Catch On."

Bernhardt understands much more English than she speaks, or admits, so that one can readily converse with her in comparative ease. Only at intervals is it necessary for M. Frederic Meyer, her personal representative, to interpret to or for her.

"I am surprised so many people in Boston knows the French language so well, however," she added. "Zey seem to catch on, eez zat ze way you say eet? Zay [illegible]. Many more know ze French zen when I was before here. I have had so many come to see me. I like zem. I like ze Boston people so much. Zey been so good to me always.

"Ze Boston women, zey watch me close when I play. I see zem lean forward, zere eyes right on me all ze time like zis"—and Madame Bernhardt leaned forward in her chair, her steel gray eyes intently peering into the distance as though looking upon the stage.

"But ze men. Zey sit back in zere seats like this"—settling herself into the chair as though at her ease, and stroking an imaginary mustache, after the manner of Dan Daly. "Zey applaud; yes, zey applaud, but zey seem not to take interest when ze play is on. Perhaps it is ze way zey show it, but zey not make one feel real good when zey do that.

"Where Ze Joke Is."

"I have been surprised many times in zese two weeks in your city. Your people zey seem to know many times, better zan I expect, where ze joke is. What is it you say? Where ze joke comes in—ah, yes, I have it, where ze joke comes in. Oh, [illegible] many [illegible] people know zere French [illegible] before. Zen it was vair rattled when zey turn de leaves of dere books. [illegible] was like the rustle of the tree leaves. I was much disturb. Now—oh, now, zey make very little noise. I do not see any one turn zem. It ees good. It ees good for ze country zat the people know French. It makes us much better acquainted wiz each other.

"Now I have seen ze young men of your Harvard, I am vair glad. Zey are so nice, so intellectual. Zey do so much for me. I am now a membair,"——and she proudly displayed the gold medal of the Cercle Francais——"I am now a member of de Cercle Francais de Harvard. It ees such an honair. I appreciate eet so much.

"No, I shall nevair come back here. I cannot, but oh how I would like to. Zey are all so good, so good to me. Tell ze people for Sarah Bernhardt zat I love zem all and am so grateful zat zey have liked me."

All Her Roles Favorites.

"Many have ask me what I [illegible] for my favorite [illegible] zem, for zen zey would all come [illegible] zat one and would not come to see me in ze others. I like zem all. Merci, beaucoup."

Madame Bernhardt played to two of the largest audiences yesterday that were ever crowded into the Boston theatre. Every bit of [illegible] was occupied and hundreds stood where they could not hear a spoken word, just for the opportunity of seeing her. "Fedora" was the bill in the afternoon, with "La Sorciere" for the final performance in the evening.

There was an unusual amount of enthusiasm at the close of each performance, the audiences standing in their places, waving handkerchiefs and cheering the great tragedienne.

Madame Bernhardt will remain at the Hotel Bellevue until Monday morning, and will leave Boston over special train over the Boston and Maine Railroad for Portland [illegible] though the exact hour [illegible] yet been decided.

Madame Sarah Bernhardt has accepted a play [illegible] American author, which she will produce at her theatre in Paris. It is by E. Benedict de Marnay, the nom de plume of a well known New York physician, and is entitled "Judith."

Madame Bernhardt is very enthusiastic about the play and considers it a work of genius. She expects that it will do much [illegible] in America [illegible] France. The translation of "Judith" [illegible] Mr. Frederic Meyer [illegible] written by a celebrated Paris [illegible].

FR. DOYLE LEADS PAULIST MISSION

One of the largest [illegible] missions that has ever taken place in the parish of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross is being arranged under the [illegible] Rev. John T. M[illegible]. It will be conducted by the Paulist fathers and will [illegible] second week for men and a special mission to be arranged for the children.

Rev. Fr. Alexander P. Doyle, C. S. P., of the Paulist Mission House at Washington will arrive in Boston a few days before the mission opens. Later he will be joined by other priests of the order. Fr. Doyle and those who assist him are from among the band which devotes nearly all of their time to the preaching of the gospel to non-Catholics.

WOMEN GIVE PARTY TO AID HOSPITAL

One of the events of the year in Boston's Catholic society will be the charity party which is to be given in aid of the Carney Hospital at Whiton Hall in the Dorchester Woman's Club House Wednesday evening, January 31. The Misses Mary Ford, [illegible] de Marden and Mary Watson of [illegible] and Frances Keyes of City Point are conducting the affair.

'BARD OF HIGH ROCK' EVICTS POOR WOMAN FROM HER $1.50 TENEMENT

With Her Children She Has Been Turned Out of Home in Sight of Monument to the "Brotherhood of Man"

Lynn, Jan. 27.—In sight of the monument erected by John W. Hutchinson, the eccentric and wealthy "Bard of High Rock," and dedicated to the "Fatherhood of God and Brotherhood of Man, Mrs. Katherine Davis, a tenant of the High Rock sage, was evicted from her little tenement in Terrace cottage.

For a month she has been living alone in a tenement of three rooms. Her husband disappeared a month ago, and the woman has been trying to support herself. She found herself unable to pay the weekly rent of $1.50, and became ten weeks behind in her payments.

HUTCHINSON AND EVICTED TENANT'S CHILDREN.

When she returned to her tenement she found that in her absence a constable had removed the door. Then the constable, with the aid of a carpenter removed all the windows. The woman has been given shelter by neighbors.

Since the wedding at the Peace Conference in Portsmouth of the ancient bard and his wife, who was Mrs. Agnes P. Everest of Washington, there has been a change in the management of the bard's estate, which is estimated at several hundred thousand dollars.

"I Intended to Pay."

Hutchinson's affairs were put in the hands of Charles E. Woolbridge, a real estate agent, who said, when asked about the eviction of Mrs. Davis:

"I had orders from Henry D. Elms, the conservator of Mr. Hutchinson's estate, to evict Mrs. Davis from her tenement. She had every opportunity to pay her rent, but did not do so."

Mrs. Davis says: "I have been supporting myself by scrubbing since my husband left the city. I have had hardly enough money to pay for the food I eat. I intended to pay my rent. I simply couldn't do it. I've got no place to go. Appeals for mercy were useless. I don't know what I'll do."

Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson are now in Washington, where they are visiting friends of the bride. Their wedding was the result of a romance [illegible] the aged groom had many.

Hutchinson is eighty-four years old. He was reported engaged to Miss Mary Wetherell, a Lynn woman suffrage advocate, who sued him for breach of promise. At the same time he was reported engaged to Miss Grace I. Vincent, a pretty twenty-six-year-old violinist. Two other women sued him for breach of promise.

Weds, Builds Tower.

While the breach of promise suit was on, and the engagement with Miss Vincent supposed to be in effect, the aged bard met Mrs. Everest. She captivated him, and after a short engagement they were married at Portsmouth, N. H., while the Russo-Japanese peace conference was in session there last Summer.

With his bride he returned to Lynn, and declared that he would advocate with his wife the Fatherhood [illegible] and Brotherhood of Man. To [illegible] this principle he builded a monument on High Rock, towering high into the air, and a month or two ago it was dedicated.

His bride is [illegible] years younger than he, and was well known in Washington society as a singer. In the days of the Civil War Hutchinson was an abolitionist singer. He has written hundreds of poems.

WORCESTER CHOIR AT ST. JAMES'S TO-NIGHT

This evening at St. James Church, St. James street, Roxbury, the choir boys of St. Matthew's church, Worcester, will join the choir in a festival programme. Choirmaster Alfred Thomas of Worcester, who was formerly a choir boy in one of the English cathedrals, has taught his singers the round, mellow "cathedral" tone. His choir will sing part of one of the anthems alone.

THANK ALLAH! HE MUST GO BACK TO ALGIERS.

Allah be praised! Gula Mala, the Moor, can return to Algiers.

Wherefore Gula Mala, shivering on the deck of the steamer Tuscarora, which arrived yesterday in Boston Harbor, comforts himself with true Oriental philosophy.

And when Gula Mala, the Moor, gets back to Algiers and to his plump wife and his fat, brown skinned babies, never again will he carelessly go to sleep on a strange steamer and be carried into Allah knows what unbelieving lands.

Three weeks ago Gula Mala was a happy roustabout on the dirty docks of Algiers. Two or three days' work in the week sufficed to furnish him food for himself, and the rest was easy, for his good wife worked to maintain the home and the two Moorish pickaninnies.

On the 10th of this month the Tuscarora, short of coal, steamed into Algiers. Gula Mala was working that day—and may Allah forget that day—and he went into the bunkers to stow the coal. His work done what was to hinder his taking a nap? Nothing, surely.

But it was a sad awakening. The ship was in motion! The Chr-r-r-istian dogs were kidnapping him! He flew to the deck and saw his beloved Algiers fading on the horizon. He expostulated. The unbelieving dog of an officer treated him as men of his kind are wont to treat expostulating seamen.

Gula Mala felt that the end of the world was at hand. He would go below and prepare to die and meet God and His prophet Mohammed.

His joy, on being told that the ship would leave him in Algiers on the return trip, was tinctured only by the thoughts of what might become of Mrs. Gula Mala and the babies. Healthy and industrious widows do not long remain widows in Algiers. And how is she to know what has become of her husband?

FAVORS CATHOLIC SOCIETIES IN WILL

The will of Elizabeth S. McKenna of South Boston makes several bequests to Boston Catholic institutions. To the Little Sisters of the Poor and the Home for Destitute Catholic Children and the Working Boys' Home bequests of $3,000 each are left. St. Vincent de Paul Society of St. Augustine's Church gets $200, and $100 each goes to the Free Home for Consumptives, the Shrine at Auriesville, N. Y., and the Apostolic School at Bethlehem, Lucerne, Switzerland. Out of the [illegible] of her estate a memorial window for St. Monica's Chapel is to be purchased and $100 given to the Carmelite Convent in Roxbury.

DECISION IN CHASE WILL CASE EARLY THIS WEEK.

Lynn, Jan. 27.—Judge Rollin E. Harmon of the Essex County Probate Court will probably announce his decision in the famous Jennie P. Chase will case early next week. There will be a conference between Chief of Police Harris of Swampscott and District Attorney Peters of Essex County at Salem on Monday, when it is very probable that a date will be set for the continuance of the inquest in the death of Mrs. Chase. This will, it is thought, be some day next week.

At the resumption of the inquest practically every important witness who has yet appeared in the case will be re-examined. The last inquest was abruptly ended, following the testimony of Dr. Whitney of Harvard that arsenic had been found in his examination of the stomach of Mrs. Chase. Then District Attorney Peters and other officials were surprised.

Following this, there was a further investigation along new lines by Chief Harris and the District Attorney and it is now believed that they are ready to present their case to Judge Berry and a jury. Among the witnesses who will be recalled are Dr. Horace Chase, husband of Mrs. Chase, and Dr. Whitney, together with the Chinese member of the Chase household.

The will contest, except as to a decision, came to an end yesterday afternoon, when Dr. Horace Chase sat cool and collected before a most scathing arraignment of him by Moorfield Storey, attorney for the contestants in the case. The court room was well filled and the most attentive consideration was given the argument of Mr. Storey. Among those in attendance were Leonard and Charles H. Phillips, brothers of the dead woman, who are the contestants.

MOZART'S BIRTH HONORED AT SYMPHONY.

His 'Jupiter' Is Played Superbly, and Marie Hall Wins Triumph.

By Kent Perkins.

From Mozart to Glazounow! From the exquisite sprightliness and classic beauty of Vienna to the [illegible] tumult of Tartar and Cossack! From the refinement of civilization in its fairest flower to the savagery of the Mongol horde in its gusty brutishness! That was the leap that Mr. Gericke and his orchestra asked their hearers to take last night at Symphony Hall in celebration of the 150th birthday of Mozart.

Though the physical fall was somewhat eased with the playing of Mendelssohn's brilliant and charming violin concerto in E minor, op. 64, by Miss Marie Hall, the plunge was so violent that the audience seemed hardly to know whether to like it or not. No more effective means could be taken, however, to show by contrast the [illegible] and vernal beauty Mozart's 'Jupiter' symphony and no more striking method could be employed to exalt the startlingly frank barbarism of the Russian [illegible] as portrayed in Glazounow's [illegible] "The Kremlin."

The orchestra never voiced the tripping delicacy and the fluent tracery of Mozart with [illegible]. It is hard to believe that the [illegible] melodious song of the andante was ever sung more exquisitely than it was last night. This movement [illegible] the audience to fervid enthusiasm [illegible] that Mozart's memory had been fittingly honored.

Miss Hall is a slip of a girl so slender and [illegible] that it did not seem possible she could have the physical strength to last through the concerto, which has been made familiar by most of the great violinists that have appeared here, fairly astonished her hearers by the strength, fullness and a lingering beauty of her tone and by the grace and abounding spirit of her expression. She was rewarded with a whirlwind of applause and shouts of approval that forced her to come forward four times, and it looked for a while as if the people would [illegible] all Symphony [illegible] and demand an encore.

With the classic cadences of Mozart and Mendelssohn still lingering in their ears the audience was hurled into the seething, strident, bombastic fierceness of "The Kremlin," which had its first symphony concert performance.

Of course, the orchestra played the piece superbly. Yet there was of necessity a bit too much elegance in its work, a spirit of chastened refinement that belongs to civilization and of which the symphony artists could not be expected to divest themselves so suddenly, if they ever could do it.

It requires an orchestra of Russians properly to picture the rude festival folk song themes of the first movement, the ecclesiastical mood of the second or "monastery" part, with its chant that savors of abject fear and the horror of the "Dies Grue" rather than the adoring or triumphant note we are familiar with in the Western Church, and only Muscovite musicians can really touch the blare, the blatant, brazen oriental bombast of the third part, where the "Entrance and meeting of the Prince" are figured forth.

Mr. Gericke is to be thanked for the Glazounow "picture," and it is to be hoped more Russian music will be heard in Symphony Hall, even if his artists fail to become real Cossacks, for the music of no nation is so characteristic, so illuminating in portraying a people's spirit as is that of the Slav. Listen to Glazounow, to Tschaikowsky, to Rimsky-Korsakoff and you will hear the titanic, savage forces that are clashing in Russia to-day and you will get a vivid realization of the dreadful chaos out of which a new civilization is forming. You will more clearly understand why czardom is doomed and why Russia must be drenched in still more blood before it reaches the light.

50 GUESTS FROM BOSTON TO SEE MISS ROOSEVELT WED IN WHITE HOUSE

herself cares any more keenly about the frocks which skillful brains and nimble fingers are making for her than do the women who read and talk about them.

As a matter of fact Alice Roosevelt has never been "crazy over clothes," as are many young girls of less social prominence.

She has always clung to rather plain designs and inconspicuous colors, pale blue and gray being prime favorites.

The wedding gown itself is of the princess build, made of richest white satin, woven in a special weave, and the design afterward destroyed.

There are twenty-six yards of satin in the gown.

Its most remarkable feature is the court train, which hangs from the shoulders and is of brocade, the design being the real Chinese tiger lily. Not a great deal of lace appears on this gown, but what is used is in the form of a deep bertha and ruffs for the elbow sleeves [illegible] Miss Roosevelt's mother's gown when she was a bride.

When Mrs. Longworth exchanges this bridal robe to make ready for her honeymoon trip, she will don a tan cloth frock made in the short-waisted Empire effect, the skirt pleated, the bolero jacket and three-quarter sleeves showing embroidery bands.

With this will be worn superb silver fox furs and a hat of felt trimmed with roses and plumes and turned up at the left side.

Of course there are the most important gowns, but they are no less lovely than many of the others.

Gifts in Trousseau.

The gifts which were given Miss Roosevelt on her famous trip to the Orient have been largely utilized in her trousseau. They are priceless embroideries, mulles and nets and gauzes and laces of fabulous worth, in whose intricacies patient fingers have set millions of tiny stitches to form a while of marvelous beauty.

For instance, there is a ball gown of pineapple gauze from the Philippines, hand embroidered with the magic latus flowers.

Then there is a Mandarin coat of superb golden brocade, stiff with embroidery. This coat is lined with softest satin, veiled in pleated and ruffled chiffon.

Others have the delicate wings loose, as though just poised [illegible] for flight.

Like a breath from Japan is a gown of white silk embroidered thickly in clusters and sprays of cherry blossoms, which stand up from the silk as though the real blossoms had been laid on the silk.

And these, all these are but the few among the many, in a wardrobe which a princess might envy and which seems too lovely for actual wear.

INDIAN LIVED LONG.

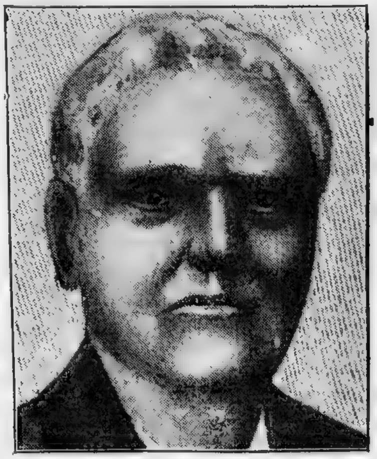
Quiack, believed to be the oldest Indian in the West, died on the Satsop, Washington, a few days ago. No one knew his exact age, but he was certainly far past the century mark, and it is generally believed that he was close to 120 years old.

WEAK BACK? IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS!

Ex-Judge James P. Murphy, 515 So. Joliet St., Joliet, Ill., who suffered intensely for years from kidney disease and pains in side and back, restored to health and cured at 84 by

WARNER'S SAFE CURE

A TRIAL BOTTLE OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST KIDNEY CURE SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE TO EVERY READER OF THE AMERICAN WHO SUFFERS FROM KIDNEY, LIVER, BLADDER OR BLOOD DISEASE, OR WHAT IS COMMONLY KNOWN AMONG WOMEN AS "FEMALE WEAKNESS."



HON. JAMES MURPHY

This popular and respected jurist, in writing of his remarkable cure, recently said: "Some years ago I commenced to be troubled with a weak side and back, and I suffered intense misery from kidney disease. I consulted a doctor and was under his care for a long time, but he did me no good. I got a bottle of Warner's Safe Cure, and it worked wonders from the start. I continued to use it, and, although eighty-four years of age, in about two months I was in my normal condition, and for the return of my health I thank the Lord and your great medicine. Whenever I hear of anyone having the same trouble I advise them to take Safe Cure, which I am satisfied will cure them.

"About five years ago I advised a friend, who was very ill and lame from kidney trouble, to take Safe Cure, which he proceeded to do, and in a short time he was cured. He now writes me that he could not get along without it under any circumstances."—JAMES P. MURPHY, 515 South Joliet street, Joliet, Ill., November 9, 1905.

FIND OUT BY THIS TEST: Put some morning urine in a glass or bottle, let it stand for twenty-four hours. If then it is milky or cloudy or contains a reddish, brick dust sediment, or if particles or germs float about in it, your kidneys are diseased. If, after you have made this test you have any doubt in your mind as to the development of the disease in your system, send us a sample of your urine, and our doctors will analyze it and send you a report with advice free.

FRANCE UPSET BY COQUELIN'S ILLNESS.

Comedian's Attack of Pneumonia Fills Republic With Anxiety.

REMARKABLE SHOWING OF PEOPLE'S VENERATION

By Marquis de Castellane.

Special Cable to the Boston Sunday American.

Paris, Jan. 27.—Coquelin, the great Coquelin, the model of all of our greatest comedians to-day, has lately been the centre of all public attention in the role of an invalid. Suddenly falling ill of pneumonia, he was nearly carried away from the admiration and affection of his compatriots. It is under these circumstances that we have had an opportunity of judging what a warm place in our heart has been won by [illegible].

For a week [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Russian [illegible] separation [illegible] it even caused [illegible] of the important question of who would be the new President of the Republic. [illegible] the danger being now over, Coquelin has gone to recuperate at Cambo [illegible] his friend Rostand [illegible] will soon regain his strength. Meanwhile the people will watch [illegible] and eagerly follow the news giving details of the complete recovery of the man who for more than forty years has known how to [illegible] and charm it.

A Duel of Oratory.

A novel and interesting kind of sport is about to be [illegible] young collegians. It is an international debate. The Cambridge [illegible] has challenged the French Students' Association to a match of oratory [illegible]. French men will go [illegible] before an audience [illegible] students and many [illegible] educational world [illegible] question, "Can [illegible] declare war without the consent [illegible]?"

One month later [illegible] of English university men will [illegible] Paris and speak on the same subject [illegible] prize will go to the youth who, according to our French saying, "has the best [illegible] tongue." Now we Frenchmen consider that we possess certain natural gifts of oratory, and we [illegible] that the French "team" of debaters will win the day. But if the judges are serious men who consider the matter set forth as of more importance than the flowery phrases, then I fear our young fellows will stand a poor show.

When it comes to grandiloquence our language lends itself admirably. But that may not be what is wanted.

Refused Her Martyrdom.

The Feminist party in France has just received a rude blow, the worst perhaps which the advocates of the new woman have had to bear since the movement began to gain ground in this country. Mlle. Numieska was taken seriously among those who signed the seditious placards calling upon the army to desert, and was called up for trial with the other Socialist antimilitarists. But she was acquitted, whereas the others were sentenced to terms of imprisonment varying from a few months to several years.

The reason of this leniency with regard to the one woman among the accused was not stated by the jury, but it was not difficult to guess. They probably said to themselves: "A woman cannot be held responsible for the freaks of her imagination." Mlle. Numieska did not take her acquittal at all in good part. She was very indignant indeed and gave vent to her sentiments by insulting the judge and the jury, declaring that she had a right to suffer the same punishment as her coworkers, and demanding that a similar sentence should be passed upon her. She created such an uproar that it looked as if, having been acquitted of a sworn wrong, she was going to be condemned for contempt of court.

The entire Feminist clan in France is in a great state over what they consider a slur upon their dignity. Disdain is one of the weapons they fear the most. Martyrdom would have seemed to them infinitely preferable.

N'T SELL YANKEE ODS IN SINGAPORE

cial Cable to the Boston Sunday American.

ingapore, Jan. 27.—The Chinese boycott of American goods has not shown any signs of abatement in the Straits Settlement, despite President Roosevelt's assurances that steps were being taken to modify the present stringent immigration laws of America.

American exports to the Settlement have fallen off considerably. A merchant has just received $2,700 from a Chinese dealer to cancel a contract for American [illegible] for which the dealer feared there would be no outlet for a long time to come. American flour, which formerly had a large sale at Singapore, is now absolutely unsalable, and Australian flour, though dearer, is taken instead.

A firm here received two hundred tons of American flour from Portland, Ore., but as it was impossible to find a buyer, the consignment was transhipped to [illegible], where there is also a large Chinese colony. But the boycott was in full force there and the flour, as a last resort, was sent to Hong Kong, where it was ultimately bought by some Japanese merchants at nearly 50 per cent below cost.

An incident illustrating how bitterly the Chinese regard American products of any kind is told by a merchant here. A few days ago some Chinese dealers called at his office. The merchant offered one of them a cigar. He asked what brand it was, and upon being told it was a Manila, he refused to accept it. Then the merchant brought out some cigarettes, which the Chinaman accepted only after being assured that they were not American.

DULNESS SETTLES ON RIVIERA SEASON

Special Cable to the Boston Sunday American.

Monte Carlo, Jan. 27.—The season at Cannes and Nice has so far been deadly dull.

Very few well known Americans are on the Riviera. Mrs. Mackay intends to spend a few days at Monte Carlo before going on to Cannes; Lady Waterloo is not well enough to entertain much, and Mrs. Ernest Cunard, who was Mrs. Padelford, has entertained but little at Nice.

PEERESS STUMPS FROM POTATO CART TO AID SOCIALIST TO GAIN SEAT IN THE COMMONS

COUNTESS GLORIES IN HER SOCIALISM

Special Cable to the Boston Sunday American.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The beautiful Countess of Warwick is undoubtedly the most picturesque figure in the great general election for Parliament now in progress. The countess is a Socialist. She is making speeches twice a day for the Commons.

Standing in a potato cart she delivered a fiery speech to the longshoremen of West Ham, London, after they had knocked off for an hour at noon from their work on the docks. Will Thorne, the Socialist candidate for West Ham, sat beside the Socialistic countess. A great crowd of workingmen gathered about the potato cart to hear and see the countess. She wore a tailor-made costume of dark green, with a big picture hat with a big ostrich feather of dark green. The workingmen cheered heartily her denunciations of the London newspapers, which, the countess declared, were afraid to print her speeches but weren't afraid to describe the gowns and hats she wore.

In the course of her speech the beautiful countess said:

"How dare people talk of danger to society in Socialism, while children are starving, while they are made wage slaves, and while so many thousands are homeless. The present government are telling you a lot of fairy tales."

A little sadly the countess resumed:

"We are all getting on in life. We have all but a short time to live. Let us before we die make the conditions brighter for our children. We don't want to die in the same conditions as our children. England is called a free country. But she is not free. I have but a few more years to live, but when I am dead and buried the movement will still be alive and will ever live. My last words to you are: Remember your responsibility and sow the seeds of freedom for your children."

KUROPATKIN HAS HAD ENOUGH REVOLUTION

Prince Peter Informs the American That He Will Not Return to Russia.

Special Cable to the Boston Sunday American.

London, Jan. 27.—Prince Peter Kropotkin, the philosopher anarchist, one of the few Russians who ever escaped alive from the fortress of Sts. Peter and Paul, informs the AMERICAN that he is not, as reported, going to Russia to join the revolutionists.

The Prince, who is sixty-three, lives in a cottage in Kent with his daughter Sascha. He devotes his time to literary work, supporting himself with his pen. The Prince intimates, while denying that he is going to Russia immediately, that he will go there if he can before very long. He was once a page to the Czar, and lived in the Winter Palace.

He became an anarchist before he was twenty-one, and was arrested and thrown into the St. Petersburg bastile. He escaped with the assistance of friends, one day while taking exercise in the courtyard of the fortress. Disguised, he made his way to Sweden and thence to England.

For many years he has been the most feared of all the Russian exiles. If he returns to Russia and is captured Siberia will be his fate.

FAMOUS GUIDE IS HURT IN AVALANCHE

Leopold Grand, With 50 Saved Lives to His Credit, Goes Down in Alpine Sweep.

Special Cable to the Boston Sunday American.

Geneva, Jan. 27.—The famous old Alpine guide, Leopold Grand, of Little St. Bernard, a familiar figure to all American tourists in the Alps, has been swept away by an avalanche and badly hurt, while trying to rescue lost travellers. He was finally saved, but is seriously injured, and it is doubtful if he will ever be able to resume his duties.

For twenty-two years Grand has kept watch on the summit of the pass to aid persons in distress, and he has the record of having saved over fifty lives.

One of his most thrilling feats occurred three years ago. Grand and his twenty-year-old son were occupied in rescuing a detachment of French Alpine troops who had been buried under an avalanche near the pass, when a second avalanche carried both over a precipice, killing the son.

Grand himself was badly injured, but he insisted, after carrying his son's body back to his little hut on the summit, on continuing his work of rescuing the soldiers. He carried them one by one on his back to his little hut, a mile away.

He has long since been entitled to a pension, but no efforts could induce him to give up his dangerous occupation.

Special Cable to the Boston Sunday American.

London, Jan. 27.—An impoverished peer claims to have the most expensive decorated room in England. In his prosperous days he spent a fortune in purchasing shares in many corporations. Very few of these proved to be of any value.

He has now papered his smoking room with the share certificates and boasts that the wall paper cost him over a million dollars.

SWINDLED PARIS AS J. PIERPONT MORGAN

Roumanian Adventurer Reaps Harvest Impersonating Great Financier.

Special Cable to the Boston Sunday American.

Paris, Jan. 27.—Under the names of J. Pierpont Morgan, the Duke of Montebello, Sir Charles Walter, of the British Navy, and Lord Leicester, a Roumanian adventurer, whose real name is Marco, has for over a year been imposing upon women. His latest victim, a pretty young actress named Anna Mathan, had the courage to denounce him, and he has been arrested.

Two American girls, the Misses Dora Swan and Myrtle Gillings of Des Moines, who are in Paris studying music, have had their little adventure with M. Marco. They were strolling through the Luxembourg Gardens when they were accosted by a stranger, who asked them the way to the Sorbonne. The man introduced himself as J. Pierpont Morgan, but declared that he did not wish it known that he was in Paris and asked them to say nothing about having met him. He saw them several times after that and finally called upon them and had tea at their flat. He managed to persuade them to cash a check, which, of course, was refused by the bank, and they are that much sadder and wiser.

DRAW LUCKY NUMBER AND PAY NO RENT

Special Cable to the Boston Sunday American.

Paris, Jan. 27.—The owner of an apartment house in the Faubourg St. Antoine has hit upon a novel plan of pleasing his tenants, and there is never any danger of his flats being empty, as he has more applicants for apartments than he can possibly supply.

On the front door of each flat a number is painted, and every rent day numbers corresponding to those on the doors are placed in a bag and well shaken. One number is drawn from the bag, and the tenant of the flat bearing that number is not called upon to pay his rent.

DRESS REHEARSAL GIVEN FOR CRITICS

Special Cable to the Boston Sunday American.

London, Jan. 27.—[illegible] of giving a dress rehearsal [illegible] for critics has found a [illegible] permanent place in London production.

The French usage of [illegible] "répétition générale" is retained in London [illegible]. It was first shown by Arthur [illegible], and the critics saw the performance [illegible] instead of the public and were also on the opening night to have their criticisms in readiness for the morning papers without the usual hurry.

The benefit of thoughtful criticisms was so appreciated not only by the producers, but by the critics as well, that George Alexander intends to have a "Repetition Generale" of Pinero's new comedy, "His House in Order," which will be produced at St. James's Theatre.

ALFONSO DARES STORM TO SEE FIANCEE.

Youthful Spanish King Allows Snapshot Artists to Have Their Fling.

TAKES TOUR IN AUTO WITH PRINCESS ENA

Biarritz, Jan. 27.—Although King Alfonso did not reach Miramar Palace, San Sebastian, until after midnight after his visit to Princess Ena, who is stopping at Mouriscot Villa here, he started for Biarritz again at 8:30 o'clock in the morning. It was raining heavily and His Majesty came in a closed automobile.

He lunched with Princess Beatrice and Princess Ena, and in the afternoon, the weather having improved, he took them on an automobile trip. He will come here again to-morrow.

Ex-Queen Christina, King Alfonso's mother, will arrive at San Sebastian to-day, and will receive Princess Beatrice and Princess Ena there on Sunday.

The official ban placed on the photographers, who were not permitted to enter the grounds of Mouriscot Villa, has been removed owing to King Alfonso's intervention. All the [illegible] photographers are [illegible] allowed to take snapshots to their heart's content. Such a [illegible] is contrary to the English royal customs, but the Spanish customs are much freer. It is stated that the Princesses complained to King Alfonso about the annoyance caused by photographers following them ever since they have been here.

The King replied: "You can stop the annoyance in five minutes. Give them carte blanche to do as they like and they will go away and leave you in peace."

The King himself, according to report, is pestered by [illegible]. When he was in the station to-night waiting for his train a reporter persisted in trying to get an interview with him. The King rebuffed him, saying:

"I am well disposed toward journalists in general, but you must surely see that you are [illegible] by trying to force yourself on me at such a time."

It is now said that the marriage will take place on May 17, Alfonso's twentieth birthday anniversary.

WOMEN TO AID OF ST. BRENDAN KNIGHTS

Two hundred women connected with Catholic societies in Boston have given their names for the purpose of forming a ladies' auxiliary to the Knights of St. Brendan. Further steps will be taken at the next meeting. Meanwhile other names are being added to the original list, and the new society is promised an auspicious start.

LABORITE GAIN SURPRISE OF ELECTIONS.

ONLY TEN MORE SEATS [illegible] TO BE CONTESTED

Special Cable to the Boston Sunday American.

London, Jan. 27.—The elections are practically [illegible]. The Liberals have a majority [illegible] with only ten contests to be settled [illegible] a total of 371 at present. While the Liberals' overwhelming victory has astounded the people of Great Britain, the progress of the Laborites is perhaps the most surprising result of the elections. In a comparatively few years this party has grown up from nothing until [illegible] fifty seats.

At the [illegible] which took place in [illegible] was made up as follows: [illegible], Liberal-Unionists, [illegible] Nationalists, [illegible]. At that time the Laborites did not [illegible] party and their growth to fifty [illegible] in the past five years is the most [illegible] feature of British politics.

The Conservative press has been perfunctorily [illegible] during the past week [illegible] feeling [illegible] to their [illegible] race [illegible] silence on the subject [illegible] a high spirited party [illegible] unfortunate policy [illegible] of their defeat, and they [illegible] for hard facts to tell [illegible] course.

Until Parliament resumes its sessions [illegible] continue. Then public attention will inevitably run to other questions. In the new house the free trade majority will be so overwhelming that the [illegible], even assuming the most eager [illegible] on their part to the new fiscal [illegible], cannot court defeat after defeat on [illegible].

CALL KANSAN TO WORCESTER PULPIT

Worcester, Jan. 27.—Rev. [illegible] Hare of Iola, Kansas, has been extended an unanimous call to become the pastor of the Adams Square Baptist Church, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. F. L. Church. Rev. Mr. Hare has been supplying the pulpit at the Adams Square Church for several weeks and had given the lookout committee to understand that he would accept the call if it was unanimous.

A Friend in Need—

THAT thin, little 10-cent Box of Cascarets.

When carried constanly in your Vest Pocket, or in "my Lady's" Purse it will ward off ninety per cent of Life's ordinary ills.

* * *

The Muscles lose tone, tension, strength, to force the food onward.

And the longer they stay in that state the weaker they become, because the less exercise they get through the slow passage of food.

They act like Exercise.

* * *

When you have Heartburn, Colic, Coated Tongue, Suspected Breath, Acid-rising-in-the-throat, Gas-belching, or an incipient Cold, take a Cascaret.

They act like Exercise on the Bowel-Muscles that propel Food, and that squeeze the natural Digestive Juices of the body into Food.

Constipation Bad Breath

Biliousness Diabetes
Indigestion Headache
Dyspepsia Diarrhœa
Torpid Liver Flatulence
Appendicitis Hives
Rheumatism Jaundice
Catarrh Nausea
Colic Vertigo
Scrofula Pimples
Womanly Troubles
Worms Blotches
Piles Eczema
Ulcers Dysentery

In such cases a little Cascaret in time is worth fifty dollars worth of Treatment later on, to say nothing of the suffering, discomfort, loss of Business Energy, and loss of Social Sunshine it saves.

* * *

A coming Headache can be warded off in short order, by a single Cascaret, and the cause removed.

Heartburn, Gas-belching, Acid-risings in the throat, and Colicky feeling are sure signs of bowel trouble from food poisons, and should be dealt with promptly.

All druggists sell them—over ten million boxes a year, for six years past.

Be very careful to get the genuine, made only by the Sterling Remedy Company and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "CCC."

[illegible] treated very much as the [illegible] tracks are [illegible] not allowed to leave [illegible] five or ten [illegible] ance of starting [illegible]

While this [illegible] some cases it [illegible] the sport [illegible] interest which [illegible] drive away [illegible] support of the [illegible] the game has.

However, to get back to racing, the 100-mile race proved [illegible] to compensate for some of the delays, as the crowd saw a good race, a new record, and the winner, Clifford-Earp, drive his Napier to victory after [illegible] miles without a tire on his rear [illegible] wheel.

Earp's Wonderful Race.

Earp drove a wonderful race and as he has proved himself a [illegible] sportsman he was wildly cheered when he crossed the finish line, covering the 100 miles in one hour, fifteen minutes forty seconds, clipping [illegible] minutes and forty [illegible] seconds off [illegible] last year's record. [illegible] who also had tire trouble, finished second, fifty-nine seconds behind the leader, while Hillyard of Boston, in another Napier car, was third, in one hour [illegible] who was doing well for a time [illegible] withdrew in the forty [illegible] car, which was driven by Chevrolet, started, and the Harding English Daimler also started, but withdrew soon afterwards.

The cars were started at thirty-second intervals at the twenty-mile post, and then traveled over a fifteen-mile stretch between one and sixteen mile posts, finishing at the club house at Daytona, making seven laps in all. The order of start was Chevrolet, Earp, Cedrino, Lancia, Harding, then an English Daimler and Hillyard in an eighty horsepower Napier.

Darracq Cars Protested.

Earp took the lead early in the race, and at the ten-mile post [illegible] had a fair lead over Cedrino, Lancia, Christie, Hillyard and Harding, who followed in the order named. At twenty-eight miles Earp led Cedrino and [illegible] by a little over a minute [illegible] and Christie [illegible] When near the [illegible] lost [illegible] tire from [illegible] looked hopelessly [illegible] forty [illegible] seconds [illegible] He still held a seven [illegible] fifty-eight [illegible] seconds [illegible]

Cedrino, Earp and Hillyard continued to race [illegible] the same order until about the seventy-fifth mile, when Cedrino [illegible] of hard luck and lost [illegible] new one at [illegible] so much time that [illegible] and won the [illegible] follows:

W. Clifford-Earp, 80-horse-power Napier, 1.15.40; [illegible] 1.16.[illegible]; Hillyard, [illegible] horse-power Napier, 1.21.05. Previous [illegible] 18 minutes 24 seconds [illegible] Fletcher.

Winner Took Lead.

The Darracq cars which were entered in this [illegible] protested for not having [illegible] prescribe, and as Chairman Morrell sustained the protest [illegible]

[illegible]

As usual [illegible] adjusting [illegible] It was the [illegible] the cars [illegible] Stanley [illegible] down, but half an hour passed with no sign of [illegible] the energetic [illegible] that the 200 h. p. Darracq which [illegible] was driving would start [illegible] except [illegible] came down past the stand [illegible] tice spin.

[illegible] word came that the Stanley [illegible] started [illegible] was seen to swerve towards [illegible] slow down, and come to a dead stop [illegible] a mile from the finish. Word came later that the [illegible] gear was [illegible] when the car had blown out the cylinder head of its port engine.

As Stanley assured the officials that he could repair the car in a few hours the race was put over until Monday. Stanley is confident that his car can cover the two miles in about 56 or 57 seconds. The big Harding did not start at all, but both cars will be out on Monday, when some records will be made.

LOWELL HIGH BEATEN.

Lowell, Jan. 27.—Lowell High School put up a stiff game against their old-time opponents, the Textiles, but went down in defeat [illegible] of 23 to 9. There were many brilliant [illegible] but the Textile boys were too many for the High School team.

AUTO BUYERS GET MORE FOR THEIR GOOD MONEY THIS YEAR THAN EVER

BY A. H. C. MITCHELL.

When one writes of automobiles one writes for three classes of people, viz., the class that owns cars, the class that is ready to buy and the class that would like to buy but cannot afford to. Of the three, the class that is ready to buy is the most keen on the subject, and anything you have to say to them is eagerly listened [illegible]

[illegible] class is the one the show promoters cater largely to in the annual exhibit [illegible] held in Boston next March. The man with $600, or $1,000, or $2,000 or $5,000 in his pocket, which he intends putting into an automobile is the man who will receive the most attention from the hustling salesman, and by the same token the man ready to buy will be the one most ready to listen to the clever talk of the dealers.

Anticipation, they say, is half the pleasure of an undertaking. For most persons the buying of an [illegible] considerable of an undertaking, the pleasure, therefore, of making up one's mind on which car to buy, of listening to the arguments pro and con of the agent, of giving due attention to the advice of the [illegible] who owns an auto and [illegible] to know [illegible]

More for Your Money.

[illegible] New York [illegible] Mr. Chester I. Campbell, who has been in charge of the Boston shows in the past, and is also managing this year's exposition, has been looking over the New York show, but does not seem to be fazed at all by what he saw. Last year [illegible] the New York show [illegible] for decorations [illegible] the Massachusetts [illegible] expected to keep up [illegible]

This great [illegible] show will be one of [illegible] to the intending purchasers [illegible] this country, the three [illegible] will enable the spectator to see and [illegible] the very latest improvements [illegible] shown this year as at the day [illegible] will then be ready.

All the Models Good.

Such great strides have been made in the automobile and power boat industry, that the matter of choice is more one of taste than of [illegible] for all models are good [illegible] this year. The automobiles are being built on [illegible] heavier lines this year, and the [illegible] with speedier shapes, but on both is to be seen the beautiful finish that has become a necessity to-day on all high class products.

Manager Campbell expects to handle all the overflow in Symphony Hall, though the space will be taxed if applications from manufacturers continue to pour in. Symphony Hall [illegible] for any particular class of exhibits [illegible] it is expected that many of the foreign cars will be shown there. One ticket will admit to both halls, so visitors [illegible] not be put to the inconvenience experienced at New York. By arrangement with the New England railroads special excursion tickets will be sold in connection with the automobile show.

General Auto Notes.

One of the most useful things which came out of the recent Managers' Association Show at New York was the compilation of figures concerning automobile accidents in Chicago made by Mr. McMullin, general manager of that association. Mr. McMullin pointed out that in Chicago the [illegible] street cars and [illegible] autos. In 1905 [illegible] killed 347 people against twelve killed by motor cars and twelve [illegible] vehicles.

Already the [illegible] of a racing car are possessed of [illegible] perhaps any other [illegible] in the world, the Emperor of Germany has given another proof of his interest in [illegible] to become a patron of [illegible] Club [illegible] for they are now growing under a very [illegible] for the [illegible] to the [illegible] visitors to Germany who remain with their cars longer than three weeks will have to pay the tax, and will be called upon to pay [illegible]

With a dozen bouts on [illegible] the B. A. A. amateur boxing show last night was [illegible] and the [illegible] the ringside saw some hot sport.

The bill had several specials arranged between boys of equal calibre and the match making proved [illegible] was a war [illegible] the boys show [illegible]

The finals in the 115, 135 and heavyweight classes [illegible] were completed and the competition was keen in the race for the watches.

The first pair to appear on the mat were Larry Briggs of Chelsea and Jack Morley of South Boston, who got through the trials and were to settle the [illegible] for [illegible]

Judges Disagreed.

There was more action in the second semi-final in the 115-pound class, in which Eddie Daniels and John Stanton, of South Boston figured. Daniels was the rugged type, doing the forcing, and ran into a shower of [illegible] out. [illegible] nose was marked.

In the second [illegible] over a left swing which [illegible] eye and got the [illegible] Both [illegible] with [illegible] Stanton [illegible] scored [illegible] with [illegible] flattened Dan[illegible]

It was [illegible] but the judges were strong for Stanton and he got the decision and both boys were equally applauded when they left the arena.

Benson Meets Hurley.

The "heavies" were announced, with Charles Schultz of Dorchester (170) and Mark Conley of South Boston (165) as the belligerents in the first semi-final. It was hammer and tongs all the way, each trying his best to beat the other down by [illegible] Conley [illegible] at the end of the first rounds.

Masters of Ring Tactics.

One of the cleverest bouts in the special was the McGowan-Rawson combat in the 125-pound class. They were perfect little masters in ring tactics and gave a rare session of science. It required an extra round to decide a winner, when McGowan got it by an eyelash. A last punch by McGowan that sat Rawson down practically was the swaying point for the decision.

Two colored lads, Tom Mack, black as the ace of spades, and John Henderson, led [illegible] in the 135-pound class, and they gave a peppery [illegible] Henderson was in front till the last part of [illegible] when he collapsed [illegible] heavy work.

The winner of the 115-pound class was John Stanton of South Boston, who banged John Morley's nose so persistently that it bled and choked him causing him to wave the flag of distress in the third round.

Iver Benson, the stocky Swede, got the 135-pound prize easy as George Geary broke his hand in the semi-final round and [illegible] to default to Benson.

The Summaries.

Tufts had a fast [illegible] was not afraid to stick close and let each man on the Harvard team know that he had an opponent who was ready to mix it up in a good free-for-all at any time. Harvard was also fast and early developed a tendency not to let Tufts boys have things all their own way in the rough house part of the contest. The game was easily the roughest that has been played in the Harvard Gym this year.

Harvard knew more basketball than did her adversary. The team work of the Crimson did not go off so smoothly as in the game with Princeton a week ago, but it was smooth enough to completely sweep Tufts off her feet from the very first of the game.

Among for Harvard made [illegible] pretty shots from the floor [illegible] bringing down the goods [illegible] present. [illegible] the Tufts [illegible] was one of the chief rough housers from Medford, but was the only man to score for Tufts on baskets from the floor. Barnham played an excellent game for the Crimson, blocking well and getting two goals. Summary:

MORE SPECIAL PRIZES FOR HUB'S BIG DOG SHOW

Dog owners, fanciers, breeders and every body who loves the little four-footed beast who is a household pet and a joy forever are waiting [illegible] for the big show at Mechanics Building under the auspices of the New England Kennel Club.

Entries for the [illegible] show close at midnight [illegible] at Room 36, 214 Washington street, which will be kept open for the benefit of the local exhibitors.

The entries have been coming fast and three times as many had been received up to noon last Wednesday as up to the same date last year. The classes leading were the English setters, some of the terrier classes and French bulldogs.

Beagle competitions promise to be keen at the forthcoming show and to help along the interest in the twelve-inch class, dogs and bitches, a third prize has been added. This will either be a medal or a ribbon.

Beagles of the foot rule length are becoming more popular each year and from the present indications the entry will be extra large.

As an incentive to those who own beagles of the twelve-inch size up, a member of the N. E. K. Club has offered a special [illegible] for the little fellows to strive for.

[illegible] that the [illegible] of the West [illegible] February 12 to [illegible] will be [illegible] entries for this year.

All Kinds of Dogs.

Those who visit the exhibition next month will be able to see every conceivable kind of dog, from the diminutive skye terrier to the massive St. Bernard, and the animals will be brought from every part of the United States, Canada and England.

[illegible] which the show can most [illegible] expand are in the matter of prizes. Although it would seem that enough awards are given, the Westminster Club this year announces two more.

The Westminster Club offers $150 or plate of that value for the very best pack of English foxhounds (five couples), the property of a recognized hunt club, to be shown by the M. F. H. and huntsman, or by the M. F. H. and whip or huntsman and whip, in hunting costume.

Russian Wolfhounds.

Judging in this entry will take place on Thursday afternoon, February 15. In addition the club has opened the Russian wolfhound [illegible] to dogs bred in Canada as well as in the United States.

The dogs this year will be judged solely by American judges. Heretofore this task has been performed by Englishmen. Superintendent James Mortimer said the American experts have now become the equal of those abroad and are perfectly competent to make the decisions at the coming shows.

He feels that the judges should hereafter be chosen alternately from England and from America.

Boston Exhibitors.

Among Boston exhibitors at the New York show will be Dr. C. A. Lougest, who has been in bad health lately, but at the same time has not taken his interest off the different shows.

The staunch fancier of the grand old breeds, the mastiff, St. Bernards and bloodhounds [illegible] another [illegible] kennel [illegible] Walnee [illegible] thirty-two inches at the shoulder [illegible] and one of the finest [illegible] imported.

Another crack is the bloodhound Panther's Cruiser, a son of the great [illegible] Panther, and as the latter is now in the [illegible] hunting ground, his blood is particularly valuable.

W. N. Kimball's Viking services have been in great demand during this month. The following bitches have visited Viking: J. F. Smith, Ohio, Judy; Henry F. Kelly, Lawrence, Jess; F. F. Johnson, Salem, Miss Loyalty; John Lovett, Boston, Waban; [illegible] Boston, Fannie; George Baner, [illegible]rence.

Mr. Kimball has another pair of flyers, a dog and a bitch, never been shown, to bring out in New York. They are said to be crackerjacks.

HARVARD IS TO RACE CORNELL AGAIN ON THE CHARLES.

The Harvard and Cornell varsity crews will race on the Charles River May 26 of this Spring over the [illegible] course that the two crews rowed over last Spring. This announcement came as a great surprise to undergraduates at Harvard, who had hoped that Harvard would get another try at the Ithacans again this year, but everybody thought that the race, if held, would be pulled off on Lake Cayuga.

Challenges Exchanged.

The [illegible] for another race [illegible] crew manager [illegible] challenges to the other. The Cornell proposition was that the race be on Cornell waters on Cayuga, but Harvard advanced the claim that it should be [illegible] the Charles again, as [illegible] Harvard [illegible] crew to Ithaca [illegible] to the Charles on that [illegible] Cornell agreed to this.

[illegible]

Crew Prospects Good.

Crew prospects have not been so bright at Harvard as they are this Spring. With six of last year's strong varsity crew as a nucleus, and all of the fast 1908 crew to pick from, and with Jim Wray as head coach for a second year, Harvard should turn out a crew that will give the Cornell eight the race of their lives.

BATTLING NELSON TO BE HERE TO-MORROW

Battling Nelson will be here Monday to fill in a week's engagement at the Old Howard and will appear twice daily in sparring and training exhibitions with his partner, Eddie Kelley.

He will make his little speech and tell the fans what his plans are, and as he is well liked in the Hub a warm reception is assured.

NO ICE FOR HOCKEY.

The intercollegiate hockey game, between Brown and Harvard that was scheduled to be played on the Stadium rink at Cambridge yesterday afternoon, was postponed on account of lack of ice.

HARVARD FRESHMA FIVE SCORED TWO VICTORIES.

The Harvard Freshman basketball team won a [illegible] the Hemenway Gymnasium yesterday afternoon by defeating the five of the Wellesley High School 18 to 17 before the varsity game between Harvard and Tufts, and the Watertown five 14 to 7 after the varsity game. SKATER GLEW POS FORFEIT FOR RAC

George Glew deposited with the Sporting Editor of the BOSTON AMERICAN [illegible] for a skating race with Pierce, [illegible] at the Park Square Rink.

In the last race at the rink Glew claims that he beat Pierce, but the latter was awarded the prize, and now Glew comes out with an open challenge to his rival to meet him and settle the matter.

He wants the distance to be three miles, and will put up his forfeit money that is held by the AMERICAN as a side bet, and the rink will add to the purse of $100.

The sessions of committee to-day were held in the rray Hill Hotel and were presided over L. M. Dennis of Cornell. ecretary Reid gave out the following estions that had been passed by the mittee, but announced that they ld not pass into the law until finally d at a meeting to be held two weeks to-night.

the question of elimination of brutal foul play it was decided that striking fists, elbow, knee, and deliberately ing of an opponent shall be punishable disqualification for rest of the game, and offending team shall lose half the distance to its own goal line. A substitute all be allowed in place of the player qualified.

May Suspend for a Year.

The player being disqualified twice in season shall be suspended from playing for one year from date of second nce. Unnecessary roughness, to include king the runner with the ball in the with the heel or [illegible] ing with the knee, piling up, striking the locked hands by [illegible] in break [illegible] [illegible] of bounds will result in a loss fifteen yards. sportsmanlike conduct, to include or insulting language to opponent officials will result in suspension of the offender for remainder of day. It shall also be the duty of all officials to penalize for the above offences.

Rules for Holding.

Players of the sides that have possession shall not hold, lock or otherwise obstruct except with the body, but a player running with the ball may ward off an opponent with his hands. Holding or unlawful obstruction includes (a) grappling the opponent with hands.

(b) Placing hands on opponent to push him away from a player.

The definition of holding was finally held over until the next meeting for further discussion.

More Officials.

The neutral zone proposition as expounded by Harvard was adopted. There shall be a referee, two umpires and a linesman to each game. At small games there shall be one umpire.

On the question of opening up of plays it was decided that any man back of the scrimmage line be allowed to make a forward pass, provided it does not extend beyond the line of scrimmage, or to a man who is in the line of scrimmage when the ball is put in play.

Six men shall always be on the line of of scrimmage, the five centre men shall always be on the line except that one of the centre men may drop back at least five yards or more, another man to take his place on the rush line.

Six Men on the Line.

Not more than six men shall be on the line of scrimmage on defence, the rest shall be clearly behind the feet of all the line men, inside the men on end of the line.

There shall be no tackling below the knee, except by the men on the line of scrimmage on defence, and of these the two men on end of line of scrimmage cannot tackle below the knee.

Hurdling in the line to be prohibited. (The definition of hurdling to be given out at meeting in two weeks.)

The matter of the field laboratory was postponed until next meeting, as was also the selection of central board of officials.

The ten-yard rule was fully discussed but no decision was arrived at.

NEW FOUL STRIKE RULE TO IMPROVE STICK WORK.

Batting averages of baseball players will be vastly improved the coming year if a suggestion which Jimmy Callahan, late of the White Sox, has suggested, and which he is pushing with vigor, is adopted by the rules committee of the national commission.

The suggestion, simple in itself, carries untold benefits to the man with the ash and there is no doubt it will meet with popular favor among, not only players, but with the general public.

The plan is nothing more or less than to have all foul tips that go behind the plate adjudged legitimate fouls, and not subject to the strike penalty. Those fouls which hit inside the base line and in front of the imaginary line which runs through the home plate from bleacher to bleacher to be adjudged strikes as heretofore.

Callahan has already put the suggestion up to President Ban Johnson of the American League. President Comiskey of the White Sox, Kings and several other prominent lights of the baseball world, and all agree that the scheme is an excellent one and ought to be allowed. [illegible] is enthusiastic about it and will probably urge its adoption by the rules committee.

No matter whether it is adopted or not, Callahan says he will introduce it this Summer at his new semi-professional baseball park at Logan square.

"The scheme is a simple and popular one," said Callahan. "We cannot deny that the 'foul strike' rule has worked havoc to the batters' averages. With the adoption of my rule a man could improve in batting to a great degree. There is no denying that it is impossible for a batter to send a foul back of the plate.

"The foul strike rule was adopted to fool those clever batters who could tip off a foul as often as they pleased. Their fouls, however, generally went in front of this line which I am urging. I don't care how clever the batter is, he cannot send one of those tips back of the plate.

"Follow the fortunes of one of our pitchers who occasionally makes a foul tip. That invariably goes back of the plate. Then watch men like Willie Keeler or Frank Chance. They send their fouls over into the left or right field bleachers, or, if they want to play with the pitcher and tire him, they lay them down anywhere they please except back of the plate.

"I defy all the Keelers and Chances and Wagners in the world to tip a ball back of the plate when they say they will. Hence it is that those fouls should be legitimate fouls, while the fouls in front of the plate can remain as strikes. I have talked to many baseball authorities on the scheme and they all agree with me that it is a good one and ought to be adopted."

JOE GANS WANTS TO MEET BAT NELSON HERE TOMORROW.

Joe Gans, the lightweight champion, and Battling Nelson will both be in this city to-morrow. Gans is coming over from Baltimore with Kid Sullivan and wants to arrange a match with Nelson. Last night he wired the following:

Baltimore, Jan. 27.

Sporting Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I will bring Kid Sullivan up to Boston to box Dave Deshler at the Douglas Athletic Club on Monday night. I will stop at the Crawford House. If Battling Nelson or his manager wants to clinch a match I will only be glad to do so, for the lightweight championship of the world, at which class I am the undisputed champion. JOE GANS.
Light and Welterweight Champion of the World.

JAMES GATCOMB WRITES ON NEEDED REFORMS IN LIGHT HARNESS RACING

All who are acquainted with James Y. Gatcomb, the owner of the only two-minute horse in New England—Audubon Boy, 1:59¼—know him to be one of the deep thinkers of the light harness horse sport.

It was mainly due to his action that the celebrated Syracuse compact between the Grand Circuit drivers was signed last season. He has always been in favor of shortening the races, realizing the injury the old fashioned three-heats-in-five plan have done to the horses in these days of extreme speed.

Not only, too, is Mr. Gatcomb a prominent owner and breeder of horses, but his experience in the sulky as a trainer and driver dates back for some twenty years, during which time he had the famous Thomas W. Lawson trotter, Boralma, 2.07, and a whole lot of others that successfully he made [illegible] summaries of the past.

In the following he comes frankly to the front in support of the new method adopted by the New England Breeders' Association and other reforms the admirers of the trotting turf are agitating to improve the sport so that the general public will be taught how enjoyably an afternoon can be spent seeing the races.

By J. Y. Gatcomb.

Most of the time and space given by those who can afford to spend the time and money is devoted to writing about some remote evil, such as doping the horse and ruining his constitution, etc. Little thought [illegible] is given to the undisputed fact that long races ruin more horses, both for racing purposes and for breeding, than any and all things, as well as being the direct cause of driving more good men out of the trotting horse business than anything else.

I, like Mr. Leavitt, have been a long time in the business and have seen very little doping. I have seen something given horses to help them to blow out and assist nature in getting them back to the track in the twenty-five minutes allowed to them and in as natural a condition as possible, but that is all.

Other Things More Important.

I am free to say that it seems too bad for any man, who should be instrumental in making the trotting horse business a success and having it so run that those coming to the track may be assured of clean, healthy sport, taking up subjects that should not be considered, because doping can be defined, and the penalty is so severe, that anyone doing it contrary to the laws can be put with the alsos.

I think that the stand taken by the Readville association should be appreciated by all horsemen as well as the public. I have always advocated short racing and paying the winner a large portion of the purse and doing away with pool selling so that a horse must win to get the money.

John Dickerson, with myself, was the originator of the Syracuse compact, and I mean to live up to it to the letter. As I have the paper before me with the signatures on it, I should think it would look like bad policy for any Grand Circuit track to run on the three-in-five plan in 1906.

Advocates Shorter Races.

The time has come, and come sure, when if the trotter or pacer is to continue valuable as a racing proposition shorter races must take the place of racing horses all of the afternoon and into the evening. If not, the same feeling will exist against the business as has heretofore.

I think the argument relative to paying the fastest horse the most money is just right. It has always been that a horse with much of a record had little earning capacity, and was not worth much to a poor man as a racing proposition. Consequently many a horse has escaped a record because the owner or driver would not take the chance of getting a record when he did not think he could win the race, knowing that, with more work and education, his horse would be most valuable in the slow classes, where all of the big money is hung up.

The cry about the judges' stand is all bosh, as most every man that I have ever seen in the judges' stand meant to do what he thought was right. All that is necessary is to be sure that judges know what is right.

Reduce Entrance Fees.

I believe it is the duty of the associations to make their meetings so attractive that the entrance fee will be small, feeling satisfied that if track managers do their best, were obliged to have good short racing, to offer most money for the fastest horses, good clean grand stands, with comfortable seats, the grounds attractive, instead of the public being obliged to look at rocks, sand hills and mud holes, everything around the stables kept in apple-pie order, drivers and those caring for the horses dressed neat and now that the business would draw the following and respect of every [illegible] minded person.

[illegible] of what actually takes place at the race track is in a very large measure the reason for censure, but at that we all know there are many things which might well be improved. Cleanliness as it applies to racing is not all. Cleanliness is absolutely necessary at all parts of the track so that horse-loving people who wish to visit the horses can do so without seeing things that disgust them.

PRESIDENT TAYLOR OFF ON LONG TRIP ABROAD.

John I. Taylor of the Boston American League Baseball Club sailed yesterday for a six-months' trip abroad. He has been planning for a trip of this kind for a long time, but was unable to get away until now, when he joined a party which includes several of his relatives.

While Mr. Taylor is away Manager Collins will look after the interests of the Boston club, which he had to do before Mr. Taylor secured control of the organization. Collins has been in Boston for a week or two preparing the plans for the Spring trip. He will return to his home in Buffalo in a few days, stopping at Syracuse on the way for the purpose of signing Bill Dinneen, who needs a little coaxing before he will put his fist to a contract for the season of 1906.

Collins will go to Hot Springs early in February with Parent, Stahl and several pitchers in order to get well boiled out before the baseball season begins. This will be a good thing all around, and it was generally believed that the former Champs carried weight for age during the early months of last season and as a result they got a bad start in the championship race.

Collins promises to have his team in better condition this year. Secretary Hugh McBreen will preside at baseball headquarters in the Old South Building until the team leaves Macon on its barnstorming trip. Then he will join the boys and pilot them over the Spring practice circuit.

LOWELL HIGH GIRLS ARE AGAIN WINNERS

Lowell, Jan. 27.—The Lowell High School basketball team continued to be victorious to-day when in the hardest game of the season it defeated Wellesley High at the Annex this afternoon by a score of 22 to 4. FREEMAN SENDS IN SIGNED CONTRACT

It is good news to the fans to know that the slugger is in the fold. He has kept his word and stuck to the club, as he said he would when other members of the team threatened to abdicate.

The arrival of Freeman's contract will start the others coming, and Captain Collins is looking for a bunch to respond in the next few days.

The Corner Grocery League

By William F. Kirk.

WAY back in old Wisconsin, in the town of Pardeeville,
    Claude Elliot, of the Giants,
    Loves to dwell upon the science
That filled the Polo Ground last year with madly cheering clients.

UPON a cracker box he sits, with friends on every side,
  Describing Matty's famous drop, and Dahlen's famous slide;
    Squire Thompson says "By cracky!
    Have a chaw of this tobaccy,
About this baseball game I swan as how I'm gittin' tacky!

"'TWAS in the great World's Series," says Claude, with kindling eye,
    Shifting his chew of navy
    Eleer Brown remarks, "By gravy!"

"BY Heck!" says Deacon Jasper, "Bet you find things dull at home—
    "Las' night," swears Hiram Johnson,
    "I was tellin' ol' Pete Swanson
As how young Claude's a credit to the people of Wisconsin!"

HATS off, you wild-eyed rooters to the Corner Grocery League
  Wherein the players find no trace of envy or intrigue
The steady nerves, the iron frames, the never-tiring arms
That Gotham's flats cannot supply are gathered from the farms,
And the pennant winning chances of the Brushes and the Farrells

ANDOVER BOYS EASILY DEFEAT HARVARD SECOND TEAM.

Andover, Jan. 27.—Phillips Andover boys added another win to their already long string of basketball victories this afternoon, when she beat Harvard second in an easy game by the score of 24 to 13.

Harvard was without the services of Captain Appel, and as a result gave a poor exhibition of team work, while the individual work was good.

Andover played the strongest game of this season and easily deserved to win. There were many fouls during the game, over twenty being called on each side, from which Murphy threw six goals and McCarthy five.

Murphy and Gunning scored two points apiece and played finely, McCarthy and Moore excelling for the visitors. The summary:

BABSON'S OPINION ON MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP
NAUGHTON

UNION LABOR ASKS COUNCIL TO PASS LIGHTING ORDER

Warns City Government Members That Municipal Ownership Pledges to Votes Must Be Kept.

The duty of every voter in Boston to go to the three councilmen from his ward and demand that they represent the best interests of their employers, the people, by voting for the McCullough municipal lighting order which is now before the Common Council, in order that the question of whether or not the city shall engage in the manufacture and distribution of gas and electricity shall be referred to the people for a decision, by a direct referendum vote, was emphasized last night at a special meeting of the municipal lighting committee of the Central Labor Union at union headquarters, No. 987 Washington street.

The special meeting was called for the purpose of finding the best means for reaching the seventy-five councilmen of the city before the order [illegible] for them again next Thursday night, and remind them of their election pledges to the voters and of their duty to the people.

Letter to Every Councilman.

First—To send a letter to each member of the Common Council and the Board of Aldermen reminding them of their duty and requesting them to vote for the referendum order.

Second—To examine a record of the vote cast at next Thursday's meeting of the Common Council, and if it is found that any of the Councilmen have repudiated their pledges and voted in favor of the lighting monopoly as against the people, to ask the Central Labor Union to make known to every voter in this city that his interests have been betrayed by his representative, and to take steps to prevent the re-election of these men.

The meeting was an enthusiastic one.

In calling the committee together Chairman Dennis J. Driscoll, secretary of the State Branch of the American Federation of Labor, said:

Strong Measures Needed.

"It is my opinion that strong measures should be taken because the time is short before the meeting of the City Council to pass upon the referendum.

"This committee is unalterably in favor of the referendum in this case. So I believe is every member of the Central Labor Union. We think it is a step in the right direction. If we are wrong the people themselves can show us our mistake at the polls.

"I am among those who believe that the people are right, and therefore that in such a case as this the proposition should be put up to them for final settlement."

Secretary D. J. McDonald spoke as follows:

"I have urged and still urge that the only question before the council at next Thursday's meeting is: Shall the people of Boston be allowed to settle this question of municipal ownership of gas and electric lighting plants? There should be no confusion upon this point. The council is not asked to decide the point of municipal ownership of these utilities. They must not [illegible] that [illegible] called upon to settle it.

"I should be in favor of issuing a demand to the council members to [illegible] favor of the referendum. This committee has confidence in their city representatives and will abide the outcome."

In introducing Alderman Fred J. Kneeland, Chairman Driscoll paid him a high compliment for his consistent stand in all labor issues. Alderman Kneeland said:

"I have looked up the records of the occasions when the people have been called upon to decide special issues at the polls as in this case. They are three in number as far as the [illegible] of Boston are concerned.

"One was the question of removing tracks on Tremont street; another was the subject of an eight-hour day for city employes; the third was the abolition of the Common Council. In each instance the voters knew what they wanted and attained it.

"Who is to gainsay that they have not the same right and the same qualification in this present matter to be referred to them? I should fear for any man who should set himself against the acknowledged justice and intelligence of the voters at large."

"Finances Not the Issue."

President Martin T. Joyce, the next speaker, said:

"Any dispute about the necessary funds for [illegible] are wasted. The voters of Boston understand these things as well as their representatives in City Hall. The courts when called upon can untangle any difficulties of that sort. I stand as one who believes that this is the proper subject to refer to the voters in general.

"There will be lobbying in opposition. It should not prevail. The members of the city government cannot afford to deny this opportunity [illegible].

"I think 50 or more in the two branches are pledged on this issue. Now is the time to redeem those pledges. This is also the time to note [illegible] city government members were [illegible] their promises to their constituents."

J. J. McLaughlin of the Electrical Workers' Union said: "The [illegible] to the members meets my approval as it does yours. I believe with you that personal effort should be made. It is the sense of this meeting that members of the committee and the Central Labor Union should button-hole their respective councilmen and hold them to the point."

The resolution, in the form of a circular letter to be sent to the Board of Aldermen, is as follows:

Letter to Councilmen.

Dear Sirs: The question coming before your body to refer to the people the matter of municipal ownership of gas and electric lighting plants, we, the undersigned, in behalf of organized labor of Boston and vicinity, representing some 200 local unions and federal labor unions, [illegible] attend the next meeting of the Common Council on Thursday evening, February 1, and give to us your support in behalf of this measure, that the people can have the opportunity to express, through their votes, their opinion on the very important question.

We believe that the citizens of Boston can be trusted as in the past when by vote of your body the matters were referred to them of the eight hour day, of relaying the tracks on Tremont street, and the important question of the abolition of the Common Council of Boston. We know these questions were justly treated by the voters on these various occasions, and we look to you with confidence as in the past, to afford to the voters this opportunity which is their right.

Trusting that each of you will give your votes and justify our confidence and the rights of the people who elected you, we remain, on behalf of the Boston Central Labor Union,

Very truly yours,
(Signed)
Dennis D. Driscoll, chairman.
Martin T. Joyce, president Central Labor Union.
J. J. McLaughlin, Electrical Workers' Union.

CYNTHIA ROCHE'S ENGAGEMENT CONFIRMED.

Popular Young Society Woman Will Become Bride of Arthur Scott Burden, Young Millionaire, During the Summer

New York, Jan. 27.—An event that society regards with especial interest is the engagement of Miss Cynthia Roche, [illegible] Mrs. Burke Roche, to Arthur Scott Burden, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Abercrombie Burden, which was announced to-day.

The marriage will unite two names that have long been prominent in New York society, as well as that of Newport, and both families are widely known in England, where the prospective bride's father is the heir to a title.

Miss Roche is one of the most attractive girls in the exclusive set. Like her mother, she is an expert whip, and she is probably the best amateur tennis player in Newport. Outside of the time given to her social duties she lives constantly in the open air, and she is an excellent example of the athletic American young woman. Her mother obtained a divorce from her husband, James Boothby Burke Roche, several years ago.

The prospective bridegroom is a graduate of Harvard, where Miss Roche has twin brothers, Maurice and Francis, studying at this time. He finished his course in 1902. He is a member of the Knickerbocker and Racquet Clubs. His home is at No. 908 Fifth avenue, and he spends much of his time at his father's handsome country place near Troy.

[illegible] time abroad, and usually is found during the hunting season on the moors in Scotland. He has one sister, who several years ago was married to William Douglas Sloane, and a brother, William Proudfit Burden.

It is expected that the wedding will take place at Newport next summer, but the date has not been definitely fixed.

APPEAL COMES FOR MISSION IN INDIA

Letter Tells of Spreading the Gospel Among Natives of Poorer Class.

From the Convent of St. Joseph, Jubbulpore, India, has come an appeal for help, which was received by Rev. James A. Walsh, [illegible] director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, of this city. The letter is in English and is a long one. It is from Sister St. Joseph, and [illegible]:

"We [illegible] a new mission in another [illegible] first time in a place [illegible] of the poorer [illegible] of the [illegible] mission.

"[illegible] good done in Boston for [illegible] missions, I take the liberty to ask [illegible] the opening of this new mission, to give a city sermon in our behalf and make a collection for us. I should like also to have the names of the donors, so that we can pray for them. I [illegible] the orphans after them, also, so far as I can."

RISKS LIFE TO DIE AT HOME.

St. Louis, Jan. 27.—In order that she might die in her old home in West Alton, Mo., Kate Kite, aged twenty-two, made a perilous trip across the river at Alton in a closed carriage on a flatboat towed by a gasoline boat. The river was covered with whitecaps driven by a fierce gale, and the little craft upon which the carriage was placed seemed in imminent danger of being swamped.

ARE YOU A FOOL?

IF YOU are thin, scrawny, flat-chested, with pale cheeks and no bosom, you deserve the question! 'Tis so easy to get a large, full, plump and voluptuous bust with Dr. Conway's Bustoids; read what a few wise women say: Dr. Conway—Find $5 m. o. for two boxes Bustoids at once, please. Am feeling well and filling out every day. In answer to mine you amused me by saying, "My friends would tell me how young I got," but I thought when one's hair got gray as mine 'twas folly. Now hardly a day passes but some one speaks of how well I am looking and that I seem to grow younger. Really, I don't know but what I've returned to childhood. We had a vacation in the country and I was prime all the time, climbing apple trees, turning somersaults on the hay and every other tomfool thing I thought of. Mrs. T. H., Grove st., Concord, N. H., Oct. 6. Bustoids are grand and I feel better and stronger than for two years past—that is a genuine truth. Find $5 for more Bustoids. Mrs. A. V. G., East 27 st., Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. Find m. o. for Bustoids and Cream, and postage; things are coming my way, rush order, so I will not be without them. Mrs. P. E., Mahoning av., Youngstown, Ohio, Oct. 9. $1,000 if they are not genuine. Come read "original letters" by the bunch. Dr. Conway's Bustoids is, on all earth, the only remedy which makes the Bosom Large, Plump and Elegant. We enlarge the bust 4 to 10 inches every time, or forfeit $1,000. Call for FREE INSTRUCTIONS. Sealed facts, 4c., stamps. CONWAY SPECIFIC CO., 15 Temple Place, Boston Mass., elevator.

"GOING TO PRESS"; OR, EVERYBODY WORKS FOR THE COLONEL.

Cartoonist Tom Powers's Idea, Gathered From Testimony of Witnesses in the Celebrated Town Topics Trial.

Bail Placed at $10,000 and the Accussed is Released After Bond is Signed by His Daughter—Hearing to Be Held Next Thursday Afternoon.

New York, Jan. 25.—A sensation was sprung this afternoon when, acting at the instance of the New York District Attorney's office, Detective Sergeant Bernard Flood arrested Colonel William D'Alton Mann on a warrant issued by Justice McAvoy of the Court of Special Sessions charging the owner and publisher of Town Topics with perjury.

The alleged crime was committed at the recent trial of Norman Hapgood, editor of Collier's Weekly, when Mr. Mann swore that he had not placed his "O. K., W. D. M." on the letter from Count Reginald Ward to Moses Ellis Wooster, in which the count asked to be placed on the mailing list of Town Topics. Justice McAvoy, sitting as a magistrate this afternoon, examined Wooster, James W. Osborne, who was senior counsel for Hapgood at the recent trial, and David N. Carvalho, the handwriting expert. After they had testified the warrant was issued and given to Detective Sergeant Flood to serve.

Colonel Mann was in the office of Town Topics on Fifth avenue during the afternoon and was apprised by a reporter that he would probably be arrested. He yawned when he was given the news and, looking at his watch, said: "Well, all right. I hope that the proceedings will not take long, as I want to get home to my dinner."

Put Mann Under Arrest.

Detective Sergeant Flood entered the office at 5:15 o'clock and immediately notified the colonel that he was under arrest. The latter looked at the officer for a moment and then said: "This is a —— of a time to arrest a man. What are you going to do now: I want to get home to my dinner?"

The detective told him that he did not think that it would take long, as Justice McAvoy had agreed to wait in the criminal courts building for the colonel; that he could give bail. He then suggested that they take the subway train down town.

"Subway nothing," interjected Colonel Mann. "What have I got an automobile for? We'll ride down town in style. I hope, though, that the bail is not heavy, as I have only about 15 cents in my pocket."

This latter was for the benefit of the reporters who were crowded about the detectives and the smiling prisoner. The couple then entered the auto and were whisked down town.

Bail in $10,000.

It was just 5:40 o'clock when Colonel Mann and Detective Flood reached the Criminal Courts building. They went at once to Justice McAvoy's rooms, where they found a crowd of people waiting. Mr. Osborne, Robert J. Collier, Moses E. Wooster and a score of reporters thronged the room, but Colonel Mann was not at all nonplussed.

> ### Who Col. Mann Is
>
> Publisher and editor of Town Topics since 1891.
>
> Born in Ohio, September 27, 1839.
>
> Served through Civil War.
>
> Made fortune inventing army accoutrements.
>
>
> Invented sleeping car, bought by Pullman.
>
> Member of Manhattan, Lotos, Army and Navy, Democratic, Press and Tilden Clubs.

Justice McAvoy had grown tired of waiting and left the office. Justice Olmstead was telephoned for, but before he reached the building, Justice McAvoy returned, and, after going through the usual preliminary forms, admitted Colonel Mann to bail in the sum of $10,000. The bond was signed by Colonel Mann's daughter, Mrs. Wray, wife of former Senator Albert A. Wray. The new Town Topics building at No. 310-318 West Thirty-eighth street was given as security.

The proceedings before Justice McAvoy Mann's hearing. Colonel Mann objected to either Monday or Tuesday, saying they were his work days. It was finally agreed that the hearing should take place at 2 o'clock on Thursday afternoon. At that time Colonel Mann will be arraigned in the Tombs Police Court.

Mrs. Wray waited in Justice McAvoy's private office while the proceedings in court were in progress. The bond for the Colonel was taken to her and she signed it and the Colonel was told he could go.

As he descended the steps from the justice's office, Colonel Mann faced a small army of newspaper photographers, who stood ready with flashlights to take his picture. The colonel never quailed, but, facing the photographers, marched gravely down the stairs. There was a blinding flash, but the colonel never winked, and marched grandly through the smoke to the north were brief. The affidavit on which the warrant was issued, signed by Robert J. Collier, was read to Colonal Mann, and he was asked what be had to say. He denied the charge of perjury. Senator Wray appeared while the hearing was in progress and represented Colonel Mann.

Faced the Flashlights.

In response to the formal inquiries of the justice, Colonel Mann said he lived at No. 317 West Seventy-ninth street and was 66 years of age. He gave his occupation as that of editor and publisher.

An effort was made to induce Colonel Mann to talk about his case, but he declined, saying: "It would be absurd for me to talk now."

JEROME CONTRADICTS LOEB, IN "FADS AND FANCIES" MUDDLE

By Publishers' Press.

New York, Jan. 27.—Disclosures of "Fads and Fancies" in the Hapgood trial have involved President Roosevelt and District Attorney Jerome in a muddle of contradictory statements. President Roosevelt, when informed of the testimony of Colonel Mann that the article concerning the President was published with his consent, caused Secretary Loeb to issue a statement denying that he had furnished material concerning h self for "Fads and Fancies."

The statement contained the information that when "Fads and Fancies" was sent to the White House it was returned to Colonel Mann with the statement that because of the circumstances acceptance was impossible. This letter to Colonel Mann was sent from Washington November 1, 1905, which was after the Town Topics scandal had developed.

When this statement of Secretary Loeb, embodying the letter to Colonel Mann, was shown District Attorney Jerome he said: "Hold on a minute. Now to make sure that there will be no misunderstanding on this whole matter, let me dictate"; and the following statement was made:

"The letter shown me is a copy of a letter received by Colonel Mann, and is of date November 1, 1905. There was a previous letter received by Justice Deuel, of date December 13, 1903, signed by Mr. Loeb, and inclosing corrected proof of the article on the President appearing in Fads and Fancies,' and transmitting to Mr. Justice Deuel the four pictures which appeared in 'Fads and Fancies,' illustrating the article therein on President Roosevelt."

GEN. WHEELER TO LIE IN ARLINGTON CEM ETERY.

Full Military Honors Will Be Accorded Famous Fighter Funeral to Be Held To-day at Sister's Home in Brooklyn

New York, Jan. 27.—The funeral of General Joseph Wheeler will occur to-morrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the home of his sister, Mrs. Sterling Smith, No. 173 Columbia Heights, Brooklyn, where the famous soldier died, and later from St. Thomas' Episcopal Church.

Full military honors will be accorded the distinguished veteran and both the regular army and the New York State Guard will be represented in the escort.

The services at the church will be brief. From there the remains will be borne on a gun caisson, under escort, to the Pennsylvania Railroad station, to be shipped to Washington, where the burial will occur Monday in the Arlington Cemetery.

General Fred D. Grant, commander of the Department of the East, at Governor's Island, will command the military escort. The honorary escort will consist of the Twenty-third and Seventy-first Regiments and Troop A. The Second Battery, N. G. N. Y., will furnish the riderless horse and the caisson on which the casket will be borne.

There will be a military procession from the Smith residence across Brooklyn bridge to the church, thence to the railway station, where the escort will be disbanded.

BLUE AND GRAY WILL TOUCH SHOULDERS AT WHEELER'S FUNERAL

Washington, Jan. 27.—Arrangements were complet this afternoon for an imposing funeral service over the remains of General Joseph Wheeler in this city Monday afternoon. Men who fought with Grant and Sherman will touch elbows in the cortege with those who followed the fortunes of "the lost cause," under Lee and Jackson. Soldiers of the war with Spain, in which General Wheeler was a central figure, will assist.

The remains will arrive Sunday night and lie in State at St. John's Church from 10 a. m. until 2 p. m. Monday, at which latter hour the cortege will move toward Arlington.

NOTED DEMOCRAT DIES IN NEWPORT

Newport, R. I., Jan. 27.—William J. Underwood, for many years prominent in public life, died this afternoon.

He was born in Newport in 1837. On leaving the public school he went into the building business.

He was always a Democrat. He served as councilman and in both branches of the general assembly. He was a thirty-third degree Mason and a Knight Templar.

EMMONS BLAINE IS AN EGG MERCHANT

Chicago, Jan. 27.—Emmons Blaine, fifteen-year-old son of Mrs. Emmons Blaine, the grandson of James G. Blaine, has become an egg merchant. He has entered into partnership with his wealthy mother, and is selling eggs at twenty-five cents a dozen, "every egg guaranteed."

ART MUSEUM GETS BIG FORTUNE BY YERKES WILL.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—The will of the late Charles T. Yerkes, the millionaire traction magnate, was filed in the Probate Court to-day. It disposes of an estate valued at $15,000,000. Mrs. Mary Adelaide Yerkes, the widow, is bequeathed $200,000, and the household effects and horses and carriages. Charles T. Yerkes, Jr., is left $200,000, and Mrs. Bessie Rondiella, a daughter, an equal amount. Miss Ethel Yerkes, daughter of Clarence Yerkes, and the servants, are each given $2,000 by the will. From $30,000 to $50,000 are given to other relatives. The University of Chicago is given $100,000.

A lot at Forty-eighth street and Fifth avenue, New York, is bequeathed to the Yerkes's Art Museum. A fund provides for its maintenance, the amount of which is unknown, the detailed provisions of the testament being withheld from the public at present. A fund of $150,000 is provided for grounds and buildings of the Yerkes Hospital. One half of the residuary estate will go to the maintenance of this institution after the death of Mrs. Yerkes.

DEBARRED PLAYER AT BROWN WITHDRAWS

Providence, R. I., Jan. 27.—Because he is ineligible to play, Captain Oscar Rackle, star of the Brown basketball team, has withdrawn from the team and in the game this evening against Holy Cross at Worcester, Don Pryor, the centre, was acting captain. Rackles's ineligibility is the result of his playing with a football organization at Worcester, where he received part of his expenses.

MARRIED AT AGE OF TEN.

Baltimore, Jan. 27.—Mrs. Katie Elliott and her daughter, Mrs. Mary Elliott Lerp, filed suits for divorce in Circuit Court No. 2 to-day against their respective husbands. Another unique feature of the situation is the fact that the daughter was married, according to her lawyer, G. Guy Wilson, when she was only ten years old.

HEPBURN RAILROAD RATE BILL GOES TO HOUSE.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Representative Hepburn of Iowa, chairman of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, to-day presented to the House the Hepburn railroad rate bill, together with the committee's unanimous report urging its passage.

The report says that something has been borrowed from nearly all of the many bills introduced on the subject, and that many of the features of the EschTownsend bill, which passed the House last year, have been preserved.

"The law of to-day," says the report, discussing the history of legislation on the subject, "would be fairly satisfactory to all shippers if the spirit of fairness required by it had controlled the conduct of the carriers, and the necessity for the proposed legislation is the result of and is made necessary by the misconduct of parties who are now most clamorous against additional restraint."

The report sets forth the various provisions of the measure, the most important of which confers upon the Interstate Commerce Commission the power to establish the rate and to substitute "a just and reasonable and fairly remunerative rate, to be thereafter observed as the maximum to be charged" for an unjust and unreasonable one.

Its position is right a sion 16 hours, 19 minutes and 30 declination north 47 degrees 10 It has a moderate motion westerly direction. This is first comet of the year a fifth discovered by Pro

JURY SAYS WOMAN DIDN'T BURN YACHT

New York, Jan. 27.—A sealed verdict was returned this morning by the jury in the suit of the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company to recover $7,000 alleged to have been overpaid to Mrs. Susan Day Parker for supplies and furnishings of the yacht Scythian, which was burned in 1901 on her way from Whitestone, L. I., to Boston.

Judge Wheeler opened the verdict and read the finding of the jury, which was in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $1,663.44. The jury also found that Mrs. Parker was in no way to blame for the loss of the yacht.

During the trial of the case a sensation was caused when Captain Cardiff, who was in command of the yacht on the Boston trip, testified that he set fire to the yacht, at the request of Dr. Parker, husband of the defendant, who agreed to pay him $5,000 for doing so.

DISMISS HAZER FROM ANNAPOLIS

Cadet Bloebaum of Missouri Found Guilty, While Mayo Is Acquitted.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 27.—Claude Banks Mayo of Columbus, Miss., a member of the graduating class of midshipmen, has been acquitted of hazing, but Chester Allen Arthur Bloebaum of St. Charles, Mo., third class, was convicted of the same charge and was to-day dismissed from the naval service. Mayo was released from arrest and restored to duty.

In the case of Bloebaum, hazing of a brutal nature was discovered, and it was testified that he used abusive language to one of his victims.

CRANK WHO CALLED ON PRESIDENT DIES

Washington, Jan. 27.—Gustav Stadle of Fourth avenue and Two Hundred and Twenty-ninth street, New York, who was arrested at the White House Thursday afternoon, where he had gone to show the President the model of an ice boat with which he said he could reach the north pole, died this morning at St. Elizabeth's Hospital for the Insane. The physicians assign acute mania as the cause of death.

FIRE TRUCK HITS STREET CAR; 2 MEN HURT.

Two firemen were injured and many women passengers were somewhat shaken and badly frightened by a collision, late last night, between aerial ladder truck 15 and an inward-bound Worcester trolley car, at the corner of Columbus avenue and Ferdinand street, opposite the Cadets' armory.

The truck was returning from a slight fire on Piedmont street, at the South End, and the responsibility for the collision has not been fixed.

The car was well-filled with about forty passengers, a large proportion of whom were women. As the heavy steel truck, the heaviest in the Boston fire department, struck the car with a crash of steel and a ripping of wood, they were thrown from their seats, and a slight panic ensued, which was speedily quieted by the conductor when it was seen that there was no danger.

On the side of the truck were several firemen. They jumped and all escaped injury but two, Frank Dermody, who was badly bruised about the face and hands, and Ladderman Donahue, who suffered minor bruises.

The framework of the truck was bent and sprung, and the forward portion separated from the axle. The tracks were blocked and all Columbus avenue cars stalled for a half hour. The truck was finally righted and sent to the department repair shop.

GOVERNOR'S LAST LEVEE TO BE A GALA EVENT.

The State in full military and naval glory will be represented at the Somerset to-morrow afternoon at the third, last and most imposing in the series of three receptions which Governor Guild, assisted by his brilliant and charming wife, is holding.

To this reception have been bidden the officers of the United States Army and Navy stationed here, officers of the militia and commanders of various military organizations and their wives.

At the second reception which was held Friday afternoon members of the boards of government of the cities and towns of Massachusetts from the Berkshire hills to the shores of Cape Cod accompanied by their wives gathered in force.

Socially, the military and naval levee to-morrow afternoon will surpass the previous State functions. The guests will be the militia officers. Grand Army men, United States army and navy officers and their wives and daughters. Gold lace and stunning uniforms will mingle picturesquely with the magnificent gowns to be worn by hosts of beautiful women.
